A Light Day At Polls Predicted

A light voter turnout of not more than 200 voters was forecast for Tuesday's election by outgoing Itasca Village Clerk Maria Forke.

The last election in 1967 drew only about 200 voters, Mrs. Forke said, while not predicting many more in tomorrow's election. Itasca has a voter potential of about 2,400, she said.

Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke, who heads the Action Party, is unopposed.

Nottke and incumbent trustees William Forham, Glenn Goodwin, and Frank Atkinson will be elected to four-year terms.

Tenstor Roy Petherbridge will be voted into office to fill an unexpired two-year term. Mrs. Jane Griggs will serve as clerk for the next four years.

Nottke has been village president for six years, having been appointed by the board when former Pres. Paul Boehne resigned. Prior to that he served as a trustee for four years.

NOTTKE, who lives at 815 E. North St., is a partner in the Northern Moulding Co., Franklin Park. He is 59 years old.

Forham, of 490 N. Oak St., is a salesman in the Chicago office of Houston Chemical Division of PPG Industries. Elected to the board four years ago, he has lived in Itasca for 15 years.

Goodwin, of 300 N. Cherry St., is a retired construction superintendent for the Arning & Johnson Co., Melrose Park, where he worked for 10 years.

Atkinson, 60, and the oldest trustee, has lived in Itasca for 20 years. He was appointed to the board in 1967.

Vinson, of 10 E. North St., has been a trustee for four years, presently serving on the legal and finance committee.

A trustee at H. G. Fischer & Co., Franklin Park, he has lived in town since 1961.

Petherbridge, a patent lawyer, is a member of the firm of Petherbridge, DeWald & Ayles, Chicago. A 12-year resident, he practices at 900 Broad Place. He has served on the board for two years.

MRS. GRIGGS, a 64-year-old of the Itasca Women's Club, has been a resident for eight years. She is a former sales coordinator in the regional office in Elk Grove Village for Zinsco Electrical Manufacturing Co.

No, not election candidates; just women's exercise class at Itasca Junior High School, sponsored by the park district.

Bensenville: 5 Seats

A village president, clerk, and three trustees will be elected to four-year terms Tuesday in Bensenville.

Fred Steging, village president, is being challenged by John Varble, a park commissioner.

Steging, of 202 S. Mason St., heads the Civic Party which includes Mrs. Mildred Richter, Fred Hilton, and Robert Riley, all incumbent trustees seeking reelection, and Mrs. Dorothy Bielak for clerk.

Varble, of 7 W. Forestview Road, leads the Action Party. Seeking election as trustee on his ticket are Maynard Unger, David Sloan, and William Bourke. The clerk candidate is Fred Valentino.

MRS. MINA FIVEK is an independent seeking the clerk's job.

Herbert Dierking, village clerk who is retiring, predicted a "large" voter turnout of about 2,800. He said there are 5,000 voters in the village.

Varble, 52, has served as president of the local park district for four of the eight years he has been on the board. A resident for 13 years, he is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

He is a former president of the local Chamber of Commerce and Industry and a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway Commission. He is self-employed in the trophy and awards business in Chicago.

STEGING, 55, is completing four years as president. Previously he served as a trustee for two years and 11 years on the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The youngest member of the slate on which he is running, 33-year-old Sloan has a degree in economics from Elmhurst College.

BOURKE, A SALES representative for Zonolite Division of W. R. Grace and Co., Chicago, has lived in the area for 11 years.

He has been active with the Country Club Highlands homeowners in north Elmhurst and now lives at 832 Pamela Drive.

Valentino, head of the Warrants Department of the DuPage County Sheriff's Office, lives at 25 W. Roosevelt Ave.

A 15-year resident of Bensenville, he served in the U. S. Army for 22 years, retiring with the rank of master sergeant, and is a former commander of the Bensenville Tioga VFW Post 2149.

Mrs. Fivek, the independent for clerk, is employed in quality control at M & M Marts Candy Co., Oak Park. An evening student at Elmhurst College, she resides at 247 S. Center St.

Area voters turned out in moderate numbers Saturday to vote for their choice of school board candidates.

Voters in Fenton High School Dist. 100 voted incumbent Oscar Sahagun off the school board in favor of newcomers Martin Romme, Jesse Parrish, and Will Davidson.

Romme, with a vote of 496, and Davidson, with a vote of 423, also won seats on the Bensenville Dist. 2 elementary board. Parrish received 407 votes.

Romme and Parrish won full terms on the board; Davidson will finish a two-year unexpired term.

Sahagun, who was seeking a full term, received 321 votes. Other candidates were Lawrence Kaspari, 290 votes, and Mrs. James Elg, 464 votes. Mrs. Elg also was defeated in her bid for a seat on the Bensenville Dist. 2 board.

IN BENSENVILLE Elementary school Dist. 2 voters chose, in addition to incumbents Romme, 490 votes, Ray Basso, 468 votes, and Davidson, 320 votes, newcomers Roy Tyson, 419 votes, and Richard Whiting, 346 votes.

Eight candidates were running for the five positions open. Losers were Mrs. Elg,

The village president will receive $4,500 a year. Village clerk will be paid $3,000 a year. New trustees will receive $25 a meeting.

To Pick Village Leaders

About 700 voters are expected to go to the polls tomorrow to elect a village president, three trustees, and a clerk to fill four-year terms in Bensenville.

Mrs. Dolores Wall, outgoing village clerk, made the estimate. She said Bensenville, with a population of about 2,500, has a voter potential of about 950.

Stanley Haverkamp, incumbent village president and leader of the Forward Party, is seeking another term in office. He is opposed by Robert Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals and leader of the Alert Bensenville Citizens (ABC) slate.

Also seeking election is an independent, P. Brendan O'Dea, of 216 E. Schick Road, a salesman for Lithofold Corp., Chicago.

Voters in Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Roselle, and Itasca will go to the polls Tuesday to elect village presidents, trustees, and clerks. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Incumbent village presidents in all towns with the exception of Itasca are being challenged. Only Wilbert Nottke is unopposed.

Full slates of candidates are seeking to dump incumbents in Bensenville and Bloomingdale.

IN BENSENVILLE, John Varble, a park commissioner who has said he will resign from the park board Wednesday, is battling Village Pres. Fred Steging.

Varble has hit hard on the "lack of industry" and the slowness of industry's development in the village. Steging has countered this by emphasizing "selective and orderly growth." He adds that the development of industry is proceeding on schedule.

A side issue in the campaign is the village board's action to reduce the village clerk's salary from $9,000 to $3,000 with the election of a new clerk to replace retiring Herbert Dierking.

Varble has said he does not see why the village has done this. Steging says it had been planned many months ago and was not politically motivated.

Mrs. Dorothy Bielak, Steging's candidate for clerk, and Fred Valentino, Varble's choice for clerk, are both expected to draw votes from members of the Tioga VFW Post 2149, in which they are both active. An independent for clerk is Mrs. Mina Fivek.

IN BLOOMINGDALE, Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp is opposed by Robert Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals. P. Brendan O'Dea is an independent who is stressing community unity.

Haverkamp and Meyers have pledged to control the large developments which appear destined for Bloomingdale within the next few years.

Haverkamp says his slate is filled with proven candidates who have the background and experience to deal with developers.

Meyers maintains that the administration does not have adequate means of enforcing building and zoning codes. Haverkamp has said the village does have strong codes.

IN ROSELLE, Robert Frantz, village president, is seeking election as an independent after failing to be slated by the party caucus.

TRUSTEE candidates for the Forward Party are incumbents Paul Ahlrich and Robert McLaughlin, and newcomer Werner Troesken. The party's clerk candidate is Arlene Malek.

Trustee candidates for the ABC party are Ralph Johnston, James McIntosh, and Frank Johnson. Mrs. Dorothy Callu is seeking the clerk's job.

Bloomingdale's sole polling place will be at the fire station, 125 Third St. The polls are open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The newly elected trustees will be paid $5 a meeting, the president $250 a year, and the clerk $300 a year.

Brief biographic sketches on the candidates appear inside today's Register.

William Florence, former village president, was slated to run as president along with four incumbent trustees, the incumbent village clerk, and two new candidates for trustees.

Another independent for village president is 67-year-old William Seddon.

Frantz says he stabilized the board after Florence resigned two years ago when three of Florence's trustees were defeated in the 1967 election.

Florence says that nothing of consequence has happened in the village since he resigned.

8 to 9 Hundred May Vote

About eight to nine hundred voters are expected to cast their ballots Tuesday in Itasca's municipal election. Residents will elect a president, clerk, and six trustees.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, village clerk and candidate for re-election was not predicting a heavy voter turnout. She said the voter potential of the village is 1,500.

Robert Frantz, village president, is running as an independent against former village president William Florence, who is heading the United Party. Another independent is William Seddon. They are seeking four-year terms.

Frantz, of 10 W. Bryn Mawr Ave., was elected to the board as a trustee in 1965. He became president when Florence resigned in 1967.

Frantz, 42, is an electronics engineer with Motorola Inc., Chicago. A resident for 11 years, he is a member of the Twinbrook YMCA board of directors.

SEDDON, 67, of 27 E. Woodworth Place, is a retired railroad engineer for the Milwaukee Road. He has lived in the area for 32 years.

Florence, 49, of 620 Spring St., was elected village president in 1965 along with Frantz, who was a trustee then.

He is head of the art department at East Leyden High School in Franklin Park. He has a master's degree in art. Florence has resided here for 13 years.

The remainder of Florence's slate includes:

Ramon Berg, of 110 W. Granville, who is seeking a two-year term as trustee. An incumbent trustee, he is employed at Illinois Tool Works, Elgin.

Anthony Bonavolonta, of 845 Butternut Court, is another incumbent trustee who is seeking a four-year term. A member of the zoning board of appeals, he is employed as a regional director of Avtech Inc., a Chicago architectural consulting firm.

MRS. BETTY LOU MANN, of 206 Spring Court, is a housewife and volunteer swimming instructor for the local park district. She is an incumbent trustee seeking a two-year term.

Raymond Casperson, of 124 W. Granville, is seeking a four-year term. Also an incumbent trustee, he is employed at Syntronic Instruments, Inc., Addison.

Ken Kummer, of 247 W. Central, is employed at Roselle Tool and Die Co., Inc. He is seeking a two-year term.

Joseph Devlin, of 116 W. Maple, is the vice president of industrial sales for the Fred J. Tourtelot Co., Chicago. He is seeking a four-year term.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, the incumbent village clerk, is completing 12 years in office. Seeking the four-year clerk's term, she is a former Roselle librarian. Mrs. Winkler resides at 102 W. Maple.

THE VILLAGE POLLING places are: Dist. 1 residents, north of the Milwaukee Road track, vote at the fire station, 125 Third St.; Dist. 2 residents, south of the track, vote at the fire station, 125 Third St.; Dist. 3 residents, south of Turner at Bryn Mawr, vote at the fire station, 125 Third St.; Dist. 4 residents, south of Turner at Bryn Mawr, vote at the fire station, 125 Third St.

The village president in Roselle is paid $50 and trustees $10 a meeting. The clerk receives $200 a year plus an additional $150 for collecting.

Village Beat

Make a Choice

by RICHARD BARTON

If you were about to take a dangerous trip through hazardous country and had a choice of two guides, would you let a stranger make the choice for you?

Of course not. You would ask the guides about their experience and qualifications each one had. That would be the best way to pick the best man for the job.

Voters in Roselle, Itasca, Bensenville and Bloomingdale will have to choose a village leader tomorrow along with a group of aid and advisers.

ITASCA is the only village where a race of candidates is running unopposed. The others have at least two slates and some have independents running also.

Unfortunately, many voters will let someone else choose who will lead their village for the next four years through tax decisions, annexations, community improvement or lack of it, and thousands of other matters which affect each person nonetheless.

The voters persons who would be first to ask about the guide's qualifications, because they knew their safety was at stake, may not even bother to cast a ballot tomorrow or learn about the candidates.

The elections affect each homeowner, business man, worker, teacher and others in our decisions which may raise or lower taxes, improve the streets or make them bad, to work, improve general living conditions and make park and recreation facilities available in the neighborhood.

THE AVERAGE nonvoter is the first to complain about the elected officials and their decisions or 12-story apartment buildings being constructed in the back yard or the sewer system backing up tomorrow is one of several chances people often have to choose the persons who will make their lives a little better or a little more miserable.

Letting the other man make your choices is a sure way to hurt yourself.

Richard Barton

I don't know one housewife who would let a complete stranger do her shopping or a husband who similarly would allow a salesman to pick the next family car.

WHY SHOULD it happen at election time?

It was evident that few people were concerned about township elections April 1 by the voter turnout. It ranged from shameful to ridiculous, with the better precincts getting about 50 per cent of the registered voters. Precinct percentages approaching a ridiculous 10 per cent were noted far too often.

I was witness Thursday to a discovery recount where all the ballots are looked at and recounted. There were ballots where only one candidate out of a choice of about 12 were voted for.

THERE WERE actually ballots that were completely blank. Obviously, some people came to the polls to make a good appearance and didn't know or care enough to cast a ballot.

Being an informed, concerned citizen takes some effort which is more than some people care to make.

Maybe someday everyone will become totally apathetic and there will be no candidates or elections.

WILBERT NOTTKE

Apartments Sought

Preliminary plans for construction of two 46-unit condominium apartment buildings at the triangle-shaped property along Irving Park and Bloomingdale roads in Itasca were received favorably last week by the plan commission.

The four-story structures are designed to provide underground parking for tenants and outside parking areas for guests. According to tentative proposals outlined by local architect Glenn Morrison, each building will have a central lobby and be serviced by an elevator.

Morrison said the condominiums would cost between $37,000 and $40,000.

HE INDICATED THAT because of the price range the units would not attract large families with children. He estimated that of the total 92 units planned, only 5 per cent of those living in the condominiums would be attending local schools.

Morrison said that reports on condominiums of this type do not place a burden on the school systems and that, in all probability, it would be families with high school students rather than at the elementary level which would purchase the one, two or three-bedroom units.

He told the commission that at this tentative state it had not been determined what ratio on the number of bedrooms would eventually be constructed.

Ground cover per building is 22,400 square feet. Property area is 240,000 square feet, with 195,400 square feet planned as open area, Morrison reported.

Dist. 100 OKs Cut-Backs

The Fenton High School Dist. 100 board approved 13 curtailments Tuesday in an effort to cut back expenditures. Incorporated in the motion was the board's direction in the administration that next year's budget include a minimum curtailment of $140,000.

One curtailment is the reduction of the staff by at least three teachers James DiOrto, chairman of the board's finance committee, explained there will actually be a 13 per cent staff curtailment on a dollar basis, since the administration will hire no additional staff members, despite an expected increase of at least 100 students next fall.

OTHER CURTAILMENTS include reducing the school day from seven periods to six, dropping one-half of extra-curricular activities, eliminating all educational field trips, and refusing to offer a class with an enrollment of less than 20 students.

Still other curtailments are reduction of

Bright Village Future Seen

by RICHARD BARTON

Wilbert Nottke, running unopposed for Itasca's village presidency, said he looks forward to working another four years with his "very dedicated and energetic board."

Nottke, at 50, is still an energetic and aggressive board member. He has worked with the village board for the last 10 years.

As a partner in Northern Moulding Co. Inc., he has developed two corporations of the lumber and paneling business. He also has other business interests and owns land around the village.

HE HAS HELD a number of appointed and elected offices in local, regional, state and national groups, such as Boy Scouts of America, where he is a national council member.

He is the originator and a charter member of the Itasca Athletic Association, and is active in groups such as the DuPage County Mayors-Managers Conference.

Nottke pledges top priority in the next four years to the Prospect Street-Thorndale Avenue sanitary sewer project to service the International Harvester Co. plant at Illinois Route 53 and Thorndale. The plant will bring thousands of dollars into the village to help keep taxes down, he contends.

TAXES IN ITASCA, however, have gone up to $7.19 per $100 of assessed valuation, making it one of the highest rates in the county due to increasing school taxes.

Nottke sees the best possible population of Itasca at about 12,000 to 14,000, with controlled growth and appeal to all age levels.

"Young and old will be able to find the right place to live in Itasca," he said, "and the village board will direct the growth and improvements to everyone's best interest."

Nottke said he has helped sell some village land to the state for Interstate 90, which will bring $180,000 to the village. This will be used to defer some of the taxes in the coming years for residents, he said.

"ITASCA WILL GET a lake in the Greenbelt area if the village can afford it, or may be able to get the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission to aid in making it a water retention basin," he said.

Itasca has managed to work out boundary agreements with Elk Grove, Roselle and Addison, but can't reach an agreement with Wood Dale, he said, and this disturbs him. Wood Dale thinks there should be a home on every lot in the village, which is "a sign of misplanning or misunderstanding about proper village growth," according to Nottke.

Nottke owns a large tract of land near the disputed boundary between the two villages and said he will control it because it is his.

HE WOULD LIKE to see the intersection of Walnut Street and Irving Park Road improved and made safer, but said the state won't do it because of plans to widen Irving Park Road to four lanes by 1974.

"The water situation is one of our problems because we don't sell enough of it," he said, "which means that if there were more users, the water wouldn't get rusty from standing in the pipes."

There may have to be a bond issue to build water-softening equipment for the village if conditions don't improve, he added.

Overall, Nottke would like to see the community retain its country atmosphere. He recognizes that this will be difficult with the addition of expressways in a few years, but says he will try.

Honors at Augustana

Two Itasca co-eds have been named to the dean's list at Augustana College, Rock Island.

They are Janet Wunder, a freshman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto A. Wunder of 427 Maple Ave., and Marilyn Zoellick, a sophomore, daughter of the Walter A. Zoellick's of 408 Hickory Drive.

A Register Editorial For Mayor

Voters Tuesday will select village presidents, trustees and clerks in Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Itasca and Roselle.

The results will determine what course each village is to take within the next four years.

IN BENSENVILLE incumbent Village President Fred Stoging is challenged by John A. Varble, a truck commissioner.

Stoging in his four years in office, has been an underdog. He has been more a member than a strong leader.

Because of its strategic location to O'Hare airport, Bensenville has unlimited potential for development. It requires a strong leader.

Varble has demonstrated strong leadership on the park board, particularly as president. He has aggressively pursued various projects.

WE RECOMMEND Varble as the candidate most likely to give Bensenville the leadership it needs during the next four years.

It is also important that voters select the best qualified candidates for the board of trustees, which is the chief policy making body in the village.

We recommend keeping Haverkamp in Bensenville running mates, along with two trustees candidates on Stoging's ticket, Fred H. Fenn and Mrs. Mildred Richter.

Our choice for village clerk is Fred Varble.

IN BLOOMINGDALE, Stanley Haverkamp is opposed by Robert Meyers, a union and a commercial man.

Meyers has sat on the zoning board of appeals in recent months and we believe he should stay there until he gains more experience.

Though he has shown an understanding of some of the problems of the community, the individuals on his slate do not measure up to the qualifications of the incumbents.

We recommend keeping Haverkamp in office, especially at this critical time when Bloomingdale is on the verge of tremendous growth in the next four years.

ROSELLE'S ELECTION race between Robert Frantz and William Florence is a clear case where Frantz has been repudiated by his "fellow" trustees.

There has been a lack of progress in Roselle since the resignation of Florence two years ago. Frantz has been unable to provide the leadership which we believe it needs.

Frantz was appointed mayor 10 years ago, after Florence resigned from the post in frustration. Florence's resignation was an act of political immaturity.

In recommending him for election over Frantz, we must lean heavily on the judgment of officials who have worked with both mayors, including trustees appointed by Frantz who are running on Florence's ticket.

IN ITASCA, we can give Wilbert Nottke a vote of confidence. He is the only man that wants or has the time for the job, for which he has shown increasing competence.

Care to Hit Dump Plan?

Itasca's Zoning Commission will get their chance Wednesday to protect a recent DuPage County Board of Supervisors decision to allow a dump in the town.

A vote was called by Zoning Commission Chairman C. E. James, assistant to DuPage County Board of Supervisors, to allow a dump in the town.

The zoning board is scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. at the Itasca Community Center. The board will be asked to recommend a rezoning of the property to allow a dump in the town.

THE LANDFILL SITE would be near

Barrington and Fisher Roads, west of Bloomingdale and south of Hanover Park.

James said the meeting is to determine if a rezoning of the county board action will be asked.

The operation would fill low lands in the area with wood and other combustible materials. The fill then would be covered with dirt to avoid fires.

No garbage would be allowed, James said only solid waste.

The zoning board in its letter of recommendation to the zoning committee said the operation would adversely affect living conditions in the area, and therefore should be denied.

THE LETTER FURTHER said increased traffic congestion would result from trucks going into and coming out of the dump area during the day. Nearby properties would be affected in value and to develop on the zoning board said.

No zoning villages have taken a stand against the project.

by MARTHA MOSER
Despite White House silence, it appeared yesterday U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld is the new director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

Speculation that President Richard M. Nixon has selected the Northwest suburbs congressman for the poverty post continued as late as 2 p.m. yesterday. Rumsfeld reportedly is "bargaining" his taking the post for a chance at using his own philosophy on social welfare as war-on-poverty head.

Rumsfeld said in a candidates' interview at Paddock Publications last fall that he would like to see the OEO become a "spearhead."

AS SUCH, RUMSFELD saw the office as being a sparkplug that would generate ideas, then spin them off into another department as the machinery is tested and rolling.

Talking on the basis there is no proven solution to the urban crisis, Rumsfeld said that instead of developing anti-poverty programs and operating them, OEO should be an office to experiment and be under fire. "When something doesn't work, they should admit it," Rumsfeld said that Saturday morning. "When it does work, they should split it off into an appropriate administering agency."

He then criticized the office for "bugging" good programs so it can balance success stories with failures when it goes to Congress for funds.

He said OEO should make better use of the District of Columbia, which is the direct responsibility of the federal government, and should innovate programs that "add information" to the anti-poverty fight.

He cited the rapid shifting of poor into the ghettos as a problem which is nullifying current government efforts.

ASKED HOW suburbanites can become effective in helping people in the ghetto, the OEO nominee then said:

"First, we need to do a better job of cataloging the kinds of mechanics available to people in metropolitan areas to do things. And second, you need an attitude of caring."

Rumsfeld's demonstrated "attitude of caring," despite his background in an affluent district, has caused him to become associated with interest and concern for social welfare problems.

Rumsfeld has indicated his philosophy is that government alone can not, and will not, provide all the social answers and the "urban crisis" demonstrates the failure of government to function as a "cure-all."

His past statements align him with Nixon administration thinking that private industry and government must form investment partnerships to create new jobs, correct substandard housing, expand educational opportunities and lower racial barriers.

Past answers to the American social dilemma, such as urban renewal, model cities, public welfare, demonstration projects, legislative edicts, and all other traditional answers have proved unsuccessful, the young man has said.

IN PRIVATE conversations, his view has been that government stop-gap measures have proved disappointing and have created fresh disillusionment and often hardship.

The ghetto is not houses, it is people, the young man would be likely to say. Rumsfeld himself this weekend refused to confirm or deny an appointment. White House press aides indicated to the Herald, however, the story is being held in deference to a Presidential announcement.

Rumsfeld told the Herald, "There is not a lot I can say except that the matter has been discussed. I wish I could be more responsive about this, but there is nothing more now that I can say. I have done all the talking that I can."

WASHINGTON SOURCES admitted consideration of Rumsfeld has been under discussion for several weeks. And the congressman's unusual lack of candor combined to support reports of the appointment.

Rumsfeld said any announcement of an appointment will be made early this week.

Wood Dale Files Suit To Get Village Funds

The Village of Wood Dale has instructed its attorney Samuel A. La Sosa to initiate legal action against receivers of Apollo Savings and Loan of Chicago to recover funds allegedly owed the village for construction of a 500,000-gallon water reservoir in Georgetown West.

For several months the village has attempted to obtain reimbursement for some $6,000 paid out of village funds to Keno & Sons and another $4,400 to Chicago Bridge and Iron Co. for work completed on the reservoir.

The litigation stems from a three-party agreement between the village, Colfax Builders and Apollo.

Petrie Gets Tribute From Park Dist. 108

Members of the Lake Park Dist. 108 school board paid special tribute last week to outgoing member Joseph Petrie.

Supt. Carl Forrester presented Petrie, who has served on the board for nine years, with a lifetime pass to Lake Park High School activities.

Petrie said he has served on various school boards for 20 years. Now that his children are older, he said, he feels he has fulfilled his duty to the community.

"My conscience is clear," he said.

Petrie added that he will retire soon from business and hopes to do some traveling with his wife, Helen.

STUFFED ANIMALS are handmade products using fram rubber donated by Sid Caesar, of Brentwood Furniture, Bensenville, who checks literature of Children's Research, Inc., Chick Memorial Chapter, with Mrs. Maynard Unger. The animals are sold and the proceeds donated to the fund.

8 Field Trips On Agenda

Eight family field trips with supper campfire hours are planned this summer and fall by the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission.

Hikers should bring their own suppers and beverages for the trips which will start at 3 p.m.

Supper will begin about 5:30 p.m. and camp breaking will occur at about 8 p.m.

THE SERIES will start May 11 at the West DuPage Forest Preserve, south of West Chicago on Illinois Route 59. In the middle of the program will be a field trip in Mallard Lake Forest preserve on Lawrence Avenue, southwest of Keeneyville.

Communications among the wildlife will be discussed by interpretive naturalist Michael Janis.

Other trips will be June 1 at the Pratt's Wayne Forest Preserve on Powis Road, north of Wayne; Rocky Glen Forest Preserve on Bluff Road near Argonne National Lab, June 22, and McDowell Forest Preserve, River Road, south of Naperville, July 13.

Also included is Churchill Forest Preserve on St. Charles Road, north of St. Charles on Sept. 14. The legacy on the future of the forest preserve will be discussed.

Raccoon Blamed For Power Outage

A raccoon has been blamed for last week's electrical power failure which affected 5,000 DuPage County residents in four villages for more than an hour.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison Co. said the small animal became entangled in a circuit-breaker at a substation near Illinois Route 53 and Lake Street Wednesday night.

The results were blackouts in Bloomingdale, Addison, Medinah and Bensenville. The sudden drop in power caused lights to flicker as far away as Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove, the spokesman said.

THE RACCOON CRAWLED into the wrong wires at 7:48 p.m. Electrical power was restored at about 9 p.m.

The spokesman said the incident was not unusual. "It happens occasionally," he said.

Co-ed Karate Class Set at Elmhurst YMCA

Walter Borkowski and Mike Francisco, both winners of karate's coveted "black belt," will instruct a co-ed class in karate starting April 19 at the Elmhurst YMCA, according to Bill Bell, physical director. The class will meet at 1 p.m. Saturdays for 10 one-hour sessions.

Borkowski won the world championship in Kung Fu karate at matches held in Hong Kong in 1964 and 1965. He was the first non-oriental to achieve a sixth degree black belt, Bell reported.

Karate is founded on scientific principles of body movements and develops keen reflexes and coordination. Karate practitioners develop the natural weapons of the body into a coordinated unit, Bell said.

Catholic Laymen To Hold Assembly

The House of Laymen, Joliet Diocese, has announced plans to hold its second general assembly May 4 at Lewis College in Lockport. The meeting is being designed around four commissions recently set up by the Catholic lay group — education, parish councils, human relations and liturgy.

The Rev. Niles Gillen, superintendent of schools, Joliet Diocese, will be guest speaker of the section devoted to the commission on education. The parish council session will be addressed by Bernard Lyons, author of two books on parish councils.

The Rev. William O'Shea will be speaker for the liturgical commission session, while Joseph Adler and John Lamb, co-chairmen of the commission on human relations, will handle that session.

The general assembly will conclude with a consecrated Mass and an informal supper. All Catholics are invited to attend. Additional information may be obtained from co-chairmen, Mrs. Bobbie Kennedy, 299 E. Wilson, Elmhurst, and Bill Skelton, 1155 Curtis St., Joliet.

The House of Laymen, Joliet Diocese, is the independent organization of laity recently set up to provide a strong voice for the laity.

Catchall

YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU: Roselle's annual spring cleanup comes Thursday, two days after village elections, when residents may leave discarded items at the curb early enough for early disposal crews to begin pick-ups. Overnight Wednesday is okay.

NEVER ON WEDNESDAY: Also in Roselle, housewives are asked not to wash clothes on Wednesdays between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Jerry Botterman, superintendent of public works, says rust colored water will result from fire hydrant flushing every Wednesday until the end of summer.

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD: Roy Tison, teacher in Itasca and resident of Bensenville, who ran in the Bensenville grade school elections Saturday, asks a lot of questions. He wants to know if Bensenville citizens have the vaguest idea about the effectiveness of the local schools' non-graded system, why there's what he calls a large teacher turnover each year, and whether the merit system is a fair way to pay teachers. That's like deliberately dashing your head against a brick wall, Roy.

WE DON'T BELIEVE IT: Anyone wanting a refresher course in "A Minimal Course for Transfer in Differential Equations" can run up to Minneapolis April 23-26 to hear College of DuPage math instructor William Stretton. Featured speaker for the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, Stretton says that stuff is for kids at the junior college level.

POTLUCK: Members of the Northwest DuPage Post 1084 of the American Legion in Roselle have been asked to bring a covered dish of food and their own table service when they attend the April 23 Past Presidents dinner at the Elmhurst Legion hall. They'll leave in a group from the Roselle Legion hall at 6 p.m.

TIME HEALS ALL WOUNDS: Republican U.S. Rep. John Erlenborn, who has suffered through two Democratic administrations, informs us somewhat gleefully that Democrat Daniel Arendell has been replaced as acting postmaster in Wood Dale by Republican Mrs. Ann Neander. Wasn't it Erlenborn who stumped to take postal appointments out of politics?

GOOD GRIEF: A press release from the DuPage County Forest Preserve District asks: "What power turns on the firefly? What spews the lightning across the sky? Who has felt the moth's cocoon: heard the cry of surfing loon? What is it that croaks from the quivering bog, or silently suns on the floating log?" That's a press release?

SPEAKING OF POETRY: The DuPage Poetry Club is having its fourth annual poetry contest. They'll take anything but "quasi-prose or purely descriptive world pictures" until June 3.

Board Changes 3 Titles

The Lake Park Dist. 108 high school board acted last week on a recommendation by Supt. Carl Forrester to change the titles of three administrative assistants.

At the same time, the board approved administrative salaries for the coming school year.

The titles of principal, director of curriculum and instruction, and business manager were conferred on assistants Stanley Wheeler, Eugene Swierczewski, and Frank Strle.

Forrester explained that the titles were changed simply to recognize the work being done by the three men. Their duties will be no different than in the past, he said.

The board approved the following administrative salaries: superintendent, $25,000; principal, $18,900; director of curriculum and instruction, $18,000; and business manager, $14,900.

FORRESTER'S new salary represents a $2,000 raise over his salary of $23,000 for this school year, and the three assistants realized salary raises of from $1,200 to $2,000.

In approving the salaries, president pro tem Joseph Petrie stated, "Although the board recognizes the outstanding work being done by the administrative staff, the administrative salaries approved for next year still fall below the median level of administrative salaries currently being paid for similar positions in neighboring school districts."

Potter Happy at Her Work

"The Happy Potter" is a busy bee. Both descriptions refer to Mrs. Walter Lewin, Arlington Heights mother, homemaker, and ceramist.

Aside from conducting classes for a group of women in ceramic pottery in her home at 207 W. Euclid, Mrs. Lewin sews, teaches piano, participates in art exhibitions and produces items that can be found on the shelves at Persin and Robbin and Gitta's Florist.

Her ceramic work consists of a range of decorative items as well as toothpick holders, cream and sugar sets and relish trays. A particularly popular item is her sour cream server in the form of half an Idaho potato.

THOUGH MRS. LEWIN begins her classes on handwork — clay modeling — her work is done by molding. That is, she pours liquid clay, called slip, into a desired mold to a thickness of about 1/8 inch. The mold is left to dry until the shine is gone from the clay.

When the mold is opened and the hardened clay removed, it is called greenware. Later steps include the firing and decorating of the greenware with various stains or glazes.

The women in the Monday afternoon ceramics class recently worked on Easter items — eggs, large and small, to hold candy, and bunnies. A few early birds are designing Christmas trees for the next year.

SPEAKING OF early birds, Mrs. Lewin captured the heart of Paddock editor-in-chief Chuck Hayes, when she presented him with a personally crafted coffee mug depicting none other than our perky little herald of news.

PADDOCK EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Chuck Hayes, takes a break from the rigorous schedule of running a newspaper and enjoys a cup of coffee from his custom-made early bird coffee mug, designed for him by "the Happy Potter," Mrs. Walter Lewin.

Illinois St., Palatine.

Band members said that the two Shoemakers' conducting styles were quite similar, but that the elder Shoemaker was much "tougher." (Generation gap?)

LOCAL AUDIENCES will be able to judge this estimate at the next public appearance of the band scheduled for April 27, 4 p.m., at the Hersey High School Theater, 1900 E. Thomas St., Arlington Heights. C. J. Shoemaker will conduct several numbers of the program.

Careers and School Guide

'Silence' Bill Is Moved Ahead

A majority of Democrats and Republicans in the Illinois House voted 125 to 32 for a bill to permit observance of a brief period of silence in Illinois public school classrooms.

Sponsor Harber Hall, (R-Normal), told fellow-members: "The bill reflects the strong sentiment of the vast majority of people of Illinois and the United States; and, is designed not only to permit, but to encourage, a short period of silent meditation, or silent prayer, by our young people."

"We will not soon forget what happened three years ago when the Supreme Court sent down that notorious decision banning school prayer," Hall said. "I have yet to meet a parent who was not horrified by the edict."

You think college mutinies are something new? A century ago, at what is now Washington and Lee University, the custom was to give a week's vacation at Christmas, but the newly elected president reduced this to one day. This brought on two reactions.

FIRST, THERE WAS an appeal to students to boycott classes during Christmas week. The second reaction was a public notice that "Any student who signs this pledge will be expelled. If all students sign it, then I will lock the college door and put the key in my pocket." This last notice was signed by Robert E. Lee, president. His school stayed open.

The demand for teachers will equal the supply by 1975. Lower birth rates will mean fewer students, especially in elementary grades, though secondary school enrollments will continue to climb 22 percent beyond present levels until 1975. The 90,000 teachers presently holding standard credentials will lose out if they don't update, and in some areas a master's degree will be mandatory for newcomers.

Graduate and minority students are hit hardest by cuts in federal funding of educational programs. Educational Opportunity grants could drop as much as 78 percent next fall at the University of Minnesota. At the University of Michigan the National Education Defense Program reduced full graduate fellowships from 85 to 45 in the current academic year. Public colleges, especially small state schools, are suffering more from the money cuts than are private colleges.

Business recruiters are starting to snoop about junior colleges. One New York insurance company official claims that the JC grad "has sufficient education to do a good job and insufficient education to become dissatisfied quickly." Such placement, however, does not necessarily mean the end of the education road. Many companies push their junior college men toward a four-year college degree in night school.

8 For Library Bd.

Eight library board candidates in Roselle and Itasca will be up for election tomorrow. Voters may cast their ballots at the same time they vote for village officials.

All candidates are running uncontested for the library positions.

Each of the community libraries is adding a seventh member to its board for a six-year term. State law provides for this in addition to the election of two regular six-year terms and filling vacated terms.

IN ITASCA. Incumbent Raymond Fricke, 331 N. Willow, will run for his second term, along with newcomers C. Frederick Risinger, 524 W. Division, and Mr. Elizabeth Mellor, 405 Briar, for six-year terms open on the board.

Incumbent Mrs. Richard Bowman is vacating her expiring term on the board.

Five vacancies will be filled on the Roselle Library Board of Directors.

Running for three six-year terms will be William E. Meyers, 512 Spring; Marjorie L. Engel, 112 W. Maple, and Jean Wheeler, 41 W. Glenlake.

The two regular six-year terms are being vacated by Mrs. Viola Voeltz after nine years service and Mrs. Virginia Fowler after 12 years on the board.

A TWO-YEAR term being vacated by Mrs. Dorothy Sanborn is sought by James R. Birdsell, 302 N. Roselle Road.

The fifth vacancy to be filled will be voter approval of the appointment of George Hall to a four-year unexpired term.

Library elections, which are held every other year, will not be held this year for the Wood Dale and Bensenville libraries.

Van Meter Named To Zoning Board

Fred F. Lewis of Addison has been replaced on the DuPage County Zoning Board of Appeals by Donald Van Meter, 1567 Larry Lane, Glendale Heights. The appointment was made Tuesday by the DuPage County Board of Supervisors.

Lewis unsuccessfully opposed Bloomington Township Supervisor Pat Saviano in the Republican Party caucus earlier this year.

VAN METER is a Republican committeeman in charge of getting out the vote in Glendale Heights Precinct 28. His appointment is effective until Dec. 10, 1971.

Lewis' term expired Dec. 10, 1968, though he has been serving on the board since then.

Aiuppa Case Set For New Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department is scheduled to make an evidentiary hearing in the case of Joseph Aiuppa, convicted in Fort Scott, Kan., in 1965 of unlawful transportation of migratory birds.

The department contended that the electronic surveillance was in a commercial establishment that Aiuppa was not a target and that he was overheard talking about matters totally unrelated to the case.

The new hearing will be held pursuant to the Supreme Court's decision requiring production for the defense of records made during illegal electronic surveillance if the defendant or his own home was bugged.

AIUPPA, WHO LIVES near Elmhurst, was found to have had 40 frozen mourning doves in his car. He was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $1,000.

The time and place of the new hearing were not known here. A first conviction of Aiuppa in Kansas City was reversed on grounds that evidence as to the seizure was improperly admitted.

The second trial was moved to Fort Scott, 100 miles away, because of prejudicial publicity in Kansas City.

Votes in Itasca will be cast at the fire station on Line Street next to the village hall.

Roselle voters will go to three precinct polling places.

DISTRICT 1, which is all of the village north of the Milwaukee Road tracks, will vote at the fire station at 4 E. Irving Park Road.

District 2 is approximately all the area south of the railroad tracks and north of Turner and Bryn Mawr avenues. The polling place is the village hall at 31 S. Prospect St.

District 3 is south of Turner and Bryn Mawr avenues. The polling place is the village garage at 719 S. Rush St.

Voters will elect two park district commissioners each in Itasca and Medinah tomorrow.

In Itasca, Mrs. Joan C. Lawson, 200 S. Walnut, and Glenn A. Morrison, 237 Forest Ave., both of Itasca, will seek reelection to their commissioner positions. They are unopposed.

Mrs. Lawson is secretary of the park board. Morrison, who was appointed last year, was given the job of representing the board in the establishment of the Fuzz Box teen club.

VOTERS MAY cast their ballots at the Itasca Fire Station on Line Street near the village hall. All polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Sportsman's Notebook

by KEN KNOX

IF YOU DOUBT that the smelt are again running in Lake Michigan, wade out about 30 yards and try to stand up. They may bowl you over.

The way they've been moving, the past few nights they're more cascading than running. All of which proves that smelt, like most things, make up for a little adversity.

Delayed somewhat in their annual charge by the lingering chill in the water they're fairly storming along the shore now and if smelting is your bent some profitable evening hours will await you for the next couple weeks.

Testimony to just how good the run is comes from Larry Cameron a smelter par excellence who's also Paddock's chief of photography.

Cameron, staff photographer Mike Seeling and Art Ciesien of Wheeling waded in off Winnetka last Tuesday night, and in five hours — from 8 p.m. to about 1 in the morning — netted 212 smelt.

But to abuse a phrase — you ain't heard nothing yet.

They with sportswriter Chuck Willour also in tow, went back two nights later — again off the pier by the Winnetka power plant — and hauled in about 900 fish in about four hours.

They weren't alone or by any means the most successful smelters with better positions around the ends of the pier were pulling out even more.

The smelt are not only running fast but good in size too. Those taken off Winnetka are averaging about 6.7 inches and it's said a few inured to a foot which seems incredible for smelt.

There was also at least one reported sighting of a coho salmon out mingling with the smelt but the fisherman who reported seeing it was unable to catch the proof.

Nevertheless it is possible that there was a coho there because the hard run of the smelt is the first solid sign that the lake is waking up again and it may be only a matter of days now before the coho excitement has real cause to pick up.

Coho reports are increasing in Indiana's end of the lake including one astonishing report of a 15 pounder landed from Burns Ditch. That's at least 10 pounds bigger than they're supposed to show up in the spring catches.

But salmon or no salmon, the smelt are back, and there is no mistake. Even if you're not a smelter that is a reason to rejoice, because all good things in fishing measure from the re-appearance of the silvery little creatures.

Sort of in observance of that — the return of open water fishing — the Illinois Conservation Department's fisheries division is out with a report on the angling prospects for the year.

The report, based on fish-sampling surveys made in waters around the state, concludes that the most popular game fish in the state is the largemouth bass.

That conclusion is refreshing, since in times past the department has turned loose releases on just how much fun it can be to fish for carp and where they can be found. Now that may be a realistic reflection on the state of fishing in Illinois, but it does evade the issue of why something isn't done to insure good fresh water fishing in our lakes, ponds and rivers.

Accentuating bass instead of carp doesn't really answer the question either but it is a more positive approach and indicates someone may be thinking about it.

Anyway the best bass waters plumed in Illinois are — as you might have guessed — in the southern end of the state, mostly around Carbondale.

The very best seems to be Little Grass Lake, southeast of Carbondale in Williamson County. Largemouth sampled from its waters measured up to 10 pounds. Also down in that area, Crab Orchard Lake, Devil's Kitchen Lake and Sam Dale Lake promise largemouths of up to eight pounds.

Up in this area — if the survey is correct — the best big bass lakes are two that tend to get overlooked by the crush of fishermen. One is Lake Zurich, which is supposed to have bass of one to eight pounds and the other is Wooster Lake — Off Rt. 194 east of Rt. 12 — which has largemouths measuring up to seven pounds.

The popular lakes in the Chain showed bass of three to six pounds in the survey, so presumably they're there for the taking. Just try to find them.

Whatever your favorite location it's about time again to pick your spot and go.

NOT THIS TIME. Wheeling's Stew Oakley missed on this attempt in the pole vault event Saturday in the Arlington Prep Track Meet but did claim a tie for fifth place at 12.6 in the varsity division. There was a three-way tie for first (Photo by Bob Finch)

Lake Park Trounces Mundelein in Track

Lake Park hosted Mundelein last Thursday afternoon in track and handled the Bronchos easily.

The final totals read 81.46 in the Lancers' favor as they posted nine firsts in ending two sweeps. Both whitewashings came in the hurdles.

1200 highs — Bill Baldwin won with a 17.9 clocking. Then came Dave Fansher and Craig Olson who tied for second with 18.5.

1800 lows — Dave Olson won with a 22.8 reading. Dave Fansher took second 23.1 and Bill Baldwin was third 23.2.

Other firsts for the Lancers were Greg Aiani in the two mile (11:27), Norb Schaffer in the 100 dash (10.47), Jim Mallory in the 880 run (2:04.7), Jerry Vanmoult in the mile (4:53.6), Schaffer in the 220 dash (24.9) and Rich Larsen in the pole vault (11.4).

Posting seconds for the Lancers were Bob Rithaler in the two-mile (11:27.3), Roman Markewicz in both the 100 dash and the 440 (11.2 and 53.0), Tom Schlegel in the 880 run (2:07.0), Kevin Neis in the 220 dash (25.1), Dick Brunton in the shot and discus (41.0 and 112.7), Pat Kroll tied for second in the high jump (4-30) and Mike Goldman in the long jump (17.7).

The 880 yard relay team won for Lake Park in 1:11. However, the Lancers took the runnerup spot in the mile relay with a timing of 1:47.3.

Lake Park also won big on the frosh-soph level by an 88.48 count.

This Thursday the Lancers will go against Conant and Ridgewood at Lake Park. On Saturday they will be hosting the county meet but it will be held at Glenbard North.

Lancers Win, 3-2

Lake Park's tennis team upped its record to three wins and one loss by edging Barrington 3-2 Thursday at Lake Park.

Lake Park's win came in No. 2 singles when Steve Elsborg defeated Bill Branham 6-2, 6-2 and in both doubles matches.

Nick Szazuk and Cal Bahnsen defeated Jay Morgan and Greg Russell 6-4, 6-4 and John Fridlund and Eric Udd defeated Rick Schlauffer and John Fjortoft 6-1, 6-4 for the Lancers' winning points.

Scott Werner lost 3-6, 1-6 and Chuck Zahara lost 2-6, 4-6 in No. 1 and No. 3 singles respectively.

Lake Park's frosh-soph team won 4-1 to up its record to 3-1.

Arlington Wins, 4-0

Stratton Baffles Titans

by CHUCK WILLOUR

Cold enough for ya?

That was the first question asked for every person who showed up at the Glenbrook North diamond Friday afternoon to watch the Arlington Glenbrook South baseball tilt.

And the answer was always the same — emphatic YES — with the thermome- ter dipping into the upper 30s and a chill in the air whipping in both baseball squads the umpires and the fans all felt the sting of a springtime cold snap.

All except Cardinal pitcher Steve Stratton. That is, Stratton, a varsity performer for Coach Fran Somers for the third straight year, had enough fire in his fast ball to set down the opposing Titans for five innings, giving up but one hit while his teammates were banging out four runs on six hits — more than enough to bring the Cards a 4-0 victory when the umpires called the game midway into the sixth stanza. Theumps were probably the coldest of all.

STRATTON, WHO has been bothered by arm trouble off and on the past two seasons, has rarely looked more impressive than he did against Glenbrook South. For the first two innings the righthander mowed the Titan batters down 1-2-3 with no ball hit out of the infield and the only Titan baserunner wiped out by a rim ball to Rick Blossner to Dave Armstrong double play — the runner reaching first on a walk.

EG Golfers Win 1st Dual in History

Revenge is mine — said the Elk Grove golf team.

Yes, it happened. After 20 straight dual setbacks, the Grenadiers, playing in their first match of the season, edged out Fenton at Indian Lakes Golf Course last Friday afternoon 181-111 for their first win in the school's history.

Playing on the 3400 yard Sioux Trails layout, Bill Fitzhoffer, and Gary Over 42 in leading the Grove foursome on its tribute on sinking mission against the Bisons. Last year a Bensenville foursome humiliated the Grenadiers with a 166-186 setback.

Medalist Fitzhoffer beat out three others for this distinction. Teammate Frank Schultz came in with a 44 along with Garcia and Dokino of Fenton.

The other Grenadier linksmen whose scores counted were Steve Harnish (46), Ed Larry Nelson (49).

For the Bisons it was Reissen (45) and Meyer (50).

The frosh-soph team also handed a victory to the Grove's new and successful golf mentor, George Reut, by easily defeating Fenton 196-236. Mark Greenberg shot a 44 to lead the young Grenadiers.

Card catcher Pat Donahue started the two-run second off with a single up the middle and moved around the diamond on a pair of infield outs. Then Stratton bounced one back to the Titan shortstop who threw the ball away and Donahue came home and Stratton went to second. Jim Baumgartner then singled Stratton home and was thrown out trying to stretch the one bagger into a double.

Four Firsts for Bisons in Loss

Fenton managed four firsts but just didn't have the overall depth needed to handle East Leyden in an outdoor track and field dual.

The Eagles piled up 83 points to 40 for the Bisons in a varsity level and also ruled the frosh-soph competition 64 to 15.

Individual winners for Fenton were Bill Ketchum in the two mile at 11:05.9, Bob Lemaire in the mile at 4:51.6, Bob Weipert in the long jump at 18.9 and Tom Ricker in the discus at 114.19.

Collecting second place points were Greg Schoo in the two mile, Bob Weipert in the high hurdles, Ken Hartman in the long jump and Dave King in the shot put and discus.

Top performance for the locals on a frosh-soph level was the 11:35.0 on the two mile by unbeaten freshman standout Rick Terhune.

The Way We See It

Bad Bill, Close Shave

We have enough problems with mayhem on the highways without passage of the kind of bill that almost got through the Illinois House last week.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Raymond Ewell (D-Chicago) would raise from three to five the number of moving violations allowed within a 12-month period before a driver could have his license revoked.

The fact that the bill almost got through is in itself an indictment of the House members. They had breezed it through — without debate — but caught themselves in time.

On a routine motion to reconsider, it was suggested the members may have acted in haste. The extra minutes of reflection must have had an effect, because the members agreed they indeed were hasty, and called back their action for further consideration.

The bill, however, remains alive and should be defeated. We have little sympathy with the argument of sponsor Ewell, who says he's been under a great deal of pressure from his constituents to get such a bill through.

Rep. Ewell says his people have been complaining of getting unwarranted tickets and feel they're being harassed by police. If that is so, it's a matter for the Chicago police superintendent and shouldn't be dealt with by the passage of a potentially disastrous law.

It is our view that if a driver incurs three moving violations in a single year it's a safe bet that driver is at least lacking in some of the highway graces. To allow him two more chances would be foolhardy.

The argument against the bill was best summed up by Rep. Harold Katz (D-Glenview) who observed: "There is an old American saying, 'Three times and you're out.' You would make it five times before you would be out — and you never know which one of those extra offenses might involve the life of a pedestrian, a child."

A View from the American Patio

Half the American homes being built this year will combine outdoor with indoor living. This observation, coming out of the National Association of Home Builders' show in Houston, was meant to praise modern products — like sliding glass panel doors that not only give a view of patio or yard but also make it easy to step outside.

But the homebuilding trend also shows that Americans are becoming more conscious of the outdoors than ever before. A recent Gallup Poll sampled the public's attitudes toward its natural surroundings. Most wanted to live in the country. More than half said they were "deeply concerned" about the threats to our environment from air and water pollution, erosion, and wildlife destruction. Another 35 per cent were "somewhat concerned."

What makes the Gallup evidence convincing is that it reflects the views of the general public, not just nature enthusiasts. And when it is remembered that 70 per cent of the population live in cities, their concern for the natural habitat is all the more a fact to be reckoned with.

We are frankly comforted by the signs of the public's sensitivity to the outdoors, whether as an enhancement to their homes or to protect the basic setting for civilized man. Legislators should see in this a mandate for stronger measures to protect and preserve this setting.

Mobile Class Units: More Crop Up

Mobile classroom units are, unfortunately, becoming a part of the suburban scene. Units have been in use for several years in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54; now units have been ordered by several north DuPage County districts including those in Bensenville and Medinah.

In several cases, school districts have been forced to use mobile units because their bonding power is exhausted. In other areas, failure of voters to support building programs has led to the purchase of the mobile units. They are relatively inexpensive and can be purchased from existing funds without voter approval.

Superintendents have stressed their usefulness is temporary; suburban property owners should never regard them as an adequate substitute for permanent classrooms. Their purchase takes a direct bite out of funds needed for educational programming and building maintenance.

... Second Thoughts

The Risks of Staying Neat

by JAMES VESELY

One of my favorite characters of legend is the French king who, when asked by his barber how he wanted his hair cut, responded, "In silence."

Such audacity could only come from a king but even so, it probably took a lot of spunk to sit there under the blade and demand something no barber can deliver.

BARBERS AND SILENCE do not go hand in hand. There must be something about the long hours behind the chair that makes a barber want to bare his soul to the next customer.

That next customer is always me. I have learned more about the personal lives of barbers in half-hour sessions in their chairs than should ever be revealed in public.

One barber told me his teen age daughter had recently run off with the bass section of an acid-rock band.

"THEY CALL themselves, St. Anthony and the Infatigables," he said, "and if I ever see any of those guys again I'm really going to put my barber's training to use."

As he said this, he was trimming around my ear off that time. Don't ever talk when a barber is trimming around your ears.

Another time I sat in the chair the same time the White Sox were playing a tight one.

Since barbers require that I remove my glasses, television sets in barber shops mean nothing to me. But they do to the barbers. That barber was so interested in the ball game that it became apparent I was just something for him to do with his hands.

In the fifth inning, when Jack Brickhouse shouts "Hey! Hey!", the barber is rubbing my hair with that stuff they dispense, and I got a scalp burn that lasted for two days.

IT'S NOT SO BAD when barbers talk to me when I'm in the chair; it's when they talk among themselves that things get rough.

I once went to a barber shop where the kidding between the three barbers got so fierce that the customers were forced to take sides.

My barber would shout something abusive to Andy, the barber next to the window, and then Andy would shout back to me.

"BETTER WATCH YOUR barber there, fella," Andy shouted. "He's got an incurable skin disease on his hands." Then all the barbers laughed. I laughed too, but tried to catch a glimpse of my barber's hands at the same time.

I also wish they would quit being innovative and just cut hair. Have you ever gotten the vibra-rub treatment unexpectedly? You know, that machine that they slip on their fingers and then carefully separate the bones of your shoulders and neck.

I try to lead a quiet life until about 10 a.m. each morning. The first time I got the vibra-rub treatment, I was awake, out of the chair and hard at work a few minutes later. Nobody has the right to do that to any man.

As I finish writing this piece, I am wondering what barber shop I can now walk into where I will not be considered fair game.

I once had my hair cut in a man's garage in Davenport, Iowa, and I may have to take my trade there. He didn't have a television set, he was stone wall mute and he only charged 50-cents a cut.

SUCH MEN ARE hard to find now. They are the vanishing breed of men who take their businesses with them when they die. Besides, Davenport has electricity, and I bet the barber in the garage has a vibra-rub.

Medical Moons

by DAN BAUMANN

Finding a cure for cancer should be declared a national goal. That breathtaking suggestion was offered by a recent contributor to the letters column.

IT HAS genuine merit. One of our national goals is to land a man on the moon before 1970 — preferably before the Russians.

That is an admirable goal, and I hope that man does land on the moon. Man's creative, driving nature will take him there to find out how it feels to stand on the moon. His acquisitive nature will force him to check the soil for precious metals. His aggressive bent will lead him to establish rocket bases there.

We plan to send a total of six men to the moon this year, in two expeditions. If national statistics hold, one of those first six men to reach the moon will die of cancer.

Because one of six Americans will die of cancer.

IT IS THE second biggest killer and the most debilitating of all the major killers. Everyone, of course, has to die. But until we have figured out a way to permit most people to die in peace and dignity we have no business shooting for the moon. We should shoot for medical moons.

Anyone who has seen a loved one die in the hellish embrace of cancer has cause to wonder. Why? Why?

There have been successes. Research has succeeded in reducing the cancer death rate from four out of five infected in the 1930's to two out of three now.

THAT ASTRONAUT who gets cancer may be the lucky one out of three who survives.

Looking Around

by SID HATHAWAY

A group of Brattleboro, Vt. junior high school students were given a tour of police headquarters and left the building in tears. Police had unlocked a storage cabinet for tear gas canisters and discovered too late that some of the canisters were leaking.

The 10 children and the parents in the O. B. Lassiter family of Calgary, Alberta are all artists. A recent exhibit featured the work of the 12 members, from the 81-year-old father to youngest daughter Lynn, 15.

The most successful people in the world were those who learned how to fail intelligently.

At no time can one's faith appear more reassuring than when word has reached you that your rich uncle just died.

Patience is never more important than when you are at the peak of anger. The two most costly things you can support are keeping up with the Joneses and with appearances.

Stack up that encouragement alongside these facts:

—Nearly a million Americans will be treated for cancer this year.

—More than 600,000 new cases will be diagnosed this year.

—About 325,000 people will die of cancer this year.

—Fifty million Americans currently living will eventually die of cancer.

This year cancer will kill 4,000 children under the age of 15; it will be the leading cause of death among women in the flower of their years, the 30 to 54 year old bracket.

In a population group the size of the Northwest suburbs, nearly 600 people will contract cancer this year. More than 300 will die. Fifty thousand will eventually contract cancer, and 30,000 will eventually die from it.

THAT, MY FRIENDS, is an epidemic by any standards.

In terms of pain and suffering, it must be akin to the plagues of the dark ages.

In many cases, cancer will be self-inflicted, suicidal. Check the figures on lung cancer and the prevalence of smoking. Lung cancer is the one major type of cancer that is totally out of control.

The American Cancer Society says of lung cancer: "The mortality rate for this largely preventable disease has increased in men more than 15 times in 35 years and is going up in women."

Cancer, to some extent, is self-inflicted by sufferers who are fearful of it and avoid examination or treatment. To some extent it is inflicted by the medical profession which still fails to insist on cancer tests as routine parts of every physical examination.

THE CANCER SOCIETY says 90 per cent of the public would get an annual physical examination if their physicians really urged them to. But by and large the doctors have their hands full with already sick people. The Cancer Society says it will "henceforth place greater emphasis on involving physicians in its program and seeking their leadership in the matter of checkups."

The disease, to an extent is also socially inflicted. By a society that spends billions on moon trips while the Cancer Society is scratching for $55 million (half for research).

For our minimal investment we have bought 1.5 million lives, the number of Americans now living who once had cancer.

I wonder if these modest encouragements will soften the hell of that hypothetical astronaut and his family?

'Cultivating' Good Taste

(In response to Cliff Rowe's column, April 4):

You know, I'm a country girl, so I guess I don't understand all "the complexities" of the city, but it does seem to me that the lady selling nighties and things would make more money selling her goods to the ladies that buy nighties in restaurants. Of course, maybe Miss Lynn doesn't know where to take her nighties to sell them, and didn't know that men would keep coming into the restaurant and spoiling her nighties sales. You are a smart man, Mr. Editor, I can tell, so you could tell her she could do better business in tea-rooms and places like that selling things to ladies. I'm not awfully smart, but I know I would not take my poultry and eggs to sell them at the grain elevator.

THAT YOUR FEELINGS were hurt showed in the little editorial in the newspaper. Please don't let your feelings be hurt. I'm sure no one meant that your character was objectionable, embarrassing, loud or distasteful. I'm just sure your character is as good as you conceive it to be. I know you understand that almost all people, just like people on the farms, like to cultivate good things, grow things that yield good products that people like and enjoy. We like to "show off" good crops. We know good crops will nourish and make healthy people. We plow under, hoe out the weeds, suckers and other things that grew but are not productive to sound health, (the things that take up space and time but add nothing.) We know we must harrow out the noxious plants, for if we don't they will over run the field and destroy the good plants. It's hard work keeping the weeds down, maybe it would be harder work for city folk, because I guess some of them wouldn't know a weed plant from a good one. But, Mr. Editor, you are a very smart man, or you wouldn't be "Mr. Editor" of a big newspaper, even if you are a city man. Maybe you could help a lot of city folk tell the difference between weeds and flowers, between the bad things we want to keep and the bad things that we want to barrow under.

Blanketed

If recognizing the existence of businesses that exploit the sexual nature of man and the fact that some men respond to this exploitation "even if for nothing more than false hope," while retaining the right to disapprove of such exploitation and response places me under an "opaque security blanket" then that indeed is where I am and where I shall stay.

As for the article on March 24, since it did nothing but publicize the exploiters and encourage the response, I can hardly consider it "news" for the community.

Aid for Elderly

Congratulations on your editorial and cartoon on the elderly in Monday's issue of the Herald.

These aged, proud people have no voice in today's main swim, and it is pathetic the apathy of our government towards them.

I recommend copies be sent to our congressmen and senators, and indeed a copy to our President would be worthwhile.

I trust you will not stop bringing this situation to the public's attention.

Foot Note

I would like to commend this newspaper for all the coverage of the recent Hike for the Hungry. Somewhere along the 17-mile trek, a man shouted to me "What are you protesting?" It was then that I became aware of the need of the public to be informed of our purpose and goal in hiking. The Herald has done an excellent job of fulfilling this need. On behalf of 4,000 tired but happy feet, many thanks.

COG Supports Local Affairs Bill

A senate bill to establish a state Department of Local Government Affairs has attracted a letter of support from the council of Governments of Cook County (COG).

Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl, COG chairman, endorsed the department proposal in an April 8 letter to Sen. Arthur R. Swanson, R-Chicago, chairman of the senate municipal corporation committee and the bill sponsor.

Hearings on the bill were scheduled before the committee last Thursday.

"THE STATE HAS NOT provided necessary backup services to rural and non-metropolitan areas and has failed to come to grips with problems of our urban areas," Pahl stated in his letter.

"By the time the local official has become familiar with the proliferation of the federal and state offices and programs, his term has expired and the expertise gained is not passed on to his successor."

Under the bill's proposal, the Department of Local Government Affairs would be a resource for local governments' search for answers to problems.

The department would consist of advisers from an office of Community Services, Office of Housing and Buildings, Office of Financial Affairs and Office of Research and Planning. Some functions of existing offices and departments would be transferred to the new department.

Pahl supported the bill's concept as being both helpful to local communities and to COG which is a voluntary association of governmental units formed to tackle common regional concerns.

"IT APPEARS TO ME that with the establishment of a Department of Local Government Affairs, all units of local government will have one place to go for assistance, advice, knowledge, facts and statistics," Pahl's written testimony read.

"I see this new department as a vital tool in the fast-growing Council of Governments movement which, we hope, will be developed and expanded throughout the state of Illinois."

"Hopefully, the Council of Governments will be in a position to coordinate local, city, county, state and federal programs in order to deal with such problems as air pollution, water pollution, crime, housing, transportation and planning."

The COG chairman said he does not expect establishment of the department will solve all governmental problems.

"But it will be the start of a better communication system and we will have one place to go to solve our individual or area-wide problems."

AAA Hits Transit Subsidy

Legislation pending in the Illinois General Assembly that would permit Chicago and other cities to divert Motor Fuel Taxes (MFT) to subsidize mass transit is drawn the fire of the Chicago Motor Club-AAA.

Commenting in the April issue of "Motor News," Gerald W. Cavanagh, club president, said, "Once again, the old argument that it is to the motorists' benefit to bail out a failing transit system is being heard. And, as in the past, the argument simply does not hold up."

"Despite the cry being heard throughout Illinois for earliest possible construction of new limited-access roads and improvement of current routes, a bill has been introduced in the Illinois House of Representatives which would enable a municipality to siphon off Motor Fuel Taxes for purposes," Cavanagh said, "the Chicago transit commission such as the Chicago Transit Authority."

HE IDENTIFIED the measure as HB 135, which has been approved by the House municipalities committee, and urged Illinois members of the motor club to write their legislators to oppose its passage.

"Consistent with its policy of resisting diversion of highway funds to nonhighway purposes," Cavanagh said, "the Chicago Motor Club urges passage of HJR 6." Introduced by Rep. Clarence Naff, (R-Stronghurst), chairman of the House highway and traffic safety committee, the resolution calls for a constitutional amendment to stop the diversion of highway-user taxes.

"HJR 6 soon will be called before the executive committee of the House for a hearing," Cavanagh pointed out, "and it is essential that members deluge their state legislators, urging that they support this vitally needed proposal. Indeed, the threat of HB 135 makes passage of HJR 6 more crucial than ever."

"IN VOICING opposition to HB 135," Cavanagh continued, "the Chicago Motor Club continues to emphasize recognition of the fact that adequate public transportation is essential for all. We are aware of this, just as we are aware that good schools, sufficient water supply, and efficient police and fire protection are vital to modern community life."

"However," he said, "the Chicago Motor Club does not believe that a special class of citizens — in this case the highway user — should be singled out to support public transportation through diversion of tax money designed to maintain and improve our highway system."

"Undermining highway development by diverting road funds to subsidize mass transit would compound the over-all transportation dilemma by substituting a new and larger problem for the one whose solution is being attempted."

Power? Politics

Black power is packed in two fists — one economic and the other political — and one observer of the battle the Negro is waging feels the knockout punch rides on the latter.

Louis Martin, Negro newspaperman and former adviser on Negro affairs to the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, told a group of student and professional journalists last weekend:

"I doubt if black capitalism can help poor blacks any more than white capitalism has helped the millions of poor whites."

"It will only create a few more Negro millionaires."

Martin, speaking at a regional meeting of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society, pointed to several gains already made by the Negro through politics.

They were the "opening of federal bureaucracy to blacks and the granting of more decision-making posts to Negroes." Rise of black political participation in the South; new roles and rise of influence of blacks in the major Northern cities.

Pointing to the election of Negro mayors in Cleveland and Gary, Ind., election victories which depended on support outside the Negro community, Martin said, "In some ways Negro politicians are following a well-worn path followed by other ethnic groups in seeking broader representation."

Martin predicted several results of this increased success in political activity.

First, he said, there may be inroads made on the "Dixiecrat" bloc in Congress, meaning the election of more moderate whites and Negroes from Southern districts.

"More liberal legislation will result," he said.

Second, he predicted that the victories in the major cities of the North "are certain to inspire more black political action" in those cities.

Third, "Despite the Republican effort in the last election to seek out the white backlash, the GOP hierarchy will be trying to capture more of the black votes."

Fourth, "Some pressure already is mounting to drive for political action outside the framework of existing political parties."

Where would such pressure lead the blacks? It could mean attachment to a third party movement, Martin said, and "there is always talk of a separatist movement."

A fifth result that Martin sees resulting from Negro political involvement is stimulation of political activity by other minority groups, particularly Spanish-speaking people.

Approximately 100 students and professional journalists from the five-state area of Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio attended the two-day conference at the Northern Illinois University campus at DeKalb.

Fremd Vikings

ATHLETIC POWER is symbolized by the Viking, chosen by students of William Fremd High School, Palatine, to represent the school. Colors are green and gold.

The school crest, picked through a student vote, was designed by Colleen McGrath, of the Class of 1969. The parts of the crest symbolize: Clasped hands — friendship, unity and loyalty; Gavel — leadership; Lamp — knowledge and scholarship; Lyre — fine arts; and Viking head — athletic prowess.

The newspaper, the Viking Logue, was named in another student contest by Susan Kraft of the Class of 1970. The yearbook has been called the Valhallan, a name chosen for its significance in Viking history. "Valhalla" was heaven in Viking lore.

The school is named for William Fremd, a member of the school board of Dist. 211 for more than 30 years.

Volunteers at Cook County Hospital

A Job That Offers 'Immediate Satisfaction'

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

In a society increasingly geared to instant gratification, two suburban women heartily recommend a constructive and unselfish way to obtain "immediate satisfaction."

Barbara Rother and Shirley Suss of Mount Prospect are enthusiastic volunteer workers at Fantus Clinic, the out-patient clinic at Cook County Hospital.

Shirley and Babs report once a week to the clinic where, they report as many as 1,000 patients are cared for daily. Both women work in the social service department, aiding professional social workers. Mrs. Suss is a medical secretary in the cleft palate clinic, and Mrs. Rother helps in pediatric neurology.

Stressing the importance and need for volunteer service at Cook County, dark-eyed Shirley explained that volunteers are placed where Volunteer Services hope they will be happiest and of most value. A personal interview, testing, orientation and training help the agency in correctly placing applicants, she said.

SHIRLEY CITED her own experience as an example. Before starting her family (husband Charles, high school sons Jeff and Layne and Greg, seventh grade), Mrs. Suss worked as a medical secretary for an ear-eye-nose-throat specialist. Now, as a volunteer for the clinic — something she has wanted to do ever since moving into the Chicago area — one of Shirley's primary responsibilities is taking notes from a team of medical specialists as they evaluate patients.

To enable her to work more effectively with Spanish-speaking patients and their parents, Mrs. Suss presently is enrolled in a District 214 Adult Education Spanish class.

"I'd rather do this volunteer work than anything else," declared Shirley, who often brings "homework" from the clinic to finish evenings.

EQUALLY AS enthusiastic, pixy-like Babs Rother agrees that her job with cerebral palsied, epileptic and spastic children (some mentally retarded) is more satisfying and interesting than almost anything else she could do. After a year on the job, Mrs. Rother finds herself beginning to realize the full value of her service.

Among other duties at the clinic, this mother of three (Mark, in the Navy; Ann, a high school junior, and Lisa, in the seventh grade) keeps social service records, handles correspondence, interviews applicants to help establish financial status for qualification for free or marked-down equipment (for example, a "stand-up table" for a cerebral-palsied patient can cost as much as $125) "and does much telephoning."

"In the last few weeks I called between 25 to 30 camps in the Chicago area to investigate camping facilities for some of these children," she explained.

MRS. ROTHER also helps families fill out forms for placement of the mentally retarded in state schools where there is a waiting list of eight to 10 years, she noted.

Babs previously worked as a volunteer at Little City for the Retarded with "Meals on Wheels" program for shut-ins sponsored locally by St. Mark Church and also professionally in personnel. This peppy, blue-eyed suburban mother also volunteers each year as a block worker for cerebral palsy and mental retardation drives.

"When you've worked closely with them, you feel you should help!" she observed.

BOTH BUSY MATRONS urge other suburban women to give time and talent to Cook County Hospital. They declare there is no cause for concern in traveling from the northwest suburbs to Cook County Hospital. Though most volunteers drive to the area, the two Mount Prospect friends find it more convenient to use public transportation: North Western Railway to the Clybourn Station, where they catch a bus to within two blocks of the hospital.

"The buses are frequent and very regular and we enjoy the ride through Polish and Puerto Rican neighborhoods," they said.

Working hours for Shirley and Babs are 9 to 3 every Wednesday, "and we seldom miss as we look forward to it so much!" Other satisfactions of their weekly work at the clinic; mainly the pleasant relationships with the professional workers, other volunteers and with patients and their families.

"EVEN THOUGH many of the people who come for help haven't much material, they are cheerful, grateful for your help and so patient," Babs Rother said.

Both women believe their jobs have made them appreciate more the good fortune in their own lives.

High point of their day for the two volunteers is lunch hour, "our social hour," they laughed. Volunteer workers, in their pink smocks and name tags, are provided with free lunch at the Cook County School of Nursing cafeteria.

"We meet so many interesting people everywhere," the women raved.

Mrs. Nancy Dodson, director of volunteer service at the Hospital, described Cook County and surrounding area as the largest medical complex in the world.

"ONE HUNDRED thousand people work and study here daily," she said. To suburban residents who may feel cautious about coming into the area, she suggested, "Just come in once and find out for yourself the high security." Though there are approximately 250 volunteers now working at the hospital, Mrs. Dodson affirmed the need for many, many more. The most critical area is in the medical wards, she said, but for those who desire less patient contact, there is also a need at Fantus Clinic and other places.

"The best public relationship between hospital and community is through our volunteers, and if you are properly motivated, we want you collectively to knock on our doors and to help us!"

The telephone number is 633-6366.

MRS. BARBARA ROTHER of Mount Prospect pins on her name tag before reporting to work as a volunteer in the pediatric neurology clinic for out-patients at Cook County Hospital.

AS A ONCE-A-WEEK volunteer medical secretary in the cleft palate clinic at Cook County Hospital, Mrs. Shirley Suss has to haul her typewriter across the street in a grocery cart. The Mount Prospect homemaker worked as a medical secretary before her marriage.

The Hat That Flops Is Tops

by GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The brim that flops is the brim that's tops in the hats women are buying for spring.

Giving the big, "relaxed" brims strong competition, however, are the scarf hats, part of the millinery scene in recent years, but this spring better than ever before.

Faded from the picture are the traditional florals, with few exceptions. And gone too is the phrase "Easter bonnet" (sorry about that, Irving Berlin) from the hat industry's vocabulary.

The bonnet is not a 1969 fashion. And as the hatmakers explain, women no longer buy a hat just for an Easter Sunday day.

INSTEAD, WOMEN think in terms of a new hat or hats for a whole season, and often in terms of coordination with a specific outfit.

Coordination — eachment of M. John, the millinery designer who uses the term "to describe his spring best-seller — "drooping over the face, with chiffon drapes to the floor."

These ensembles, some with brims nearly a foot wide and with "good round crowns" are ideal with the pants suits sweeping the fashion scene, Mr. John says. "The hat is a must, with the amount of hair that has been replaced by the use of hairpieces," he said, and combed into an "official fan."

"THE LOOK TODAY is so," of Mrs. Marlene Dietrich riding off into the desert," said Mr. John.

A United Press international check of the Millinery Institute of America, trade organization for the industry, plus couture firms and volume manufacturers showed enormous popularity for brims and the use of scarves as trims for felt or straw to make the effect.

White's been a big seller with most firms. Archie Eason, who ran a millinery business in his native Jacksonville, Fla., before moving it to New York nine years ago, said White on his "utahs brim" number was one of the tops of the season.

(Readers may call Reader Service, 394-2300, Ext. 300, about the hat pictured.)

SEASON'S FAVORITE, the white wide-brimmed hat, this one with pink and white floral scarf. Nancy Kovar of Arlington Heights seems pleased with the effect.

Time for Spring Gleaning

by MARY SHERRY

I was lugging some junk out to the curb when I ran into Alice Flaxton, my next door neighbor, who also was preparing for the annual spring trash pick-up day. She was standing over a huge but very orderly mound of stuff.

"How does this look?" she called to me. I wasn't sure what she meant by "look," so I commented on the size of her offering. She had an old buffet, a crib mattress, a one-wheeled lawn food spreader, several boxes of Atlantic, Harper's, and Fortune magazines, a big carton of china, and a...

"I hope this is a good one," Alice noted. "You seem to have more than anyone on the block." "I'm not sure," I worried about it.

ALICE STEPPED over to the street, looked at the stuff, and then she came back and switched the places of the rug and the crib mattress.

"Last year I could have died," Alice began to confess. "On the day before the trash pick-up, when the amateur scavengers cruised the neighborhood looking for tarnished treasures, not a soul adopted any of my stuff. By the time the trash collectors got to our street, I was the only one with anything left. I was so embarrassed!"

"Alice, if you don't mind my saying so, I think you've gotten a bit trash-happy."

Alice sniffed and shrugged in the direction of my trash pile. "Obviously you're insensitive to the situation. Look at that. You're throwing out nothing but junk!"

"But Alice —"

"DON'T YOU KNOW this could ruin the neighborhood?"

"I suppose this is known as a high trash area?"

"Definitely! Why one of our neighbors once threw out two TVs!"

I surveyed my meager pile of old Reader's Digests and Redbooks, a paint screen, a corroded dish rack and a broken sponge mop. I decided Alice was right. No one would want to claim anything.

As I began to wonder how I could throw out to improve the appearance of our refuse, Alice disappeared into the house. Soon she returned with a large piece of poster paper. She taped to the items in her pile and labeled them. On the buffet she wrote, "table for refinishing." On the rug she put, "Good on one side." She labeled the box of china, "Antique pottery."

"ALICE," I PLEADED, "I wish you wouldn't worry so much about this." "It's very important to me. Obviously you don't understand," she said coolly, nodding to my pile of junk.

"Uh, Alice, I don't know how to say this, but I could use that buffet."

Alice's eyes lit up. "Would you really like to have it?"

"Sure. I'll pick it up tonight when my husband gets home."

"You mean after dark?"

"Yes. Won't that be all right?"

"Look, why don't you drive your car around the block now and then sort of mosey by and pick it up. I'll help you put it in the car."

IT SEEMED SILLY to drive by when I live next door, and I told Alice that.

"Won't you do it as a favor?" she pleaded. "If you will, I'll throw in the china. If you don't want it, you can use it to upgrade your pile."

Since that was a deal I couldn't pass up, the buffet is now mine, and I am anxiously waiting for someone to pick up Alice's china from in front of my house.

Yugoslav Cuisine Full of Surprises

by M. SUDHAUTER

Once you've analyzed the idea that almost every Yugoslav cooking contains some delicious surprise.

There are some delightful specialties — heavy, rough breads with an unsurpassed taste and texture, and delicious sweet red peppers stuffed with chopped meats or white Serbian soft cheese. Then there is ajvar, a delicious, always fresh-tasting salad made of cooked sweet red peppers and eggplant mashed together into a puree.

Dalmatian ham, a smoked delight not unlike Italian prosciutto or Swiss bündnerfleisch (sun dried beef), has to be tasted to be believed.

The Yugoslavs, like many people in this part of the world, excel at pickling.

The pickled vegetables are a staple of the Yugoslav diet, and they are served in a variety of ways. They can be served as a side dish, or they can be used in a variety of recipes.

One of the most popular pickled vegetables is sauerkraut. It is made from fermented cabbage and is served with a variety of meats. Another popular pickled vegetable is pickled peppers. They are made from fermented peppers and are served with a variety of meats.

There's more, much more. And not all of it, despite first impressions, has raw onions. Yugoslav cuisine may not be as subtle as French or as sophisticated as Hungarian, but it will put extra pounds on the unwary visitor.

As a postscript—and only because it tastes too good to miss—this dispatch ends with a recipe for ajvar, vouchered for by a Yugoslav chef. It may be served with any meal either with or in place of salad.

YUM YUM

Bake 2 large eggplants and 6 to 8 large red or green bell peppers in preheated 350-degree oven until tender when pierced with a fork. Peel skin from hot vegetables and chop or mince vegetables. Season to taste with salt, pepper, 2 cloves of garlic, minced and juice of 1 lemon. Gradually stir in 1/2 cup of oil (preferably olive oil) or as much as vegetables will absorb. Mix well. Serve in deep glass dish, with gar-of fresh parsley.

Mostly for Men

by CHARLES E. FLYNN
Historic Galena, Ill., has much allure for visitors who come to view restorations of the 19th century. In spring, summer and fall the area has great natural beauty, too.

One of the picturesque spots we've encountered which takes you back a hundred years in architecture also can provide excellent dining in Victorian surroundings.

The place is the Belvedere, restored by owners John Ford and Carl Maturen, into a modern-day inn possessing much of the charm originally created when the 20-room mansion was built in 1857.

Two dining rooms are operated regularly. Albert's Alley for luncheon and dinner and the Queen Victoria room for dinner only. Here the gourmet will find many fine dishes topped off with some great desserts. Two of the latter, specialties of the house, are a blueberry tart with whipped cream or blackberry pie jubilee.

CHEF OMER McCarter often offers one dish not listed on the menu as his selection of the day and that's how we became acquainted with delectable braised beef tips in wine, served with rice. The recipe, reduced in dimension to serve 6 people, is prepared as follows. In one large skillet put 1/4 cup cooking oil and heat. Cut 3 pounds cubed round or top sirloin steak into bite-sized pieces and saute on all sides, stirring until lightly browned.

Add 3 garlic buds finely chopped and 1 small onion finely chopped. Stir and saute an additional 2 minutes.

Next add ½ teaspoon white pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon beef base, 1/2 teaspoon chicken base, 3 teaspoons kitchen bouquet, dash each of thyme and oregano, 3 teaspoons monosodium glutamate, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 bay leaf. Simmer for 15 minutes while stirring so beef and seasonings will be well blended.

ADD 1 1/2-OUNCE can of mushrooms stems and pieces, well drained. Transfer contents of the skillet to an uncovered roasting pan. Cover with water to 1/2 inch over the meat. Place in a 400-degree oven and cook for approximately 1 hour, adding water if needed and stirring occasionally. You can test for doneness by squeezing a piece of the meat between fingers. If meat remains flat it is done. If rubbery, reduce heat to 350 and cook until tender.

Remove the roaster from the oven and place on a low burner. Thicken sauce with flour and water mixture (1 part flour to 2 parts water). Season to taste with salt and pepper. Add 4 ounces of cooking sherry. Serve over a bed of cooked long grain rice. Total preparation time is not more than 1½ hours.

This dish is fine with a tossed mixed green salad and hard rolls. For the busy host, the beef tips can be prepared in advance, refrigerated, then reheated.

It's for Real: Tea in a Barn

A 100-year-old barn in south Arlington Heights will be the unusual setting for a membership tea Sunday afternoon for the women of the new St. Cecelia's Catholic Church. The barn, completely renovated by the men of St. Cecelia's, is used as the Parish Center.

It was once a part of the Meier Farm located on Lonquist and Busse Roads in Mount Prospect. Fifteen years ago it was moved to the present site near the intersection of Golf and Meier Roads in Arlington Heights.

Hosting the Sunday tea will be the parish Altar Guild. Serving hours will be 2 to 5 p.m. SEVERAL ORGANIZATIONAL meetings have been held by the churchwomen, and they are now holding regular business sessions in the barn the first Wednesday of the month.

"Right in Heart of Town"

Orchard St. Itasca

For many a bride with a small apartment, the question of creating a dining area looms ominously. Fortunately there is a wide variety of things that can be done to make a dinette, a dining "L" or even a corner of a room into an attractive dining area.

When one room must serve as dining and living room it is often wise to use an expandable table for dining. There is no end to the drop-leaf, extension and console tables that can sit prettily in miniature leaving the maximum room for non-dining activities and yet unfold to serve a dinner party.

In approaching your dining area needs, try to find a spot that can be converted into a cozy dining area without disrupting the entire scheme of things in the remainder of the apartment.

Many times, a small dining table placed in front of a window with a hutch for storing china nearby can create a pretty, out of the way dining area. If space permits, an entire corner can be turned into a dining room. A ceiling hung lighting fixture helps to create the definite area effect you may want.

A floor-sitting plant to one side and a pretty centerpiece arrangement with perhaps a few candlesticks help to create the dining area atmosphere.

Sometimes a decorative screen is the answer to separating your dining and living room areas. One caution, however, don't partition off too small a spot for dining or your dinner parties will be crowdedly uncomfortable.

No matter how limited the facilities, with careful planning you can still dine graciously and attractively and manage to give small dinner parties to repay the social obligations you will have as a new bride.

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

March 15 Newlyweds Are Residing in Davenport

The former Karen Roberts and her bridegroom, Charles Olmsted, are now making their home in Davenport, Iowa, where Charles is with State Mutual of America. The couple were married March 15 in Southminster United Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights, and honeymooned for two weeks in Vail, Colo., before settling at 307-A 53rd St. W. in Davenport on April 1.

Karen, daughter of Mrs. T. S. Roberts, 506 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, and the late Mr. Roberts, was given in marriage by her uncle, Robert Hiller. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Olmsted of Urbana, Iowa.

Dr. William T. Jones officiated at the 1:30 p.m. candlelight, double ring service for which the church altar was decorated with candelabra and flowers on tall pedestals. Pews were marked with ivy and white bows.

THE COUPLE MET AT Drake University, Des Moines, from which Karen was graduated in '68 and where Charles was then working. Karen, a graduate of Arlington High School, was a member of Delta Gamma Sorority at Drake. The bridegroom is a graduate of Parsons College, Fairfield, Iowa.

For her marriage, the bride chose a gown of white peau de soie with empire bodice of English net with appliques of imported Alencon lace and tiny scallops of lace across the Sabrina neckline. The bell-shaped sleeves were also of the net and lace and the same trim was used on the border of the A-line skirt which ended in a chapel train. Her elbow-length veil of illusion was held by a petaled cap of white peau and lace, and she carried a bouquet of Eucharist lilies and stephanotis with ivy.

Mrs. Carol Nollman of Arlington Heights served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Laura Raasch of Arlington Heights, Gail DeCros of Edina, Minn., and Julie Roberts of Buffalo Grove, sister-in-law of the bride.

All wore identical gowns fashioned with white cotton lace bodices and long sleeves, and A-line skirts of silk. Pink satin cummerbunds marked the empire waistlines, and pink satin bows with pink veiling were used as headpieces. Their flowers were nosegays of varied pink carnations.

THE BRIDE'S 7-year-old niece, Debbie Roberts of Buffalo Grove, was flower girl. She, too, was in white cotton lace over pink and carried a basket of roses and carnations.

Mrs. Roberts was also in pink. Her ensemble of coat and dress was in imported silk brocade. She chose matching accessories and her flowers were pink cymbidiums. Mrs. Olmsted chose a green silk brocade costume with matching accessories and green cymbidiums.

Russell Calkins II of New York served as the groom's best man and ushers were the bride's brother, Tom Roberts of Buffalo Grove, Rod Ryan, Robert Landess, Richard Stemm and Ken Hampson of Des Moines, and Joel Nichols of Minneapolis, Minn.

A reception, held at the Round Table Room of the Arlington Carousal, was followed by a buffet supper for family and out-of-town guests in the home of the bride's mother.

The gallery artists include Margo Bloc of Highland Park, Carol Critchfield of Riverside, Jeannette Kahn of Glenview, Murray Naditch of Chicago, Judy Sowa of Palatine and Mel Torch of Morton Grove.

Margo Bloc works with collage, ink, oil and enamel, however, she is primarily a muralist. Many private collections contain her pieces and they have been reproduced in national magazines such as Better Homes and Gardens and American Home.

Carol Critchfield's work is in the Rental and Sales Gallery at the Art Institute and in the Vincent Price Collection. She enjoys working out-of-doors on location and her paintings show her interest in forms, color pattern, movement and light.

WIDELY RECOGNIZED as a lecturer on various art techniques, as well as for her watercolor collages, Jeannette T. Kahn has her work included in exhibitions at the Art Institute, the Butler Museum of Art in Youngstown and the Birmingham Museum.

This figure represents the combined salaries of the applicants placed through the efforts of our staff members. Our firm is new and comparatively unknown. Our staff is neither unknown nor new to our field. With a total staff of 9 employees we can call upon 120 YEARS of combined experience in Personnel, Management, Manufacturing, and Engineering! Our service is based on several principles derived from these many years of experience:

- 1) Companies not applicants, pay our fees. Over 90% of our business originates with companies having previously dealt with our staff members.
- 2) Being aware of the general reluctance of a job seeker to utilize an "Agency", references attesting to the integrity and quality of our services are available to all interested applicants. These references include companies as well as individuals.
- 3) Our most valuable asset is time. We never waste it; whether it is yours, ours, or a company's.
- 4) Honesty as opposed to Salesmanship seems a much slower way to grow in our business. We prefer the slow and solid pace that honesty seems to afford.
- 5) All advertising shall be specific and factual when representing any given position we are attempting to fill. This will continue to be true despite the obvious temptations to exaggerate in order to attract applicants.
- 6) Both companies and applicants will receive similar responses when reviewed. If we feel our services inadequate to your needs, we will not only indicate this but explain the reasons.

If after examining the premise on which our firm has been established you feel it is to our mutual advantage to talk, we would welcome your interest and contact.

A Light Day At Polls Predicted

A light voter turnout of not more than 200 voters was forecast for Tuesday's election by outgoing Itasca Village Clerk Marcia Forke.

The last election in 1967 drew only about 203 voters, Mrs. Forke said, while not predicting many more in tomorrow's election. Itasca has a voter potential of about 2,400, she said.

Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke, who heads the Action Party, is unopposed.

Nottke and incumbent trustees William Everham, Glenn Goodwin, and Frank Atkinson will be elected to four-year terms.

Trustee Roy Petherbridge will be voted into office to fill an unexpired two-year term. Mrs. Jane Griggs will serve as clerk for the next four years.

Nottke has been village president for six years, having been appointed by the board when former Pres. Paul Boehne resigned. Prior to that he served as a trustee for four years.

NOTTKE, WHO lives at 815 E. North St., is a partner in the Northern Moulding Co., Franklin Park. He is 50 years old.

Everham, of 430 N. Oak St., is a salesman in the Chicago office of Houston Chemical Division of PPG Industries. Elected to the board four years ago, he has lived in Itasca for 15 years.

Goodwin, of 300 N. Cherry St., is a retired construction superintendent for the Anning & Johnson Co., Melrose Park, where he worked for 40 years.

Goodwin, 60, and the oldest trustee, has lived in Itasca for 20 years. He was appointed to the board in 1968.

Atkinson, of 101 E. North St., has been a trustee for four years, presently serving on the legal and finance committee.

A Treasurer at H. G. Fischer & Co., Franklin Park, he has lived in town since 1963.

Petherbridge, a patent lawyer, is a member of the firm of Petherbridge, O'Neill & Aubel, Chicago. A 12-year resident, he resides at 300 Briar Place. He has served on the board for two years.

MRS. GRIGGS, a past president of the Itasca Woman's Club, has been a resident for eight years. She is a former sales coordinator in the regional office in Elk Grove Village for Zinsco Electrical Manufacturing Co.

Balloting Is Tomorrow

Loser?

No, not election candidates; just women's exercise class at Itasca Junior High School, sponsored by the park district.

Bensenville: 5 Seats

A village president, clerk, and three trustees will be elected to four-year terms Tuesday in Bensenville.

Fred Steding, village president, is being challenged by John Varble, a park commissioner.

Steding, of 202 S. Mason St., heads the Civic Party which includes Mrs. Mildred Richter, Fred Hilton, and Robert Riley, all incumbent trustees seeking reelection, and Mrs. Dorothy Bielak for clerk.

Varble, of 7 W. Forestview Road, leads the Action Party. Seeking election as trustee on his ticket are Maynard Unger, David Sloan, and William Bourke. The clerk candidate is Fred Valentino.

MRS. MINA FIVEK is an independent seeking the clerk's job.

Herbert Dierking, village clerk who is retiring, predicted a "large" voter turnout of about 2,800. He said there are 5,000 voters in the village.

Varble, 52, has served as president of the local park district for four of the eight years he has been on the board. A resident for 13 years, he is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

He is a former president of the local Chamber of Commerce and Industry and a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway Commission. He is self-employed in the trophy and awards business in Chicago.

STEDING, 55, is completing four years as president. Previously he served as a trustee for two years and 11 years on the Zoning Board of Appeals.

A graduate of a sales and business college, he has resided in Bensenville for 44 years. He is self-employed with a supply firm serving the city and suburbs.

Following are brief biographical sketches of the candidates:

Mrs. Richter, of 121 Dierks St., has been a trustee for eight years. As chairman of the Street and Storm Drainage Committee, she notes improvements to several main arteries in Bensenville.

She also serves as president of the Greater Bensenville Youth Council (GBYC).

Hilton, of 245 Tioga, has been trustee for eight years and is chairman of the Sewer and Water Committee and Personnel Committee.

A 20-year resident, he has an electrical engineering degree from Lawrence Institute of Technology in Michigan and is manager of engineering services for Motorola Inc., Chicago.

A self-employed insurance broker, he has lived in Bensenville for 10 years and currently resides at 928 Daniel Drive.

Mrs. Bielak, 711 W. Main St., gained business experience as president of the Illinois Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW, president of the local Tioga Post 2149 auxiliary, and president of the VFW's Park District.

The youngest member of the slate on which he is running, 33-year-old Sloan has a degree in economics from Elmhurst College.

He has been active with the Country Club Highlands homeowners in north Elmhurst and now lives at 862 Pamela Drive.

Valentino, head of the Warrant Department of the DuPage County Sheriff's Office, lives at 25 W. Roosevelt Ave.

A 15-year resident of Bensenville, he served in the U. S. Army for 22 years, retiring with the rank of sergeant, and is a former commander of the Bensenville Tioga VFW Post 2149.

Mrs. Fivek, the independent for clerk, is employed in quality control at M & M Mars Candy Co., Oak Park. An evening student at Elmhurst College, she resides at 247 S. Center St.

Area voters turned out in moderate numbers Saturday to vote for their choice of school board candidates.

Voters in Fenton High School Dist. 100 voted incumbent Oscar Sahagun off the school board in favor of newcomers Martin Romme, Jesse Parrish, and Fred Davidson.

Romme, with a vote of 423, and Davidson, with a vote of 423, set the Bensenville school board.

Parrish received 407 votes.

Romme and Parrish won full terms on the board; Davidson will finish a one-year unexpired term.

Sahagun, who was seeking a full term, received 321 votes. Other candidates were Lawrence Kaspari, 390 votes, and Mrs. James Elg, 404 votes.

Mrs. Elg also was defeated in her bid for a seat on the Bensenville Dist. 2 board.

IN BENSENVILLE Elementary school Dist. 2, voters chose, in addition to incumbents Romme, 490 votes, Ray Fass, 468 votes, and Davidson, 520 votes, newcomers Roy "Doc" 419 votes, and Richard Whitlag, 211 votes.

Eight candidates were running for the five positions open. Losers were Mrs. Elg, Polling places are: Precinct 1, Milwaukee Road Women's club, 9 W. Railroad Ave.; Precinct 2, Mohawk School, Franzen and Hillside; Precinct 3, Bensenville Fire Hall, 15 N. York Road; Precinct 4, Bensenville Home, Memorial and York Roads; Precinct 5, Grace Lutheran Church, 950 S. York Road.

The village president will receive $4,500 a year. Village clerk will be paid $3,000 a year. New trustees will receive $25 a meeting.

To Pick Village Leaders

About 700 voters are expected to go to the polls tomorrow to elect a village president, three trustees, and a clerk to fill four-year terms in Bensenville.

Mrs. Dolores Wall, outgoing village clerk, made the estimate. She said Bensenville, with a population of about 2,500, has a voter potential of about 850.

Stanley Haverkamp, incumbent village president and leader of the Forward Party, is seeking another term in office. He is opposed by Robert Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals and leader of the Alert Bensenville Citizens (ABC) slate.

Also seeking election is an independent, P. Brendan O'Dea, of 216 E. Schick Road, a salesman for Lithofold Corp., Chicago.

348 votes, Mrs. Anita McCarthy, 252 votes, and Donald Pieper, 348 votes.

Winners in Bensenville Elementary School Dist. 11 were Mrs. Carol Kaplan, 303 votes, and Jack Richardson, 283 votes.

Both will serve four-year terms.

Unsuccessful candidates were Dean Johnson, 271 votes, and Mrs. Roberta Dimpsey, 108 votes.

Incumbents Robert Roth and Michael DeBowski and newcomer Mrs. Shirley Torpin won voter approval in the election where four candidates were running for three open positions.

Both received 295 votes for a full term, DeBowski won 331 votes for an unexpired term, and Mrs. Torpin pulled in 273 votes for a full term.

Loser John Swanson received 117 votes.

Two incumbents and two newcomers won seats Saturday on the Bensenville Elementary School Dist. 13 board. Returning incumbents are Mrs. Greta Long with 90 votes, and Eugene Hilker with 110 votes.

Newcomers Gary Thompson, 110 votes,

Voters in Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Roselle, and Itasca will go to the polls Tuesday to elect village presidents, trustees, and clerks. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Incumbent village presidents in all towns with the exception of Itasca are being challenged. Only Wilbert Nottke is unopposed.

Full slates of candidates are seeking to dump incumbents in Bensenville and Bloomingdale.

IN BENSENVILLE, John Varble, a park commissioner who has said he will resign from the park board Wednesday, is battling Village Pres. Fred Steding.

Varble has hit hard on the "lack of industry" and the slowness of industry's development in the village. Steding has countered this by emphasizing "selective and orderly growth." He adds that the development of industry is proceeding on schedule.

A side issue in the campaign is the village board's action to reduce the village clerk's salary from $9,000 to $3,000 with the election of a new clerk to replace retiring Herbert Dierking.

Varble has said he does not see why the village has done this. Steding says it had been planned many months ago and was not politically motivated.

Mrs. Dorothy Bielak, Steding's candidate for clerk, and Fred Valentino, Varble's choice for clerk, are both expected to draw votes from members of the Tioga VFW Post 2149, in which they are both active. An independent for clerk is Mrs. Mina Fivek.

IN BLOOMINGDALE, Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp is opposed by Robert Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals. P. Brendan O'Dea is an independent who is stressing community unity.

Haverkamp and Meyers have pledged to control the large developments which appear destined for Bloomingdale within the next few years.

Haverkamp says his slate is filled with proven candidates who have the background and experience to deal with developers.

Meyers maintains that the administration does not have adequate means of enforcing building and zoning codes. Haverkamp has said the village does have strong codes.

IN ROSELLE, Robert Frantz, village president, is seeking election as an independent after failing to be slated by the party caucus.

TRUSTEE candidates for the Forward Party are incumbents Paul Ahlrich and Robert McLaughlin, and newcomer Werner Troesken. The party's clerk candidate is Arlene Malek.

Trustee candidates for the ABC party are Ralph Johnston, James McIntosh, and Frank Johnson. Mrs. Dorothy Gallo is seeking the clerk's job.

Bloomingdale's sole polling place will be at the fire station, 125 Third St. The polls are open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The newly elected trustees will be paid $5 a meeting, the president $250 a year, and the clerk $300 a year.

Brief biographic sketches on the candidates appear inside today's Register.

William Florence, former village president, was slated to run as president along with four incumbent trustees, the incumbent village clerk, and two new candidates for trustees.

Another independent for village president is 67-year-old William Seddon.

Frantz says he stabilized the board after Florence resigned two years ago when three of Florence's trustees were defeated in the 1967 election.

Florence says that nothing of consequence has happened in the village since he resigned.

8 to 9 Hundred May Vote

About eight to nine hundred voters are expected to cast their ballots Tuesday in Roselle's municipal election. Residents will elect a president, clerk, and six trustees.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, village clerk and candidate for re-election was not predicting a heavy voter turnout. She said the voter potential of the village is 1,500.

Robert Frantz, village president, is running as an independent against former village president William Florence, who is heading the United Party. Another independent is William Seddon. They are seeking four-year terms.

Frantz, of 10 W. Bryn Mawr Ave., was elected to the board as a trustee in 1963. He became president when Florence resigned in 1967.

Frantz, 42, is an electronics engineer with Motorola Inc., Chicago. A resident for 11 years, he is a member of the Twinbrook YMCA board of directors.

SEDDON, 67, OF 27 E. Woodworth Place, is a retired railroad engineer for the Milwaukee Road. He has lived in the area for 32 years.

Florence, 49, of 620 Spring St., was elected village president in 1965 along with Frantz, who was a trustee then.

He is head of the art department at East Leyden High School in Franklin Park. He has a master's degree in art. Florence has resided here for 13 years.

The remainder of Florence's slate includes:

Ramon Berg, of 110 W. Granville, who is seeking a two-year term as trustee. An incumbent trustee, he is employed at Illinois Tool Works, Elgin.

Anthony Bonavolonta, of 845 Butternut Court, is another incumbent trustee who is seeking a four-year term. A member of the zoning board of appeals, he is employed as a regional director of Aytch Inc., a Chicago architectural consulting firm.

MRS. BETTY LOU MANN, of 208 Spring Court, is a housewife and volunteer swimming instructor for the local park district. She is an incumbent trustee seeking a two-year term.

Raymond Casperson, of 124 W. Granville, is seeking a four-year term. Also an incumbent trustee, he is employed at Syntronic Instruments Inc., Addison.

Ken Kummer, of 237 W. Central, is employed at Roselle Tool and Die Co., Inc. He is seeking a two-year term.

Joseph Devlin, of 116 W. Maple, is the vice president of industrial sales for the Fred I. Tourtelot Co., Chicago. He is seeking a four-year term.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, the incumbent village clerk, is completing 12 years in office. Seeking the four-year clerk's term, she is a former Roselle librarian. Mrs. Winkler resides at 102 W. Maple.

THE VILLAGE POLLING places are: Dist. 1 residents (north of the Milwaukee Road tracks) vote at the fire station, 4 E. Irving Park Road;

Dist. 2 residents (south of the tracks, north of Turner and Bryn Mawr avenues) vote at the village hall, 31 S. Prospect St.;

Dist. 3 residents (south of Turner and Bryn Mawr avenues) vote at the village garage, 719 S. Rush St.

The village president in Roselle is paid $16 and trustees $10 a meeting. The clerk receives $2,000 a year plus an additional $4,000 for collector.

Village Beat

Make a Choice

by RICHARD BARTON

If you were about to take a dangerous trip through hazardous country and had a choice of two guides, would you let a stranger make the choice for you?

Of course not. You would ask the guides what experience and qualifications each one had. That would be the best way to try to pick the best man for the job.

Voters in Roselle, Itasca, Bensenville and Bloomingdale will have to choose a village leader tomorrow along with a group to aid and advise him.

ITASCA IS the only village where a slate of candidates is running unopposed. The others have at least two slates and some have independents running also.

Unfortunately, many voters will let someone else choose who will lead their village in the next four years through tax decisions, annexations, community improvement or lack of it, and thousands of other matters which affect each person nonetheless.

The very persons who would be first to ask about the guide's qualifications, because they knew their safety was at stake, may not even bother to cast a ballot tomorrow or learn about the candidates.

The elections affect each homeowner, businessman, worker, renter and others through decisions which may raise or lower taxes, improve the streets or make them safe to walk, improve general living conditions and make park and recreation facilities available in the neighborhood.

THE AVERAGE nonvoter is the first one to come screaming to elected officials about rotten conditions or 12-story apartment buildings being constructed in the backyard or the sewer system backing up.

Tomorrow is one of several chances people over 21 have to choose the persons or issues which will make their lives a little more pleasant or a little more miserable.

Letting the other guy make your choices is only hurting yourself.

Richard Barton

I don't know one housewife who would let a complete stranger do her shopping or a husband who would allow a salesman to pick the next family car.

WHY SHOULD it happen at election time?

It was evident that few people were concerned about township elections April 1 by the voter turnout. It ranged from shameful to ridiculous, with the better precincts getting about 50 per cent of the registered voters. Precinct percentages approaching a ridiculous 10 per cent were noted far too often.

I was witness Thursday to a discovery recount where all the ballots are looked at and recounted. There were ballots where only one candidate out of a choice of about 12 were voted for.

THERE WERE actually ballots that were completely blank. Obviously, some people came to the polls to make a good appearance and didn't know or care enough to cast a ballot.

Being an informed, concerned citizen takes some effort which is more than some people care to make.

Maybe someday everyone will become totally apathetic and there will be no candidates or elections.

WILBERT NOTTKE

Apartment Sought

Preliminary plans for construction of two 46-unit condominium apartment buildings at the triangle-shaped property along Irving Park and Bloomingdale roads in Itasca were received favorably last week by the plan commission.

The four-story structures are designed to provide underground parking for tenants and outside parking areas for guests. According to tentative proposals outlined by local architect Glenn Morrison, each building will have a central lobby and be serviced by an elevator.

Morrison said the condominiums would cost between $37,000 and $40,000.

HE INDICATED THAT because of the price range the units would not attract large families with children. He estimated that of the total 92 units planned, only 5 per cent of those living in the condominiums would be attending local schools.

Morrison said that reports on condominiums of this type do not place a burden on the school systems and that, in all probability, it would be families with high school students rather than at the elementary level which would purchase the one, two or three-bedroom units.

He told the commission that at this tentative state it had not been determined what ratio on the number of bedrooms would eventually be constructed.

Ground cover per building is 22,400 square feet. Property area is 340,000 square feet, with 195,400 square feet planned as open area, Morrison reported.

Bright Village Future Seen

by RICHARD BARTON

Wilbert Nottke, running unopposed for Itasca's village presidency, said he looks forward to working another four years with his "very dedicated and energetic board."

Nottke, at 50, is still an energetic and aggressive board member. He has worked with the village board for the last 10 years.

As a partner in Northern Moulding Co. Inc., he has developed two corporations of the lumber and paneling business. He also has other business interests and owns land around the village.

HE HAS HELD a number of appointed and elected offices in local, regional, state and national groups, such as Boy Scouts of America, where he is a national council member.

He is the originator and a charter member of the Itasca Athletic Association, and is active in groups such as the DuPage County Mayors-Managers Conference.

Nottke pledges top priority in the next four years to the Prospect Street-Thorndale Avenue sanitary sewer project to service the International Harvester Co. plant at Illinois Route 53 and Thorndale. The plant will bring thousands of dollars into the village to help keep taxes down, he contends.

TAXES IN ITASCA, however, have gone up to $7.19 per $100 of assessed valuation, making it one of the highest rates in the county due to increasing school taxes.

Nottke sees the best possible population of Itasca at about 12,000 to 14,000, with controlled growth and appeal to all age levels.

"Young and old will be able to find the right place to live in Itasca," he said, "and the village board will direct the growth and improvements to everyone's best interest."

Nottke said he has helped sell some village land to the state for Interstate 90, which will bring $180,000 to the village. This will be used to defer some of the taxes in the coming years for residents, he said.

"ITASCA WILL GET a lake in the Greenbelt area if the village can afford it, or may be able to get the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission to aid in making it a water retention basin," he said.

Itasca has managed to work out boundary agreements with Elk Grove, Roselle and Addison, but can't reach an agreement with Wood Dale, he said, and this disturbs him. Wood Dale thinks there should be a home on every lot in the village, which is "a sign of misplanning or misunderstanding about proper village growth," according to Nottke.

Nottke owns a large tract of land near the disputed boundary between the two villages and said he will control it because it is his.

HE WOULD LIKE to see the intersection of Walnut Street and Irving Park Road improved and made safer, but said the state won't do it because of plans to widen Irving Park Road to four lanes by 1974.

"The water situation is one of our problems because we don't sell enough of it," he said, "which means that if there were more users, the water wouldn't get rusty from standing in the pipes."

There may have to be a bond issue to build water-softening equipment for the village if conditions don't improve, he added.

Overall, Nottke would like to see the community retain its country atmosphere. He recognizes that this will be difficult with the addition of expressways in a few years, but says he will try.

Honors at Augustana

Two Itasca co-eds have been named to the dean's list at Augustana College, Rock Island.

They are Janet Wunder, a freshman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto A. Wunder of 427 Maple Ave., and Marilyn Zoellick, a sophomore, daughter of the Walter A. Zoellicks of 406 Hickory Drive.

A Register Editorial For Mayor

Voters Tuesday will select village presidents, trustees and clerks in Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Itasca and Roselle.

The results will determine what course each village is to take within the next four years.

IN BENSENVILLE incumbent Village Pres Fred Stegling is challenged by John Varble, a park commissioner.

Stegling, in his four years in office, has shown indecisiveness. He has been more a mediator than a strong leader.

Because of its strategic location to O'Hare airport, Bensenville has unlimited potential for development. It requires a strong leader.

Varble has demonstrated strong leadership on the park board, particularly as its president. He has aggressively pursued many projects.

WE RECOMMEND Varble as the candidate most likely to give Bensenville the leadership it needs during the next four years.

It is also important that voters select the best qualified candidates for the board of trustees, which is the chief policy making body in the village.

We recommend keeping Haverkamp in Varble's running mates, along with two trustee candidates on Stegling's ticket: Fred Hilton and Mrs. Mildred Richter.

Our choice for village clerk is Fred Valentini.

IN BLOOMINGDALE, Stanley Haverkamp is opposed by Robert Meyers, a young and aggressive man.

Meyers has sat on the zoning board of appeals in recent months and we believe he should stay there until he gains more experience.

Though he has shown an understanding of some of the problems of the community, the individuals on his slate do not measure up to the qualifications of the incumbents.

We recommend keeping Haverkamp in office, especially at this critical time when Bloomingdale is on the verge of tremendous growth in the next four years.

ROSELLE'S ELECTION race between Robert Frantz and William Florence is a clear case where Frantz has been repudiated by his "fellow" trustees.

There has been a lack of progress in Roselle since the resignation of Florence two years ago. Frantz has been unable to provide the leadership which we believe it needs.

Frantz was appointed mayor two years ago, after Florence resigned from the post in frustration. Florence's resignation was an act of political immaturity.

In recommending him for election over Frantz, we must lean heavily on the judgment of officials who have worked with both mayors, including trustees appointed by Frantz who are running on Florence's ticket.

IN ITASCA, we can give Wilbert Nottke a vote of confidence. He is the only man that we think has the time for the job, for which he has shown increasing competence.

Care to Hit Dump Plan?

Bloomingdale Township and Hanover Park residents will get their chance Wednesday to protest a recent DuPage County Board of Supervisors decision to allow a dumping operation in the township.

A meeting was called by Zoning Committee Chairman C. L. James, assistant supervisor from Downers Grove Township, who said, "Anyone with an objection or comment on the project will be heard."

The county board overruled a recommendation of the DuPage County Zoning Board of Appeals in February and granted a special use permit for dumping of combustible materials.

THE LANDFILL SITE would be near

Barrington and Fisher Roads, west of Bloomingdale and south of Hanover Park.

James said the meeting is to determine if a reconsideration of the county board action will be asked.

The operation would fill low lands in the area with wood and other combustible materials. The fill then would be covered with dirt to avoid fires.

No garbage would be allowed, James said, only solid waste.

The zoning board in its letter of recommendation to the zoning committee said the operation would adversely affect living conditions in the area, and therefore should be denied.

THE LETTER FURTHER said increased traffic congestion would result from trucks going into and coming out of the dump area during the day. Nearby properties would be affected in value and development, the zoning board said.

Neighboring villages have taken a stand against the project.

A Light Day At Polls Predicted

A light voter turnout of not more than 200 voters was forecast for Tuesday's election by outgoing Itasca Village Clerk Marcia Forke.

The last election in 1967 drew only about 203 voters, Mrs. Forke said, while not predicting many more in tomorrow's election. Itasca has a voter potential of about 2,400, she said.

Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke, who heads the Action Party, is unopposed.

Nottke and incumbent trustees William Everham, Glenn Goodwin, and Frank Atkinson will be elected to four-year terms.

Trustee Roy Petherbridge will be voted into office to fill an unexpired two-year term. Mrs. Jane Griggs will serve as clerk for the next four years.

Nottke has been village president for six years, having been appointed by the board when former Pres. Paul Boehne resigned. Prior to that he served as a trustee for four years.

NOTTKE, WHO lives at 815 E. North St., is a partner in the Northern Moulding Co., Franklin Park. He is 50 years old.

Everham, of 430 N. Oak St., is a salesman in the Chicago office of Houston Chemical Division of PPG Industries. Elected to the board four years ago, he has lived in Itasca for 15 years.

Goodwin, of 300 N. Cherry St., is a retired construction superintendent for the Anning & Johnson Co., Melrose Park, where he worked for 40 years.

Goodwin, 60, and the oldest trustee, has lived in Itasca for 20 years. He was appointed to the board in 1968.

Atkinson, of 101 E. North St., has been a trustee for four years, presently serving on the legal and finance committee.

A Treasurer at H. G. Fischer & Co., Franklin Park, he has lived in town since 1963.

Petherbridge, a patent lawyer, is a member of the firm of Petherbridge, O'Neill & Aubel, Chicago. A 12-year resident, he resides at 300 Briar Place. He has served on the board for two years.

MRS. GRIGGS, a past president of the Itasca Woman's Club, has been a resident for eight years. She is a former sales coordinator in the regional office in Elk Grove Village for Zinsco Electrical Manufacturing Co.

Balloting Is Tomorrow

Loser?

No, not election candidates; just women's exercise class at Itasca Junior High School, sponsored by the park district.

Bensenville: 5 Seats

A village president, clerk, and three trustees will be elected to four-year terms Tuesday in Bensenville.

Fred Staging, village president, is being challenged by John Varble, a park commissioner.

Staging, of 202 S. Mason St., heads the Civic Party which includes Mrs. Mildred Richter, Fred Hilton, and Robert Riley, all incumbent trustees seeking reelection, and Mrs. Dorothy Bielak for clerk.

Varble, of 7 W. Forestview Road, leads the Action Party. Seeking election as trustee on his ticket are Maynard Unger, David Sloan, and William Bourke. The clerk candidate is Fred Valentino.

MRS. MINA FIVEK is an independent seeking the clerk's job.

Herbert Dierking, village clerk who is retiring, predicted a "large" voter turnout of about 2,900. He said there are 5,000 voters in the village.

Varble, 52, has served as president of the local park district for four of the eight years he has been on the board. A resident for 13 years, he is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

He is a former president of the local Chamber of Commerce and Industry and a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway Commission. He is self-employed in the trophy and awards business in Chicago.

Voters in Fenton High School Dist. 100 voted incumbent Oscar Sahagun off the school board in favor of newcomers Martin Romme, Jesse Parrish, and Will Davidson.

Romme, with a vote of 496, and Davidson, with a vote of 423, also won seats on the Bensenville Dist. 2 elementary board. Parrish received 407 votes.

Romme and Parrish won full terms on the board; Davidson will finish a two-year unexpired term.

Sahagun, who was seeking a full term, received 321 votes. Other candidates were Lawrence Kaspari, 390 votes, and Mrs. James Elg, 404 votes. Mrs. Elg also was defeated in her bid for a seat on the Bensenville Dist. 2 board.

IN BENSENVILLE Elementary school Dist. 2, voters chose, in addition to incumbents Romme, 490 votes, Ray Basso, 468 votes, and Davidson, 520 votes, newcomers Roy Tyson, 419 votes, and Richard Whiting, 546 votes.

To Pick Village Leaders

About 700 voters are expected to go to the polls tomorrow to elect a village president, three trustees, and a clerk to fill four-year terms in Bloomingdale.

Mrs. Dolores Wall, outgoing village clerk, made the estimate. She said Bloomingdale, with a population of about 2,500, has a voter potential of about 950.

Stanley Haverkamp, incumbent village president and leader of the Forward Party, is seeking another term in office. He is opposed by Robert Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals and leader of the Alert Bloomingdale Citizens (ABC) slate.

Also seeking election is an independent, P. Brendan O'Dea, of 216 E. Schick Road, a salesman for Lithofold Corp., Chicago.

348 votes, Mrs. Anita McCarthy, 252 votes, and Donald Pieper, 348 votes.

Winners in Churchville Elementary School Dist. 2 were Mrs. Carol Kaplan, 393 votes, and Jack Richardson, 283 votes. Both will serve full three-year terms.

Unsuccessful candidates were Dean Richards, 245 votes and Mrs. Roberta Vail, 145 votes. All four candidates were nonincumbents.

A total of 364 voters turned out in the election of board members in Itasca Elementary School Dist. 10.

INCUMBENTS Robert Roth and Michael Debowski and newcomer Mrs. Shirley Torpin won voter approval in the election where four candidates were running for three open positions.

Both received 295 votes for a full term, Debowski won 331 votes for an unexpired term, and Mrs. Torpin pulled in 273 votes for a full term.

Loser John Swanson received 117 votes.

Two incumbents and two newcomers won seats Saturday on the Bloomingdale Elementary School Dist. 13 board. Returning incumbents are Mrs. Greta Long with 80 votes, and Eugene Hiker with 110 votes.

Newcomers Gary Thompson, 110 votes,

Voters in Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Roselle, and Itasca will go to the polls Tuesday to elect village presidents, trustees, and clerks. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Incumbent village presidents in all towns with the exception of Itasca are being challenged. Only Wilbert Nottke is unopposed.

Full slates of candidates are seeking to dump incumbents in Bensenville and Bloomingdale.

IN BENSENVILLE, John Varble, a park commissioner who has said he will resign from the park board Wednesday, is battling Village Pres. Fred Staging.

Varble has hit hard on the "lack of industry" and the slowness of industry's development in the village. Staging has countered this by emphasizing "selective and orderly growth." He adds that the development of industry is proceeding on schedule.

A side issue in the campaign is the village board's action to reduce the village clerk's salary from $9,000 to $3,000 with the election of a new clerk to replace retiring Herbert Dierking.

Varble has said he does not see why the village has done this. Staging says it had been planned many months ago and was not politically motivated.

Mrs. Dorothy Bielak, Staging's candidate for clerk, and Fred Valentino, Varble's choice for clerk, are both expected to draw votes from members of the Tioga VFW Post 2149, in which they are both active. An independent for clerk is Mrs. Mina Fivek.

IN BLOOMINGDALE, Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp is opposed by Robert Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals. P. Brendan O'Dea is an independent who is stressing community unity.

Haverkamp and Meyers have pledged to control the large developments which appear destined for Bloomingdale within the next few years.

Haverkamp says his slate is filled with proven candidates who have the background and experience to deal with developments.

Meyers maintains that the administration does not have adequate means of enforcing building and zoning codes. Haverkamp has said the village does have strong codes.

IN ROSELLE, Robert Frantz, village president, is seeking election as an independent after failing to be slated by the party caucus.

William Florence, former village president, was slated to run as president along with four incumbent trustees, the incumbent village clerk, and two new candidates for trustees.

Another independent for village president is 67-year-old William Seddon.

Frantz says he stabilized the board after Florence resigned two years ago when three of Florence's trustees were defeated in the 1967 election.

Florence says that nothing of consequence has happened in the village since he resigned.

8 to 9 Hundred May Vote

About eight to nine hundred voters are expected to cast their ballots Tuesday in Roselle's municipal election. Residents will elect a president, clerk, and six trustees.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, village clerk and candidate for re-election was not predicting a heavy voter turnout. She said the voter potential of the village is 1,500.

Robert Frantz, village president, is running as an independent against former village president William Florence, who is heading the United Party. Another independent is William Seddon. They are seeking four-year terms.

Frantz, of 10 W. Bryn Mawr Ave., was elected to the board as a trustee in 1965. He became president when Florence resigned in 1967.

Frantz, 42, is an electronics engineer with Motorola Inc., Chicago. A resident for 11 years, he is a member of the Twinbrook YMCA board of directors.

SEDDON, 67, OF 27 E. Wordworth Place, is a retired railroad engineer for the Milwaukee Road. He has lived in the area for 32 years.

Florence, 49, of 620 Spring St., was elected village president in 1965 along with Frantz, who was a trustee then.

He is head of the art department at East Leyden High School in Franklin Park. He has a master's degree in art. Florence has resided here for 13 years.

The remainder of Florence's slate includes:

Ramon Berg, of 110 W. Granville, who is seeking a two-year term as trustee. An incumbent trustee, he is employed at Illinois Tool Works, Elgin.

Anthony Bonavolonta, of 845 Butternut Court, is another incumbent trustee who is seeking a four-year term. A member of the zoning board of appeals, he is employed as a regional director of Aytch Inc., a Chicago architectural consulting firm.

MRS. BETTY LOU MANN, of 208 Spring Court, is a housewife and volunteer swimming instructor for the local park district. She is an incumbent trustee seeking a two-year term.

Raymond Casperson, of 124 W. Granville, is seeking a four-year term. Also an incumbent trustee, he is employed at Syntonic Instruments, Inc., Addison.

Ken Kummer, of 237 W. Central, is employed at Roselle Tool and Die Co., Inc. He is seeking a two-year term.

Joseph Devlin, of 116 W. Maple, is the vice president of industrial sales for the Fred I. Tourtelot Co., Chicago. He is seeking a four-year term.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, the incumbent village clerk, is completing 12 years in office. Seeking the four-year clerk's term, she is a former Roselle librarian. Mrs. Winkler resides at 102 W. Maple.

THE VILLAGE POLLING places are: Dist. 1 residents (north of the Milwaukee Road tracks) vote at the fire station, 4 E. Irving Park Road;

Dist. 2 residents (south of the tracks, north of Turner and Bryn Mawr avenues) vote at the village hall, 31 S. Prospect St.;

Dist. 3 residents (south of Turner and Bryn Mawr avenues) vote at the village garage, 719 S. Rush St.

The village president in Roselle is paid $16 and trustees $10 a meeting. The clerk receives $2,000 a year plus an additional $4,900 for collector.

Village Beat

Make a Choice

by RICHARD BARTON

If you were about to take a dangerous trip through hazardous country and had a choice of two guides, would you let a stranger make the choice for you?

Of course not. You would ask the guides what experience and qualifications each one had. That would be the best way to try to pick the best man for the job.

Voters in Roselle, Itasca, Bensenville and Bloomingdale will have to choose a village leader tomorrow along with a group to aid and advise him.

ITASCA is the only village where a slate of candidates is running unopposed. The others have at least two slates and some have independents running also.

Unfortunately, many voters will let someone else choose who will lead their village in the next four years through tax decisions, annexations, community improvement or lack of it, and thousands of other matters which affect each person nonetheless.

The very persons who would be first to ask about the guide's qualifications, because they knew their safety was at stake, may not even bother to cast a ballot tomorrow or learn about the candidates.

The elections affect each homeowner, businessman, worker, renter and others through decisions which may raise or lower taxes, improve the streets or make them safe to walk, improve general living conditions and make park and recreation facilities available in the neighborhood.

THE AVERAGE nonvoter is the first one to come screaming to elected officials about rotten conditions or 12-story apartment buildings being constructed in the backyard or the sewer system backing up.

Tomorrow is one of several chances people over 21 have to choose the persons or issues which will make their lives a little more pleasant or a little more miserable.

Letting the other guy make your choices is only hurting yourself.

Richard Barton

I don't know one housewife who would let a complete stranger do her shopping or a husband who similarly would allow a salesman to pick the next family car.

WHY SHOULD it happen at election time?

It was evident that few people were concerned about township elections April 1 by the voter turnout. It ranged from shameful to ridiculous, with the better precincts getting about 50 per cent of the registered voters. Precinct percentages approaching a ridiculous 10 per cent were noted far too often.

I was witness Thursday to a discovery recount where all the ballots are looked at and recounted. There were ballots where only one candidate out of a choice of about 12 were voted for.

THERE WERE actually ballots that were completely blank. Obviously, some people came to the polls to make a good appearance and didn't know or care enough to cast a ballot.

Being an informed, concerned citizen takes some effort which is more than some people care to make.

Maybe someday everyone will become totally apathetic and there will be no candidates or elections.

WILBERT NOTTKE

Apartments Sought

Preliminary plans for construction of two 46-unit condominium apartment buildings at the triangle-shaped property along Irving Park and Bloomingdale roads in Itasca were received favorably last week by the plan commission.

The four-story structures are designed to provide underground parking for tenants and outside parking areas for guests. According to tentative proposals outlined by local architect Glenn Morrison, each building will have a central lobby and be serviced by an elevator.

Morrison said the condominiums would cost between $37,000 and $40,000.

HE INDICATED THAT because of the price range the units would not attract large families with children. He estimated that of the total 92 units planned, only 5 per cent of those living in the condominiums would be attending local schools.

Morrison said that reports on condominiums of this type do not place a burden on the school systems and that, in all probability, it would be families with high school students rather than at the elementary level which would purchase the one, two or three-bedroom units.

He told the commission that at this tentative state it had not been determined what ratio on the number of bedrooms would eventually be constructed.

Ground cover per building is 22,400 square feet. Property area is 240,000 square feet, with 195,400 square feet planned as open area, Morrison reported.

HE HAS HELD a number of appointed and elected offices in local, regional, state and national groups, such as Boy Scouts of America, where he is a national council member.

He is the originator and a charter member of the Itasca Athletic Association, and is active in groups such as the DuPage County Mayors-Managers Conference.

Nottke pledges top priority in the next four years to the Prospect Street-Thornedale Avenue sanitary sewer project to service the International Harvester Co. plant at Illinois Route 53 and Thornedale. The plant will bring thousands of dollars into the village to help keep taxes down, he contends.

TAXES IN ITASCA, however, have gone up to $7.19 per $100 of assessed valuation, making it one of the highest rates in the county due to increasing school taxes.

Nottke sees the best possible population of Itasca at about 12,000 to 14,000, with controlled growth and appeal to all age levels.

"Young and old will be able to find the right place to live in Itasca," he said, "and the village board will direct the growth and improvements to everyone's best interest."

Nottke said he has helped sell some village land to the state for Interstate 90, which will bring $180,000 to the village. This will be used to defer some of the taxes in the coming years for residents, he said.

"ITASCA WILL GET a lake in the Greenbelt area if the village can afford it, or may be able to get the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission to aid in making it a water retention basin," he said.

Itasca has managed to work out boundary agreements with Elk Grove, Roselle and Addison, but can't reach an agreement with Wood Dale, he said, and this disturbs him. Wood Dale thinks there should be a home on every lot in the village, which is "a sign of misplanning or misunderstanding about proper village growth," according to Nottke.

Nottke owns a large tract of land near the disputed boundary between the two villages and said he will control it because it is his.

HE WOULD LIKE to see the intersection of Walnut Street and Irving Park Road improved and made safer, but said the state won't do it because of plans to widen Irving Park Road to four lanes by 1974.

"The water situation is one of our problems because we don't sell enough of it," he said, "which means that if there were more users, the water wouldn't get rusty from standing in the pipes."

There may have to be a bond issue to build water-softening equipment for the village if conditions don't improve, he added.

Overall, Nottke would like to see the community retain its country atmosphere. He recognizes that this will be difficult with the addition of expressways in a few years, but says he will try.

Honors at Augustana

Two Itasca co-eds have been named to the dean's list at Augustana College, Rock Island.

They are Janet Wunder, a freshman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto A. Wunder of 427 Maple Ave., and Marilyn Zoellick, a sophomore, daughter of the Walter A. Zoellick's of 408 Hickory Drive.

A Register Editorial

For Mayor

Voters Tuesday will select village presidents, trustees and clerks in Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Itasca and Roselle.

The results will determine what course each village is to take within the next four years.

IN BENSENVILLE incumbent Village Pres. Fred Steging is challenged by John Varble, a park commissioner.

Steging, in his four years in office, has shown indecisiveness. He has been more a mediator than a strong leader.

Because of its strategic location to O'Hare airport, Bensenville has unlimited potential for development. It requires a strong leader.

Varble has demonstrated strong leadership on the park board, particularly as its president. He has aggressively pursued many projects.

WE RECOMMEND Varble as the candidate most likely to give Bensenville the leadership it needs during the next four years.

It is also important that voters select the best qualified candidates for the board of trustees, which is the chief policy making body in the village.

We recommend keeping Haverkamp in Varble's running mates, along with two trustee candidates on Steging's ticket: Fred Hilton and Mrs. Mildred Richter.

Our choice for village clerk is Fred Valentino.

IN BLOOMINGDALE, Stanley Haverkamp is opposed by Robert Meyers, a young and aggressive man.

Meyers has sat on the zoning board of appeals in recent months and we believe he should stay there until he gains more experience.

Though he has shown an understanding of some of the problems of the community, the individuals on his slate do not measure up to the qualifications of the incumbents.

We recommend keeping Haverkamp in office, especially at this critical time when Bloomingdale is on the verge of tremendous growth in the next four years.

ROSELLE'S ELECTION race between Robert Frantz and William Florence is a clear case where Frantz has been repudiated by his "fellow" trustees.

There has been a lack of progress in Roselle since the resignation of Florence two years ago. Frantz has been unable to provide the leadership which we believe it needs.

Frantz was appointed mayor two years ago, after Florence resigned from the post in frustration. Florence's resignation was an act of political immaturity.

In recommending him for election over Frantz, we must lean heavily on the judgment of officials who have worked with both mayors, including trustees appointed by Frantz who are running on Florence's ticket.

IN ITASCA, we can give Wilbert Nottke a vote of confidence. He is the only man that wants or has the time for the job, for which he has shown increasing competence.

Care to Hit Dump Plan?

Bloomingdale Township and Hanover Park residents will get their chance Wednesday to protest a recent DuPage County Board of Supervisors decision to allow a dumping operation in the township.

A meeting was called by Zoning Committee Chairman C. L. James, assistant supervisor from Downers Grove Township, who said, "Anyone with an objection or comment on the project will be heard."

The county board overruled a recommendation of the DuPage County Zoning Board of Appeals in February and granted a special use permit for dumping of combustible materials.

THE LANDFILL SITE would be near

Barrington and Fisher Roads, west of Bloomingdale and south of Hanover Park.

James said the meeting is to determine if a reconsideration of the county board action will be asked.

The operation would fill low lands in the area with wood and other combustible materials. The fill then would be covered with dirt to avoid fires.

No garbage would be allowed, James said, only solid waste.

The zoning board in its letter of recommendation to the zoning committee said the operation would adversely affect living conditions in the area, and therefore should be denied.

THE LETTER FURTHER said increased traffic congestion would result from trucks going into and coming out of the dump area during the day. Nearby properties would be affected in value and development, the zoning board said.

Neighboring villages have taken a stand against the project.

Table tennis will meet in the boys' lobby at 3:45 p.m. each Thursday for four weeks. The class is open to fourth through ninth grade students, Shaffer said. There is no fee, but YMCA membership is required. Maximum enrollment will be 20 students.

Dist. 100 OKs Cut-Backs

The Fenton High School Dist. 100 board approved 13 curtailments Tuesday in an effort to cut back expenditures. Incorporated in the motion was the board's direction in the administration that next year's budget include a minimum curtailment of $140,000.

One curtailment is the reduction of the staff by at least three teachers. James DiOrio, chairman of the board's finance committee, explained there will actually be a 13 per cent staff curtailment on a dollar basis, since the administration will hire no additional staff members, despite an expected increase of at least 100 students next fall.

OTHER CURTAILMENTS include reducing the school day from seven periods to six, dropping one-half of extra-curricular activities, eliminating all educational field trips, and refusing to offer a class with an enrollment of less than 20 students.

Still other curtailments are reduction of the driver education program, elimination of one art position and refusal to allow a student to take more than four solid subjects. In the past, a student was permitted to take five solids.

The board voted to delete three curtailments which were on the original recommendation submitted by representatives from the administration, student body, teaching staff and department heads.

THESE THREE curtailments would have eliminated adult education, reduced commencement expenditures, and assigned teaching duties to the principal and his assistants.

DiOrio said that in reviewing the curtailments, the finance committee attempted to make sure that no one program in the high school suffered to a greater degree than any other.

He said, "We are trying to affect the educational system as lightly as possible."

The curtailments are effective in September.

A Light Day At Polls Predicted

A light voter turnout of not more than 200 voters was forecast for Tuesday's election by outgoing Itasca Village Clerk Marcia Forke.

The last election in 1967 drew only about 200 voters, Mrs. Forke said, while not predicting many more in tomorrow's election. Itasca has a voter potential of about 2,400, she said.

Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke, who heads the Action Party, is unopposed.

Nottke and incumbent trustees William Everham, Glenn Goodwin, and Frank Atkinson will be elected to four-year terms.

Trustee Roy Petherbridge will be voted into office to fill an unexpired two-year term. Mrs. Jane Griggs will serve as clerk for the next four years.

Nottke has been village president for six years, having been appointed by the board when former Pres. Paul Boehne resigned. Prior to that he served as a trustee for four years.

NOTTKE, WHO lives at 815 E. North St., is a partner in the Northern Moulding Co., Franklin Park. He is 50 years old.

Everham, of 430 N. Oak St., is a salesman in the Chicago office of Houston Chemical Division of PPG Industries. Elected to the board four years ago, he has lived in Itasca for 15 years.

Goodwin, of 300 N. Cherry St., is a retired construction superintendent for the Anning & Johnson Co., Melrose Park, where he worked for 40 years.

Goodwin, 60, and the oldest trustee, has lived in Itasca for 20 years. He was appointed to the board in 1968.

Atkinson, of 101 E. North St., has been a trustee for four years, presently serving on the legal and finance committee.

A treasurer at H. G. Fischer & Co., Franklin Park, he has lived in town since 1963.

Petherbridge, a patent lawyer, is a member of the firm of Petherbridge, O'Neill & Aubel, Chicago. A 12-year resident, he resides at 300 Briar Place. He has served on the board for two years.

MRS. GRIGGS, a past president of the Itasca Woman's Club, has been a resident for eight years. She is a former sales coordinator in the regional office in Elk Grove Village for Zinsco Electrical Manufacturing Co.

Balloting Is Tomorrow

Loser?

No, not election candidates; just women's exercise class at Itasca Junior High School, sponsored by the park district.

Bensenville: 5 Seats

A village president, clerk, and three trustees will be elected to four-year terms Tuesday in Bensenville.

Fred Steging, village president, is being challenged by John Varble, a park commissioner.

Steging, of 202 S. Mason St., heads the Civic Party which includes Mrs. Mildred Richter, Fred Hilton, and Robert Riley, all incumbent trustees seeking reelection, and Mrs. Dorothy Bielak for clerk.

Varble, of 7 W. Forestview Road, leads the Action Party. Seeking election as trustees on his ticket are Maynard Unger, David Sloan, and William Bourke. The clerk candidate is Fred Valentino.

MRS. MINA FIVEK is an independent seeking the clerk's job.

Herbert Dierking, village clerk who is retiring, predicted a "large" voter turnout of about 2,000. He said there are 5,000 voters in the village.

Varble, 52, has served as president of the local park district for four of the eight years he has been on the board. A resident for 13 years, he is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

He is a former president of the local Chamber of Commerce and Industry and a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway Commission. He is self-employed in the trophy and awards business in Chicago.

He has been active with the Country Club Highlands homeowners in north Elmhurst and now lives at 852 Pamela Drive.

A 15-year resident of Bensenville, he served in the U. S. Army for 22 years, retiring with the rank of master sergeant, and is a former commander of the Bensenville Tioga VFW Post 2149.

Mrs. Fivek, the independent for clerk, is employed in quality control at M & M Mars Candy Co., Oak Park. An evening student at Elmhurst College, she resides at 247 S. Center St.

Area voters turned out in moderate numbers Saturday to vote for their choice of school board candidates.

Voters in Fenton High School Dist. 100 voted incumbent Oscar Sahagun off the school board in favor of newcomers Martin Romme, Jesse Parrish, and Will Davidson.

Romme, with a vote of 496, and Davidson, with a vote of 423, also won seats on the Bensenville Dist. 2 elementary board. Parrish received 407 votes.

Romme and Parrish won full terms on the board; Davidson will finish a two-year unexpired term.

Sahagun, who was seeking a full term, received 321 votes. Other candidates were Lawrence Kaspari, 390 votes, and Mrs. James Elg, 404 votes. Mrs. Elg also was defeated in her bid for a seat on the Bensenville Dist. 2 board.

IN BENSENVILLE Elementary school Dist. 2, voters chose, in addition to incumbents Romme, 490 votes, Ray Baso, 468 votes, and Davidson, 520 votes, newcomers Roy Tison, 419 votes, and Richard Whiting, 546 votes.

Eight candidates were running for the five positions open. Losers were Mrs. Elg, Polling places are: Precinct 1, Milwaukee Road Women's club, 9 W. Railroad Ave.; Precinct 2, Mohawk School, Franzen and Hillside; Precinct 3, Bensenville Fire Hall, 15 N. York Road; Precinct 4, Bensenville Home, Memorial and York Roads; Precinct 5, Grace Lutheran Church, 950 S. York Road.

The village president will receive $4,500 a year. Village clerk will be paid $3,000 a year. New trustees will receive $25 a meeting.

To Pick Village Leaders

About 700 voters are expected to go to the polls tomorrow to elect a village president, three trustees, and a clerk to fill four-year terms in Bensenville.

Mrs. Dolores Wall, outgoing village clerk, made the estimate. She said Bensenville, with a population of about 2,500, has a voter potential of about 950.

Stanley Haverkamp, incumbent village president and leader of the Forward Party, is seeking another term in office. He is opposed by Robert Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals and leader of the Alert Bensenville Citizens (ABC) slate.

Also seeking election is an independent, P. Brendan O'Dea, of 216 E. Schick Road, a salesman for Lithofold Corp., Chicago.

Voters in Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Roselle, and Itasca will go to the polls Tuesday to elect village presidents, trustees, and clerks. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Incumbent village presidents in all towns with the exception of Itasca are being challenged. Only Wilbert Nottke is unopposed.

Full slates of candidates are seeking to dump incumbents in Bensenville and Bloomingdale.

IN BENSENVILLE, John Varble, a park commissioner who has said he will resign from the park board Wednesday, is battling Village Pres. Fred Steging.

Varble has hit hard on the "lack of industry" and the slowness of industry's development in the village. Steging has countered this by emphasizing "selective and orderly growth." He adds that the development of industry is proceeding on schedule.

A side issue in the campaign is the village board's action to reduce the village clerk's salary from $9,000 to $3,000 with the election of a new clerk to replace retiring Herbert Dierking.

Varble has said he does not see why the village has done this. Steging says it had been planned many months ago and was not politically motivated.

Mrs. Dorothy Bielak, Steging's candidate for clerk, and Fred Valentino, Varble's choice for clerk, are both expected to draw votes from members of the Tioga VFW Post 2149, in which they are both active. An independent for clerk is Mrs. Mina Fivek.

IN BLOOMINGDALE, Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp is opposed by Robert Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals. P. Brendan O'Dea is an independent who is stressing community unity.

Haverkamp and Meyers have pledged to control the large developments which appear destined for Bloomingdale within the next few years.

Haverkamp says his slate is filled with proven candidates who have the background and experience to deal with developments.

Meyers maintains that the administration does not have adequate means of enforcing building and zoning codes. Haverkamp has said the village does have strong codes.

IN ROSELLE, Robert Frantz, village president, is seeking election as an independent after failing to be slated by the party caucus.

Frantz, 49, of 620 Spring St., was elected village president in 1965 along with Frantz, who was a trustee then.

He is head of the art department at East Leyden High School in Franklin Park. He has a master's degree in art. Frantz has resided here for 13 years.

The remainder of Frantz's slate includes:

Ramon Berg, of 110 W. Granville, who is seeking a two-year term as trustee. An incumbent trustee, he is employed at Illinois Tool Works, Elgin.

Anthony Bonavolonta, of 845 Butternut Court, is another incumbent trustee who is seeking a four-year term. A member of the zoning board of appeals, he is employed as a regional director of Avtech Inc., a Chicago architectural consulting firm.

MRS. BETTY LOU MANN, of 208 Spring Court, is a housewife and volunteer swimming instructor for the local park district. She is an incumbent trustee seeking a two-year term.

Raymond Casperson, of 124 W. Granville, is seeking a four-year term. Also an incumbent trustee, he is employed at Syntronic Instruments, Inc., Addison.

Ken Kummer, of 237 W. Central, is employed at Roselle Tool and Die Co., Inc. He is seeking a two-year term.

Joseph Devlin, of 116 W. Maple, is the vice president of industrial sales for the Fred I. Tourtelot Co., Chicago. He is seeking a four-year term.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, the incumbent village clerk, is completing 12 years in office. Seeking the four-year clerk's term, she is a former Roselle librarian. Mrs. Winkler resides at 102 W. Maple.

THE VILLAGE POLLING places are: Dist. 1 residents (north of the Milwaukee Road tracks) vote at the fire station, 4 E. Irving Park Road;

Dist. 2 residents (south of the tracks, north of Turner and Bryn Mawr avenues) vote at the village hall, 31 S. Prospect St.;

Dist. 3 residents (south of Turner and Bryn Mawr avenues) vote at the village garage, 719 S. Rush St.

The village president in Roselle is paid $16 and trustees $10 a meeting. The clerk receives $2,000 a year plus an additional $4,800 for collector.

William Florence, former village president, was slated to run as president along with four incumbent trustees, the incumbent village clerk, and two new candidates for trustees.

Another independent for village president is 67-year-old William Seddon.

Frantz say he stabilized the board after Florence resigned two years ago when three of Florence's trustees were defeated in the 1967 election.

Florence says that nothing of consequence has happened in the village since he resigned.

8 to 9 Hundred May Vote

About eight to nine hundred voters are expected to cast their ballots Tuesday in Roselle's municipal election. Residents will elect a president, clerk, and six trustees.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, village clerk and candidate for re-election was not predicting a heavy voter turnout. She said the voter potential of the village is 1,500.

Robert Frantz, village president, is running as an independent against former village president William Florence, who is heading the United Party. Another independent is William Seddon. They are seeking four-year terms.

Frantz, of 10 W. Bryn Mawr Ave., was elected to the board as a trustee in 1965. He became president when Florence resigned in 1967.

Frantz, 42, is an electronics engineer with Motorola Inc., Chicago. A resident for 11 years, he is a member of the Twinbrook YMCA board of directors.

SEDDON, 67, OF 27 E. Woodworth Place, is a retired railroad engineer for the Milwaukee Road. He has lived in the area for 32 years.

Ken Kummer, of 237 W. Central, is employed at Roselle Tool and Die Co., Inc. He is seeking a two-year term.

Joseph Devlin, of 116 W. Maple, is the vice president of industrial sales for the Fred I. Tourtelot Co., Chicago. He is seeking a four-year term.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, the incumbent village clerk, is completing 12 years in office. Seeking the four-year clerk's term, she is a former Roselle librarian. Mrs. Winkler resides at 102 W. Maple.

Village Beat

Make a Choice

by RICHARD BARTON

If you were about to take a dangerous trip through hazardous country and had a choice of two guides, would you let a stranger make the choice for you?

Of course not. You would ask the guides what experience and qualifications each one had. That would be the best way to try to pick the best man for the job.

Voters in Roselle, Itasca, Bensenville and Bloomingdale will have to choose a village leader tomorrow along with a group to aid and advise him.

ITASCA IS the only village where a slate of candidates is running unopposed. The others have at least two slates and some have independents running also.

Unfortunately, many voters will let someone else choose who will lead their village in the next four years through tax decisions, annexations, community improvement or lack of it, and thousands of other matters which affect each person nonetheless.

The very persons who would be first to ask about the guide's qualifications, because they knew their safety was at stake, may not even bother to cast a ballot tomorrow or learn about the candidates.

The elections affect each homeowner, businessman, worker, renter and others through decisions which may raise or lower taxes, improve the streets or make them safe to walk, improve general living conditions and make park and recreation facilities available in the neighborhood.

THE AVERAGE nonvoter is the first one to come screaming to elected officials about rotten conditions or 12-story apartment buildings being constructed in the backyard or the sewer system backing up.

Tomorrow is one of several chances people over 21 have to choose the persons or issues which will make their lives a little more pleasant or a little more miserable.

Letting the other guy make your choices is only hurting yourself.

Richard Barton

I don't know one housewife who would let a complete stranger do her shopping or a husband who similarly would allow a salesman to pick the next family car.

WHY SHOULD it happen at election time?

It was evident that few people were concerned about township elections April 1 by the voter turnout. It ranged from shameful to ridiculous, with the better precincts getting about 50 per cent of the registered voters. Precinct percentages approaching a ridiculous 10 per cent were noted far too often.

I was witness Thursday to a discovery recount where all the ballots are looked at and recounted. There were ballots where only one candidate out of a choice of about 12 were voted for.

THERE WERE actually ballots that were completely blank. Obviously, some people came to the polls to make a good appearance and didn't know or care enough to cast a ballot.

Being an informed, concerned citizen takes some effort which is more than some people care to make.

Maybe someday everyone will become totally apathetic and there will be no candidates or elections.

Apartments Sought

Preliminary plans for construction of two 44-unit condominium apartment buildings at the triangle-shaped property along Irving Park and Bloomingdale roads in Itasca were received favorably last week by the plan commission.

The four-story structures are designed to provide underground parking for tenants and outside parking areas for guests. According to tentative proposals outlined by local architect Glenn Morrison, each building will have a central lobby and be serviced by an elevator.

Morrison said the condominiums would cost between $37,000 and $40,000.

HE INDICATED THAT because of the price range the units would not attract large families with children. He estimated that of the total 92 units planned, only 5 per cent of those living in the condominiums would be attending local schools.

Morrison said that reports on condominiums of this type do not place a burden on the school systems and that, in all probability, it would be families with high school students rather than at the elementary level which would purchase the one, two or three-bedroom units.

He told the commission that at this tentative state it had not been determined what ratio on the number of bedrooms would eventually be constructed.

Ground cover per building is 22,400 square feet. Property area is 240,000 square feet, with 195,400 square feet planned as open area, Morrison reported.

Dist. 100 OKs Cut-Backs

The Fenton High School Dist. 100 board approved 13 curtailments Tuesday in an effort to cut back expenditures. Incorporated in the motion was the board's decision in the administration that next year's budget include a minimum curtailment of $140,000.

One curtailment is the reduction of the staff by at least three teachers. James DiOrto, chairman of the board's finance committee, explained there will actually be a 13 per cent staff curtailment on a dollar basis, since the administration will hire no additional staff members, despite an expected increase of at least 100 students next fall.

OTHER CURTAILMENTS include reducing the school day from seven periods to six, dropping one-half of extra-curricular activities, eliminating all educational field trips, and refusing to offer a class with an enrollment of less than 20 students.

Still other curtailments are reduction of

Bright Village Future Seen

by RICHARD BARTON

Wilbert Nottke, running unopposed for Itasca's village presidency, said he looks forward to working another four years with his "very dedicated and energetic board."

Nottke, at 50, is still an energetic and aggressive board member. He has worked with the village board for the last 10 years.

As a partner in Northern Moulding Co. Inc., he has developed two corporations of the lumber and paneling business. He also has other business interests and owns land around the village.

HE HAS HELD a number of appointed and elected offices in local, regional, state and national groups, such as Boy Scouts of America, where he is a national council member.

He is the originator and a charter member of the Itasca Athletic Association, and is active in groups such as the DuPage County Mayors-Managers Conference.

Nottke pledges top priority in the next four years to the Prospect Street-Thornedale Avenue sanitary sewer project to service the International Harvester Co. plant at Illinois Route 53 and Thornedale. The plant will bring thousands of dollars into the village to help keep taxes down, he contends.

TAXES IN ITASCA, however, have gone up to $7.19 per $100 of assessed valuation, making it one of the highest rates in the county due to increasing school taxes.

Nottke sees the best possible population of Itasca at about 12,000 to 14,000, with controlled growth and appeal to all age levels.

"Young and old will be able to find the right place to live in Itasca," he said, "and the village board will direct the growth and improvements to everyone's best interest."

Nottke said he has helped sell some village land to the state for Interstate 90, which will bring $180,000 to the village. This will be used to defer some of the taxes in the coming years for residents, he said.

"ITASCA WILL GET a lake in the Greenbelt area if the village can afford it, or may be able to get the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission to aid in making it a water retention basin," he said.

Itasca has managed to work out boundary agreements with Elk Grove, Roselle and Addison, but can't reach an agreement with Wood Dale, he said, and this disturbs him. Wood Dale thinks there should be a home on every lot in the village, which is "a sign of misplanning or misunderstanding about proper village growth," according to Nottke.

Nottke owns a large tract of land near the disputed boundary between the two villages and said he will control it because it is his.

HE WOULD LIKE to see the intersection of Walnut Street and Irving Park Road improved and made safer, but said the state won't do it because of plans to widen Irving Park Road to four lanes by 1974.

"The water situation is one of our problems because we don't sell enough of it," he said, "which means that if there were more users, the water wouldn't get rusty from standing in the pipes."

There may have to be a bond issue to build water-softening equipment for the village if conditions don't improve, he added.

Overall, Nottke would like to see the community retain its country atmosphere. He recognizes that this will be difficult with the addition of expressways in a few years, but says he will try.

Honors at Augustana

Two Itasca co-eds have been named to the dean's list at Augustana College, Rock Island.

They are Janet Wunder, a freshman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto A. Wunder of 427 Maple Ave., and Marilyn Zoellick, a sophomore, daughter of the Walter A. Zoellick's of 408 Hickory Drive.

A Register Editorial
For Mayor

Voters Tuesday will select village presidents, trustees and clerks in Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Itasca and Roselle.

The results will determine what course each village is to take within the next four years.

IN BENSENVILLE incumbent Village Pres. Fred Steging is challenged by John Varble, a park commissioner.

Steging, in his four years in office, has shown indecisiveness. He has been more a mediator than a strong leader.

Because of its strategic location to O'Hare airport, Bensenville has unlimited potential for development. It requires a strong leader.

Varble has demonstrated strong leadership on the park board, particularly as its president. He has aggressively pursued many projects.

WE RECOMMEND Varble as the candidate most likely to give Bensenville the leadership it needs during the next four years.

It is also important that voters select the best qualified candidates for the board of trustees, which is the chief policy making body in the village.

We recommend keeping Haverkamp in Varble's running mates, along with two trustee candidates on Steging's ticket: Fred Hilton and Mrs. Mildred Richter.

Our choice for village clerk is Fred Valentino.

IN BLOOMINGDALE, Stanley Haverkamp is opposed by Robert Meyers, a young and aggressive man.

Meyers has sat on the zoning board of appeals in recent months and we believe he should stay there until he gains more experience.

Though he has shown an understanding of some of the problems of the community, the individuals on his slate do not measure up to the qualifications of the incumbents.

We recommend keeping Haverkamp in office, especially at this critical time when Bloomingdale is on the verge of tremendous growth in the next four years.

ROSELLE'S ELECTION race between Robert Frantz and William Florence is a clear case where Frantz has been repudiated by his "fellow" trustees.

There has been a lack of progress in Roselle since the resignation of Florence two years ago. Frantz has been unable to provide the leadership which we believe it needs.

Frantz was appointed mayor two years ago, after Florence resigned from the post in frustration. Florence's resignation was an act of political immaturity.

In recommending him for election over Frantz, we must lean heavily on the judgment of officials who have worked with both mayors, including trustees appointed by Frantz who are running on Florence's ticket.

IN ITASCA, we can give Wilbert Nottke a vote of confidence. He is the only man that wants or has the time for the job, for which he has shown increasing competence.

Care to Hit Dump Plan?

Bloomingdale Township and Hanover Park residents will get their chance Wednesday to protest a recent DuPage County Board of Supervisors decision to allow a dumping operation in the township.

A meeting was called by Zoning Committee Chairman C. L. James, assistant supervisor from Downers Grove Township who said, "Anyone with an objection or comment on the project will be heard."

The county board overruled a recommendation of the DuPage County Zoning Board of Appeals in February and granted a special use permit for dumping of combustible materials.

THE LANDFILL SITE would be near

Barrington and Fisher Roads, west of Bloomingdale and south of Hanover Park.

James said the meeting is to determine if a reconsideration of the county board action will be asked.

The operation would fill low lands in the area with wood and other combustible materials. The fill then would be covered with dirt to avoid fires.

No garbage would be allowed, James said, only solid waste.

The zoning board in its letter of recommendation to the zoning committee said the operation would adversely affect living conditions in the area, and therefore should be denied.

THE LETTER FURTHER said increased traffic congestion would result from trucks going into and coming out of the dump area during the day. Nearby properties would be affected in value and development, the zoning board said.

Neighboring villages have taken a stand against the project.

A Light Day At Polls Predicted

A light voter turnout of not more than 200 voters was forecast for Tuesday's election by outgoing Itasca Village Clerk Marcia Forke.

The last election in 1967 drew only about 203 voters, Mrs. Forke said, while not predicting many more in tomorrow's election. Itasca has a voter potential of about 2,400, she said.

Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke, who heads the Action Party, is unopposed.

Nottke and incumbent trustees William Everham, Glenn Goodwin, and Frank Atkinson will be elected to four-year terms.

Trustee Roy Petherbridge will be voted into office to fill an unexpired two-year term. Mrs. Jane Griggs will serve as clerk for the next four years.

Nottke has been village president for six years, having been appointed by the board when former Pres. Paul Boehme resigned. Prior to that he served as a trustee for four years.

NOTTKE, WHO lives at 815 E. North St., is a partner in the Northern Moulding Co., Franklin Park. He is 50 years old.

Everham, of 430 N. Oak St., is a salesman in the Chicago office of PPG Industries Chemical Division of PPG Industries. Elected to the board four years ago, he has lived in Itasca for 15 years.

Goodwin, of 300 N. Cherry St., is a retired construction superintendent for the Anning & Johnson Co., Melrose Park, where he worked for 40 years.

Goodwin, 60, and the oldest trustee, has lived in Itasca for 20 years. He was appointed to the board in 1968.

Atkinson, of 101 E. North St., has been a trustee for four years, presently serving on the legal and finance committee.

A Treasurer at H. G. Fischer & Co., Franklin Park, he has lived in town since 1963.

Petherbridge, a patent lawyer, is a member of the firm of Petherbridge, O'Neill & Aubel, Chicago. A 12-year resident, he resides at 300 Briar Place. He has served on the board for two years.

MRS. GRIGGS, a past president of the Itasca Woman's Club, has been a resident for eight years. She is a former sales coordinator in the regional office in Elk Grove Village for Zinco Electrical Manufacturing Co.

Balloting Is Tomorrow

Loser?

No, not election candidates; just women's exercise class at Itasca Junior High School, sponsored by the park district.

Bensenville: 5 Seats

A village president, clerk, and three trustees will be elected to four-year terms Tuesday in Bensenville.

Fred Steging, village president, is being challenged by John Varble, a park commissioner.

Steging, of 202 S. Mason St., heads the Civic Party which includes Mrs. Mildred Richter, Fred Hilton, and Robert Riley, all incumbent trustees seeking reelection, and Mrs. Dorothy Bielak for clerk.

Varble, of 7 W. Forestview Road, leads the Action Party. Seeking election as trustees on his ticket are Maynard Unger, David Sloan, and William Bourke. The clerk candidate is Fred Valentino.

MRS. MINA FIVEK is an independent seeking the clerk's job.

Herbert Dierking, village clerk who is retiring, predicted a "large" voter turnout of about 2,800. He said there are 6,000 voters in the village.

Varble, 52, has served as president of the local park district for four of the eight years he has been on the board. A resident for 13 years, he is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

He is a former president of the local Chamber of Commerce and Industry and a member of the Illinois State Toll Highway Commission. He is self-employed in the trophy and awards business in Chicago.

STEGING, 55, is completing four years as president. Previously he served as a trustee for two years and 11 years on the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Area voters turned out in moderate numbers Saturday to vote for their choice of school board candidates.

Voters in Fenton High School Dist. 100 voted incumbent Oscar Sahagun off the school board in favor of newcomers Martin Romme, Jesse Parrish, and Will Davidson.

Romme, with a vote of 496, and Davidson, with a vote of 423, also won seats on the Bensenville Dist. 2 elementary board. Parrish received 407 votes.

Romme and Parrish won full terms on the board; Davidson will finish a two-year unexpired term.

Sahagun, who was seeking a full term, received 321 votes. Other candidates were Lawrence Kaspari, 390 votes, and Mrs. James Elg, 404 votes. Mrs. Elg also was defeated in her bid for a seat on the Bensenville Dist. 2 board.

IN BENSENVILLE Elementary school Dist. 2, voters chose, in addition to incumbents Romme, 490 votes, Ray Basso, 468 votes, and Davidson, 520 votes, newcomers Roy Tyson, 419 votes, and Richard Whiting, 546 votes.

Eight candidates were running for the five positions open. Losers were Mrs. Elg,

The village president will receive $4,500 a year. Village clerk will be paid $3,000 a year. New trustees will receive $25 a meeting.

To Pick Village Leaders

About 700 voters are expected to go to the polls tomorrow to elect a village president, three trustees, and a clerk to fill four-year terms in Bloomingdale.

Mrs. Dolores Wall, outgoing village clerk, made the estimate. She said Bloomingdale, with a population of about 2,500, has a voter potential of about 950.

Stanley Haverkamp, incumbent village president and leader of the Forward Party, is seeking another term in office. He is opposed by Robert Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals and leader of the Alert Bloomingdale Citizens (ABC) slate.

Also seeking election is an independent, P. Brendan O'Dea, of 216 E. Schick Road, a salesman for Lithofold Corp., Chicago.

348 votes, Mrs. Anita McCarthy, 252 votes, and Donald Pieper, 348 votes.

Winners in Churchville Elementary School Dist. 2 were Mrs. Carol Kaplan, 303 votes, and Jack Richardson, 283 votes. Both will serve full three-year terms.

Unsuccessful candidates were Dean Richards, 245 votes and Mrs. Roberta Vail, 145 votes. All four candidates were nonincumbents.

A total of 364 voters turned out in the election of board members in Itasca Elementary School Dist. 10.

INCUMBENTS Robert Roth and Michael Debowksi and newcomer Mrs. Shirley Torpin won voter approval in the election where four candidates were running for three open positions.

Both received 295 votes for a full term, Debowksi won 331 votes for an unexpired term, and Mrs. Torpin pulled in 273 votes for a full term.

Loser John Swanson received 117 votes.

Two incumbents and two newcomers won seats Saturday on the Bloomingdale Elementary School Dist. 13 board. Returning incumbents are Mrs. Greta Long with 80 votes, and Eugene Hilker with 110 votes.

Newcomers Gary Thompson, 110 votes,

Voters in Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Roselle, and Itasca will go to the polls Tuesday to elect village presidents, trustees, and clerks. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Incumbent village presidents in all towns with the exception of Itasca are being challenged. Only Wilbert Nottke is unopposed.

Full slates of candidates are seeking to dump incumbents in Bensenville and Bloomingdale.

IN BENSENVILLE, John Varble, a park commissioner who has said he will resign from the park board Wednesday, is battling Village Pres. Fred Steging.

Varble has hit hard on the "lack of industry" and the slowness of industry's development in the village. Steging has countered this by emphasizing "selective and orderly growth." He adds that the development of industry is proceeding on schedule.

A side issue in the campaign is the village board's action to reduce the village clerk's salary from $9,000 to $3,000 with the election of a new clerk to replace retiring Herbert Dierking.

Varble has said he does not see why the village has done this. Steging says it had been planned many months ago and was not politically motivated.

Mrs. Dorothy Bielak, Steging's candidate for clerk, and Fred Valentino, Varble's choice for clerk, are both expected to draw votes from members of the Tioga VFW Post 2149, in which they are both active. An independent for clerk is Mrs. Mina Fivek.

IN BLOOMINGDALE, Village Pres. Stanley Haverkamp is opposed by Robert Meyers, a member of the zoning board of appeals. P. Brendan O'Dea is an independent who is stressing community unity.

Haverkamp and Meyers have pledged to control the large developments which appear destined for Bloomingdale within the next few years.

Haverkamp says his slate is filled with proven candidates who have the background and experience to deal with developers.

Meyers maintains that the administration does not have adequate means of enforcing building and zoning codes. Haverkamp has said the village does have strong codes.

IN ROSELLE, Robert Frantz, village president, is seeking election as an independent after failing to be slated by the party caucus.

William Florence, former village president, was slated to run as president along with four incumbent trustees, the incumbent village clerk, and two new candidates for trustees.

Another independent for village president is 67-year-old William Seddon.

Frantz says he stabilized the board after Florence resigned two years ago when three of Florence's trustees were defeated in the 1967 election.

Florence says that nothing of consequence has happened in the village since he resigned.

8 to 9 Hundred May Vote

About eight to nine hundred voters are expected to cast their ballots Tuesday in Roselle's municipal election. Residents will elect a president, clerk, and six trustees.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, village clerk and candidate for re-election was not predicting a heavy voter turnout. She said the voter potential of the village is 1,500.

Robert Frantz, village president, is running as an independent against former village president William Florence, who is heading the United Party. Another independent is William Seddon. They are seeking four-year terms.

Frantz, of 10 W. Bryn Mawr Ave., was elected to the board as a trustee in 1965. He became president when Florence resigned in 1967.

Frantz, 42, is an electronics engineer with Motorola Inc., Chicago. A resident for 11 years, he is a member of the Twinbrook YMCA board of directors.

SEDDON, 67, OF 27 E. Woodworth Place, is a retired railroad engineer for the Milwaukee Road. He has lived in the area for 32 years.

Florence, 49, of 620 Spring St., was elected village president in 1965 along with Frantz, who was a trustee then.

He is head of the art department at East Leyden High School in Franklin Park. He has a master's degree in art. Florence has resided here for 13 years.

The remainder of Florence's slate includes:

Ramon Berg, of 110 W. Granville, who is seeking a two-year term as trustee. An incumbent trustee, he is employed at Illinois Tool Works, Elgin.

Anthony Bonavolonta, of 845 Butternut Court, is another incumbent trustee who is seeking a four-year term. A member of the zoning board of appeals, he is employed as a regional director of Avtech Inc., a Chicago architectural consulting firm.

MRS. BETTY LOU MANN, of 208 Spring Court, is a housewife and volunteer swimming instructor for the local park district. She is an incumbent trustee seeking a two-year term.

Raymond Casperson, of 124 W. Granville, is seeking a four-year term. Also an incumbent trustee, he is employed at Syntron Instruments Inc., Addison.

Ken Kummer, of 237 W. Central, is employed at Roselle Tool and Die Co., Inc. He is seeking a two-year term.

Joseph Devlin, of 116 W. Maple is the vice president of industrial sales for the Fred I. Tourtelot Co., Chicago. He is seeking a four-year term.

Mrs. Mildred Winkler, the incumbent village clerk, is completing 12 years in office. Seeking the four-year clerk's term, she is a former Roselle librarian. Mrs. Winkler resides at 102 W. Maple.

THE VILLAGE POLLING places are: Dist. 1 residents (north of the Milwaukee Road tracks) vote at the fire station, 4 E. Irving Park Road;

Dist. 2 residents (south of the tracks, north of Turner and Bryn Mawr avenues) vote at the village hall, 31 S. Prospect St.;

Dist. 3 residents (south of Turner and Bryn Mawr avenues) vote at the village garage, 719 S. Rush St.

The village president in Roselle is paid $16 and trustees $10 a meeting. The clerk receives $2,000 a year plus an additional $4,000 for collector.

Village Beat

Make a Choice

by RICHARD BARTON

If you were about to take a dangerous trip through hazardous country and had a choice of two guides, would you let a stranger make the choice for you?

Of course not. You would ask the guides what experience and qualifications each one had. That would be the best way to try to pick the best man for the job.

Voters in Roselle, Itasca, Bensenville and Bloomingdale will have to choose a village leader tomorrow along with a group to aid and advise him.

ITASCA is the only village where a slate of candidates is running unopposed. The others have at least two slates and some have independents running also.

Unfortunately, many voters will let someone else choose who will lead their village in the next four years through tax decisions, annexations, community improvement or lack of it, and thousands of other matters which affect each person nonetheless.

The very persons who would be first to ask about the guide's qualifications, because they knew their safety was at stake, may not even bother to cast a ballot tomorrow or learn about the candidates.

The elections affect each homeowner, businessman, worker, renter and others through decisions which may raise or lower taxes, improve the streets or make them safe to walk, improve general living conditions and make park and recreation facilities available in the neighborhood.

THE AVERAGE nonvoter is the first one to come screaming to elected officials about rotten conditions or 12-story apartment buildings being constructed in the backyard or the sewer system backing up.

Tomorrow is one of several chances people over 21 have to choose the persons or issues which will make their lives a little more pleasant or a little more miserable.

Letting the other guy make your choices is only hurting yourself.

Richard Barton

I don't know one housewife who would let a complete stranger do her shopping or a husband who similarly would allow a salesman to pick the next family car.

WHY SHOULD it happen at election time?

It was evident that few people were concerned about township elections April 1 by the voter turnout. It ranged from shameful to ridiculous, with the better precincts getting about 50 per cent of the registered voters. Precinct percentages approaching a ridiculous 10 per cent were noted far too often.

I was witness Thursday to a discovery recount where all the ballots are looked at and recounted. There were ballots where only one candidate out of a choice of about 12 were voted for.

THERE WERE actually ballots that were completely blank. Obviously, some people came to the polls to make a good appearance and didn't know or care enough to cast a ballot.

Being an informed, concerned citizen takes some effort which is more than some people care to make.

Maybe someday everyone will become totally apathetic and there will be no candidates or elections.

Apartments Sought

Preliminary plans for construction of two 46-unit condominium apartment buildings at the triangle-shaped property along Irving Park and Bloomingdale roads in Itasca were received favorably last week by the plan commission.

The four-story structures are designed to provide underground parking for tenants and outside parking areas for guests. According to tentative proposals outlined by local architect Glenn Morrison, each building will have a central lobby and be serviced by an elevator.

Morrison said the condominiums would cost between $37,000 and $40,000.

HE INDICATED THAT because of the price range the units would not attract large families with children. He estimated that of the total 92 units planned, only 5 per cent of those living in the condominiums would be attending local schools.

Morrison said that reports on condominiums of this type do not place a burden on the school systems and that, in all probability, it would be families with high school students rather than at the elementary level which would purchase the one, two or three-bedroom units.

He told the commission that at this tentative state it had not been determined what ratio on the number of bedrooms would eventually be constructed.

Ground cover per building is 22,400 square feet. Property area is 240,000 square feet, with 195,400 square feet planned as open area, Morrison reported.

Bright Village Future Seen

by RICHARD BARTON

Wilbert Nottke, running unopposed for Itasca's village presidency, said he looks forward to working another four years with his "very dedicated and energetic board."

Nottke, at 50, is still an energetic and aggressive board member. He has worked with the village board for the last 10 years.

As a partner in Northern Moulding Co. Inc., he has developed two corporations of the lumber and paneling business. He also has other business interests and owns land around the village.

HE HAS HELD a number of appointed and elected offices in local, regional, state and national groups, such as Boy Scouts of America, where he is a national council member.

He is the originator and a charter member of the Itasca Athletic Association, and is active in groups such as the DuPage County Mayors-Managers Conference.

Nottke pledges top priority in the next four years to the Prospect Street-Thorn-dale Avenue sanitary sewer project to service the International Harvester Co. plant at Illinois Route 53 and Thorn-dale. The plant will bring thousands of dollars into the village to help keep taxes down, he contends.

TAXES IN ITASCA, however, have gone up to $7.19 per $100 of assessed valuation, making it one of the highest rates in the county due to increasing school taxes.

Nottke sees the best possible population of Itasca at about 12,000 to 14,000, with controlled growth and appeal to all age levels.

"Young and old will be able to find the right place to live in Itasca," he said, "and the village board will direct the growth and improvements to everyone's best interest."

Nottke said he has helped sell some village land to the state for Interstate 90, which will bring $180,000 to the village. This will be used to defer some of the taxes in the coming years for residents, he said.

"ITASCA WILL GET a lake in the Greenbelt area if the village can afford it, or may be able to get the DuPage County Forest Preserve Commission to aid in making it a water retention basin," he said.

Itasca has managed to work out boundary agreements with Elk Grove, Roselle and Addison, but can't reach an agreement with Wood Dale, he said, and this disturbs him. Wood Dale thinks there should be a home on every lot in the village, which is "a sign of misplanning or misunderstanding about proper village growth," according to Nottke.

Nottke owns a large tract of land near the disputed boundary between the two villages and said he will control it because it is his.

HE WOULD LIKE to see the intersection of Walnut Street and Irving Park Road improved and made safer, but said the state won't do it because of plans to widen Irving Park Road to four lanes by 1974.

"The water situation is one of our problems because we don't sell enough of it," he said, "which means that if there were more users, the water wouldn't get rusty from standing in the pipes."

There may have to be a bond issue to build water-softening equipment for the village if conditions don't improve, he added.

Overall, Nottke would like to see the community retain its country atmosphere. He recognizes that this will be difficult with the addition of expressways in a few years, but says he will try.

A Register Editorial

For Mayor

Voters Tuesday will select village presidents, trustees and clerks in Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Itasca and Roselle.

The results will determine what course each village is to take within the next four years.

IN BENSENVILLE incumbent Village Pres. Fred Staging is challenged by John Varble, a park commissioner.

Staging, in his four years in office, has shown indecisiveness. He has been more a mediator than a strong leader.

Because of its strategic location to O'Hare airport, Bensenville has unlimited potential for development. It requires a strong leader.

Varble has demonstrated strong leadership on the park board, particularly as its president. He has aggressively pursued many projects.

WE RECOMMEND Varble as the candidate most likely to give Bensenville the leadership it needs during the next four years.

It is also important that voters select the best qualified candidates for the board of trustees, which is the chief policy making body in the village.

We recommend keeping Haverkamp in Varble's running mates, along with two trustee candidates on Staging's ticket: Fred Hilton and Mrs. Mildred Richter.

Our choice for village clerk is Fred Valentino.

IN BLOOMINGDALE, Stanley Haverkamp is opposed by Robert Meyers, a young and aggressive man.

Meyers has sat on the zoning board of appeals in recent months and we believe he should stay there until he gains more experience.

Though he has shown an understanding of some of the problems of the community, the individuals on his slate do not measure up to the qualifications of the incumbents.

We recommend keeping Haverkamp in office, especially at this critical time when Bloomingdale is on the verge of tremendous growth in the next four years.

ROSELLE'S ELECTION race between Robert Frantz and William Florence is a clear case where Frantz has been repudiated by his "fellow" trustees.

There has been a lack of progress in Roselle since the resignation of Florence two years ago. Frantz has been unable to provide the leadership which we believe it needs.

Frantz was appointed mayor two years ago, after Florence resigned from the post in frustration. Florence's resignation was an act of political immaturity.

In recommending him for election over Frantz, we must lean heavily on the judgment of officials who have worked with both mayors, including trustees appointed by Frantz who are running on Florence's ticket.

IN ITASCA, we can give Wilbert Nottke a vote of confidence. He is the only man that wants or has the time for the job, for which he has shown increasing competence.

Care to Hit Dump Plan?

Bloomingdale Township and Hanover Park residents will get their chance Wednesday to protest a recent DuPage County Board of Supervisors decision to allow a dumping operation in the township.

A meeting was called by Zoning Committee Chairman C. L. James, assistant supervisor from Downers Grove Township, who said, "Anyone with an objection or comment on the project will be heard."

The county board overruled a recommendation of the DuPage County Zoning Board of Appeals in February and granted a special use permit for dumping of combustible materials.

THE LANDFILL SITE would be near

Barrington and Fisher Roads, west of Bloomingdale and south of Hanover Park.

James said the meeting is to determine if a reconsideration of the county board action will be asked.

The operation would fill low lands in the area with wood and other combustible materials. The fill then would be covered with dirt to avoid fires.

No garbage would be allowed, James said, only solid waste.

The zoning board in its letter of recommendation to the zoning committee said the operation would adversely affect living conditions in the area, and therefore should be denied.

THE LETTER FURTHER said increased traffic congestion would result from trucks going into and coming out of the dump area during the day. Nearby properties would be affected in value and development, the zoning board said.

Neighboring villages have taken a stand against the project.

Dist. 100 OKs Cut-Backs

The Fenton High School Dist. 100 board approved 13 curtailments Tuesday in an effort to cut back expenditures. Incorporated in the motion was the board's direction in the administration that next year's budget include a minimum curtailment of $140,000.

One curtailment is the reduction of the staff by at least three teachers. James DiOrto, chairman of the board's finance committee, explained there will actually be a 13 per cent staff curtailment on a dollar basis, since the administration will hire no additional staff members, despite an expected increase of at least 100 students next fall.

OTHER CURTAILMENTS include reducing the school day from seven periods to six, dropping one-half of extra-curricular activities, eliminating all educational field trips, and refusing to offer a class with an enrollment of less than 20 students.

Still other curtailments are reduction of the driver education program, elimination of one art position and refusal to allow a student to take more than four solid subjects. In the past, a student was permitted to take five solids.

The board voted to delete three curtailments which were on the original recommendation submitted by representatives from the administration, student body, teaching staff and department heads.

THESE THREE curtailments would have eliminated adult education, reduced commencement expenditures, and assigned teaching duties to the principal and his assistants.

DiOrto said that in reviewing the curtailments, the finance committee attempted to make sure that no one program in the high school suffered to a greater degree than any other.

He said, "We are trying to affect the educational system as lightly as possible."

The curtailments are effective in September.

Communities Raise $2,000

Contributions from Bloomingdale, Wood Dale, Bensenville and Addison to the 1969 United Cerebral Palsy drive amount to over $2,000.

The "53-Minute March" which took place Jan. 12 used local volunteers to collect funds.

Bensenville with 194 volunteers collected $772. Bloomingdale with 27 volunteers collected $127.

The highest total belongs to Addison with $1136 collected by 220 volunteers. Wood Dale showed a contribution of $301 with the help of 87 workers.

The money donated will be used to continue programs like child development center, family counseling, day camps, adult education, and research.

Harvey Tops Dist. 59

By GEOFFREY MEHL

Three contenders claimed the High Ridge Knolls School precinct to be "their turf" in Saturday's School Dist. 59 elections, but in the end the votes belonged to Harold Harvey, who topped the ballot and won a seat on the board of education.

The second three-year term went to George Blanchard, who edged out Paul Neuhauser by only 26 votes of a total cast of 5,488.

Blanchard led through most of the evening, with no more than 50 votes separating him from Harvey and Neuhauser. Harvey moved back and forth in second position, and when the 1,741-vote High Ridge Knolls precinct called, he was ahead by only eight votes.

Harvey got 399 votes in the crucial precinct, to Neuhauser's 128 and Blanchard's 99.

Total unofficial returns showed Harvey and Blanchard elected with 905 and 650 votes respectively. They were trailed by Neuhauser, 626; Ernest Rich, 523; Patrick Ordovensky, 496; William Garvey, 395; and Harry Stewart, 291.

Keith Sums Up Efforts

Elk Grove Village mayoral candidate Eugene Keith Friday endorsed trustee hopefuls George Coney and Tom Ullmann, and if elected pledged to appoint Robert Fleming to a two-year term on the board.

The vacancy would exist if Keith wins, as the dissident trustee's term has another two years to run.

In a statement, Keith said, "It would be my intention to appoint Fleming to my vacated post on the board, which in effect would strengthen the forces of fiscal restraint."

He made the announcement after conducting a personal survey, which he said "indicates that Fleming does not have the strength to win."

"If the people are concerned with realistic leadership, efficiency and economical operation of our government, I recommend they vote for me," Keith said.

The candidate continued, "Tom Ullmann has absolutely no knowledge of this, but I request that anyone supporting me vote

Running unopposed for a one-year term, Albert Domanico collected 1,576 votes, slightly less than 29 per cent of all votes cast.

The three winning candidates collected about 56 per cent of the vote.

Returns began to trickle in shortly after 8 p.m. Saturday night, with Harvey and Blanchard jumping to an early lead. But as the evening wore on, Neuhauser moved into second position and led Harvey by about 25 votes.

Returns from Pct. 9, which voted at Robert Frost School, reversed that. Harvey moved into second place by a margin of only eight votes.

Everyone knew Pct. 3, High Ridge Knolls, would be the deciding section, as it had been reported all evening long that where 1,741 votes were cast, more than 1,000 ahead of the second highest, Pct. 8.

Precinct-by-precinct returns:
Pct. 1 (Clearmont School) — Blanchard, 100; Neuhauser, 71; Harvey, 70; Garvey, 47; Ordovensky, 28; Stewart, 27; Rich, 17; Domanico, 176.

Pct. 9 (Robert Frost School) — Stewart, 67; Harvey, 47; Neuhauser, 42; Blanchard, 22; Rich, 20; Ordovensky, 16; Garvey, 8; Domanico, 93.

Total vote — Harvey, 905; Blanchard, 650; Neuhauser, 626; Rich, 523; Ordovensky, 496; Garvey, 395; Stewart, 291; Domanico, 1,576.

GEORGE BLANCHARD of Elk Grove Village led most of the way and was one of two elected to the School Dist. 59 board of education.

more than 700 persons voted there.

That precinct didn't begin its Dist. 59 count until about 10 p.m. however, and it wasn't until 12:50 that Harvey, Blanchard, and Domanico congratulated each other.

Harvey got 399 votes there, to Blanchard's 89 and Neuhauser's 128. The bulk of votes, 334 in all, went to Ernest Rich to make for his only strong precinct.

Domanico collected between 27 and 33 per cent of the vote, while Harvey varied between nine and 17 per cent, except for Pct. 3, where he got a whopping 22.92 per cent.

A total of 5,488 votes were distributed between the eight candidates, including 18 write-ins for scattered personalities.

The heaviest turnout was in Pct. 3,

Most Roads To Be Improved

by MARTHA MOSER

Happiness is having done your highway homework before a proposed road reclassification program goes into effect.

And Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl is not as unhappy as most other northwest suburban officials with a Highway Study Commission road plan.

Because Elk Grove Village has been favored in both the State Division of Highways' and Cook County Highway Department's 1969 construction programs, most roads will be improved before the village would take control.

Route 83, Arlington Heights Road and Higgins Road are all scheduled for summer widening to four lanes. In addition, the Cook County Highway Department has promised Biesterfeld Road will go to four lanes in the 1970 construction budget.

"THE MAJOR drawback to the new functional plan for Elk Grove Village is having 23 miles of industrial streets while the allocation of Motor Fuel Tax funds is still on a per capita basis," Pahl said.

According to a legislative package of highway bills introduced Feb. 18 by the Highway Study Commission, the responsibility for improving and maintaining roads would be reshuffled.

The state would maintain control of roads meant for long-distance travel, the county would take over control of major thoroughfares and townships and municipalities would inherit the arterials.

Elk Grove Village would receive a total 15 additional miles of state, county, and township road. In addition to the roads already planned for improvements, the village would get Devon Avenue, and Nerge and Oakton Roads. If passed, the legislation will go into effect July 1, 1970.

"EVEN THOUGH the traffic increases each year on Devon Avenue, it still does not meet the criteria for a four-lane road," Pahl said. "Devon will have to wait for the impact of relocated Irving Park Road."

"Devon is expected to come to us as two lanes, but it was reconstructed last year between Tonne and Elmhurst Roads and this will be good for 10 years."

Because of Elk Grove Village's industrial situation, the state will give consideration to maintaining Route 83, Pahl said. Pahl met March 28 with George March, Dist. 10 engineer for the State Division of Highways, and a representative of the Cook County Highway Department.

"If we get Route 83, Higgins, Arlington Heights and Biesterfeld upgraded to four lanes, Elk Grove Village will be in good

Campaign Not Over

A heated three-way race for the Elk Grove Village presidential chair will be resolved tomorrow, but as far as candidates are concerned, the campaign isn't over yet.

Supporters of incumbent Jack Pahl, Robert Fleming and Eugene Keith were out in force over the weekend, making final pitches to voters in person. At least two village-wide mailings are reportedly geared to arrive in mailboxes today.

Most observers believe that voter turnout tomorrow will be heavy unless marred by weather, and all three mayoral hopefuls have been ardently waving banners, trying to lure voters to respective rallying points.

Elk Grove's trusteeship race has been settling down into a battle between Alvin Krasnow and Tom Ullman for a third seat, with incumbents Charles Zetek and George Coney regarded by most as having strong chance for reelection.

CONCURRENT WITH the village election will be a park district race for two seats, with the leading candidate getting a six-year term and the runner-up guaranteed a two year vacancy that opened up last Thursday.

With the resignation of Kenneth Kerwin, park commissioners voted to appoint the second-highest candidate to fill the recently emptied chair.

Four candidates, including Lewis Smith, Martin Durkin, Frank Epstein and incumbent Daniel Gilbert, are in the race, which like the mayoral field, is regarded as having tightened up considerably in the past few weeks.

Running unopposed Tuesday will be village clerk Eleanor Turner, virtually guaranteed a third term, and library board candidates John Gayer, Frederick Klink and Mrs. Darlene Greaves.

VOTING WILL BE in seven precincts, identical to December and February bond referendums. The 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. polling places include Arcade Park and Shop, Rupley School, Ridge School, Grant Wood School, Clearmont School, Salt Creek School, and Byrd School.

Pahl, who lives in the Byrd School precinct, is reportedly making a strong bid to carry the Salt Creek precinct, home of both Fleming and Keith.

Hottest contention in the park district race is reportedly in Section 1-E, which will vote at Arcade Park and Shop, between Durkin and area resident Smith.

Nearly 7,700 will be eligible to vote tomorrow, highest in the village's short history. In 1956, in the first bond election, 61 of the village's 67 registered voters cast ballots. Most candidates are conceding a heavy turnout, but not quite as high as that percentage.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE, grown to an eligible voter population of nearly 7,700, will be going to the polls in seven precincts to elect municipal and park district officials tomorrow. One small section, on the north side of Devon

Children Could Contract Disease in Creek

by MARY DRESSER
Mrs. George Grassmuck's German Shepherd died Thursday, throwing the family into panic, and highlighting a possible danger to children playing near Buffalo Creek.

Mrs. Grassmuck, who lives at 917 Valley Stream Drive, Wheeling, was a victim of some misunderstanding following the dog's death. She told both The Herald and her doctor, Richard Repasy, that her dog had contracted infectious hepatitis from contact with a dead rat.

Acting under this assumption, Mrs. Grassmuck had her family of four children, her husband and herself inoculated with gamma globulin as a protection against hepatitis.

SHE CALLED The Herald, concerned that other children in the area might be in contact with either rats or dogs infected with the disease.

The Herald has discovered that the Grassmuck dog did not die of hepatitis, but leptospirosis, a bacterial infection of the urinary tract. It can be picked up by both dogs and humans who are exposed to water contaminated by the infected animal.

According to Wheeling Sanitarian Jane Terbell, the fatality rate in the disease is low, but complications from the disease can cause death. The disease is marked by headache, fever, anemia, and jaundice, symptoms similar to hepatitis.

According to Dr. Colette Rasmussen, chief of the division of preventive medicine, Cook County Health Department, rats do often carry leptospirosis. Humans can catch it if they swim or wade in water polluted by urine from infected animals.

MRS. TERBELL SAID, "Chances are children could pick up leptospirosis from the creek."

Children waded in the creek with bare feet and could pick up the disease through cuts. Because there is a rat problem in the creek area, it is possible that children could become infected.

Mrs. Grassmuck, fearing hepatitis, obtained gamma globulin. However, the manual "Control of Communicable Disease in Man," from the U. S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, says it is not necessary to immunize contacts. The disease can be treated with penicillin.

Dr. Repasy was under the impression that the disease was hepatitis when he inoculated the Grassmuck family.

THE GRASSMUCKS' veterinarian diagnosed the dog's disease as leptospirosis, and Mrs. Terbell was informed of the diagnosis.

Mrs. Terbell said she told Mrs. Grassmuck to use rubber gloves to handle the dog, to keep the dog away from the children, and to throw away the dog's food dishes after each feeding.

The Grassmuck family had difficulty finding an agency to dispose of the dog.

They finally took it to the veterinarian for cremation, still under the impression it had hepatitis.

Mrs. Grassmuck's children are probably the healthiest children in the Valley Stream Drive area now as a result of the shots. However, other children in the area still face the danger of leptospirosis if they wade in Buffalo Creek.

Pahl's Last Plea

Maintaining that he'll be looking for votes until 6:05 p.m. tomorrow, Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl issued his closing campaign statement late Friday.

He had praise for the community and thanks for "the opportunity to have served you," but also a request for votes.

"Elk Grove Village is a good and fine community," the incumbent president said. "Community pride is exhibited everywhere you look about. We maintain homes beautifully landscaped, a prosperous industrial community, and expanding neighborhood shopping centers."

"WE HAVE AN excellent hospital to serve us 24 hours a day, seven days a week. We take great interest and pride in our houses of worship. Our children are well served by our schools, our park district, our library, and our village."

Pahl continued, "I am proud to have served as your village president these past four years. I have tried with all of my mind and heart to do a job which would reflect well upon myself, my family and the village. If I haven't succeeded, the error is of the mind and not of the heart."

"I ask all of you to join me in voting on April 15. I ask all my fellow citizens for their support and their vote. I also ask each citizen's commitment to help make our community the very best for our families," Pahl said.

"And finally, I thank you for the opportunity to have served you as village president these past four years."

IN AN IMPROMPTU interview, Pahl said that he has had failures along with successes, but if nothing else he has tried.

Pahl expressed disgust with opponent Robert Fleming's latest issue, a land tract of 50 acres west of Illinois Route 53 for 12 acres at Biesterfeld and Wellington. It was Pahl's opinion that the village was getting the better part of the deal because acreage is already being donated for school-park use west of Illinois 53, and the possibility of future-planned unit development would add even more open space that wouldn't be exempt from tax rolls.

Board Sells Obligation Bonds

Eight motions were required to do it, but $1,400,000 in municipal general obligation bonds were sold by the Elk Grove Village Board last week.

Bonds were sold to Bear, Stearns and Co., and Freeman and Co., both of New York, at an interest rate of 5.4042 per cent, the lowest of five bids.

To be used to finance the cost of three fire stations, a municipal complex and public works department remodeling, interest charges will cost the village $442,000 through 1981.

In presenting his recommendation to the board, Trustee George Coney noted the difference between high and low bidder — an interest range of slightly more than four-tenths of one per cent — is a total of $50,000 in interest.

He added that the difference between the top two bidders, with a range of slightly less than two-tenths of one per cent, is about $15,000 in interest.

BIDS WERE OPENED Tuesday afternoon and awarded that night.

In addition to Bear, Stearns-Freeman, four combines entered bids, including:

—Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago; A.G. Becker and Co., Chicago; L.F. Rothschild and Co., New York; and Van Kampen, Wauterle and Brown, Chicago.

—The Northern Trust Co., Chicago; LaSalle National Bank, Chicago; Stifel, Nicolaus and Co., St. Louis; McDougal and Condon, Chicago; and The White-Phillips Co., Davenport.

—Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago; Goldman, Sachs and Co., New York; Walston and Co., New York.

—The First National Bank of Chicago; Barcus, Kindred and Co., Chicago; Chaner Newman Securities Co., Chicago; Julien Collins and Co., Chicago; Columbian Securities Inc., Chicago.

PREMIUMS OFFERED per $100 ranged from nothing to a high of 1-3/4 cents, with Bear, Stearns offering 1.4 cents.

Investment ratings for the village just prior to the bond sale were "A" from Standard and Poor's and a "Baa-1" from Moody's Investors Service.

Conducting the bidding for the village was municipal finance consultant Paul D. Spear.

Vigilantes' End?

Proposals for the repeal of an Illinois law dating from 1885 may have an effect on Mount Prospect, according to Mayor Daniel Congreve.

Efforts to repeal a law allowing vigilante groups within the state are being made by Senate GOP leader Sen. Russell Arrington and Sen. Daniel Dougherty, a Democrat from Chicago. Reports of the attempt to repeal the law came Friday from United Press International.

The two are jousting over the right to sponsor repeal of the 1885 state law.

Arrington introduced the repeal Thursday, following Gov. Richard Ogilvie's promise to erase the old law.

DOUGHERTY BEAT Arrington to the clerk, however, and his identical proposal is now Senate Bill 823, while Arrington's is 825.

The sudden interest in repeal was viewed as ironic by Senate Democratic leader Thomas McGloin. He sought repeal in the last session, but the bill never got out of committee. At the time, McGloin was trying to stop a 1,000-man citizen posse proposed by Republican Cook County Sheriff Joseph Woods.

"They all laughed when I introduced the bill last time," McGloin said. "It was a big joke. Now suddenly it isn't so funny anymore."

THE LAW THE TWO senators are trying to repeal allows the organization of "companies to pursue horses thieves and other felons," and permits 10 men to band together, obtain articles of incorporation from the state, write their own by-laws and become a police force.

Officials in Mount Prospect have urged the repeal of the law on the basis that its worth has now been bypassed by time.

The Village of Mount Prospect underwent a change of private patrol organizations when Chief Newell Esmond demanded that a private police force remain unarmed in the village.

Charged With Hit, Run

Identification by six witnesses led to the arrest of Ronald Richter, 34, of 7804 Fremont. Rolling Meadows, by Elk Grove Village police Friday morning after an alleged hit and run incident.

Injured was William Poole, 25, of 1329 N. Chicago, Arlington Heights, after Richter allegedly ran him down twice near Arlington Heights and Higgins roads.

Witnesses told police that Poole, riding a motorcycle, was run off the road by Richter. After an attempted confrontation initiated by Poole, they said, Richter ran him down, dragging the motorcycle and Poole through the intersection.

Witnesses also said that Richter left the scene, but at least one man followed the car to obtain the license plate number.

ACCORDING TO POLICE, all six witnesses gave the same license number, and the name of the driver was discovered through a microfilm listing of auto registrations.

The incident was reported to police at 8:24 a.m., and Richter was arrested at 8:50, police said.

Poole was taken to St. Alexius Hospital, where he was treated for cuts and bruises, and later released. Police said he was extremely lucky, in that he was "dumped into the right hand lane, while the light was green, and could have been hit by another car."

Richter was charged with reckless conduct and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident. He was released on $100 bond.

After determining Richter's home address he was located at 2200 Landmeier Road and arrested there. Police who participated in the investigation included officers John Bantner, Robert Canary, and Melvin Mack.

Horcher Won't Oppose Group

by ANNE HEDBACK

M O Horcher, Wheeling police chief, says he is saddened by the fact that organizations as the Cook County Police Association are necessary to improve law enforcement.

Horcher has no plans to oppose the organization, a bargaining association, which formed in Wheeling last Thursday.

Explaining that the 19 men who organized the association chapter in Wheeling have done nothing contrary to law or regulations, Horcher says "They want to be heard and have a message to give. You just can't clap a lid on these people."

Horcher said that he has been aware of the organization's formation for some time. "They have adequate background, good legal representation, and good capital backing them," he explained.

HORCHER SAID POLICE bargaining associations are not necessary in all areas. "They aren't necessary in areas which have a good idea of what community needs are and have adequate forces," he said.

The chief says that the problem is that in this part of the state there really is not a base pay used by all forces. "The good men are shopping for better jobs, salaries, and fringe benefits," he says.

Some communities are offering salaries starting at $10,600 while in Wheeling the maximum after six years is $9,100, he says.

Generally there is a 15 per cent difference in pay scales by rank, Horcher says.

"We don't have a system among communities where each is somewhat comparable. This causes pitting one town against the other," Horcher said.

ASKED ABOUT WHEELING'S morale, the chief admitted that there is a problem among the policemen.

"We have a high activity rate, but not the facilities," he says pointing out that the new building will improve things, but that the force will still be short. "Police needs are community needs," he says.

Horcher said the association would probably improve the relationship between the policemen and the village board, but admitted that he didn't like the idea of an association.

"I prefer to see police independent and professional," he said.

The chief explained there is a "Basic problem in communications" between the board and the police department. "Communications is a two-way street," he says.

"I WOULD LIKE TO SEE salaries, benefits, and working conditions based on reality, merit, and identified needs," the chief emphasizes.

"Sadly the village of Wheeling may have served as a nucleus in the conception of the association in 1967," Horcher says, recounting events of that year when the police were given raises only after a grievance committee threatened the board with resignation of 50 per cent of the force.

"Merit was knocked down, but the grievance committee was justified for raising the salaries," he recalls.

"The association won't approach communities with well established police departments with working conditions and salaries above the norm," he says.

Horcher says that in this year's budget proposal, now being prepared, he is still trying to get the board to accept a cost of living factor and a merit longevity plan for a police salary base.

"I DON'T know how the association will act, but I do anticipate they will demand and have a voice in setting the salaries," he says.

Horcher explains that policemen are paid less than tradesmen who endure no dangers with their jobs.

Horcher admits that some chiefs are being caught unaware by the association, but says "I try to look at things objectively."

He sights evidence that morale was down in 1967 and that the accident rate increased, but arrests and convictions went down. The same thing seems to be happening in early 1968, he admits.

The village board's willingness to look at a communications system is taken as a good sign by the chief. "It's a step in the right direction," he says.

He expressed hope that the demands of the association would be within reason. "Unions are of value in many areas, but they can be detrimental," he says.

Black View Of Suburbia Slated

About 30 black students from Harlan High School in Chicago will spend next Tuesday at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights as part of a suburban-inner city exchange program.

The 30 students will be hosted by 30 Hersey students, who will take them through a typical day at a suburban high school.

Alex Schmidt, director of the social science program at Hersey, explained that the program has been successful before at Arlington and Forest View high schools in Dist. 214.

HE STRESSED that no special program will be prepared for the students, except in some of the social science classes, where the students may discuss unique problems found in the suburbs and the city.

After classes are dismissed, the Operation Breadbasket Band from Chicago will present a 45-minute concert for Hersey and Harlan students. It will be followed by a brief program of dance music for the students.

The band plays for Operation Breadbasket, the Chicago economic arm of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC). It recently performed at St. Raymond's Church in Mount Prospect.

Forum on Teen Center Is Slated

A public forum will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in Grant Wood School to present plans and answer questions about a proposed teen center in Elk Grove Village.

Being sponsored by the Elk Grove Park District, representatives of the Elk Grove Teen Council and its adult advisory group will be present, as well as police juvenile officers, park board members, and Glenn Powell, community services executive director.

PLANS, LOCATION, programming, control, supervision, and operational concept of a proposed teen center will be discussed at the meeting. Action on the matter by the park board is planned for April 24.

Open Convention Site

by LEA TONKIN

Arlington Park Towers, the only hotel in the world with its own golf course, race track and commuter station, will open tomorrow.

According to Richard Regan, executive vice president of Western Concessions, the staff will have a few days to become acquainted with the new facilities before the official debut of the Towers as a major convention center April 23.

The Air Moving and Conditioning Association will be the first group to hold a convention in the new hotel April 23-24. The two-day session is expected to attract 200 people. Jewel Foods, Pure Oil and the National Secretaries Association also will be using the facilities later in April and May.

LYLE SCHAPLER, hotel manager, said area residents as well as convention-goers will be attracted by the combination of sophisticated elegance in interior design and decor, the profusion of dining and recreational facilities, the ample convention rooms and its proximity to Chicago, O'Hare Airport, and major transportation systems.

Atop the Arlington Park Towers will be Horseshoe Club, overlooking the golf course and race track. The former site of the club on the ground floor will become a specialty restaurant, and diners may also choose between the Carousel Room, the Tack Room, or eat beside the pool in the Patio. The new Pony Lounge, with seating for 225, will be the main night club, with self-contained booths and a variety of professional entertainment.

Each of the 420 guest rooms has two extra-length double beds, built-in color television, radio, piped-in music, direct-dial phones, a walk-in closet, and a dressing room with vanity. Doors are set back from the hallway to help soundproof the rooms.

Parkors for the hotel suites have studio couches, a card table and a wet bar. Vinyl floors and large walk-in closets are convenience features of the parlors.

Each floor is decorated in one of three colors: blue, orange and red. Lighting fixtures, drapes, wall coverings and carpeting carry out the color scheme, with touches of complementary colors added.

THE 13-STORY STRUCTURE is serviced by five high-speed elevators. The Round Table, with a seating capacity of 1,500, may be divided into two or three large rooms and another 1,500 can be accommodated downstairs.

A large entrance hall and lobby on the main floor of the hotel leads to the new ballroom, with enough room for 600 people at a meeting or 350 dinner guests. Huge three-tiered chandeliers highlight the ballroom, though another attraction is the picture-window outside wall, with a view overlooking the pool and patio. Guests may dine casually on the patio, which adjoins a bar. A circular stairway leads from the lobby to seven banquet rooms downstairs, each named after a famous racing horse. Women's apparel and gifts shops are located next to the lobby.

Sports offer a respite to those attending conventions at the Arlington Park Towers. Thoroughbred racing, 18 holes of golf (9 are lighted for night play), a driving range and a heated and glass-enclosed pool complete activities.

Close to Interstate 90, the Northwest Tollway, O'Hare Airport and serviced by the Chicago and North Western Railway, the hotel is strategically located in a rapidly developing residential and industrial area, its officials believe.

Worth An Hour

by GEOFFREY MEHL

If you'd like to see a good example of how responsible and mature a teenager can be when he's respected, given a free hand and a major task to accomplish, plan to get over to Grant Wood School Thursday night.

Go over there at 8 p.m., and listen to a coalition of two major segments of Elk Grove Village teen society talk about their brainchild — a $100,000 teen center. They've been at it since October, having done everything from floor plan, location, organization, activities, and control.

TO BE SURE, they've had some help, but largely it was assistance in terms of advice like the help any local governmental agency would need if it were involved in a moderately sized project like a teen center. It is significant to note the type of help they've been getting: a friendly park district and an adult advisory group. There have been moments of frustration, minor breakdowns in communication, and questions of understanding. But it's to be expected that a marriage of parents, teenagers and government aren't always going to function perfectly.

Nonetheless, the adults have been backing those teens to the hilt, and it's paid off. Unbelievably careful study and planning has gone into the package to be presented Thursday, and they've got all corners covered.

However, we're talking about spending $100,000 of the public's money, and it's only fair to let the public have an opportunity to know what is going on. So there be a forum, a chance to clear the air about all the reservations that Elk Grove Village might have about a teen center. They have an extremely strong case, and are prepared to openly discuss every aspect of their idea.

ONLY A TEEN center is at stake now the building, the programs, the place to go it might be wise to note a couple of valuable side products of the venture begun last year.

A teen council has been formed, is operating smoothly, and appears to represent that segment of Elk Grove population fairly well. Two major factions, the "rahs" and the "grease," are included in it, and it currently represents about 25 per cent of Elk Grove High School's student body. That's only the beginning, and we're sure that percentage will climb to an overwhelming majority.

Geoff Mehl

I would like to see the teen council capitalize the first letters of its name, and join the ranks of other civic and fraternal groups in the village. With a potential membership of 2,000 persons, that council would represent about 10 per cent of the entire community. There are many endeavors which could be undertaken, and with responsible leadership, the council could play a significant role in the community, above and beyond the teen center.

Equally important is the adult advisory group, and we'd like to see them stick around, and capitalize their name. An Adult Advisory Board would be a great help to the Teen Council, as it has been, in the council's greater role in the community. A group of interested and concerned parents working along side a Teen Council for the better representation of youth in the village could provide a helpful and powerful lift.

WITH ALL THE programs, organizations, and governmental operations in Elk Grove Village, the creation of these two groups by the Elk Grove Park District board and administration has not only led to a sure reality in the form of a teen center, but it has proven that the generation gap can be overcome when the two age groups respect and understand each other, and work together for the betterment of both.

Don't take our word for it. Go over to Grant Wood School on Thursday night and see for yourself. Hear what the police and local social workers say about it. But more than anything else, take a look at what an energetic group of "children" can do. You might see a group of young adults.

Moats Upset Victor

Harper Junior College student Lawrence Moats of Mount Prospect scored a solid upset victory in Saturday's college board election.

He polled two-to-one margins over his chief opponent John M. Kuranz of Barrington in Rolling Meadows and a good share of the rest of High School Dist. 214, to win election to a three-year seat on the college board.

Moats far from matched the vote margin given Richard L. Johnson of Arlington Heights, board president who has served as a college trustee since Harper was organized in 1965.

FINAL UNOFFICIAL tallies give Johnson 11,467 to Moats' 8,430 and Kuranz' 6,783.

Moats supporters, directed by campaign chairman James Schmidt, blanketed most of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows with leaflets stressing Moats' campaign planks — improved communications and opposition to the formation of a teachers' union at the community college.

Moats told the Herald yesterday he struck a strong chord of response from the community on the teachers' union issue.

He also said he felt opposition to his candidacy from incumbent college board members backfired to his favor.

POINTING AT THE several times board member James Hamill of Schaumburg had spared questions at him at candidates meetings, Moats said, "I was able to demonstrate I could respond intelligently. When I could, it became a plus factor."

Regional voting has been noted in past college board elections — and it was in this election with candidate's address was listed on the ballot.

But Moats drew strong support in Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village as well as Mount Prospect and didn't come up totally short of votes in Kuranz' home area of Barrington.

"Geographic voting and a reaction to Kuranz' record were both factors," Moats told the Herald Sunday.

Moats pressed hard in his campaign on the fact that Kuranz, a respected — and busy — industrial leader, had missed 10 of the last 14 college board meetings and told the press he would continue to be a "part-time board member" if reelected.

MOATS GAVE THE Herald a statement in which he said, "I am very grateful to the voters who put their confidence and trust in me. I will serve the community conscientiously and, in keeping with my campaign plank, will try to increase communications, be available to the individual voters and various groups and organizations as well."

"I am tremendously proud of the responsibility they have entrusted me with and I will do everything I possibly can to serve the community and college with dignity, intelligence and good will."

Moats expressed confidence that he will be able to achieve "a positive-looking relationship" with other college board members despite their overt opposition to his candidacy.

Incumbent board members were not available for comment Sunday morning.

A Bicycle Built for Tickets

There are signs of spring and there ARE signs of spring, depending on which side of a police motorcycle bike you are. One of those signs showed up at Arlington Park Race Track Friday, 1 p.m., when the Arlington Heights Police Force sent their three-man two-wheeler team through its paces, cutting in and out of various formations. The team, assigned to the traffic division, was going through the motions. The real thing starts when the bikes begin patrolling the streets, weaving around traffic to catch recalcitrant motorists.

Seek to Protect The Rights of Policemen

by BARRY SIGALE

Sgt. John J. Flood sees the fate of the individual policeman in the Northwest suburbs and the entire country as both a moral and a philosophical problem. And he sees at least a partial solution in some form of organized arbitration.

Nothing is more timely, more topical, more local than the newspaper, reporting on everything from the latest student demonstration to the best recipes for budget-minded homemakers. And the savings in food value tips alone more than pay for the subscription.

Flood is a member of the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department and president of the 10-month-old Cook County Police Association which seeks to protect the rights of policemen. It is striving for the improvement of working conditions, better salaries, and a representative voice for all officers. "Basically," Sgt. Flood began, "the police officer needs representation as he pursues his career, his profession. We are asking for the right to negotiate in the

Miss Bellino Elected

Grace Ann Bellino of Arlington Heights, a student at St. Norbert College, has been elected senior panhellenic delegate for the Theta Lambda chapter of Delta Zeta sorority for the 1969-70 school year.

Terry Munk Assigned

Army Spec 5 Terry J. Munk, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Munk, 1230 N. Race, Arlington Heights, has been assigned to the American Division's 123rd Aviation Battalion near Chu Lai, Vietnam, as an administrative specialist.

officer's behalf."

The association represents at least 240 men, including 85 per cent of the sheriff's police, 75 per cent of the Skokie Police Department and in excess of 80 per cent of the Wheeling force, from sergeants to patrolmen.

"THE INDIVIDUAL officer should have a voice in his profession," said Flood, a resident of Wheeling.

"He should be able to enter into contractual agreements with his employer. He needs a vehicle to bring his problems to a reasonable conclusion to both sides. We want to discuss the problems of ciliation, mediation, arbitration or any means to settle disputes between municipalities and its police officers," he said.

Flood supports a bill which last Thursday was passed by the Illinois House Industry and Labor Relations Committee that would allow public employees to bargain collectively. The bill would create a state labor relations law.

"I definitely think that this is absolutely progressive legislation," said Flood. "It will provide the machinery to help resolve problems. It gives us the rights to do just that."

"We are not asking for anything outrageous. We want to discuss the problems that face the individual officer."

"THERE IS A turnover of between 30 and 60 per cent in most suburban police departments every five years," he continued. "This is not caused by a lack of dedication. Most of these people go to other law enforcement agencies. The failure of the administration's response to the officer's needs is the main cause of their dissatisfaction."

It is the administration Flood blames for this dissatisfaction among police officers.

"I don't believe a police chief represents his men," he said. He is in a quasi-political position. The politician is 40 years behind the times if his position is against the rights of policemen to be represented. He is acting in an archaic manner.

"The question is: Do we have the right to represent ourselves? We have asked for no more than the rights of any labor force. Our position is so legitimate and is based on every concept of labor-management relations in this country," he said.

"IF THE VILLAGE administrators who deny us this right say we are in the wrong in wanting to represent ourselves, are they saying the whole country is wrong?"

Sgt. Flood likes to support his political control theory by quoting from the article which appeared in "Atlantic Monthly" magazine's March issue, in a special section devoted to police in the United States. The article was written by Robert Sheehan of Tufts University.

It read, in part, "There has been a traditional political resistance to educating the police. The root of this resistance lies deeply imbedded in what seems to me to be a prevailing, but rarely stated, political attitude that if the police are encouraged to become professional, and thus are made more effective, they will become a much less controllable arm of the executive branch of government and hence less amenable to the interests of political influences that almost always lead to partial rather than impartial enforcement of law."

IN A GALLUP survey in December, six persons out of every 10 interviewed said they believe police, firemen and teachers should be permitted to join unions. "The public is with us," said Flood.

"Our men are doing what they are doing despite veiled harassment, threats and unendos. They are sacrificing advancement," said Flood.

"If a village tells us 'no' when we ask for recognition, we will tell them we will not go away or disappear. We do not want to tear down but go forth as a profession."

Canopy Decision Needs Legal Advice

Because of a possible conflict in local ordinances, it's going to take a legal opinion before Palatine village trustees are willing to waive a building requirement at the new Hansen Hardware Store downtown.

The problem is a wooden canopy which is part of the roof structure that overhangs the building. It extends 33 inches into the public right of way.

Gunnar Hansen, owner of the store which is being built at the location where the completely destroyed the former building about a year ago, would like the board to grant a variation so the canopy can remain.

ROBERT LAYER, former village trustee and architect for the hardware store, told the board the structure is permitted by the National Building Code which recently was adopted by the village board.

However, local ordinance prohibits structures from extending into a public right of way.

So some village officials are reluctant to take any kind of action until Bradley Glass, village attorney, is able to determine if a conflict of ordinances does exist.

"I question whether we have the power to grant permission to someone to build in a public right of way," Village Pres. John Moodie said.

But some trustees believed the variation could be granted immediately.

"People build in public rights-of-way frequently. Look at the structures which are built over streets and highways," Trustee John Hughes said.

When the vote was 3 to 3 to defer the matter until it could be reviewed by the attorney, Moodie broke the tie by voting to wait for a legal opinion.

A Tough Way to Get a T-Shirt Clean

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "What in the world are you doing?" my wife said curiously when she sauntered into the laundry room.

"What does it look like I'm doing?" I replied tartly.

"It looks like you are dancing the twist in your underwear while standing in a glass tank with water up to your chin," she said absurdly.

"You have formed that impression because you spend your spare time reading instead of watching television," I said reprovingly. "If you watched television as much as I do you would know that I am washing my T-shirt.

"I saw this commercial where a guy in a dirty T-shirt stands in water up to his chin, adds detergent and then agitates himself like a washing machine. So I bought this glass tank and am now testing it out."

"Forgive me," my wife said humbly. "I should have known a man of your intelligence wouldn't be doing anything ridiculous."

I accepted her apology gracefully. It was one of those little domestic triumphs that are all too rare in married life.

Imagine, then, my chargin when a few days later I picked up a press release from the Federal Trade Commission and discovered that somebody had been putting me on.

According to the FTC, the stain on the T-shirt "had not been removed by the immersion depicted on the television screen." It had been laundered in the normal way.

Apparently the guy in the water tank had changed into a clean T-shirt while the camera was stopped. Or something of the sort.

Although noting that the commercial was probably intended to be "spoofing," the FTC said even humorous commercials may fall into the category of deceptive advertising.

They forced the soap company that dreamed up the idea to agree to discontinue the commercial.

So here I am stuck with a glass of milk and the necessity of eating crow in front of my wife.

How was I supposed to know the commercial was a 'spoof.' It looked as plausible to me as any of the other commercials I see on television.

In fact, I may continue to wash my T-shirts that way. The commercial might have been deceptive, but I have never had cleaner underwear.

Is Rumsfeld Bargaining for Free Hand?

by MARTHA MOSER

Despite White House silence, it appeared yesterday U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld is the new director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

Speculation that President Richard M. Nixon has selected the Northwest suburbs congressman for the poverty post continued as late as 2 p.m. yesterday. Rumsfeld reportedly is "bargaining" his taking the post for a chance at using his own philosophy on social welfare as war-on-poverty head.

Rumsfeld said in a candidates' interview at Paddock Publications last fall that he would like to see the OEO become a "spearsuch."

AS SUCH, RUMSFELD saw the office as being a sparkplug that would generate ideas, then spin them off into another department as the machinery is tested and rolling.

Talking on the basis there is no proven solution to the urban crisis, Rumsfeld said that instead of developing anti-poverty programs and operating them, OEO should be an office to experiment and be under fire.

"When something doesn't work, they should admit it," Rumsfeld said that Saturday morning. "When it does work, they should split it off into an appropriate administering agency."

He then criticized the office for "hugling" good programs so it can balance success stories with failures when it goes to Congress for funds.

He said OEO should make better use of the District of Columbia, which is the direct responsibility of the federal government, and should innovate programs that "add information" to the anti-poverty fight.

He cited the rapid shifting of poor into the ghettos as a problem which is nullifying current government efforts.

ASKED HOW suburbanites can become effective in helping people in the ghetto, the OEO nominee then said:

"First, we need to do a better job of cataloging the kinds of mechanics available to people in metropolitan areas to do things. And second, you need an attitude of caring."

Rumsfeld's demonstrated "attitude of caring," despite his background in an affluent district, has caused him to become associated with interest and concern for social welfare problems.

Rumsfeld has indicated his philosophy is that government alone can not, and will not, provide all the social answers and the "urban crisis demonstrates the failure of government to function as a 'cure-all'."

His past statements align him with Nixon administration thinking that private industry and government must form investment partnerships to create new jobs, correct substandard housing, expand educational opportunities and lower racial barriers.

Past answers to the American social dilemma, such as urban renewal, model cities, public welfare, demonstration projects, legislative edicts, and all other traditional answers have proved unsuccessful, the young man has said.

IN PRIVATE conversations, his view has been that government stop-gap measures have proved disappointing and have created fresh disillusionment and often hardship.

The ghetto is not houses, it is people. The young man would be likely to say. Rumsfeld himself this weekend refused to confirm or deny an appointment White House press aides indicated to the Herald, however, the story is being held in deference to a Presidential announcement.

Rumsfeld told the Herald, "There is not a lot I can say except that the matter has been discussed. I wish I could be more responsive about this, but there is nothing more now that I can say. I have done all the talking that I can."

WASHINGTON SOURCES admitted consideration of Rumsfeld has been under discussion for several weeks. And the congressman's unusual lack of candor combined to support reports of the appointment.

Rumsfeld said any announcement of an appointment will be made early this week.

Lawn And Garden

RICHARD DeLANO

Very soon the community's landscapes, its parks and yards will glow with forsythia's yellow. In fact, even the smallest yards will probably display at least one of these golden flowered shrubs.

Perhaps this widespread popularity is due to the shrub's amazing lack of insect and disease problems as much as to its reputation for spectacular bloom.

At any rate, it's a hard-earned popularity since the forsythia is not native to America. It was brought here from China by way of Europe about 115 years ago by Robert Fortune, an English plant explorer. In England it was given its name in honor of William Forsythe, a former director of the royal gardens at Kensington. SINCE ITS introduction, many varieties — all of them yellow — have been developed. They differ in height, habit of growth, profusion of flower, and density of color.

Among the most recent introductions of note are Spring Glory and Lynwood Gold. Spring Glory with its paler and larger flowers differs from the regular forsythia. Lynwood Gold has a deeper than ordinary color and is more erect and upright in growth. It also contrasts with the arching branches of older varieties.

Although it is of unquestioned hardiness, an occasional harsh winter will destroy the flower buds, yet leave the more hardy foliage buds unharmed. After such winters, the shrub will exhibit a ruffle of flowers on the branches that were protected by snow.

SINCE, BY nature, most varieties have a graceful arching shape, skillful pruning should enhance this natural growth habit. Old wood is merely thinned after flowering and before leaves appear. However, barber-type pruning or shearing into regular round globes not only limits the bloom, it destroys the informal character that forsythia lends to a landscape.

Fortunately, regardless of the type of pruning, the shrub will remain a valuable element in the landscape. Not only will the forsythia withstand all types of pruning, it also grows well in all types of soil and is very drought resistant. In fact, forsythia is so easy to grow, it's a wonder it isn't a weed. (DeLano is horticultural adviser for the University of Illinois Extension).

Dist. 59 Pact Progress Seen

Progress in negotiations for next year's teaching contracts in School Dist. 59 continues to be described as rapid after an all-day bargaining session Friday.

According to Dr. Donald Thomas, superintendent, only "one major item and two or three minor items" have yet to be resolved.

The group set their next session for Thursday at 3:30 p.m., and it appears likely that agreement could be reached then.

THE SUPERINTENDENT said "climate continues to be good," and he described the Teachers' Council representatives as "a very fine group of people" who are negotiating "in good faith."

Friday's session was the third long meeting between board and administration representatives and the teachers which ended on notes of good progress.

Thomas declined to comment on the nature of items yet to be resolved, following a practice of silence around negotiations and contracts since bargaining began in December.

A Representation Gap?

by MARTHA MOSER

The appointment of U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) would leave the Northwest suburbs without a congressman for at least six months.

Although Rumsfeld has not confirmed he has accepted the Presidential call, rumor has the appointment imminent. And Republicans in his 13th District have begun maneuvering for position of successor.

It is no secret State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, also Wheeling Township committeeman, has wanted a crack at a congressional seat for some time.

But Rumsfeld, collecting 80 per cent of the votes in his last two races, left no opening in sight as long as he wants the office.

Schlickman Saturday denied interest in any public office except the one he holds as a three-term member of the Illinois House of Representatives.

"I HAVE NO PLANS at this time for doing anything except what I'm doing now — serving in the General Assembly," the legislator said.

"There is a report that Don (Rumsfeld) has been asked to serve as director of OEO," Schlickman continued. "But there has been no indication to my satisfaction that Don has accepted."

In a matter of 24 hours, though, since speculation on a Rumsfeld appointment began, Schlickman was able to come up with what Rumsfeld's Washington office could not supply — procedure for filling a Congressional vacancy.

According to ruling Illinois law, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie must find that a vacancy in the office exists, a discretion on the part of the governor. If Ogilvie indeed "finds" that Rumsfeld is in the executive rather than legislative branch of government, he is required to declare a special election.

PRIMARY AND RUNOFF elections are required on the same time schedule pertaining to filling vacant seats in the state legislature. Schlickman said the earliest a general election could be held is Sept. 29.

It is not likely Ogilvie would miss noting a change in Rumsfeld's office address, especially since the 13th District is a GOP stronghold. As far as the Republican leadership is concerned, the Congressional contest will be decided in their own party primary.

The story is out that Brian Duff, 1968's unsuccessful primary candidate for secretary of state, is contacting district committeemen telling his interest in the office. Party leaders also can not forget Bob Dwyer, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's defeated running mate, and William Rentschler, head of Pres. Richard M. Nixon's Illinois campaign.

Dwyer and Rentschler may be due their rewards as past party sacrifices, although Schlickman himself speaks from a fairly powerful position as township committeeman.

THOUGH NORTHFIELD Township is seen as the district's center of strength, Schlickman's Wheeling Township has turned over some impressive victories.

In November, Wheeling Township delivered the heaviest Republican pluralities of any township in the state and Schlickman racked up more votes than any other representative in the state.

Still, a party bid to a North Shore candidate will not mean hopelessness for the Northwest suburbs in getting their own congressman. Redistricting is still a possibility that could favor a local congressional hopeful.

In light of an April 10 U.S. Supreme Court case out of Missouri, Illinois may also be forced to redistrict.

This decision makes invalid even an Illinois senate redistricting bill recently introduced by Sen. W. Russell Arrington, Senate majority leader.

SCHLICKMAN SAID Saturday he does not believe Illinois will have to redistrict before electing a possible successor to Rumsfeld.

Schlickman may hold out for his earlier idea to form a congressional district of Cook County's six most western townships.

Maybe this will please the party enough

Count on Auto Insurance Hike

by DAVID W. CHUTE

DETROIT (UPI) —There's one thing you can bank on. Automobile insurance rates are going up.

And until something can be done about reducing the number and severity of accidents, auto insurers say they have no alternative. But instead of reducing or remaining stationary, accidents are rising constantly.

More than 53,000 persons were killed in automobile accidents last year. The number of injured reached a new high. So did the number of accidents of all kinds, including those in which there were no injuries. And the cost of repairing car damage also was up.

Damages for deaths or injuries in auto accidents is only part of the total insurance bill. Cost of repairs of the cars involved represents a large portion of insurance company payouts. This has soared in recent years.

For example, replacing a front grille on a 1969 Ford LTD costs $115.35 for the grille, plus $19.20 for labor. Only a year ago, the cost was $85.40 for the grille and $11.20 for labor.

Replacing the rear trunk lid on a 1969 Chevrolet costs $97.50 for the lid, plus $8 for labor. The same lid last year was $3 less.

Installation of safety equipment on cars has little to do with the major problem. To be sure, safety devices may save some lives or reduce the severity of injuries in some accidents. But they don't reduce car damage much.

Traffic accidents are on a steady climb, at least partly because there are increasingly more cars on the road, being driven more miles driven per car, thus increasing exposure to accidents.

But many experts believe there's still another factor — slacker law enforcement. For the past two years, with civil disturbances in so many cities around the country, police forces are said to have paid more attention to preventing riots and other disturbances, while reducing the numbers of police engaged in traffic patrol. In Detroit, for example, it is estimated that traffic law enforcement is down by 50 per cent. Relaxing traffic patrols is inevitably followed by rising accidents.

It all adds up to more money for auto insurance.

'Futbol' Rivals Church

by STEWARD KELLERMAN

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) —Pick the most rabid baseball fan you know, get the most fanatic football booster, and add your basketball nut.

Now put them all together, multiply their emotions a hundredfold and you'll have an idea —just an idea —how Latin Americans feel about soccer.

Soccer —or "futbol" as it's called south of the border —is such a force in Latin America it competes with the powerful Roman Catholic church for attention.

There was the time in 1962 when then Brazilian President Joo Goulart debated whether to go to church or listen on the radio to the World Soccer Championship being held in Chile.

Goulart finally resolved his "crisis of conscience" by having an aide with a portable radio stand by him during Mass.

"Futbol" games in Latin America can resemble Sophoclean tragedies or slapstick burlesque routines.

The tragedies come in the form of "avalanches" — the term used to describe mass stampedes occurring at jammed stadiums.

The worst of the "avalanches" took place in Peru in 1963 when more than 300 persons were killed during a match at Lima's National Stadium. The cause of it all was a decision by the referee during a game between a local and an Argentine team. Fans protested so violently the police fired tear gas bombs into the crowds —and spectators broke in panic for the exits, trampling one another in the mad crush.

In Argentina, "futbol" aficionados are still debating the cause of an avalanche last June that killed 71 persons and prompted a national day of mourning.

The stampede took place in a dimly lit corridor as fans were leaving the classic confrontation between Buenos Aires rivals Boca Juniors and River Plate. No one really knows what started it.

Soccer players are paid well in Latin America —even compared to top athletes in the United States.

Pele —the superstar of Brazil's Santos team —is said to make well in excess of $100,000 a year. Top stars generally can count on at least $50,000.

In addition, players get a batch of fringe benefits, such as free homes. Pele's gift house is estimated to be worth $75,000.

Soccer is so much a part of Latin American life there's even a Mexican movie classic about the terrible tensions built up in a family over the sport. It seems the daughter takes up with a soccer player from one team and the son becomes a player for a rival squad and then, well...

STRUGGLING to squeeze into an outsized pair of jeans are "Levi's Only" co-chairman Harvey Savitch of Buffalo Grove and Howard Holmick of Wheeling.

Boy, 17, Has 9 Scholarships

by PATRICIA Mc CORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) —This boy from Oxnard, Calif., at 17 has nine scholarships.

His name is Perry J. Ludy and he is black. Until a few years ago his family was "trying to make it" on relief in New Kensington, Pa.

His success in school is matched by his finesse on the basketball court and in relationships with his peers and adults.

This no-generation, no-education gap fellow is something like the all-American boy, having been named Boy of the Year by the Boys' Clubs of America. He has some secrets to success.

One is being born poor. The other: standards.

"If I had been born both smart and rich, all As and Bs probably would mean nothing," he said in an interview. "To a poor boy they are rungs on the ladder to success."

Stepping on those rungs, Ludy hopes for a career in medicine. Each step up will also be a step away from economic insecurity.

Winning "Boy of the Year" honors will help. Ludy receives a $1,000 Reader's Digest scholarship, part of $3,500 in awards for the year's top boy.

Ludy got his standards from his mother, now a personnel director at a Navy station in California.

"Standards mean things developed in life that tend to point you in a 'yes' or 'no' direction when—say someone offers you dope."

"They're like an invisible force that puts you in line. To get standards you need someone older to enforce rules. The earlier you get standards the better. They become automatic."

The family into which Ludy was born became fatherless when he was six. Since then he has been the male head of the clan of five children.

Odd jobs earned him money when he was 12. In the last two years he has worked as a bus boy, lawn cutter and recreation leader. Half his earnings go to his mother.

Ludy said he has no awareness of discrimination in his past in Pennsylvania nor any feeling it exists in Oxnard.

"The people where we live and lived always seemed friendly," he said.

"Some things are bad, you know by news reports. But to change things you go by rules. You examine the rules and if they are not right, you work for orderly change."

Ludy teaches Sunday School back home.

"You fall back on prayer," he said.

"Like before an exam or basketball game."

"I pray not to beat the other team but to have our team do its best," he said.

Cancer's Strange Geography Studied

Medical science has a great deal to learn about how cells become cancerous, but doctors know quite a bit about the variety of cancers and where and how they occur in different parts of the world, a Northwest Suburban Cancer Society official said last week.

"Some forms of cancer are more common than they used to be, and other forms have become less common," said Dr. Eugene Meyer of the Northwest Suburban Unit of the American Cancer Society. "But the incidence of various forms differs around the world."

"For example, skin and lip cancers are many times more common among white people in the southern half of the United States than among white people in the northern part. Breast cancer is more common among women in Israel than among women in Japan," he said.

ONLY EDUCATED guesses have been made about the differences in breast cancer distribution; but the incidence of skin cancer is very definitely linked with direct over-exposure to the sun and the color of the skin.

"While lung cancer is the most common cause of cancer deaths among men in England and in Wales, only 1,000 miles distant in Iceland it is much less common," he said.

Cancer of the liver causes half of all cancer deaths among the Bantu in Africa, while in Europe and North America it accounts for less than four per cent of all cancer deaths.

DR. MEYER SAID that the uterine cancer mortality rate remains high in Chile, while in the United States where the Pap Test is resulting in earlier treatment for women, the mortality rate has fallen sharply.

Breast cancer incidence varies greatly in different parts of the world, Dr. Meyer said. "With some 65,000 new cases each year, death from this type leads all other cancer deaths among U.S. women."

It is high in Australia and India and is increasing in Europe, North America and in Israel. However, it is extremely low in Japan where only four per cent of the female cancer deaths are from this form of the disease," he said.

"Similarly breast tumors are more common in older women than in younger ones or in women who do not breast-feed their babies," he said.

Dr. Meyer stressed the importance of a person knowing cancer's seven warning signals and of the need for prompt medical attention when a signal is discovered.

Ask Blood Donors

Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, is presently compiling a list of "old call" blood donors.

In certain cases, fresh blood is needed on short notice for patients. When this happens, the hospital blood bank calls on volunteer donors to come to the aid of the sick.

On March 30, a post-operative patient urgently required platelets derived from 0 positive blood at Northwest. Blood platelets for transfusion must be fresh, preferably drawn within four hours before being given to the patient.

Northwest's blood bank was stocked with ample units, but none were freshly drawn. All other sources in the Chicago area were similarly short of freshly drawn units.

DONOR REQUIREMENTS are the same as for a regularly scheduled donor: No food for at least four hours, no alcoholic beverage for 24 hours, and no drugs or medication for 48 hours.

With these requirements, a number of calls might be necessary in order to find the right person with the right blood type who could be a donor on short notice.

When an emergency situation arises for a patient of a certain blood type, all volunteers listed with that blood type would have to be called until one meeting the illness donor requirements can be found.

The general donor of the patient who needed blood on March 30 was a liver and bone marrow condition that created a deficiency in platelets, the substance that initiates blood coagulation. Patients with other forms of coagulation defect, such as hemophilia, also require fresh blood.

SITUATIONS WHERE fresh blood is needed do not occur very often. However, when they do, a ready source must be available.

Initial volunteers for short-notice blood donors are from the hospital staff. Northwest is presently trying to supplement its list with more volunteers.

Volunteers may call the hospital at CL 9-1000. Ask for the blood bank.

Second Straight Meet Success

Arlington Romps to Victory in Prep Track

by KETH REINHARD

For the second time in three years Arlington's track team spread its welcome mat for a trio of visiting foes . . . and then yanked it out from under all three of them.

The situation was the third annual Arlington Prep quadrangular, a meet won handsily by the host crew for the second year in a row Saturday. Flouting their traditional depth, the Cards copped over half of the available blue ribbons and bettered all three opponents by more than 30 points.

Niles North, after burners ablaze in the dashes, outdistanced Deerfield and Wheeling for the runnerup team slot with 53 1/2 points. Bruce Samore's Cards meanwhile breezed home in front with an 87 2/3 production.

DAVE STEELE, Todd Somers and Paul Tollefson were among the Cardinals instrumental in piling up the huge triumphant point total but they were a small portion of the overall list of contributors. No less than 11 Arlington thinslades made it to the winner's circle as their team annexed firsts in six individual events and both relay races.

Steele, waging his usual battle with Wheeling's Nick Silvestri for hurdles kudos, grabbed a first in the highs and a second in the lows while adding a stint to his squad's successful 880 relay unit.

Somers, although not earning an individual first, boosted Arlington's pointage count with a second in the long jump, a third in the 220 and ran the anchor leg in the half mile relay. Tollefson at the same time notched one first and one second in the weight events.

THE VIKINGS CAME up with 1-2 showings in the 100, 220 and 440 in addition to placing second behind the hosts in both relays. Deerfield had two individual winners and snared the number three team position at 46 1/2 while the Wildcats, running without the services of hurdler Tom Johann and sprinter Gary Hildebrandt, fell off to fourth with 40 1/2 points.

Among the better efforts Saturday, Niles North's Klein hit a 50.05 in winning the quarter and Warrior Rick Mittleman upstaged Card Joe Hooker's best time in the half — a 2:00.5, by slipping in four tenths of a second under the two-minute mark.

Tollefson's winning shot put was a hefty 57-0 and teammate Sam Witt soared past 20 feet to gain the nod in the long jump at 20 feet to gain the nod in the long jump at 20-2 3/4. Steele and Silvestri were both under 15 seconds in the highs and the 'Cat speedster captured the lows with a 19.5 clocking.

THE 880 RELAY victory, with Rich Pelland and Mike Hadley running between Steels and Somers, was finished up at a respectable 1:30.65. Pelland and Hooker also contributed to a 3:26.55 verdict in the mile relay, along with Mike Dority and Gary Raddemann.

Gary Fagerson and Fred Harth of the hosts were among three pole vaulters tying for the number one position at 13 feet even. Another Card, Tom Swanson, had little difficulty winning the mile race at 4:27.4, but Wheeling's Frank Savage put on a strong stretch run to pull in behind him four seconds later.

Kevin Barthule of the 'Cats nosed out Tollefson for first by more than two feet in the discus with a 140-1 1/2 toss. Dave Marzalek slipped in just under 10 minutes to win the two-mile race but was well ahead of his nearest competitor.

Arlington made it a sweep for the afternoon by sauntering off with the frosh-soph victory by a healthy gap too. The Card w-class squad chalked up 88 points while Wheeling trailed with 63, Deerfield with 51 and Niles North with 26.

THE BEST IN Sports

Palatine Loses But Finds Pitcher

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Palatine baseball coach Roy Schodler discovered, though in a losing cause, that he has one of the best and deepest pitching staffs in the Mid-Suburban League Friday afternoon.

Schodler went into the season knowing he had two top-notch pitchers in Dave Hasbach and John Dempster and Friday he found his third pitcher — Pat Doyle. Doyle pitched a splendid game but had little hitting support as the Pirates lost 1-0 to Glenbrook North.

Doyle hurled five innings of one-hit ball against Glenbrook North, considered to be one of the best hitting teams in suburban Chicago, and gave up only one run and four hits over seven innings in cold weather.

DOYLE YIELDED ONE hit in the second inning and did not give up another till the sixth. In the sixth frame Glenbrook North scored the only run of the game on three singles and an error. Doyle struck out three batters and walked five, one intentionally.

Palatine had its troubles at the plate, getting only two hits off of hard throwing Rich Langer, a southpaw.

Palatine had one baserunner in the first, one in the second, two in the fourth and one in the seventh but could not score.

Roger Outcalt connected for Palatine's first hit which was of the infield variety in the second inning. Outcalt's hit was his fifth in three games for a batting average of .556.

Hasbach banged out a single for the Pirates' second hit. In the sixth inning, Hasbach, who was playing right field, made a perfect throw from 250 feet away, and almost nailed the winning run at the plate. The runner, Larry Thurston, made the score with a diving head-first slide.

The loss gives Palatine a 2-1 record for the 1969 season.

Lions Handle DeLaSalle, 7-0

The fifth game — not the third — was the charmer for St. Viator's varsity baseball squad.

It took Coach Pat Mahoney's charges until the fifth game of their season to get on the right track, but once they did get on the track they did it in fine style blasting Chicagoland Prep League foe de La Salle, 7-0, Friday afternoon.

The victory took some of the sting away from the 3-2 setback the Lions absorbed Thursday in nine innings at the hands of Glenbrook South.

FRIDAY'S GAME WAS all Mark Walinski's. The strong Lion hurler threw a two-hitter at the Meteors, walking only two and fanning 11. In addition, Walinski aided his own cause by going one for three at the plate.

Of course the other Lions weren't exactly standing still. While Walinski was keeping the Meteors from mounting any threats, the Lions were backing him up by cracking out 11 base knocks.

The Lions started out by chasing two men home in the second. After Mike Abinanti had walked and been picked off first, Jack Brawley singled and was sacrificed to second by Ken Preski. Mike Pettenuzzo then singled and went to second on the relay home that failed to keep Brawley from scoring. Walinski then singled to knock Pettenuzzo home.

IN THE THIRD another pair of markers came across when Brawley singled, followed by Pettenuzzo's base knock that brought Brawley to third. Walinski grounded out to the third base man, but Brawley came home on the throw to first and Pettenuzzo went to second. Then Jim Hynes cracked a safety to score Pettenuzzo.

The final three tallies all came in the sixth. Hynes led off with a single and went to second on Dick Aylward's fly to center that was dropped. Mike O'Donnell's ground-out moved both Lions up a base, and Hynes came home on Pat Sheetz's fumbled grounder. Abinanti followed up with a safety to score Aylward and move Sheetz to second. Sheetz went to third on an attempted cut down of Abinanti and then came home on Preski's sacrifice fly to right.

In the contest with Glenbrook South Thursday, though, the Lions weren't so fortunate. Behind Spike Brody's powerful right arm that sent 13 Lion batters to the bench empty handed, the Titans chalked up a ninth inning victory, 3-2.

BOTH TEAMS STARTED fast, the Lions collecting a single tally in the first when Ken Preski went to second on a two-bag throwing error and then came home when the Glenbrook first base man misjudged the relay on Mike Pettenuzzo's grounder. The Titans countered with a run of their own on a walk, a steal of second and a single.

The Titans struck next in the sixth when Brodie led off with a single, went to second on a fielder's choice, took third on a passed ball, and then came home on a balk by Lion hurler Mark Delaney.

The Lions sent the game into extra innings when Pettenuzzo singled, took third on an error and then scored when Dick Aylward lofted a fly to right for a sacrifice.

The bout stayed at 2-2 until the ninth when the Titans put together a base on balls and a triple to win.

Vikes Lose Tennis

Randy Seller and Chuck Weber recorded victories but Fremd's tennis team lost to Ridgewood 3-2 last week.

Seller won in No. 1 singles 6-2 and 7-5 and Weber won in No. 3 singles 2-6, 6-4, 9-7. Mark Dreyfus, No. 2 singles, lost 3-6, 3-6. The No. 1 doubles, George Manthey and Bob Stanfield lost 6-2, 0-6, 4-6 and the No. 2 doubles of Gary Davis and Jack Rolfe lost 1-6, 1-6.

First Knight Victory

The Prospect Knights fashioned their first baseball victory of the season Friday afternoon over Niles North, 5-3. For details of this game and the Knights' 4-2 set back at the hand of Maine West, see tomorrow's editions of the Herald.

Knight Golfers 'Best Ever'

Every coach likes to see his athletes kick off their season with an impressive victory. Big wins, coaches know, mean confidence — an essential for any team striving for a conference championship.

And Prospect varsity golf coach Mike Nisen is no different from any other head mentor — he fully appreciates the value of confidence-inspiring victory. So when his golfers kick off their 1969 season this afternoon against Forest View at the Mount Prospect Country Club at 4 p.m., he knows a win against the Falcons will be one of the highlights of the entire season.

"We figure this will be our toughest dual meet of the year," explains Nisen. "The Mid-Suburban League golf race this year will probably be between us two teams and, maybe, Conant."

So today is the big day for the Knight golfers, who will be drying to defend their Mid-Suburban League co-championship. Give the Knights a win and they could be unbeatable!

rom here on in.

And from all indications, the Knights should be able to repeat their MSL title. Nisen reports that every member of last year's title team is back and that he has picked up some boys off last year's frosh-soph squad that should be making some noise this season on the varsity level.

Leading the list of returnees is Steve Orrell, medalist in the conference meet last season. Also coming back are Bruce Timko, Bruce Recher and Scott Crawford. In addition, Nisen expects juniors Kim Walter, Jim Schmidt and Al Marchetti to be seeing a lot of varsity action this year.

Two Wins, Ristau No-Hitter

Fast Start for Defending MSL Champ

by PAUL LOGAN

Elk Grove's baseball team is 100 per cent better than it was last year at this time and that's got to be bad news to the rest of the Mid-Suburban League.

Heading into their first conference game of 1968, the Grenadiers were 0-2.

THIS WEDNESDAY, which will be the Grenadiers' first game in their defense of the MSL crown, they'll be carrying a non-conference mark of 2-0 — both being very impressive victories.

The key to both of these triumphs was pitching. In their opener against Ridgewood last Thursday, Dave Ristau — a letter-winning righty from last year — tossed a pitching masterpiece — a no-hitter! Elk Grove won the one, 1-0.

Then, last Saturday against Addison Trail, Gordon Hollywood — who was making his debut as a varsity starter — flung a fine six-hitter and received a 5-2 decision.

COACH LARRY PEDY saw this team, which was minus three starters to give some of the bench a test, have plenty of hustle in defeating the Blazers before a fine crowd.

Hollywood, who was lifted after tiring late in the seventh inning, showed fine poise. The rangy lefty spread out the Blazers' hits so that they could manage two runs — one in the first and the other in the fifth — both of which were unearned.

The Grenadiers didn't waste any time in getting back in the game by tying things at 1-1 on run scoring base hit by Tom Komin. Tagging home was Gary Pleickhardt who reached on a walk, stole second and was moved to third on a perfect bunt single by Jeff Boyer.

Pedy's boys had wings on their feet throughout the game as they stole seven bases while being nailed only twice.

IN THE SECOND inning they took the lead for good by scoring twice. This was how it went:

Doug Mitsuka opened with a walk, went to third on Kev nChesney's single to left, Mike Losch also singled to the same spot driving in Mitsuka, and Chesney came home on a wild pitch.

The third frame saw the defending league champs pad their lead. Mitsuka started things after two were out with another walk. He promptly stole second and then scored on a single to right-center by Chesney.

LOSCH REACHED ON an error sending Chesney to third. He then came home in a passed ball.

In the fifth the Blazers reached Hollywood for two straight hits with an outfield error putting both men in scoring position. Then came one of two fine fielding plays of the game.

Addison's Bob Landrum hit a sacrifice fly to left which scored one run but a perfect relay from Mitsuka-to-Losch-to-Klemons cut down the runner at third. This was the Grove's first twin-killing of the season.

With one gone in the seventh, a Blazer lashed a shot to Losch's right but he leaped and snagged it to steal a single.

HOLLYWOOD WALKED the next batter and so Dave Rossol came in and got the next man to pop up.

In Ristau's masterpiece, the Grove got its only tally in the fifth inning. Losch opened things with a double and then came scampering home on a triple by Chuck Anderson. He might have also scored but a fine throw cut him out for a homer.

Losch also was the star glove man in that tilt. In the fourth frame he had to race to his right, deep in the hole, and came up with the ball to throw out the runner.

THAT WAS THE ONLY tough change the Grove fielders had to contend with. Two errors and three walks prevented Ristau from getting a perfect game. Only one runner reached second and that was due to a Ristau balk.

The fine junior hurler fanned five Ridgewood batters in the game which lasted just six innings because of darkness.

Building Year for Wheeling Tennis

Wheeling has seven tennis starters with varsity experience.

But only since Thursday.

That was the day coach Ted Ecker's entire first string 'Cat unit received their varsity net baptism, opening at home against a touted Maine South aggregation.

The results bore out Ecker's observation that 1969 is a building year for Wheeling's tennis team. The Hawks hammered the youthful host group 5-0, requiring just two sets to win every bout.

STILL, ECKER IS anything but discouraged. "We expected to get beat but frankly, our kids showed up better than I thought they would," he exclaimed.

One of the players Ecker feels has improved the most is Steve Magerl, a member of last year's varsity squad although he didn't see action. He and Bob Carlson, who the mentor has pegged for the number two and one singles spots respectively, are the only seniors on the squad.

Third singles choice of the coach is Bob Lemke, who played first singles on Wheeling's frosh-soph squad a great deal of last season.

WILDCAT DOUBLES positions all appear to be filled by juniors who played in that capacity with the frosh-soph in '68. They are Ron Fedyski, Ron Cuff, Walt Bjornsen and Wayne Fish.

Another netman who "will make us a little stronger," according to Ecker is Mike Menia. A senior, Menia is currently nursing an injured hand.

Wheeling moves into the conference slate next, pairing off against host Glenbard North Tuesday.

Conant in Fast Start

Add another team to the long list of contenders for the Mid-Suburban League baseball championships.

Conant High School, which finished second in the MSL last year, opened the 1969 season in good form by beating Ridgewood 4-0 and Mundelein 5-2 in contests last week.

The Cougars got good pitching from the pitchers, good hitting from the hitters and good defense from the defenders. The Cougars, in other words, have two good efforts.

AGAINST RIDGEWOOD, Jim Button and John MacDonald combined to throw a one-hitter while tossing a shutout. Against Mundelein, John Furio, an All-Conference performer for the past two years, fired a five-hitter.

Button fanned three Ridgewood batters and MacDonald eight and it was MacDonald who gave up the only hit — a Texas League single over the shortstop's head.

Conant clinched the win against Ridgewood by scoring three runs in the third inning. Steve Evenson singled and Kirk Wyatt and Gil Lopesilvero walked to load the bases. Wally Wiener singled home Evenson and Dave Kellermeyer singled home both Wyatt and Lopesilvero to make the score 3-0.

CONANT ADDED ONE more run in the sixth on consecutive singles by Rich Payson, Tom Trendell and Furio.

The Cougars scored in each of the first four innings against Mundelein, the 1968 Tri-Country champions, to nail down the triumph.

Wiener blasted a triple to right field to score Lopesilvero for Conant's run in the first inning.

Larry Celeste reached first on a fielder's choice, Evenson walked and Wyatt singled for the Cougar's second run in the second inning.

CONANT SCORED twice in the third inning on a single by Wiener, a walk to Kellermeyer an error and a two-run single by Furio.

The Cougar's fifth run came in the fourth frame when Evenson walked, stole second and scored when Wyatt's single went through the legs of the Mundelein left fielder.

Furio showed splendid control on the mound as he struck out five batters and did not walk one. Mundelein reached the Cougar rightfielder for two runs in the second inning on three hits, but Furio allowed only two hits the rest of the way.

The two-game totals had Wyatt going 2-for-6, Lopesilvero 2-for-4, Wiener 3-for-6 and Furio 4-for-5.

Bruns Cops Only Fremd Win

Tommy Bruns won his second game of the 1969 season and Fremd lost two games, both by one run, as the Vikings closed out the week's play with a 1-2 record and a 2-2 record for the season.

A Fremd rally just fell short Wednesday as Glenbrook North defeated the Vikings 8-7. Bruns fired a six-hit shutout in a 4-0 victory over Grant Thursday and on Friday the Vikings had a 3-0 lead before falling to Barrington 4-3.

Glenbrook North took a 4-0 lead in the top half of the first inning but Fremd came back to make it 4-3 on a walk, a single by Larry Anderson and a home run by Rick Dwyer. Glenbrook North went ahead 8-3 at the end of two and one-half innings before the Vikings scored once in the bottom of the third and three times in the fourth but it wasn't enough in the 8-7 loss.

Fremd scored three runs in the first inning on one single and one run in the second against Grant on two walks and singles by Bob Loughlin and Gerry Brydash and that was all the help Bruns needed. Bruns, who won on opening day 7-4, fanned nine and walked only one.

Southpaw Larry Anderson had a one-hitter going for five and one-third innings against Barrington before tiring. Relief pitcher Tim Simpson was tagged for the loss as Barrington scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth for a 4-3 win.

The Vikings scored three runs in the first inning on two errors, a walk and singles by Ed Wlodarczyk, Anderson and Pete Clark. Fremd did not get a hit the remainder of the game.

Harper, Roeske Frustrate Joliet, 7-0

by PAUL LOGAN

There was kind of an historical occasion last Thursday afternoon at Recreation Park's diamond.

Harper College, which is one of the newest junior colleges in the state, was hosting Joliet College, the oldest two-year institution in Illinois, in its first baseball homecoming event.

And the young Hawks gave the visiting, tradition-minded Wolves fair warning that they weren't awed by their presence even before they got off the bus — a batting practice foul ball ricocheted off the slowly approaching bus!

However, that wasn't enough to send the whole aggregation high tailing it back to the Des Plaines River community, but the next four hours of frustration probably made them wish they would have.

The Hawks ripped them in the opener of the doubleheader by a 7-0 count and then sent the Wolves home with their tails between their legs after not getting any decision in the second contest.

Harper got the only run it needed to win when Ron Kunde sacrificed driving in Bill Erdmann.

Still the Hawks weren't content with a 1-0 edge and gave starting and winning pitcher Kevin Roeske a big cushion in the third inning. In that frame, 10 Hawks went to the plate and six of them tallied.

The big inning was brought about in this way:

Kunde and Jim Kenny walked; Jim Stanborski singled to load the bases; Roger Jobin sent home Kunde on a sacrifice; Greg Kroll bunted to load things again; Roeske sent home two more with a single; Erdmann doubled; and then Kevin Freund drove them both across with a single.

Roeske showed fine form in capturing his first victory of the season. He gave up just three hits and only one Joliet runner got as far as third base. He issued just one base on balls and had six strikeouts.

Three Hawks had good days at the plate — Erdmann and Stanborski went three for four and Freund was two for three.

In the second game, the Hawks jumped off to a 2-0 lead but the Wolves battled back scoring five in the second.

Harper cut the margin to 5-4 in the fourth but the game had to be called because a high school game was scheduled.

Coach Cleve Hinton's charges are now 2-1 on the season while Joliet is 1-1-1 and frustrated.

Tight Again But Profitable

Loosening up isn't exactly easy when all your ball games are tight contests.

After three outings Hersey still indicated no signs of loosening up for regulation play either although Huskie mentor Steve Chernicky was not about to complain.

Thursday when his charges eased by a Crown nine at Carpentersville, 3-2.

It was their third straight contest to be decided by a single run and the second favoring the Huskies during their non-conference slate this spring.

TIMELY HITTING by Doug Glader and a clutch relief stint by Rick Kreutzfeld keyed the triumph. Glader launched a two-out single in the bottom of the second that drove in Hersey's second and third runs and Kreutzfeld came on in the fourth to spell starter Paul Elisco and save him the victory when the hosts threatened to regain the lead.

Earlier Elisco had supplied a little offensive punch of his own to put Hersey on the scoreboard. In the top of the first stanza he singled in Bruce Frase after Frase had beat out an infield hit and moved along to third on George Solomon's one-bagger.

Glader came up with his first hit of the season in the second frame and it turned out to be a game winning blow. Jack Jenkins started things off first by poking a grounder between the shortstop's legs and was subsequently forced at second, Mike Ryder taking first.

COACH STEVE Chernicky then called for the hit-and-run and Steve Fisher responded with a hit up the middle that had Ryder digging into third and Fisher taking second on the throw. Glader promptly smashed his single to center and Hersey assumed a 3-0 lead.

In the fourth Crown came up with a single to right center, another single down the right field line and a double to left center, scoring two and chasing Elisco. Kreutzfeld took command and served up a ground out and a strike out to choke off the rally.

Darkness shortened the duration of the game to six innings and allowed the Huskies to depart the field dramatically. With runners on first and second and nobody out in the bottom of the sixth Crown attempted a sacrifice but catcher Steve Tonneff bounced on the bunt and threw out the advance runner at third.

Then Tonneff picked off another runner trying to steal third and finally Kreutzfeld completely cleared the base paths by catching the last runner off base and forcing him into a pitcher-to-first-to-shortstop rundown.

Hersey diamondmen wind up their exhibition season Monday by trekking to Fox Lake to tangle with Grant.

Newman Sharp

Bill Newman's masterful twirling coupled with the defensive handiwork of his teammates carried Wheeling to their second straight exhibition baseball triumph 4-1 over visiting Niles West Thursday.

With little hitting but a lot of nifty baserunning to back him up, Newman made his first varsity start a stellar one, yielding only four hits and two walks while going all the way. The senior southpaw put the accent on control and the Indians got only six shots out of the infield all afternoon.

All six strokes went toward right field. Two were routine flys but two more, in the first inning, allowed Niles the satisfaction of a temporary 1-0 lead.

Wheeling batting was a different story. Three of their four tallies came without benefit of a safety and they produced only five singletons the entire game.

The two key hits occurred in the bottom of the second and put the hosts ahead to stay. Scott Day led off with a single through the box, was forced on Wright's grounder, Wright stole second and then dashed around and in on Schweitzer's hard base hit to right center.

Vote Goes 'Experience'

A 28,000 POUND mining machine was lowered into this shaft on Wise Road in Schaumburg Friday at ceremonies for the beginning of construction of the 1.25-mile Wise Road Interceptor sewer line. Metropolitan Sanitary District Supt. Vinton Bacon said the sewer is designed to serve 4.2 square miles and 32,464 people. The five-foot diameter sewer will be constructed in tunnel at depths from 30 to 60 feet. Mayor Robert O. Atcher called it "the key to $300 million worth of development for Schaumburg."

Last Minute Write-Ins Woo Voters

A last minute write-in campaign is underway in Schaumburg by two candidates seeking village trustee posts in tomorrow's election.

Two Weathersfield residents, Jerome Cnota and Martin Ryan, are hoping to provide a challenge to the United Village party's unopposed slate. The three United Village party candidates are Donald P. De Vale, Matthew T. Helsper and Wilfred "Bill" Meyer.

IN AN INTERVIEW with the Herald Cnota and Ryan said they decided to run as write-ins "to give the people a choice."

According to campaign literature, they are sponsored by the Concerned Voters of Schaumburg and have about 15 active campaign workers. In addition they circulated petitions for support.

Cnota, 29, of 1035 Webster Lane has lived in the village with his wife, Linda, and daughter, Pamela, for 16 months. He is a member of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township and is currently Precinct 22 captain.

He is working on a master's degree at Loyola University and is employed at De Soto, Inc.

RYAN, 33, is a salesman for Precision Litho Plate, Inc. and has lived at 1710 Syracuse for 19 months with his wife Janice and children, JaAnn, Tina and Kevin. He is a member of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST) and co-captain in Precinct 2.

Both said their campaign has no connection or backing from ROOST.

Their campaign literature states: "The candidates who will appear on the ballot are men selected by our present village board, and are running unopposed in this election. We offer the voters a choice by a write-in vote to select two independent trustees who will truly represent the homeowners of the village."

The eight-point platform pledges:

—INVESTIGATING and reports of our findings as to the reasons why Schaumburg village water rates are as much as 40 per cent higher than nearby villages.

—Bimonthly billings of water rates as opposed to the present monthly billings which will reduce village clerical costs by 50 per cent as well as the homeowners postage and handling costs.

—A village complaint desk to insure the residents receiving prompt, efficient and courteous service from village employees.

—Limitation on the amount of land available for apartment zoning, especially three bedroom apartments.

—INFORMATIVE discussions between the trustees and the homeowners in matters concerning zoning, schools, sludge farms, and maintenance of the village streets and lighting.

—Stricter enforcement of building code violations by home developers in the village.

—Public information of real estate located in the village and owned by village board members.

—Closer scrutiny of our tax rolls to see that real estate taxes are listed on the tax rolls upon the occupancy of apartments and homes.

TUESDAY'S BALLOTS will have a space for write-ins and the candidates said election judges must tell a voter how to write-in if asked.

"We're not politicians. We're interested in Schaumburg and the people," Ryan said.

Cnota said the two have an "excellent chance to win if the people of Schaumburg turnout in large numbers."

Slate Wins in 211

Incumbents William Fremd and James Humphrey were reelected to the High School Dist. 211 Board of Education Saturday and were joined by Mrs. Carolyn Mullins, Schaumburg mother and former newspaper reporter.

Final unofficial returns Saturday night gave Fremd 2,065 votes to Humphrey's 2,028 and Mrs. Mullins' 1,706.

Former board member Carl Buehler, who lost last year when he sought a return to the board, ran fourth Saturday with 1,212 votes.

RICHARD CHERICO, a former Palatine High School teacher who also ran and lost last year, was low vote-getter with 1,102, unofficially.

Fremd is a 32 year veteran of the Dist. 211 board. He is the only school board member in the area with a school bearing his name. William Fremd High School serves most of western Palatine and much of the unincorporated area of Palatine Township.

Humphrey, who currently is president of the board, has been on and off the board for about 5 1/2 years.

He was first elected to a one year term on the board in 1963 and won a three year term in 1964.

HE RAN AGAIN in 1967 but was defeated. However, when a vacancy was created on the board in late 1967, Humphrey was appointed to fill it and he was reelected in 1968 to a one year term.

Mrs. Mullins, the wife of a Schaumburg

Four incumbents and a candidate with prior board service were elected to seats on the Dist. 54 Board of Education in Saturday's election.

Gordon Thoren and Mrs. Bonnie Hamon won three-year board terms in the school election. Thoren received 962 votes, Mrs. Hamon 830.

THE OTHER TWO candidates for a three-year term were Gerald Lewin, 606 votes; and Frank Vlasaty, 451 votes.

Donald Ruby, who previously served on the Dist. 54 Board, was elected to a two-year term with 658 votes.

Elected to one-year terms were Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen, who received 909 votes; and Edward Bedard, who polled 721 votes. None of the other five candidates for the two 1-year terms came close to the voting total for these incumbents.

New board members will be seated Thursday night, the time of the regular board meeting. At that time officers for the coming year will be elected.

APPROXIMATELY 1,550 voters went to the polls to cast ballots in the Dist. 54 School Board election. Voting was also held for seats on the Dist. 211 and Harper Junior College Boards.

Total votes cast for the three candidates running for the two-year board term were as follows: Ruby, 658; Harry Mamach, 424; and John McGill, 372.

In the contest for two 1-year board the polls to cast ballots this way: Thorsen, 909; Bedard, 721; Martin Stanton, 373; Fred Henning, 288; John Stencil, 251; LeRoy Krizka, 173; and Paul Baid, 138.

Mrs. Thorsen has a total of six years service on the Dist. 54 Board, and Bedard has served one full term. Both ran on a platform of experience.

Gordon Thoren, elected to a three-year term, is a former president of the Hoffman Estates Jaycees. He lives at 577 Edgefield Lane, Hoffman Estates, with his wife and son, Scott, Thoren, a systems supervisor for Allstate Insurance Co., was appointed to the board in January.

MRS. BONNIE HAMON has served on the school board eight months. She was appointed to fill a board vacancy last August. A homemaker and the mother of four children, Mrs. Hamon was an education major in college. She lives at 1407 Hampton Lane, Schaumburg.

Donald Ruby, of Hoffman Estates, previously served on the Dist. 54 School Board from 1963 to 1967. He will complete the two years remaining on an unexpired term.

An electrical engineer, Ruby is an engineering specialist for Zenith Radio Corp. He lives at 178 Hillcrest Court with his wife, Mae, and three children, Robert, 17; Paul, 15, and Janice, 10. Ruby has also been a Boy Scout leader for Troop 198.

Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen lives on Irving Park Road in unincorporated Schaumburg Township with her husband and four children. She is a first grade teacher in the Barrington school system.

EDWARD BEDARD, presently board secretary, has been active in the study group planning for a Northwest Educational Cooperative, composed of 10 area school districts. He lives at 350 Pierce Road, Hoffman Estates.

Other board members are Elmer Linden and Mrs. Betty Landon.

village trustee, is a former reporter and education editor for Pioneer newspapers.

She has reported both Elementary Dist. 54 and the high school district.

Humphrey, Fremd and Mrs. Mullins ran as a slate and directed most of their campaign at Chierico and against charges Chierico leveled at the district.

CAMPAIGN LITERATURE distributed by the three victors even included plastic rain covers wrapped around home delivery editions of Chicago newspapers Saturday morning and afternoon.

Mrs. Mullins had the endorsement of Donald Truitt, who announced early this year that he was not going to seek reelection but that he would support Mrs. Mullins for his seat on the board.

Her strongest criticism of the district was what she called a shortage of programs for students who do not intend to go on to college. Mrs. Mullins pledged she will work for more guidance programs after election.

Chierico's losing campaign was similar to last year's when he also lost. He has complained that the district is wasteful money and hinted at mismanagement of the board after he was defeated in 1967. Chierico maintains there were several Dist. 211 funds and also criticized the district for its appointment of Humphrey to qualified candidates for the appointment but the district ignored them in favor of Humphrey.

A LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS unit may be formed for Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg women. The unit would be a branch of the Arlington Heights League. A coffee for prospective members was held last week at Schaumburg Township Library. Mrs. Henny DuBois, (right) one of the organizers, said, "It looks optimistic that there will be enough local women to form a unit." Mrs. Yolanda Czarowski of Schaumburg looks at league material.

New Leaders Decision Up to Voters

After two months of campaigning, the final hour has arrived. The decision now belongs to the voter.

At stake in Hoffman Estates are five four-year terms — those of village president, three trustees and the clerk.

At odds are three full slates — the Republican Party, backed by the Schaumburg Township GOP organization, the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP), led by a village trustee; and Hoffman Independent Party (HIP), whose standard bearer was an unsuccessful candidate for the state legislature last year.

ALTHOUGH HEP AND HIP have been labeled coalition tickets, both consist primarily of registered Democrats.

There could have been a fourth slate — the Better Government Alliance, formed and led by a top-ranking official of the township Democratic organization.

This ticket was ruled off the ballot at an electoral board hearing called to decide on the validity of objections filed by both the Better Government Alliance and HIP.

There could also have been a last minute write-in candidate for village president, or even a full slate, a move unsuccessfully attempted by an incumbent candidate who was defeated in the April 1 park election.

DEEPENING INTEREST in the race is the fact that only one incumbent, the village clerk, who was appointed to fill a vacancy less than three months ago, is running.

As the race has progressed, the big questions have become the entrance of a national party into local government and dissatisfaction with the present administration.

The GOP candidates — Fred Downey (president), Mrs. Virginia Hayter, Edward J. Hennessy and Bruce C. Lind (trustees) and Mrs. Virginia M. Netter (clerk) — have hit the administration hard on many issues including "irresponsible" zoning and fiscal policies.

HEP candidates — Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble (president), Monte P. Arkus, William Schumacher and Larry Koontz (trustees) and Village Clerk Mrs. Dolores Ward have criticized the national party politics of both the GOP and HEP and are running on a platform calling for extensive recreational development. Their ticket is being supported by retiring Village Pres. Roy L. Jenkins.

HIP WITH ATTY. John P. Morrissey (president), John P. McGlinn, Michael Redmond and James Faget (trustees) and Mrs. Joan Holmes (clerk) have also attacked the zoning practices and integrity of the Jenkins administration.

The election will probably be a test of the strength of the GOP and that of the now defunct Village Party from which both Noble and Morrissey drew a number of supporters.

It will also indicate strength of the present village board.

The campaign was a lone one, although only once did all candidates come face to face. Their direct confrontation came at a candidates night sponsored by Hoffman Estates Women's Club, of which Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Hayter are both active members.

The remainder of the campaign appeared to be devoted to coffees and candidate campaigning on an individual hand-shaking basis.

HIP and the Better Government Alliance met head on during the electoral board hearing with Morrissey's slate being permitted to remain on the ballot, while Charles J. DePaul's ticket was knocked out completely because of a duplication of party name.

Documented information indicating that HIP petitions were circulated by persons other than those whose signatures were notarized as passers was not considered invalid by Jenkins, who served as electoral board chairman, assisted by Trustee James Sloan and Circuit Court Judge Anton Smiegel.

SOME OBSERVERS said at that time that HIP and HEP worked together to knock out the other slate, but no proof has been uncovered.

With many charges of national party politics being tossed back and forth, political affiliation of the candidates is an interesting facet of the race.

Noble is a Republican, although not supported by the township organization; Schumacher, his trustee candidate, is also a Republican and former precinct captain. The remainder of the HEP candidates are registered Democrats.

Morrissey is a prominent member of the Democratic organization; McGlinn is past president of the same organization, and

Morrissey Says GOP Claim 'Pointless'

Republican propaganda that a GOP ticket can save Hoffman Estates is pointless, John F. Morrissey, Hoffman Independent Party (HIP) candidate for village president, alleged this week.

"If it were genuine, then why has the village administration done such a poor job when Republicans have constituted a majority of the village board," Morrissey asked in a news release.

"Mrs. Laura Reedy, village finance officer, is the wife of a former Republican committeeman and the zoning board is controlled by Republicans," Morrissey said.

"If we are going to assume that party affiliation is significant in our village government, then it would follow that Republicans as such are to blame for our apartment zoning mess. But we do not go along with the Republican Party's strange logic.

"THE QUALIFICATIONS of the candidates and their reputations for integrity are the important factors in this election," he added.

Running with Morrissey are James Fa-

GOP Vows to End Back-Room Trysts

"The era of the 'secret meeting' and the 'back room deal' will be a thing of the past in Hoffman Estates under our Republican administration," Mrs. Virginia Netter, GOP candidate for village clerk promised in a news release this week.

"Fred Downey, Virginia Hayter, Ed Hennessy, Bruce Lind and I have pledged ourselves to conducting a completely open administration responsive to the desires of all citizens for the betterment of our community," she said.

She also said unannounced secret meetings at which hundreds of thousands of dollars have been improperly passed out under the Noble-Jenkins administration will not have any place in the GOP administration.

Mrs. Netter explained that she was referring to the meetings of the Hoffman Estates Board of Local Improvements (BOLI), which is made up of members of the village board, at which a bid of $541,000 was awarded to the Tri-W Construction Co. to do work supposedly already completed.

GOP Urges Village Manager

Efficient operation of the village and optimum use of tax monies require the services of a village manager, Fred Downey, GOP candidate for Hoffman Estates village president, said in a news release this week.

He explained that the function of the village board — a president and six trustees — is to set policy and plan future development of the village.

"They cannot efficiently administer the day-to-day operations of all the village departments and services. This task is best accomplished by a full-time, professionally-trained village manager," Downey said.

He contends that the present Noble-Jenkins administration allows "improper delegation of powers to small committees in the awarding of contracts." Downey said that instead of the full board of seven members making awards, a committee of two handles the responsibility after being given "power to act" by the board.

"A VILLAGE manager would eliminate this procedure by evaluating bids and providing the full board with all information necessary to make an intelligent decision," he said.

Asserting that another area in which the services of a village manager are essential is preparation of budgets for various village departments, he said "Under the Noble-Jenkins system, each committee chairman prepares his own budget and then has to barter with other chairmen to 'approve my budget and I'll approve yours.'"

"The natural result of this is improper allocation of funds, or in blunt terms, a pork barrel," Downey commented.

Downey feels a village manager responsible for the entire budget and village concerned with the whole village, not just their own department, would result in improved budgeting, better allocation of funds and more efficient use of tax resources.

"The Noble-Jenkins administration has failed miserably in keeping most of their promises, among which was a village manager. Four years ago they ran on the pledge to hire a village manager. Well, eventually they hired one . . . and then promptly fired him."

"THE RESULT IS that our village has now been without a professional village manager for over two years."

He also said that "our opposition in this election, who incidentally are the same people who 'haven't had time' the last two years to find a village manager, now propose to select a village manager through the services of a 'blue ribbon' committee."

"This is nothing more than another attempt on their part to evade responsibility by picking a few of their cronies to sit around and talk, accomplishing nothing."

"Your GOP candidates — Virginia Hayter, Ed Hennessy, Bruce Lind, Virginia Netter and I — will not evade this responsibility. We are, in fact, all agreed that one of the first orders of business in our administration shall be the hiring of a professional, competent village manager."

"We may, if necessary, engage outside professional services to help us in finding the right man, but the decision shall be ours. Hoffman Estates needs a village manager to help us insure orderly, progressive growth, and we, as Republicans, can give nothing but our best to help in this task," he said.

Cite Bad Streets

Grand Canyon Street, between Higgins and Bode roads, was cited in a news release from the Hoffman Independent Party (HIP) as a recent example of faulty street construction.

The HIP slate, led by Atty. John F. Morrissey, party candidate for village president, charged that the asphalt paving of the street was not finished according to specifications.

"This section of Grand Canyon which runs alongside the community pool is already in horrible condition despite the fact that it was one of the latest streets to be paved," Morrissey said.

The release also pointed out that James Sloan, now a trustee and supporter of Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble, candidate for president on the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP) ticket recently took issue with Morrissey's criticism of street construction.

SLOAN, CHAIRMAN of the village street committee, contends that high standards of construction have been enforced in the village since 1966.

The release stressed that, according to Morrissey, only about one-half of Grand Canyon, near the pool, was properly paved. He said the northern part of the street is crumbling because it received only one thin layer of asphalt when it was supposed to have been covered with an additional sealer-layer.

Morrissey also noted that there is "a distinct and visible difference in thickness between the northern and southern sections of the street. Anyone can see the difference on inspection."

James Faget, John McGlinn and Michael Redmond are running for trustee on the HIP slate; Mrs. Joan Holmes is their candidate for clerk.

"By failing to enforce high standards of street construction the cost of maintenance or re-paving will constitute an additional burden on the taxpayer. It's just another example of allowing someone to get away with something at our expense," Morrissey said.

Five Classes Set At Elgin YMCA

Basic electronics, air riflery, craft, room ball and table tennis classes will begin at the Elgin YMCA, 111 N. Channing next week.

Basic electronics will begin April 16 and meet each Wednesday for eight weeks from 7 until 9 p.m. Brian Bergersen will be the instructor. It is open to boys in the fourth through ninth grades, said Howard Shaffer youth program director. Maximum enrollment will be 20 students.

Room ball and table tennis classes will begin April 17. Room ball will meet at 4:30 p.m. for seven weeks and is open to junior high school members. There is no fee, but YMCA membership is required.

Table tennis will meet in the boys' lobby at 3:45 p.m. each Thursday for four weeks. The class is open to fourth through ninth grade students, Shaffer said. There is no fee, but YMCA membership is required. Maximum enrollment will be 20 students.

AIR RIFLERY class will begin April 18 and meet Fridays at 4 p.m. for eight weeks. Open to fourth, fifth and sixth grade students, it will have a maximum enrollment of 20 students. There is no fee for YMCA members, but non-members of the YMCA may enroll by paying a fee.

Craft class is open for boys in the fourth through ninth grades. It will meet at noon on Saturdays for seven weeks in the YMCA craft shop. It, too, is restricted to YMCA members with no fee.

For more information, contact the Elgin YMCA, 695-1100.

"Without any regard for logical consistency, they have tried to paint us as a Democratic Party slate," Redmond said.

"Apparently, this is their attempt to put the shoe on the other foot and to neutralize the general opposition to major-party involvement in village affairs."

"Fourth, in final desperation, they have begun to attack personalities and to distort honest motives. I'm running because I think we need to give integrity to our local government. I would not be running with Morrissey, Faget, McGlinn and Joan Holmes if they didn't feel the same way," Redmond said.

JOINING IN THE dialogue, Faget said "Downey, of the Republican slate, has let his ambitious candidacy get in the way of good judgement.

"His negative campaign reflects his negative attitude. He tears down but he doesn't build. As a Republican myself, I would hate to think that he represents Republicans. Some of our village problems stem from a lack of cooperation with other villages and taxing bodies. But Downey is neither a diplomat nor a mediator." Faget said, adding "it seems that his idea of happiness is a room full of enemies."

"For a long time Downey has been acting as though he had some magic key to all the answers," Faget added, noting "one would have expected him to run on real issues — so what does he and his slate come up with — a campaign principally based on who belongs to what party?"

School Architects OK'd

The Board of Education of Elgin School Dist. U46 has tentatively selected architects for a new building program approved by voters in a school referendum last December.

The building program calls for the construction of four new elementary schools and a new senior high school.

The firms are Childs and Smith, Inc.,

Chicago; Orput-Orput and Associates, Inc., Rockford; Schmidtke and Layer Architects AIA, Elgin.

DR. PAUL R. LAWRENCE, superintendent of schools, will contact these firms this week to express the board of education's interest in their services.

Final action is expected to take place at the next board meeting Monday, April 14. Meeting only as a committee last night, the board could take no official action.

While Childs and Smith, Inc., is expected to receive the commission for work on the new senior high school, the district is attempting to divide the other four schools equally between the other firms based on the location of school sites and on similarity of the schools' construction.

All three firms have done extensive work in the design of educational facilities.

More Work, More Cash For Village Mayor

Because two department heads earn higher salaries than the mayor's post in Schaumburg, the village authorized paying the mayor an additional $2,500 per year as liquor commissioner.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher explained that the job of liquor commissioner is given to village presidents by state law.

The full time mayor's position in Schaumburg pays $14,400 a year. At Tuesday's meeting, Atcher also asked the board to more fully define the full time mayor's position. He said no provisions were made for vacations or time off for night meetings.

He also said he pays his own expenses, including mileage, meals and hotel bills when making trips for the village.

Voters Will Decide 4-Year Course

Hanover Park's course for the next four years will be charted Tuesday when voters decide which of four mayoral candidates to elect.

In addition to electing a village president, residents will select a clerk from a list of three candidates and five trustees out of the 16 running.

Three full slates are seeking election and two independents are running for president and trustee.

The slates are the Peoples' Own Party (POP), the Citizens' Party and the Unity Party.

Richard Baker, a former trustee and current park board member heads the POP slate; incumbent Mayor Eugene Domingue is seeking his second term on the Unity ticket; and former president and now trustee Gordon Jensen is running for mayor on the Citizens' slate.

THE INDEPENDENT mayoral candidate is Thomas Rispoli, also a former trustee.

Jensen, Domingue and Rispoli have all been active in village government since Hanover Park incorporated 10 years ago. Jensen was the first village president. Rispoli and Domingue vied for the top office four years ago when Jensen chose not to run.

Now Baker, unknown on the political scene until he ran for trustee two years ago, has entered the competition.

As a trustee, Baker ran with the slate supported by Domingue.

Another dropout from the Domingue camp is incumbent village Clerk Elaine Mars. Mrs. Mars is running for a second term on the POP ticket.

Running on the POP slate are:

BAKER, 35, MAYORAL candidate, a sales representative for Monroe International. He was a trustee from April, 1967, to August, 1968. He was instrumental in updating the water department billing system and developed the first budget for the village.

Baker also formed the "Citizens for the Welfare of Hanover Park" committee which successfully fought the Metropolitan Sanitary District's (MSD) proposed 2,000 acre sludge farm that would have been located adjacent to Hanover Park.

As chairman of the water committee, his studies led to the formation of the Blue-Ribbon Water Study Committee and further discussions on water conservation and water meters.

MRS. MARS, CANDIDATE for village clerk, is a member of the Hanover Women's League and is a volunteer worker for the Salvation Army, VFW and Little League. Prior to being elected clerk in 1968, she did volunteer work at Little City, home for the mentally retarded, in Palestine.

Until a fallout with the Domingue administration, Mrs. Mars was also the collector for the village and kept her office open five days a week at village hall.

REV. DAVID A. BUGH, 41, is running for trustee. He is pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Living Christ and was formerly executive director of a church public relations agency in New York City.

He is chairman of the water study committee and secretary of the zoning board of appeals. He is an active member in the Lions Club and headed the 1968 Candy Day for the blind.

LOUIS BARONE, 41, a trustee candidate, is a lawyer and works for the Allstate Insurance Co. He helped secure petitions during the sludge farm threat last summer.

For the last 18 months he has been president of the Hanover Park Property Owners' Association. He is also a member of the Illinois Bar Association, the Catholic Lawyers Guild and the Knights of Columbus.

JAMES LEWIS, 31, is the third trustee candidate on the POP ticket. He is employed by the Weyerhaeuser Co. He was also active on the sludge farm committee.

Other village activities include the Hanover Park Boys Baseball Association, Little League manager and executive vice president of the Property Owners.

BARRY ROGERS, 29, is the fourth trustee candidate. He is an auditor with the Mount Prospect State Bank and is currently attending the American Institute of Banking, taking an advanced accounting course.

He also assisted in the sludge farm protest and is a Little League manager. Rogers is treasurer of the Property Owners group.

JAMES M. SCHEUBER JR., 48, is the fifth trustee candidate. He is currently a bakery and food engineer, but has six years' experience as a construction engineer in areas of water distribution, streets and sewers and design layouts of communities.

Members of the Citizens' slate are:

JENSEN, 56, a lifetime resident of Hanover Township and first village president. He retired in 1965 because of heart surgery, but ran successfully in 1967 for trustee.

During his tenure as mayor, the village water system was established. The $4 per month per home unmetered water rate established then is still in effect.

He was also instrumental in creating a police and fire commission and secured the fieldhouse and Ahlstrand Park at no cost to the village.

MRS. MARGARET B. HUNT is the clerk candidate on the Citizens' slate. She served as village clerk from 1961 to 1963 under Jensen's administration.

Mrs. Hunt resigned as village clerk in 1963 because "at that time only $200 was appropriated for the office and I did not have other funds to sustain myself."

VINCENT PETITTI, 33, is a trustee candidate. He was chairman of a private water study committee and has regularly attended village board meetings for the past year.

"If I'm elected, it won't take a citizen eight months to have a question answered," he told the Herald.

RICHARD DIDRIKSEN, 33, a sales manager for Magnacraft Electronics, is the second trustee candidate.

"The promises of the last election were not kept. I'm against water meters. Our ticket represents all the people of the village," Didriksen said.

FRANK J. BARTA, 35, is the third candidate. He has lived in the village nine years and is a quality control manager for Ampex Corp.

He said he is running because of the "inconsistency of the board we have now. They are inadequate in providing many things and aren't managing the village properly."

DONALD BARTA, 27, (no relation to Frank Barta) is the fourth trustee candidate. He is a contologist (someone who fits contact lenses) and lives at 7612 Brookside Dr. He attended the Chicago Conservatory of Music and DePaul University and had the unique experience of playing a solo with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra when he was 17.

"I feel we have to be represented by all people. I feel our platform is a good one; I agree with all its points," he said.

MICHAEL MASCHONE, 25, is the fifth candidate. He has lived for a year at 7579 Brookside Dr. and is an electrician.

"I think there's a lack of representation in Longmeadows North. I want to see people in our area and other sections have a voice in our government. I believe in the platform we have proposed. I will back it and live up to it," he said.

The Unity slate:

DOMINGUE, seeking his second term as village president, is also president of the Ontarioville Fire district.

During his term of office the village experienced its major growth, particularly east of Schaumburg Road. A new shopping center is now under construction in that area. Last fall, the village also began to clean and dredge the west branch of the DuPage River to alleviate flooding problems.

MRS. MARGUERITE HARRISON is the Unity candidate for clerk.

RICHARD PESZYNSKI, incumbent trustee, is seeking a full four-year term. He was appointed to the board more than a year ago, and is chairman of the water committee.

WILLIAM HOMMOWUN, also an incumbent, is the second trustee candidate seeking a four-year term. He was appointed by Domingue last year and has been active in the Boys Baseball Association. He is a former park district commissioner.

MARIO ADELEZZI is the third candidate. He is also an appointed trustee. He works for Helene Curtis and has lived in the village six years. He is active in the Lions Club.

FRANK DALLA VALLE, is the fourth incumbent and trustee candidate. He is an engineer with Illinois Bell and has lived at 1550 Birch for five years.

He was appointed to the board in February and is chairman of the building department.

JAMES P. RAYE, is the only candidate for trustee who is not an incumbent. He is running for a two-year term.

The independent candidates are:

THOMAS RISPOLI, 36, is a candidate for president. He was elected trustee in 1963 and resigned in 1965. He is employed by the Georgia-Pacific Corp. and resides at 1700 Sycamore Ave. with his wife and four children.

He organized the Civil Defense unit in the village and was the first director.

"In my opinion, our village is due for a big change. By running for independent village president, it would eliminate a controlled board of trustees. By holding this position, I feel I could preserve and protect our village more efficiently," Rispoli said.

VINCENT GRAZIANO is an independent candidate for trustee. He lived in the village five years and is employed by Buckbee-Mears. He has served as chairman of the Boy Scouts in the village and has been active in civil defense.

Teachers Salary Approved

The 1969-70 salary schedule for Dist. 54 teachers was approved Thursday by the board of education, two days before the board election. It provides for a base salary of $7,100 for a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree.

Previously the base salary in the district had been $6,400 per year.

The Dist. 54 board also adopted a recommendation of the superintendent that the district strive to maintain a class size of not more than 30 pupils in kindergarten and first grade, and not more than 35 pupils in grades two through eight.

Dist. 54 classroom teachers ratified terms of the salary agreement at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon. Increased fringe benefits for teachers provide for the accumulation of sick leave up to 120 days. A minimum of 10 days of sick leave per school year is provided for all personnel.

IN ADDITION, TEACHERS chaperoning junior high dances and athletic events will be paid $10 per event.

In related action Thursday night, the Dist. 54 board formally established the position of chairman of junior high department in the academic areas of science, social studies, English and mathematics. These department chairmen will be paid an additional $350 per year above their teaching salary.

Also approved by the board was a $350 pay raise for junior high coaches, G.A.A.

advisors and instrumental music teachers. And the head of the music and art departments will be paid an additional $750 per year.

Assistant principals at the three junior high schools in the district will earn an additional $750 a year above their regular teaching salary.

The salary of the superintendent of schools for 1969-70 will be $22,600.

BECAUSE ASSISTANT Supt. Milton Derr will be taking a sabbatical leave during 1969-70 to work on his doctorate, he will be paid on a half-time basis. His regular salary is $18,200 a year.

Ronald Ruble will serve as Dist. 54 Assistant Superintendent of schools during the 1969-70 school year at an annual salary of $17,000. He is presently director of personnel and transportation.

Karl Plank, principal of Nathan Hale School, will serve as administrative assistant to the superintendent during the coming year at a salary of $14,720.

Salaries of other administrative personnel will be as follows: Marvin Lapicola, director of business services, $19,000; Mildred McClure, director of special services, $15,960; and R. K. Driggers, program development coordinator, $14,720.

THE DIST. 54 board also approved the salary of the school psychologist, R. Charles Hanlon, at $13,560 per year; and that of the mathematics consultant, Carl Seltzer, at $13,000 annually.

Based on their experience, Dist. 54 building principals will earn from $12,400 to $16,554 annually.

District library clerks will be paid $2 per hour during the 1969-70 school year.

The board also approved salaries for 10-month school secretaries in 1969-70 Thursday night.

According to Mrs. Lee Schumacher, chairman of the Dist. 54 Classroom Teachers Association's salary committee, the district's teachers are "very happy" with the salary and benefits package offered this year.

She noted that teachers ratified the proposal very quickly Tuesday afternoon.

SUPT. WAYNE SCHABLER said the salary schedule would be competitive with teaching salaries offered by neighboring elementary districts in recruiting new teachers. Classroom teachers' salaries in the 1969-70 schedule are based on the school year, from August until June.

Vote Goes 'Experience'

A 28,000 POUND mining machine was lowered into this shaft on Wise Road in Schaumburg Friday at ceremonies for the beginning of construction of the 1.25-mile Wise Road interceptor sewer line. Metropolitan Sanitary District Supt. Vinton Bacon said the sewer is designed to serve 4.2 square miles and 32,464 people. The five-foot diameter sewer will be constructed in tunnel at depths from 30 to 60 feet. Mayor Robert O. Atcher called it "the key to $300 million worth of development for Schaumburg."

Last Minute Write-Ins Woo Voters

A last minute write-in campaign is underway in Schaumburg by two candidates seeking village trustee posts in tomorrow's election.

Two Weathersfield residents, Jerome Cnota and Martin Ryan, are hoping to provide a challenge to the United Village party's unopposed slate. The three United Village party candidates are Donald P. De Vale, Mathew T. Helsper and Wilfred "Bill" Meyer.

IN AN INTERVIEW with the Herald Cnota and Ryan said they decided to run as write-ins "to give the people a choice."

According to campaign literature, they are sponsored by the Concerned Voters of Schaumburg and have about 15 active campaign workers. In addition they circulated petitions for support.

Cnota, 29, of 1035 Webster Lane has lived in the village with his wife, Linda, and daughter, Pamela, for 16 months. He is a member of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township and is currently Precinct 22 captain.

He is working on a master's degree at Loyola University and is employed at De Soto, Inc.

RYAN, 33, is a salesman for Precision Litho Plate, Inc. and has lived at 1710 Syracuse for 19 months with his wife Janice and children, JaAnn, Tina and Kevin. He is a member of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST) and co-captain in Precinct 2.

Both said their campaign has no connection or backing from ROOST.

Their campaign literature states: "The candidates who will appear on the ballot are men selected by our present village board, and are running unopposed in this election. We offer the voters a choice by a write-in vote to select two independent trustees who will truly represent the homeowners of the village."

The eight-point platform pledges:

—INVESTIGATING and reports of our findings as to the reasons why Schaumburg village water rates are as much as 40 per cent higher than nearby villages.

—Bi-monthly billings of water rates as opposed to the present monthly billings which will reduce village clerical costs by 50 per cent as well as the homeowners postage and handling costs.

—A village complaint desk to insure the residents receiving prompt, efficient and courteous service from village employees.

—Limitation on the amount of land available for apartment zoning, especially three bedroom apartments.

—INFORMATIVE discussions between the trustees and the homeowners in matters concerning zoning, schools, sludge farms, and maintenance of the village streets and lighting.

—Stricter enforcement of building code violations by home developers in the village.

—Public information of real estate located in the village and owned by village board members.

—That real estate taxes are listed on the tax rolls upon the occupancy of apartments and homes.

TUESDAY'S BALLOTS will have a space for write-ins and the candidates said election judges must tell a voter how to write-in if asked.

"We're not politicians. We're interested in Schaumburg and the people," Ryan said.

Cnota said the two have an "excellent chance to win if the people of Schaumburg turnout in large numbers."

Slate Wins in 211

Incumbents William Fremd and James Humphrey were reelected to the High School Dist. 211 Board of Education Saturday and were joined by Mrs. Carolyn Mullins, Schaumburg mother and former newspaper reporter.

Final unofficial returns Saturday night gave Fremd 2,065 votes to Humphrey's 2,028 and Mrs. Mullins' 1,705.

Former board member Carl Buehler, who lost last year when he sought a return to the board, ran fourth Saturday with 1,212 votes.

RICHARD CHIERICO, a former Palatine High School teacher who also ran and lost last year, was low vote-getter with 1,102, unofficially.

Fremd is a 32 year veteran of the Dist. 211 board. He is the only school board member in the area with a school bearing his name. William Fremd High School serves most of western Palatine and much of the unincorporated area of Palatine Township.

Humphrey, who currently is president of the board, has been on and off the board for about 5½ years.

He was first elected to a one year term on the board in 1963 and won a three year term in 1964.

HE RAN AGAIN in 1967 but was defeated. However, when a vacancy was created on the board in late 1967, Humphrey was appointed to fill it and he was reelected in 1968 to a one year term.

Mrs. Mullins, the wife of a Schaumburg

Four incumbents and a candidate with prior board service were elected to seats on the Dist. 54 Board of Education in Saturday's election.

Gordon Thoren and Mrs. Bonnie Hannon won three-year board terms in the school election. Thoren received 982 votes, Mrs. Hannon 830.

THE OTHER TWO candidates for a three-year term were Gerald Lewin, 606 votes; and Frank Vlasaty, 451 votes.

Donald Ruby, who previously served on the Dist. 54 Board, was elected to a two-year term with 658 votes.

Elected to one-year terms were Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen, who received 969 votes; and Edward Bedard, who polled 721 votes. None of the other five candidates for the two 1-year terms came close to the voting total for these incumbents.

New board members will be seated Thursday night, the time of the regular board meeting. At that time officers for the coming year will be elected.

APPROXIMATELY 1,550 voters went to the polls to cast ballots in the Dist. 54 School Board election. Voting was also held for seats on the Dist. 211 and Harper Junior College Boards.

Total votes cast for the three candidates running for the two-year board term were as follows: Ruby, 658; Harry Mamach, 424; and John McGill, 372.

In the contest for two 1-year board terms the polls to cast ballots this way: Thorsen, 969; Bedard, 721; Martin Stanton, 373; Fred Henning, 268; John Stencel, 251; LeRoy Krizka, 173; and Paul Bald, 138.

Mrs. Thorsen has a total of six years service on the Dist. 54 Board, and Bedard has served one full term. Both ran on a platform of experience.

Gordon Thoren, elected to a three-year term, is a former president of the Hoffman Estates Jaycees. He lives at 577 Edgefield Lane, Hoffman Estates, with his wife and son, Scott, Thoren, a systems supervisor for Allstate Insurance Co., was appointed to the board in January.

MRS. BONNIE HANNON has served on the school board eight months. She was appointed to fill a board vacancy last August. A homemaker and the mother of four children, Mrs. Hannon was an education major in college. She lives at 1407 Hampton Lane, Schaumburg.

Donald Ruby, of Hoffman Estates, previously served on the Dist. 54 School Board from 1963 to 1967. He will complete the two years remaining on an unexpired term.

An electrical engineer, Ruby is an engineering specialist for Zenith Radio Corp. He lives at 178 Hillcrest Court with his wife, Mae, and three children, Robert, 17; Paul, 15, and Janice, 10. Ruby has also been a Boy Scout leader for Troop 198.

Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen lives on Irving Park Road in unincorporated Schaumburg Township with her husband and four children. She is a first grade teacher in the Barrington school system.

EDWARD BEDARD, presently board secretary, has been active in the study group planning for a Northwest Educational Cooperative, composed of 10 area school districts. He lives at 350 Pierce Road, Hoffman Estates.

Other board members are Elmer Linden and Mrs. Betty Landon.

village trustee, is a former reporter and education editor for Pioneer newspapers.

She has reported both Elementary Dist. 54 and the high school district.

Humphrey, Fremd and Mrs. Mullins ran as a slate and directed most of their campaign at Chierico and against charges Chierico leveled at the district.

CAMPAIGN LITERATURE distributed by the three victors even included plastic rain covers wrapped around home delivery editions of Chicago newspapers Saturday morning and afternoon.

Mrs. Mullins had the endorsement of Donald Truitt, who announced early this year that he was not going to seek reelection but that he would support Mrs. Mullins for his seat on the board.

Her strongest criticism of the district was what she called a shortage of programs for students who do not intend to go on to college. Mrs. Mullins pledged she will work for more guidance programs after election's closing.

Chierico's losing campaign was similar to last year's when he also lost. He has complained that the district is wasting money and hinted at mismanagement of the board after he was defeated in 1967. Chierico maintains there were several Dist. 211 funds and also criticized the district for its appointment of Humphrey to qualified candidates for the appointment but the district ignored them in favor of Humphrey.

A LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS unit may be formed for Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg women. The unit would be a branch of the Arlington Heights League. A coffee for prospective members was held last week at Schaumburg

GOP Urges Village Manager

Efficient operation of the village and optimum use of tax monies require the services of a village manager, Fred Downey, GOP candidate for Hoffman Estates village president, said in a news release this week.

He explained that the function of the village board — a president and six trustees — is to set policy and plan future development of the village.

"They cannot efficiently administer the day-to-day operations of all the village departments and services. This task is best accomplished by a full-time, professionally-trained village manager," Downey said.

He contends that the present Noble-Jenkins administration allows "improper delegation of powers to small committees in the awarding of contracts." Downey said that instead of the full board of seven members making awards, a committee of two handles the responsibility after being given "power to act" by the board.

"A VILLAGE manager would eliminate this procedure by evaluating bids and providing the full board with all information necessary to make an intelligent decision," he said.

Asserting that another area in which the services of a village manager are essential is preparation of budgets for various village departments, he said "Under the Noble-Jenkins system, each committee chairman prepares his own budget and then has to barter with other chairmen to 'approve my budget and I'll approve yours.'"

"The natural result of this is improper allocation of funds, or in blunt terms, a pork barrel," Downey commented.

Downey feels a village manager responsible for the entire budget and village concerned with the whole village, not just their own department, would result in improved budgeting, better allocation of funds and more efficient use of tax resources.

"The Noble-Jenkins administration has failed miserably in keeping most of their promises, among which was a village manager. Four years ago they ran on the pledge to hire a village manager. Well, eventually they hired one . . . and then promptly fired him.

"THE RESULT IS that our village has now been without a professional village manager for over two years."

He also said that "our opposition in this election, who incidentally are the same people who 'haven't had time' the last two years to find a village manager, now propose to select a village manager through the services of a 'blue ribbon' committee."

"This is nothing more than another attempt on their part to evade responsibility by picking a few of their cronies to sit around and talk, accomplishing nothing."

"Your GOP candidates — Virginia Hayter, Ed Hennessy, Bruce Lind, Virginia Netter and I — will not evade this responsibility. We are, in fact, all agreed that one of the first orders of business in our administration shall be the hiring of a professional, competent village manager."

"We may, if necessary, engage outside professional services to help us in finding the right man, but the decision shall be ours. Hoffman Estates needs a village manager to help us insure orderly, progressive growth, and we, as Republicans, can give nothing but our best to help in this task," he said.

Cite Bad Streets

Grand Canyon Street, between Higgins and Bode roads, was cited in a news release from the Hoffman Independent Party (HIP) as a recent example of faulty street construction.

The HIP slate, led by Atty. John F. Morrissey, party candidate for village president, charged that the asphalt paving of the street was not finished according to specifications.

"This section of Grand Canyon which runs alongside the community pool is already in horrible condition despite the fact that it was one of the latest streets to be paved," Morrissey said.

The release also pointed out that James Sloan, now a trustee and supporter of Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble, candidate for president on the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP) ticket recently took issue with Morrissey's criticism of street construction.

SLOAN, CHAIRMAN of the village street committee, contends that high standards of construction have been enforced

in the village since 1966.

The release stressed that, according to Morrissey, only about one-half of Grand Canyon, near the pool, was properly paved. He said the northern part of the street is crumbling because it received only one thin layer of asphalt when it was supposed to have been covered with an additional sealer-layer.

Morrissey also noted that there is "a distinct and visible difference in thickness between the northern and southern sections of the street. Anyone can see the difference on inspection."

James Faget, John McGinn and Michael Redmond are running for trustee on the HIP slate; Mrs. Joan Holmes is their candidate for clerk.

"By failing to enforce high standards of street construction the cost of maintenance or re-paving will constitute an additional burden on the taxpayer. It's just another example of allowing someone to get away with something at our expense," Morrissey said.

New Leaders Decision Up to Voters

After two months of campaigning, the final hour has arrived. The decision now belongs to the voter.

At stake in Hoffman Estates are five four-year terms — those of village president, three trustees and the clerk.

At odds are three full slates — the Republican Party, backed by the Schaumburg Township GOP organization, the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP), led by a village trustee; and Hoffman Independent Party (HIP), whose standard bearer was an unsuccessful candidate for the state legislature last year.

ALTHOUGH HEP AND HIP have been labeled coalition tickets, both consist primarily of registered Democrats.

There could have been a fourth slate — the Better Government Alliance, formed and led by a top-ranking official of the township Democratic organization.

This ticket was ruled off the ballot at an electoral board hearing called to decide on the validity of objections filed by both the Better Government Alliance and HIP.

There could also have been a last minute write-in candidate for village president, or even a full slate, a move unsuccessfully attempted by an incumbent candidate who was defeated in the April 1 park election.

DEFEATING INTEREST in the race is the fact that only one incumbent, the village clerk, who was appointed to fill a vacancy less than three months ago, is running.

As the race has progressed, the big questions have become the entrance of a national party into local government and dissatisfaction with the present administration.

The GOP candidates — Fred Downey (president), Mrs. Virginia Hayter, Edward J. Hennessy and Bruce C. Lind (trustees) and Mrs. Virginia M. Netter (clerk) — have hit the administration hard on many issues including "irresponsible" zoning and fiscal policies.

HEP candidates — Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble (president), Monte P. Arkus, William Schumacher and Larry Koonitz (trustees) and Village Clerk Mrs. Dolores Ward have criticized the national party politics of both the GOP and HEP and are running on a platform calling for extensive recreational development. Their ticket is being supported by retiring Village Pres. Roy L. Jenkins.

HIP WITH ATTY. John P. Morrissey (president), John P. McGinn, Michael Redmond and James Faget (trustees) and Mrs. Joan Holmes (clerk) have also attacked the zoning practices and integrity of the Jenkins administration.

The election will probably be a test of the strength of the GOP and that of the now defunct Village Party from which both Noble and Morrissey drew a number of supporters.

It will also indicate strength of the present village board.

The campaign was a lone one, although only once did all candidates come face to face. Their direct confrontation came at a candidates night sponsored by Hoffman Estates Women's Club, of which Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Hayter are both active members.

The remainder of the campaign appeared to be devoted to coffees and candidate campaigning on an individual hand-shaking basis.

HIP and the Better Government Alliance met head on during the electoral board hearing with Morrissey's slate being permitted to remain on the ballot, while Charles J. DePaul's ticket was knocked out completely because of a duplication of party name.

Documented information indicating that HIP petitions were circulated by persons other than those whose signatures were notarized as passers was not considered invalid by Jenkins, who served as electoral board chairman, assisted by Trustee James Sloan and Circuit Court Judge Anton Smiegel.

SOME OBSERVERS said at that time that HIP and HEP worked together to knock out the other slate, but no proof has been uncovered.

With many charges of national party politics being tossed back and forth, political affiliation of the candidates is an interesting facet of the race.

Noble is a Republican, although not supported by the township organization; Schumacher, his trustee candidate, is also a Republican and former precinct captain. The remainder of the HEP candidates are registered Democrats.

Morrissey is a prominent member of the Democratic organization; McGinn is past president of the same organization, and

A Legend Born

The world's first rodeo was staged in North Platte, Neb., July 4, 1882, by William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody.

Koonitz is a former officer. Mrs. Holmes and her husband have been active in Democratic precinct work.

Faget is the lone Republican on the HIP ticket.

The candidates have been working hard and signs for all parties are appearing in many windows throughout the village.

ALL THREE groups appear relatively confident of some sort of victory next week.

On Tuesday, between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m., the voters will very likely destroy the confidence of 10 out of the 15 candidates.

Morrissey Says GOP Claim 'Pointless'

Republican propaganda that a GOP ticket can save Hoffman Estates is pointless, John F. Morrissey, Hoffman Independent Party (HIP) candidate for village president, alleged this week.

"If it were genuine, then why has the village administration done such a poor job when Republicans have constituted a majority of the village board," Morrissey asked in a news release.

"Mrs. Laura Reedy, village finance officer, is the wife of a former Republican committeeman and the zoning board is controlled by Republicans," Morrissey said.

"If we are going to assume that party affiliation is significant in our village government, then it would follow that Republicans as such are to blame for our apartment zoning mess. But we do not go along with the Republican Party's strange logic."

"THE QUALIFICATIONS of the candidates and their reputations for integrity are the important factors in this election," he added.

Running with Morrissey are James Fa-

get, John McGinn and Michael Redmond for trustee posts, and Mrs. Joan Holmes for clerk.

"The Republican Party's criticism of Morrissey for being a Democrat is ridiculous," McGinn said in the release. "Sure he is a Democrat. He is also the most qualified candidate for village president."

"And Jim Faget is a Republican, besides being an attorney, an auditor and a former FBI agent."

"The point is, we are not captives of a party in which our village is only a small cog in a political wheel. If we are elected, we will owe nothing to anyone but the people of Hoffman Estates," McGinn said.

"The Republican Party's campaign is based upon distortion and nonsense," Redmond interjected.

"FIRST, THEY DECIDED to run a Republican slate in the village election, thinking that they are now in a power position to grasp control of local government and let the Republican committeeman dictate village policies."

"Second, they have implied that our slate is somehow sympathetic with the past village administration. This, of course, is false and they know it. Our slate was formed as a meaningful alternative to both the Republican Party's power grab and to the senseless policies of the village administration."

"Without any regard for logical consistency, they have tried to paint us as a Democratic Party slate," Redmond said.

"Apparently, this is their attempt to put the shoe on the other foot and to neutralize the general opposition to major-party involvement in village affairs."

"Fourth, in final desperation, they have begun to attack personalities and to distort honest motives. I'm running because I think we need to give integrity to our local government. I would not be running with Morrissey, Faget, McGinn and Joan Holmes if they didn't feel the same way," Redmond said.

JOINING IN THE dialogue, Faget said "Downey, of the Republican slate, has let his ambitious candidacy get in the way of good judgement.

"His negative campaign reflects his negative attitude. He tears down but he doesn't build. As a Republican myself, I would hate to think that he represents Republicans. Some of our village problems stem from a lack of cooperation with other villages and taxing bodies. But Downey is neither a diplomat nor a mediator," Faget said, adding "it seems that his idea of happiness is a room full of enemies."

"For a long time Downey has been acting as though he had some magic key to all the answers," Faget added, noting "one would have expected him to run on real issues — so what does he and his slate come up with — a campaign principally based on who belongs to what party?"

School Architects OK'd

The Board of Education of Elgin School Dist. U46 has tentatively selected architects for a new building program approved by voters in a school referendum last December.

The building program calls for the construction of four new elementary schools and a new senior high school.

The firms are Childs and Smith, Inc.,

Chicago; Orput-Orput and Associates, Inc., Rockford; Schmidtke and Laver Architects AIA, Elgin.

DR. PAUL R. LAWRENCE, superintendent of schools, will contact these firms this week to express the board of education's interest in their services.

Final action is expected to take place at the next board meeting Monday, April 14. Meeting only as a committee last night, the board could take no official action.

While Childs and Smith, Inc., is expected to receive the commission for work on the new senior high school, the district is attempting to divide the other four schools equally between the other firms based on the location of school sites and on similarity of the schools' construction.

All three firms have done extensive work in the design of educational facilities.

More Work, More Cash For Village Mayor

Because two department heads earn higher salaries than the mayor's post in Schaumburg, the village authorized paying the mayor an additional $2,500 per year as liquor commissioner.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher explained that the job of liquor commissioner is given to village presidents by state law.

The full time mayor's position in Schaumburg pays $14,400 a year.

At Tuesday's meeting, Atcher also asked the board to more fully define the full time mayor's position. He said no provisions were made for vacations or time off for night meetings.

He also said he pays his own expenses, including mileage, meals and hotel bills when making trips for the village.

Harold Harvey topped the ballot to win a three-year term, along with George Blanchard. Harvey had 995 votes, while Blanchard had 890, edging out Paul Neuhauser by only 26 votes. Running unopposed for a one-year term, Albert Domanico collected 1,576 votes.

DIST. 57 (Mount Prospect)

Incumbent Leo Floros and Alex Casper were elected. Floros collected 1,319 votes and Casper, 1,231. Some 90 votes were cast for write-in candidates, most of them for Richard Young.

A 28,000 POUND mining machine was lowered into this shaft on Wise Road in Schaumburg Friday at ceremonies for the beginning of construction of the 1.25-mile Wise Road interceptor sewer line. Metropolitan Sanitary District Supt. Vinton Bacon said the sewer is designed to serve 4.2 square miles and 32,464 people. The five-foot diameter sewer will be constructed in tunnel at depths from 30 to 60 feet. Mayor Robert O. Atcher called it "the key to $300 million worth of development for Schaumburg."

Last Minute Write-Ins Woo Voters

A last minute write-in campaign is underway in Schaumburg by two candidates seeking village trustee posts in tomorrow's election.

Two Weathersfield residents, Jerome Cnota and Martin Ryan, are hoping to provide a challenge to the United Village party's unopposed slate. The three United Village party candidates are Donald P. De Vale, Matthew T. Helsper and Wilfred "Bill" Meyer.

IN AN INTERVIEW with the Herald Cnota and Ryan said they decided to run as write-ins "to give the people a choice."

According to campaign literature, they are sponsored by the Concerned Voters of Schaumburg and have about 15 active campaign workers. In addition they circulated petitions for support.

Cnota, 29, of 1035 Webster Lane has lived in the village with his wife, Linda, and daughter, Pamela, for 16 months. He is a member of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township and is currently Precinct 22 captain.

He is working on a master's degree at Loyola University and is employed at De Soto, Inc.

RYAN, 33, is a salesman for Precision Litho Plate, Inc. and has lived at 1710 Syracuse for 19 months with his wife Janice and children, JaAnn, Tina and Kevin. He is a member of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST) and co-captain in Precinct 2.

Both said their campaign has no connection or backing from ROOST.

Their campaign literature states: "The candidates who will appear on the ballot are men selected by our present village board, and are running unopposed in this election. We offer the voters a choice by a write-in vote to select two independent trustees who will truly represent the homeowners of the village."

The eight-point platform pledges:

—INVESTIGATING and reports of our findings as to the reasons why Schaumburg village water rates are as much as 40 per cent higher than nearby villages.

—Bimonthly billings of water rates as opposed to the present monthly billings which will reduce village clerical costs by 50 per cent as well as the homeowners postage and handling costs.

—A village complaint desk to insure the residents receiving prompt, efficient and courteous service from village employees.

—Limitation on the amount of land available for apartment zoning, especially three bedroom apartments.

—INFORMATIVE discussions between the trustees and the homeowners in matters concerning zoning, schools, sludge farms, and maintenance of the village streets and lighting.

—Stricter enforcement of building code violations by home developers in the village.

—Public information of real estate located in the village and owned by village board members.

—Closer scrutiny of our tax rolls to see that real estate taxes are listed on the tax rolls upon the occupancy of apartments and homes.

TUESDAY'S BALLOTS will have a space for write-ins and the candidates said election judges must tell a voter how to write-in if asked.

"We're not politicians. We're interested in Schaumburg and the people," Ryan said.

Cnota said the two have an "excellent chance to win if the people of Schaumburg turnout in large numbers."

Slate Wins in 211

Incumbents William Fremd and James Humphrey were reelected to the High School Dist. 211 Board of Education Saturday and were joined by Mrs. Carolyn Mullins, Schaumburg mother and former newspaper reporter.

Final unofficial returns Saturday night gave Fremd 2,065 votes to Humphrey's 2,028 and Mrs. Mullins' 1,705.

Former board member Carl Buehler, who lost last year when he sought a return to the board, ran fourth Saturday with 1,212 votes.

RICHARD CHERICO, a former Palatine High School teacher who also ran and lost last year, was low vote-getter with 1,102, unofficially.

Fremd is a 32 year veteran of the Dist. 211 board. He is the only school board member in the area with a school bearing his name. William Fremd High School serves most of western Palatine and much of the unincorporated area of Palatine Township.

Humphrey, who currently is president of the board, has been on and off the board for about 5½ years.

He was first elected to a one year term on the board in 1963 and won a three year term in 1964.

HE RAN AGAIN in 1967 but was defeated. However, when a vacancy was created on the board in late 1967, Humphrey was appointed to fill it and he was reelected in 1968 to a one year term.

Mrs. Mullins, the wife of a Schaumburg

Four incumbents and a candidate with prior board service were elected to seats on the Dist. 54 Board of Education in Saturday's election.

Gordon Thoren and Mrs. Bonnie Hannon won three-year board terms in the school election. Thoren received 962 votes, Mrs. Hannon 830.

THE OTHER TWO candidates for a three-year term were Gerald Lewin, 606 votes; and Frank Vlasaty, 451 votes.

Donald Ruby, who previously served on the Dist. 54 Board, was elected to a two-year term with 658 votes.

Elected to one-year terms were Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen, who received 969 votes; and Edward Bedard, who polled 721 votes. None of the other five candidates for the two 1-year terms came close to the voting total for these incumbents.

New board members will be seated Thursday night, the time of the regular board meeting. At that time officers for the coming year will be elected.

APPROXIMATELY 1,550 voters went to the polls to cast ballots in the Dist. 54 School Board election. Voting was also held for seats on the Dist. 211 and Harper Junior College Boards.

Total votes cast for the three candidates running for the two-year board term were as follows: Ruby, 658; Harry Mamach, 424; and John McGill, 372.

In the contest for two 1-year board terms to cast ballots this way: Thorsen, 969; Bedard, 721; Martin Stanton, 373; Fred Henning, 268; John Stencel, 251; LeRoy Krizka, 173; and Paul Bald, 138.

Mrs. Thorsen has a total of six years service on the Dist. 54 Board, and Bedard has served one full term. Both ran on a platform of experience.

Gordon Thoren, elected to a three-year term, is a former president of the Hoffman Estates Jaycees. He lives at 577 Edgefield Lane, Hoffman Estates, with his wife and son, Scott, Thoren, a systems supervisor for Allstate Insurance Co., was appointed to the board in January.

MRS. BONNIE HANNON has served on the school board eight months. She was appointed to fill a board vacancy last August. A homemaker and the mother of four children, Mrs. Hannon was an education major in college. She lives at 1407 Hampton Lane, Schaumburg.

Donald Ruby, of Hoffman Estates, previously served on the Dist. 54 School Board from 1963 to 1967. He will complete the two years remaining on an unexpired term.

An electrical engineer, Ruby is an engineering specialist for Zenith Radio Corp. He lives at 178 Hillcrest Court with his wife, Mae, and three children, Robert, 17; Paul, 15, and Janice, 10. Ruby has also been a Boy Scout leader for Troop 198.

Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen lives on Irving Park Road in unincorporated Schaumburg Township with her husband and four children. She is a first grade teacher in the Barrington school system.

EDWARD BEDARD, presently board secretary, has been active in the study group planning for a Northwest Educational Cooperative, composed of 10 area school districts. He lives at 350 Pierce Road, Hoffman Estates.

Other board members are Elmer Linden and Mrs. Betty Landon.

village trustee, is a former reporter and education editor for Pioneer newspapers.

She has reported both Elementary Dist. 54 and the high school district.

Humphrey, Fremd and Mrs. Mullins ran as a slate and directed most of their campaign at Chierico and against charges Chierico leveled at the district.

CAMPAIGN LITERATURE distributed by the three victors even included plastic rain covers wrapped around home delivery editions of Chicago newspapers Saturday morning and afternoon.

Mrs. Mullins had the endorsement of Donald Truitt, who announced early this year that he was not going to seek reelection but that he would support Mrs. Mullins for his seat on the board.

Her strongest criticism of the district was what she called a shortage of programs for students who do not intend to go on to college. Mrs. Mullins pledged she will work for more guidance programs after election.

Chierico's losing campaign was similar to last year's when he also lost. He has complained that the district is wasting money and hinted at mismanagement of the board after he was defeated in 1967. Chierico maintains there were several Dist. 211 funds and also criticized the district for its appointment of Humphrey to qualified candidates for the appointment but the district ignored them in favor of Humphrey.

New Leaders Decision Up to Voters

After two months of campaigning, the final hour has arrived. The decision now belongs to the voter.

At stake in Hoffman Estates are five four-year terms — those of village president, three trustees and the clerk.

At odds are three full slates — the Republican Party, backed by the Schaumburg Township GOP organization, the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP), led by a village trustee, and Hoffman Independent Party (HIP), whose standard bearer was an unsuccessful candidate for the state legislature last year.

ALTHOUGH HEP and HIP have been labeled coalition tickets, both consist primarily of registered Democrats.

There could have been a fourth slate — the Better Government Alliance, formed and led by a top-ranking official of the township Democratic organization.

This ticket was ruled off the ballot at an electoral board hearing called to decide on the validity of objections filed by both the Better Government Alliance and HIP.

There could also have been a last minute write-in candidate for village president or even a full slate, a move unsuccessfully attempted by an incumbent candidate who was defeated in the April 1 park election.

DEEPENING INTEREST in the race is the fact that only one incumbent, the village clerk, who was appointed to fill a vacancy less than three months ago, is running.

As the race has progressed, the big questions have become the entrance of a national party into local government and dissatisfaction with the present administration.

The GOP candidates — Fred Downey (president), Mrs. Virginia Hayter, Edward J. Hennessy and Bruce C. Lind (trustees) and Mrs. Virginia M. Netter (clerk) — have hit the administration hard on many issues including "irresponsible" zoning and fiscal policies.

HEP candidates — Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble (president), Monte P. Arkus, William Schumacher and Larry Koontz (trustees) and Village Clerk Mrs. Dolores Ward have criticized the national party politics of both the GOP and HEP and are running on a platform calling for extensive recreational development. Their ticket is being supported by retiring Village Pres. Roy L. Jenkins.

HIP WITH ATTY. John P. Morrissey (president), John P. McGinn, Michael Redmond and James Faget (trustees) and Mrs. Joan Holmes (clerk) have also attacked the zoning practices and integrity of the Jenkins administration.

The election will probably be a test of the strength of the GOP and that of the now defunct Village Party from which both Noble and Morrissey drew a number of supporters.

It will also indicate strength of the present village board.

The campaign was a lone one, although only once did all candidates come face to face. Their direct confrontation came at a candidates night sponsored by Hoffman Estates Women's Club, of which Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Hayter are both active members.

The remainder of the campaign appeared to be devoted to coffee and candidate campaigning on an individual hand-shaking basis.

HIP and the Better Government Alliance met head on during the electoral board hearing with Morrissey's slate being permitted to remain on the ballot, while Charles J. DePaul's ticket was knocked out completely because of a duplication of party name.

Documented information indicating that HIP petitions were circulated by persons other than those whose signatures were notarized as passers was not considered invalid by Jenkins, who served as electoral board chairman, assisted by Trustee James Sloan and Circuit Court Judge Anton Smiegl.

SOME OBSERVERS said at that time that HIP and HEP worked together to knock out the other slate, but no proof has been uncovered.

With many charges of national party politics being tossed back and forth, political affiliation of the candidates is an interesting facet of the race.

Noble is a Republican, although not supported by the township organization; Schumacher, his trustee candidate, is also a Republican and former precinct captain. The remainder of the HEP candidates are registered Democrats.

Morrissey is a prominent member of the Democratic organization; McGinn is past president of the same organization, and

Morrissey Says GOP Claim 'Pointless'

Republican propaganda that a GOP ticket can save Hoffman Estates is pointless, John F. Morrissey, Hoffman Independent Party (HIP) candidate for village president, alleged this week.

"If it were germane, then why has the village administration done such a poor job when Republicans have constituted a majority of the village board," Morrissey asked in a news release.

"Mrs. Laura Reedy, village finance officer, is the wife of a former Republican committeeman and the zoning board is controlled by Republicans," Morrissey said.

"If we are going to assume that party affiliation is significant in our village government, then it would follow that Republicans as such are to blame for our apartment zoning mess. But we do not go along with the Republican Party's strange logic."

"THE QUALIFICATIONS of the candidates and their reputations for integrity are the important factors in this election," he added.

Running with Morrissey are James Fa-

GOP Urges Village Manager

Efficient operation of the village and optimum use of tax monies require the services of a village manager, Fred Downey, GOP candidate for Hoffman Estates village president, said in a news release this week.

He explained that the function of the village board — a president and six trustees — is to set policy and plan future development of the village.

"They cannot efficiently administer the day-to-day operations of all the village departments and services. This task is best accomplished by a full-time, professionally-trained village manager," Downey said.

He contends that the present Noble-Jenkins administration allows "improper delegation of powers to small committees in the awarding of contracts." Downey said that instead of the full board of seven members making awards, a committee of two handles the responsibility after being given "power to act" by the board.

"A VILLAGE manager would eliminate this procedure by evaluating bids and providing the full board with all information necessary to make an intelligent decision," he said.

Asserting that another area in which the services of a village manager are essential is preparation of budgets for various village departments, he said "Under the Noble-Jenkins system, each committee chairman prepares his own budget and then has to barter with other chairmen to 'approve my budget and I'll approve yours.'"

"The natural result of this is improper allocation of funds, or in blunt terms, a pork barrel," Downey commented.

Downey feels a village manager responsible for the entire budget and village concerned with the whole village, not just their own department, would result in improved budgeting, better allocation of funds and more efficient use of tax resources.

"The Noble-Jenkins administration has failed miserably in keeping most of their promises, among which was a village manager. Four years ago they ran on the pledge to hire a village manager. Well, eventually they hired one . . . and then promptly fired him."

"THE RESULT IS that our village has now been without a professional village manager for over two years."

He also said that "our opposition in this election, who incidentally are the same people who 'haven't had time' the last two years to find a village manager, now propose to select a village manager through the services of a 'blue ribbon' committee."

"This is nothing more than another attempt on their part to evade responsibility by picking a few of their cronies to sit around and talk, accomplishing nothing."

"Your GOP candidates — Virginia Hayter, Ed Hennessy, Bruce Lind, Virginia Netter and I — will not evade this responsibility. We are, in fact, all agreed that one of the first orders of business in our administration shall be the hiring of a professional, competent village manager."

"We may, if necessary, engage outside professional services to help us in finding the right man, but the decision shall be ours. Hoffman Estates needs a village manager to help us insure orderly, progressive growth, and we, as Republicans, can give nothing but our best to help in this task," he said.

Cite Bad Streets

Grand Canyon Street, between Higgins and Bode roads, was cited in a news release from the Hoffman Independent Party (HIP) as a recent example of faulty street construction.

The HIP slate, led by Atty. John F. Morrissey, party candidate for village president, charged that the asphalt paving of the street was not finished according to specifications.

"This section of Grand Canyon which runs alongside the community pool is already in horrible condition despite the fact that it was one of the latest streets to be paved," Morrissey said.

The release also pointed out that James Sloan, now a trustee and supporter of Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble, candidate for president on the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP) ticket recently took issue with Morrissey's criticism of street construction.

SLOAN, CHAIRMAN of the village street committee, contends that high standards of construction have been enforced

in the village since 1966.

The release stressed that, according to Morrissey, only about one-half of Grand Canyon, near the pool, was properly paved. He said the northern part of the street is crumbling because it received only one thin layer of asphalt when it was supposed to have been covered with an additional sealer-layer.

Morrissey also noted that there is "a distinct and visible difference in thickness between the northern and southern sections of the street. Anyone can see the difference on inspection."

James Faget, John McGinn and Michael Redmond are running for trustee on the HIP slate; Mrs. Joan Holmes is their candidate for clerk.

"By failing to enforce high standards of street construction the cost of maintenance or re-paving will constitute an additional burden on the taxpayer. It's just another example of allowing someone to get away with something at our expense," Morrissey said.

Five Classes Set At Elgin YMCA

Basic electronics, air riflery, craft, broom ball and table tennis classes will begin at the Elgin YMCA, 111 N. Channing, next week.

Basic electronics will begin April 16 and meet each Wednesday for eight weeks from 7 until 8 p.m. Brian Bergersen will be the instructor. It is open to boys in the fourth through ninth grades, said Howard Shaffer, youth program director. Maximum enrollment will be 20 students.

Broom ball and table tennis classes will begin April 17. Broom ball will meet at 4:30 p.m. for seven weeks and is open to junior high school members. There is no fee, but YMCA membership is required.

Table tennis will meet in the boys' lobby at 3:45 p.m. each Thursday for four weeks. The class is open to fourth through ninth grade students, Shaffer said. There is no fee, but YMCA membership is required. Maximum enrollment will be 20 students.

AIR RIFLERY class will begin April 18 and meet Fridays at 4 p.m. for eight weeks. Open to fourth, fifth and sixth grade students, it will have a maximum enrollment of 20 students. There is no fee for YMCA members, but non-members of the YMCA may enroll by paying a fee.

Craft class is open for boys in the fourth through ninth grades. It will meet at noon on Saturdays for seven weeks in the YMCA craft shop. It, too, is restricted to YMCA members with no fee.

For more information, contact the Elgin YMCA, 695-1100.

GOP Vows to End Back-Room Trysts

"The era of the 'secret meeting' and the 'back room deal' will be a thing of the past in Hoffman Estates under our Republican administration," Mrs. Virginia Netter, GOP candidate for village clerk promised in a news release this week.

"Fred Downey, Virginia Hayter, Ed Hennessy, Bruce Lind and I have pledged ourselves to conducting a completely open administration responsive to the desires of all citizens for the betterment of our community," she said.

She also said unannounced secret meetings at which hundreds of thousands of dollars have been improperly passed out under the Noble-Jenkins administration will not have any place in the GOP administration.

Mrs. Netter explained that she was referring to the meetings of the Hoffman Estates Board of Local Improvements (BOLI), which is made up of members of the village board, at which a bid of $541,000 was awarded to the Tri-W Construction Co. to do work supposedly already completed.

One week after the bid was awarded, payment of $250,000 was authorized to be made to the construction company, she said, noting also that work was to be paid for by a special assessment levied against the owners of land in Howie-in-the-Hills.

THE TEAMSTERS PENSION Fund, which holds mortgages on this land, is presently suing the village charging fraud.

Mrs. Netter promised that under the Republican administration notice will be given for all subsidiary committee meetings as well as regular board meetings.

In addition, she said agendas or subjects to be covered will be provided whenever possible.

"This will be a regular function of the clerk's office and we plan also to furnish the press with news releases explaining the contents of regularly published legal notices in simple terms," she added.

"We feel that in this way we can best keep all citizens informed of actions taken by their elected representatives."

"Hoffman Estates needs the reforms that will be instituted by the Republican Party. We ask for your support next Tuesday so we can put them into action," she concluded.

More Work, More Cash For Village Mayor

Because two department heads earn higher salaries than the mayor's post in Schaumburg, the village authorized paying the mayor an additional $2,500 per year as liquor commissioner.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher explained that the job of liquor commissioner is given to village presidents by state law.

The full time mayor's position in Schaumburg pays $14,400 a year.

At Tuesday's meeting, Atcher also asked the board to more fully define the full time mayor's position. He said no provisions were made for vacations or time off for night meetings.

He also said he pays his own expenses, including mileage, meals and hotel bills when making trips for the village.

School Architects OK'd

The Board of Education of Elgin School Dist. U46 has tentatively selected architects for a new building program approved by voters in a school referendum last December.

The building program calls for the construction of four new elementary schools and a new senior high school.

The firms are Childs and Smith, Inc.,

Chicago; Orput-Orput and Associates, Inc., Rockford; Schmidtke and Layer Architects AIA, Elgin.

DR. PAUL R. LAWRENCE, superintendent of schools, will contact these firms this week to express the board of education's interest in their services.

Final action is expected to take place at the next board meeting Monday, April 14. Meeting only as a committee last night, the board could take no official action.

While Childs and Smith, Inc., is expected to receive the commission for work on the new senior high school, the district is attempting to divide the other four schools equally between the other firms based on the location of school sites and on similarity of the schools' construction.

All three firms have done extensive work in the design of educational facilities.

Election Results

Referenda

Rolling Meadows will get its new high school. Voters in High School Dist. 214 Saturday approved three referendum questions. One authorizes sale of bonds for the new school; another approves an education-fund tax rate increase; the third authorizes an increase in the building maintenance fund tax rate.

Voters in Prospect Heights Elementary School Dist. 23 turned down an increase in the education fund tax levy.

Caucus Sweeps Votes

Referendum Try Fails in Dist. 23

A record turn-out of voters from Prospect Heights Dist. 23 crushed the 21-cent educational tax referendum and elected all three Caucus candidates to the school board.

With approximately 50 per cent of the district voting, the referendum was defeated 523 to 474.

A block of 274 straight Caucus votes was the springboard propelling Art Koester, Al Krensky and John Stull to victory with a total of 706, 609, and 593 votes respectively.

Independents Roy Weinberg and Mrs. Jo Ellen Claws received 481 and 374 votes.

SUPT. EDWARD Grodsky said he is bitterly disappointed at the narrow referendum defeat and promised to request a new referendum this summer.

"We'll stick to our guns," he said. "The next time we'll give them more facts."

Long lines formed at the one polling place, Anne Sullivan School, from noon until doors were closed at 7 p.m. Voters waited from a half hour to an hour to vote and many were seen leaving before casting votes. A total of 1,044 votes was cast out of the approximately 2,500 eligible voters in the district.

A long-time poll watcher told the Herald many of the voters who turned out had never before voted in a school election and said the number of elderly voters convinced her by mid afternoon that the referendum was in jeopardy.

Mrs. Claws, who waited until 1 a.m. for the final tally, said, "I am disappointed, but will continue to support the board."

Defeated incumbent Weinberg, who has served five years on the board said, "I know the challenge they face. I hope every effort will be put behind a new school referendum. I'll be back."

The three Caucus candidates declared themselves "very happy."

"I'M DISAPPOINTED the referendum didn't carry," said Krinsky. "The referendum was more important than any one candidate. We will come back to the people with it, again and again and again."

Koester said, "Roy (Weinberg) did a magnificent job. We invite the people's criticism, support and help."

Stull, who was not present to wait out the marathon vote count session, told the Herald yesterday, "I am happy with the turn out. Happy people are concerned. Happy with the people in the Caucus. I'm sorry there weren't five open seats because they all ran good campaigns."

Dist. 21 Likes Incumbents

Voters in Dist. 21 turned out 1,300 strong to reaffirm their faith in the incumbent candidates Mrs. Lillian Stiller and Mrs. Mary Jo Reid Saturday after a hotly contested campaign for the two school board seats.

Mrs. Stiller won with 795 votes with Mrs. Reid following close behind with 778. Both had the backing of the General Caucus.

Thomas Weaver had received 563 votes and Michael Kane, 441, when the final unofficial tally was completed in the district about 10 p.m. Saturday.

MRS. STILLER, contacted at a school board convention in Miami by the Herald, said, "I am very appreciative for all my friends who helped me, those who knew me and those who didn't. I'll try to do the same job I've done for the last three years on the board and continue the interest in the district I've had for the last 12 years."

Mrs. Reid, also at the convention, said, "I'm most gratified that the voters have demonstrated their confidence in the board and the administration."

Voting in the district was very heavy, according to Supt. Ken Gill.

Mrs. Reid captured the most votes in the third, fourth and fifth precincts with polling places in Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights. Mrs. Stiller's strength was in the first and second precincts, the largest precincts in Wheeling.

Weaver and Kane had strong backing in Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights, both beating the winning candidate Mrs. Stiller in votes cast in each of the three areas.

WEAVER TOLD THE Herald that he definitely will run again. He said that he is happy Mrs. Reid has been elected and surprised that Mrs. Stiller received the most votes.

"I promised them they'd know they'd been in a race," Weaver said about the campaign, adding, "Next year it will be another story."

Kane told the Herald that he had assumed that the vote would run as it did.

Kane said he hopes Mrs. Stiller and Mrs. Reid will "go back to the board as truly new members and remember issues brought out in the campaign."

"In their new tenure I hope that they look for changes in direction in the district," he said, volunteering to serve the board in any way he could, such as on a citizens advisory committee.

All 3 To Return

Incumbents captured all three seats in High School Dist. 214's school board election Saturday.

Board Pres. Arthur Aronson of an Arlington Heights unincorporated area and appointed board member Richard Stamm of Mount Prospect were easy winners over Ray Inman of Prospect Heights and Billy K. McMinn of Rolling Meadows.

Unofficial election results show Aronson racked up 6,114 votes, Stamm, 5,644; McMinn, 3,482, and Inman, 3,434.

Aronson and Stamm were running for two three-year terms.

IN A THREE-WAY race for a one-year term, appointed board member John M. Costello of Mount Prospect tallied 4,973 votes to 3,074 for James T. Ryan of Mount Prospect, and 1,568 for Don C. McGlothlin of Wheeling.

Election observers had expected the race between Costello and Ryan to be closer.

But Costello's friends in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect worked hard to cover polling places with Costello literature and Ryan's expected campaign support came through spotty.

Ryan, obviously losing hard but gracefully, set the tone for other candidates when he told a Dist. 214 election crowd at Slichenmyer Administration Center Saturday night, "I don't particularly like losing, but I don't think I could have lost to a better chap." He shook hands with Costello.

"I think I helped with the most important thing," Ryan added, "to help increase interest in the election and pass the referendum."

Aronson agreed "The contest assisted the passage of the referendum," he said.

He declared, "It is a wonderful thing when a district can provide this many good men to run."

McMinn, though third of four candidates overall, scored strongly in his home precincts in Rolling Meadows. He drew 1,293 votes to Aronson's 595.

"I think Rolling Meadows citizens have expressed their desire to have someone on this board. I want to impress this upon you," McMinn said, "when a vacancy opens up or a better man appears."

The election leaves the Dist. 214 board four with members from Mount Prospect, one from Arlington Heights, one from Elk Grove Village and one from unincorporated Wheeling, Dist. 21.

Chosen 'Top' Cadet

Cadet First Class Richard A. Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph P. Jensen, Rolling Meadows, was chosen Cadet of the Month for the Prospect Heights Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

Jensen is the first to be awarded this honor in March, which will culminate in a Cadet of the Year.

Writes-in His Own Name

by ANNE HEDBACK

Charles Mihalek announced his write-in candidacy for president of Wheeling yesterday.

Mihalek, Republican deputy committeeman from the village, told the Herald he decided to run after receiving a favorable response to a survey of typical citizen's attitudes.

The candidate, who lives at 4065 Meadowbrook, said he has been in the area for a long time and didn't have to tell people who he was in order to be elected. He predicted "a silent army" of people who normally are not involved in village affairs will "march me into victory," saying these people will vote and each bring one of their neighbors.

WHEELING TOWNSHIP Committeeman Eugene Schlickman told the Herald he was unaware of Mihalek's plans until he received a phone call from Mihalek Friday night.

At that time, Mihalek resigned as area deputy committeeman.

"I wished Chuck well . . . and that was it," said Schlickman. "He is acting as an individual and not as part of Republican activity. I have nothing to do with it."

Mihalek told the Herald he decided to run because he thinks it is strange that Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon would leave for a two-week vacation just before the election and not be available for voter's questions.

He said he is also disturbed that the ex-Democratic committeeman Jim Stavros has become involved in the election.

MIHALEK ATTACKED Scanlon for replacing three trustees by appointment last year when there was plenty of time for a general election.

"He by-passed the constitutional rights of the people," Mihalek said, allowing that one appointment might have been all right. He said Scanlon's actions satisfied the Democratic Party but not village residents.

Mihalek also said he blames Scanlon for the delay in the flood program.

"He decided he wanted a new village hall, and the flood committee went along with the hall on the condition he would move with the flood program," Mihalek said.

He accused Scanlon of refusing to help bring out the vote for the flood referendum.

Mihalek said he is receiving no support from the Republican Party organization in the election. He said he verbally resigned from the executive committee of the Wheeling Township Republican Organization Thursday night.

THE WRITE-IN candidate accused the incumbent administration of "killing the interest and pride people used to have in Wheeling."

He said Village Mgr. C. E. Olsen had been fired because Scanlon "couldn't get along with people" and charged the present village president with poorly representing the village to northwest suburban area organizations.

If elected Mihalek says he will develop close relationships between businessmen and civic organizations in the village through monthly meetings, see that a representative of the village attend school and park board meetings, and work for greater utilization of Heritage Park.

He said he would have a Legion of Decency set up among the village youth "to explore whether television and smut literature should be cleaned up."

SCANLON, WHO WAS contacted at his Wheeling home by the Herald, said, "I think a person who would say things like that needs help and our prayers."

Scanlon called Mihalek "misinformed" and declared "the record should speak for itself."

"At no time did I feel the party would have a free ride," he said. "Everyone who's not proud of the village should move out."

He says he was operating under state statute by appointing trustees and contends he saved the village money by not calling special elections.

SCANLON INSISTS HE campaigned for the flood plane program and was the individual who brought other villages together to work on the problem.

"We received $180,000 from the Metropolitan Sanitary District and I call that doing wonderful," he said "We are now over the hump and are letting out contracts."

The image of the village is at its highest peak and couldn't be better, Scanlon told the Herald, adding "anybody who was interested in running should have made it known at the due date. This is last-minute hysteria."

3 Incumbents Win

Three incumbent school board members were reelected Saturday in River Trails school Dist. 26.

Elected to three-year terms were Harold Haney, 1420 E. Green Lane, Mount Prospect, with 520 votes; Lee Hilfman, 7 S. Lee Street, Prospect Heights, 404 votes; Jack Halvorsen, 505 Garwood, Mount Prospect, 516 votes.

Two challengers to the incumbents failed to receive enough votes to put them in office. Theodore Watenberg, 1407 Orchard, Prospect Heights, received 333 votes, and Gerry Zyck, 1901 Spruce Lane, Prospect Heights received 167 votes.

THE FIVE CANDIDATES were vying for three posts on the school board. All five of the candidates had been endorsed for office by the Dist. 26 Caucus Committee. Although the high vote getter in the Dist. 26 election received 520 votes, School Supt. Winston L. Harwood said the turnout was "pretty good" in comparison to past district elections.

Harold Haney, president of the Dist. 26 board, has been on the board for nine years and has served as its president for the past eight years. A 10-year resident of Mount Prospect, Haney, a chemist, is manager of the industrial food products laboratory for National Dairy Products. He has five children in the River Trails school system.

HILFMAN, A RESEARCH chemist with Universal Oil Products, has been on the school board since 1963. He has lived in Prospect Heights for seven years and has three children attending the district's schools.

Jack Halvorsen was reelected to a third term on the Dist. 26 board. A 10-year resident of Mount Prospect, he held a board position from 1961 to 1964. Last year he was appointed to fill a vacancy and was elected in April, 1968 to complete the remaining year of that term.

Hopefuls Tell Their Qualifications

To help Wheeling voters choose in Tuesday's election between the four candidates running in the contested race for village trustee, The Herald is presenting short answers to the question "Why are you qualified to be a trustee?" from each of the four candidates.

WILLIAM HART
My municipal service has consisted of being a member and chairman of the Wheeling Fire and Police Commission for three years and serving as a village trustee since August, 1968. As a self-employed 12-year resident of Wheeling, my civic interests have included being a coach and manager of Wheeling Little League and a former member of the Rotary Club.

As a trustee I am chairman of the committee which developed the ordinance for a full time fire department for Wheeling. This ordinance was recently passed and the village now has a full-time fire chief. In the near future I would like to see additional full time men added to the department which would help lower the fire rating of the village and entice new business and industry.

IF I AM ELECTED to a full four-year term as village trustee in addition to my regular duties I would devote considerable time to developing an annexation and zoning policy that would permit Wheeling to continue to grow in an orderly manner so as to protect the interest of all the citizens of Wheeling and to preserve our family neighborhoods.

I urge every citizen to vote straight Continued United Party April 15.

HUGH SOMMERFELD
When it became known that there would be only a single slate appearing on the ballot for the village election, I was asked by a great number of Wheeling citizens to make myself available for a write-in candidate. I believe that the basis of our whole Democratic system lies in having a choice between at least two qualified people.

As a resident and businessman in Wheeling for the past 12 years, I have kept informed and active in civic and service organizations. I was active in the formation of the Community Council and served as its president for a year. I was a member of the Wheeling Planning Commission during the period in which professional planning and programming was first undertaken and carried forth and have kept my interest in this area.

MY AIMS, WHEN ELECTED, will follow three themes:

- Harmony between all village boards and organizations.
- Progress toward making Wheeling the finest community in our area, and
- Attempting to obtain the best professional assistance for all facets of village government.

ROGER STRICKER
"My background in community affairs includes the presidency and treasurership of the Walt Whitman PTA.

My civic involvement of three years on the Plan Commission gives me a good base knowledge about the ordinances and inner-workings of the village.

My election will insure continued representation of the village of Wheeling in attempts to solve the northwest suburban areas' flooding problems.

I've got a civic and genuine interest in Wheeling and was one of the first to fill in a manpower file application to serve the village."

MICHAEL VALENZA
Why I feel qualified?

I have been asked to answer the above question. I believe my record of nine years of service to the village speaks for itself.

In the capacity of acting director of planning my responsibilities were detailed and numerous, meeting with land developers, attorneys, engineers, surveyors and realtors.

AS CHAIRMAN OF the Wheeling Plan Commission my responsibilities are to the citizens of Wheeling, insuring the proper development of land. I am well versed on current village affairs by attending village board meetings and zoning board of appeals meetings. This enables me to grasp the over-all picture of issues at hand. I feel qualified to serve as a trustee because I am a "free thinker." A yes vote for the entire Continued United Party will insure four more years of efficient government.

Church Hits Aid

A Prospect Heights Lutheran pastor and his church council voiced strong opposition last week to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's proposal to extend state aid to nonpublic schools.

The 15-member council of Rev. Dennis Anderson, Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 111 N. Elmhurst Road, sharply criticized Ogilvie's budget recommendation that $32 million in state funds be doled out to parents of private school students.

Ogilvie's budget message said it is constitutional to give grants to parents, it is not to the schools themselves.

"THE STATE OF ILLINOIS must alleviate the pressures upon the private and parochial school systems or face the dangers resulting from their collapse."

The Prospect Heights church council's statement scored that attitude in a statement that reaffirmed "the principle of separation of church and state" and said churches must remain "free to speak the truth without regard to financial or political ties."

"We (Lutherans) engage in parochial school education in places where the public schools aren't adequate but we do not believe in seeking support for it," he explained. "I think we should have freedom of choice, but we must pay for that."

"IN SPEAKING out against non-public school aid, we are acting to preserve the freedom of the church — and to speak up against the headlong trend to solving problems through short term solutions in a way that avoids wrestling with principle," the pastor added.

"If we want to change the constitution, then we should face up to that rather than try to circumvent the issue," Pastor Anderson declared.

Their statement comes at a time when the Illinois Citizens for Educational Freedom is mounting a campaign in support of House Bill 1116, which provides tuition grants to parents of students in private and parochial schools.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and a member of the House education committee, says the next two weeks are crucial ones for the fate of H.B. 1116 — which may get Gov. Ogilvie's backing, though it does not have his support now.

Cook County Police Unit Organized

Wheeling has an official chapter of the Cook County Police Association following a Thursday night meeting at which officers were elected.

Nineteen patrolmen and sergeants from the Wheeling police force joined the organization, for a membership of 90 per cent of the village force.

Gene Wolf was elected president of the local chapter, and William Hoos and Ted Bracke were chosen vice-presidents. Tom Javens is secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The association is authorized by its members to "negotiate in their behalf in all aspects of their employment," Wolf said.

THE CHAPTER HAS pending before the village board a request for a resolution authorizing dues deductions from salaries to be forwarded to the association.

Trustee William Hart, head of the police and fire committee, introduced the resolution last Monday.

Arthur Loevey, legal counsel for the association, has advised the organization that the resolution is legal under Illinois state statutes, Wolf said.

A Herald Editorial

No Real Choice

Tomorrow is Election Day in Wheeling, a day when many people had planned not to vote at all.

Last week Hugh Sommerfeld declared his write-in candidacy for the post of village trustee with a four-year term. By this late but somewhat organized campaign, Sommerfeld has given many Wheeling residents a reason to show up at the polls on Tuesday.

SOMMERFELD CLAIMS that he is running to give the voters a choice.

We see his campaign as giving the voters a reason to vote, but not a real choice.

Sommerfeld himself admits that he entered the race too late to really discuss issues, to really give the voters anything to base their votes on except whose neighbor he happens to be.

With one week to campaign he leaves the voters in a peculiar predicament, giving them a reason to vote, but not the information necessary to base a vote responsibly.

WILLIAM HART, Roger Stricker and Michael Valenza, the Continued United Party candidates for the three seats on the village board, are also partly responsible for the voters' predicament.

While the three have busily rung door-

bells, most of their statements have been party statements, telling voters what their slates stood for, rather than what each of them thought about issues in the village.

No one can blame them for not subjecting themselves to unpleasant issues in the public eye, because there was no reason for them to do so.

WHAT THIS MEANS is that Wheeling voters are going to have to weigh the various alignments with civic organizations, records of service to the village, and, unfortunately, national party ties to decide on their votes tomorrow.

Without the stands on issues that the candidates would have had to take in a heated campaign, many voters will be at a loss as to who to vote for.

While this responsibility to choose weighs heavily, we can offer no real recommendations on choice of candidates either, because of the lack of valid difference between the candidates.

Hopefully, three qualified men will emerge tomorrow as trustees for the village, and next time, someone will care enough soon enough, and will provide a valid choice for all seats open in the election.

Dist. 21 Board Praised By Gill

Supt. Ken Gill took time out from a Dist. 21 school board meeting last week to compliment the board.

"Over the years I have served a number of boards," Gill said. "One factor common to all of them, without exception, is their unselfish wish to do their best for the welfare of the students in the district. I am tired of hearing about a rubber stamp board."

"Too many people are not acquainted with the teamwork, mutual understanding and trust that develops in an organization as effective as our school boards," he said.

THE LOT OF A school board member is sometimes discouraging, and in many areas of decision making, they are often criticized, no matter what their decision, he said.

"Even more discouraging is the fact that so often they are not recognized for their contributions," he said.

Gill said that his trust and respect for the board helps guide his thinking and making recommendations.

He said the public owes a debt of gratitude to those who serve on the board.

"We all have to listen to many opinions on many different things," Gill concluded, "and tonight I felt a need to give my opinion on this board."

Psychologist To Talk Before Service Group

The Community Social Service group at Wheeling High school will hold a meeting Thursday at the school.

It will feature Charles Smith, psychologist for School Dist. 21, in a discussion of "understanding yourself as a parent."

Three other meetings will be held on following Thursdays. All parents are welcome. There will be a charge of $1 for the series.

Further information can be obtained from Donald Day at 537-4969.

Polls Listed for Wheeling Election

Voters in Wheeling will cast ballots to elect, and four village trustees. Polls will open for village president, village clerk open from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Look at Sex Films Asked

by ELAINE JULISON

A group of concerned Buffalo Grove parents was on hand at the Dist. 21 school board meeting last week to request material on the pilot kindergarten through 4th grade program, "Family Living and Sex Education."

"We are very proud of School Dist. 21," Robert Hopkins, 374 Bernard, spokesman for the group, said. "Because of this we are concerned. We would like all this material and slides so that we may evaluate it on our own, and decide if we want this program in our schools," he said.

Supt. Ken Gill said, "We would be very happy to explain anything that you don't understand."

HOPKINS REFUSED Gill's offer, explaining, "we want to study this on our own, without any explanations."

Gill stated that he wouldn't advise anyone to just look at the films without some idea of how it would be presented to the children, but the group insisted that they didn't need any explanation.

"As a spokesman for this group," Hopkins said, "I am not for this or against this. I know many parents do not want it. Many are in favor of it. We just want to be able to make our own evaluation, and then decide if it is what we want our children being taught."

When the board was asked if it had seen the films before approving them, Pres. Mary Jean Reid stated board members were quite aware of the program, had studied all the material, and had seen the films before approval was given.

"DOES THE SCHOOL board have a right to teach this?" asked a woman in the group. When she received an affirmative answer, she declared heatedly, "We don't want it. How many names will it take on a petition to have it thrown out of the schools?"

Board member Edwin Smith replied, "You don't need a petition . . . just one concerned citizen is all it takes to come before this board at any time to have us evaluate a situation."

Hopkins presented the board with a petition of 29 names requesting to see the film.

"That is no problem at all," Marjorie Beu, director of curriculum, said. "We will have all the film and material available for you at your convenience."

Dinner-Theater Party To Help Handicapped

The board of directors and the parents' group of the Countryside Center for the Handicapped and DOOR, Inc., are arranging a dinner-theater party at the Old Orchard Country Club on two Friday evenings, April 18 and April 25.

Cocktails will be at 6 p.m., dinner at 7. The curtain will go up on "Star Spangled Girl" at 8:30.

The play, a Neil Simon's comedy, will be performed by the Country Club Theatre's professional company. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Reigh Grunwald of Barrington, 381-6973 or by calling Ralph Walberg, executive director of the Countryside Center at 438-8855.

The proceeds will be used to further work being done in the school, the sheltered workshop and the rehabilitation center for the mentally retarded, physically or emotionally handicapped child and adult.

All of the village lying in County Dist. One as shown on the map on this page will vote at the Fire Department, 312 E. Dundee Road. The areas of the village in County Dist. 33 vote at Walt Whitman School, 133 S. Wille Ave.

Voters living in Dist. 49 and Dist. 76 cast their ballots at St. Joseph the Worker School, 171 W. Dundee Road. Dist. 37 voters will mark their ballots at 281 Cindy Lane, and voters living within Dist. 50 and Dist. 30 will vote at 358 Maureen Drive.

Jack London Junior High School at 1001 W. Dundee Road is the polling place for residents of Dist. 46 and Dist. 79.

Residents of Dist. 55 and Dist. 74 will vote at Eugene Field School, 51 St. Armand Lane.

Horcher Won't Oppose Group

by ANNE HEDBACK

M. O. Horcher, Wheeling police chief, says he is saddened by the fact that organizations as the Cook County Police Association are necessary to improve law enforcement.

Horcher has no plans to oppose the organization, a bargaining association, which formed in Wheeling last Thursday.

Explaining that the 19 men who organized the association chapter in Wheeling have done nothing contrary to law or regulations, Horcher says "They want to be heard and have a message to give. You just can't clap a lid on these people."

Horcher said that he has been aware of the organization's formation for some time. "They have adequate background, good legal representation, and good capital backing them," he explained.

HORCHER SAID POLICE bargaining associations are not necessary in all areas. "They aren't necessary in areas which have a good idea of what community needs are and have adequate forces," he said.

The chief says that the problem is that in this part of the state there really is not a base pay used by all forces. "The good men are shopping for better jobs, salaries, and fringe benefits," he says.

Some communities are offering salaries starting at $10,500 while in Wheeling the maximum after six years is $9,100, he says.

Generally there is a 15 per cent difference in pay scales by rank, Horcher says.

"We don't have a system among communities where each is somewhat comparable. This causes pitting one town against the other," Horcher said.

ASKED ABOUT WHEELING'S morale, the chief admitted that there is a problem among the policemen.

"We have a high activity rate, but not the facilities," he says pointing out that the new building will improve things, but that the force will still be short. "Police needs are community needs," he says.

Horcher said the association would probably improve the relationship between the policemen and the village board, but admitted that he didn't like the idea of an association.

"I prefer to see police independent and professional," he said.

The chief explained there is a "Basic problem in communications" between the board and the police department. "Communications is a two-way street," he says.

"I WOULD LIKE TO SEE salaries, benefits, and working conditions based on reality, merit, and identified needs," the chief emphasizes.

"Sadly the village of Wheeling may have served as a nucleus in the conception of the association in 1967," Horcher says, recounting events of that year when the police were given raises only after a grievance committee threatened the board with resignation of 50 per cent of the force.

"Merit was knocked down, but the grievance committee was justified for raising the salaries," he recalls.

"The association won't approach communities with well established police departments with working conditions and salaries above the norm," he says.

Horcher says that in this year's budget proposal, now being prepared, he is still trying to get the board to accept a cost of living factor and a merit longevity plan for a police salary base.

Black View Of Suburbia Slated

About 36 black students from Harlan High School in Chicago will spend next Tuesday at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights as part of a suburban-urban city exchange program.

The 30 students will be hosted by 30 Hersey students, who will take them through a typical day at a suburban high school.

Alex Schmidt, director of the social science program at Hersey, explained that the program has been successful before at Arlington and Forest View high schools in Dist. 214.

HE STRESSED that no special program will be prepared for the students, except in some of the social science classes, where the students may discuss unique problems found in the suburbs and the city.

After classes are dismissed, the Operation Breadbasket Band from Chicago will present a 45-minute concert for Hersey and Harlan students. It will be followed by a brief program of dance music for the students.

The band plays for Operation Breadbasket, the Chicago economic arm of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC). It recently performed at St. Raymond's Church in Mount Prospect.

School Approved

Voters turned out in record numbers Saturday to approve construction of a Rolling Meadows high school and pass two High School Dist. 214 tax increases by narrower margins.

Supt. Edward H. Gilbert and interested citizens watching the vote tallies pour in Saturday night at the Dist. 214 "election central" could see by 10:30 p.m. that the Rolling Meadows high school had been approved.

It was after 1 a.m., however, before the schoolmen — with only one precinct still out — felt sure both of the tax rate questions had passed.

GILBERT TOLD THE Herald passage of the Rolling Meadows school construction referendum was essential if the district is to achieve its goal of opening the new school in September, 1971, and relieving overcrowding in the district's other six schools.

Architects Orput-Orput and Associates expect to be ready to put the high school plans out for bidding by contractors early this fall.

The $87 million building bond referendum to finance the new high school — Dist. 214's seventh — passed 6,238 to 4,350.

Unofficial tallies on the tax referenda show that the 21-cent tax increase was okayed 4,879 to 4,704 and the 1 1/2-cent building maintenance tax increase by a 5,517 to 4,973 vote.

Substantial "yes" votes in Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights helped balance massive "no" votes in the High Ridge Knolls precinct in Des Plaines and Prospect Heights Dist. 23 precinct at Anne Sullivan School.

THE BUILDING TAX increase questioned failed in 13 of 25 precincts but those precincts combined "no" vote was not great enough to balance the "yes" votes turned in by Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights.

Hot contests for school board seats helped boost voter turnout in Elk Grove Dist. 59 and Prospect Heights Dist. 23, which had its own tax referendum as well. The Dist. 23 referendum was defeated by 49 votes.

"Get out the vote" campaigns worked well in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows. Prodded by telephone reminders organized by the high schools, voters turned out in a steady stream in those three towns all day.

In Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights, the heavy voter turnout taxes election judges' ability to keep the lines moving. At Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows, residents waited in line an hour or more to vote. Both there and at Anne Sullivan School in Prospect Heights long lines of queuing up voters snaked back and forth across the gymnasium floor.

BILLY K. McMINN, Rolling Meadows businessman and Citizens Committee member who put in his name as a District 214 school board candidate partly to increase interest in the referendum, expressed satisfaction at the referenda success to the crowd waiting at election central.

Dist. 214 schoolmen had been braced for a defeat on the tax rates and were expecting to have to take them to the voters a second time later this year if a promised state aid increase failed to come through.

"I DON'T know how the association will act, but I do anticipate they will demand and have a voice in setting the salaries," he says.

Horcher explains that policemen are paid less than tradesmen who endure no dangers with their jobs.

Horcher admits that some chiefs are being caught unaware by the association, but says "I try to look at things objectively."

He sights evidence that morale was down in 1967 and that the accident rate increased, but arrests and convictions went down. The same thing seems to be happening in early 1968, he admits.

The village board's willingness to look at a communications system is taken as a good sign by the chief. "It's a step in the right direction," he says.

He expressed hope that the demands of the association would be within reason. "Unions are of value in many areas, but they can be detrimental," he says.

School Vision Tests Set

School Dist. 21 is announcing preschool vision screening in cooperation with the Illinois State Dept. of Public Health.

This program will include all children in the community age three through five years.

The purpose of the screening is to locate preschool children with possible visual problems and to identify children needing special educational service due to a visual limitation.

THE CHILD, NOT knowing how he should be seeing, rarely complains to alert his parents about his unusual vision. Parents are not able to detect the problem because the eyes appear to be normal. Thus it is advisable to have preschoolers checked.

The actual screening will be performed by technicians, trained and supervised by the Illinois State Dept. of Public Health. Any children showing evidence of difficulty at the screening will be rescreened at a later date.

It is necessary to register children for this program. At that time the parents will be given a screening readiness game to play with the children so that they will be prepared for the screening. This program is free, and registration will be held April 21 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

CHILDREN MAY RECEIVE the visual screening at Palmer School, Buffalo Grove, April 28, 29, 30 and May 1; at Whitman School, Wheeling, May 2, 5, 6, 7; at Jack London Junior High, Wheeling, May 8, 9, 12; and at Frost School, Prospect Heights, May 13, 14, and 15.

Vigilantes' End?

Proposals for the repeal of an Illinois law dating from 1885 may have an effect on Mount Prospect, according to Mayor Daniel Congreve.

Efforts to repeal a law allowing vigilante groups within the state are being made by Senate GOP leader Sen. Russell Arrington and Sen. Daniel Dougherty, a Democrat from Chicago. Reports of the attempt to repeal the law came Friday from United Press International.

The two are jousting over the right to sponsor repeal of the 1885 state law.

Arrington introduced the repeal Thursday, following Gov. Richard Ogilvie's promise to erase the old law.

DOUGHERTY BEAT Arrington to the clerk, however, and his identical proposal is now Senate Bill 823, while Arrington's is 825.

The sudden interest in repeal was viewed as ironic by Senate Democratic leader Thomas McGloin. He sought repeal in the last session, but the bill never got out of

Moats Scores Upset Victory

Harper Junior College student Lawrence Moats of Mount Prospect scored a solid upset victory in Saturday's college board election.

He polled two-to-one margins over his chief opponent John M. Kuranz of Barrington in Rolling Meadows and a good share of the rest of High School Dist. 214, to win election to a three-year seat on the college board.

Moats far from matched the vote margin given Richard L. Johnson of Arlington Heights, board president who has served as a college trustee since Harper was organized in 1965.

FINAL UNOFFICIAL tallies give Johnson 11,467 to Moats' 8,430 and Kuranz' 6,783.

Moats supporters, directed by campaign chairman James Schmidt, blanketed most of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows with leaflets stressing Moats' campaign planks — improved communications and opposition to the formation of a teachers' union at the community college.

Moats told the Herald yesterday he struck a strong chord of response from the community on the teachers' union issue.

He also said he felt opposition to his candidacy from incumbent college board members backed to his favor.

POINTING AT THE several times board member James Hamill of Schaumburg had speared questions a him at candidates meetings, Moats said, "I was able to demonstrate I could respond intelligently. When I could, it became a plus factor."

Regional voting has been noted in past college board elections — and it was in this election with candidate's address was listed on the ballot.

But Moats drew strong support in Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village as well as Mount Prospect and didn't come up totally short of votes in Kuranz' home area of Barrington.

"Geographic voting and a reaction to Kuranz' record were both factors," Moats told the Herald Sunday.

Moats pressed hard in his campaign on the fact that Kuranz, a respected — and busy — industrial leader, had missed 10 of the last 14 college board meetings and told the press he would continue to be a "part-time board member" if reelected.

MOATS GAVE THE Herald a statement in which he said, "I am very grateful to the voters who put their confidence and trust in me. I will serve the community conscientiously and, in keeping with my campaign plank, will try to increase communications, be available to the individual voters and various groups and organizations as well.

"I am tremendously proud of the responsibility they have entrusted me with and I will do everything I possibly can to serve the community and college with dignity, intelligence and good will."

Moats expressed confidence that he will be able to achieve "a positive-looking relationship" with other college board members despite their overt opposition to his candidacy.

Incumbent board members were not available for comment Sunday morning.

Election Results

Referenda

Rolling Meadows will get its new high school. Voters in High School Dist. 214 Saturday approved three referendum questions. One authorizes sale of bonds for the new school; another approves an education-fund tax rate increase; the third authorizes an increase in the building maintenance fund tax rate.

Voters in Prospect Heights Elementary School Dist. 23 turned down an increase in the education fund tax levy.

Elections

Following are winners in Northwest Cook County school elections Saturday:

HIGH SCHOOL DIST. 211 (Palatine, Schaumburg townships)

Incumbents William Fremd and James Humphrey were reelected. They were joined by Mrs. Carolyn Mullins in a five-candidate race. Fremd won 2,065 votes, Humphrey, 5,028, and Mrs. Mullins, 1,706.

HIGH SCHOOL DIST. 214 (Elk Grove, Wheeling townships)

Arthur Aronson collected 5,114 votes and Richard Stamm, 5,644, to win three-year terms. John Costello was elected to a one-year term with 4,973 votes.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL DIST. 15 (Palatine, Rolling Meadows)

Two unopposed candidates, Otto Eilerling and Joel Meyer, were elected to three-year terms.

DIST. 25 (Arlington Heights)

Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton and James Penn, unopposed incumbent candidates, polled some 1,550 votes. Both were backed by the Caucus nominating committee in February.

DIST. 54 (Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg)

Four incumbents and a candidate with prior board service were elected. Gordon Thoren and Mrs. Bonnie Hannon won three-year board terms with 962 and 830 votes, respectively. Donald Ruby, who previously served on the school board, was elected to a two-year term with 658 votes. Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen, with 969 votes, and Edward Bedard, with 721, were elected to one-year terms.

DIST. 59 (Elk Grove, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights)

Harold Harvey topped the ballot to win a three-year term, along with George Blanchard. Harvey had 905 votes, while Blanchard had 850, edging out Paul Neuhauser by only 26 votes. Running unopposed for a one-year term, Albert Domanico collected 1,576 votes.

DIST. 57 (Mount Prospect)

Incumbent Leo Flores and Alex Casper were elected. Flores collected 1,319 votes and Casper, 1,231. Some 90 votes were cast for write-in candidates, most of them for Richard Young.

Caucus Sweeps Votes

Referendum Try Fails in Dist. 23

A record turn-out of voters from Prospect Heights Dist. 23 crushed the 21-cent educational tax referendum and elected all three Caucus candidates to the school board.

With approximately 50 per cent of the district voting, the referendum was defeated 523 to 474.

A block of 274 straight Caucus votes was the springboard propelling Art Koester, Al Krensky and John Stull to victory with a total of 706, 609, and 583 votes respectively.

Independents Roy Weinberg and Mrs. Jo Ellen Claves received 481 and 374 votes.

SUPT. EDWARD Grodsky said he is bitterly disappointed at the narrow referendum defeat and promised to request a new referendum this summer.

"We'll stick to our guns," he said. "The next time we'll give them more facts."

Long lines formed at the one polling place, Anne Sullivan School, from noon until doors were closed at 7 p.m. Voters waited from a half hour to an hour to vote and many were seen leaving before casting votes. A total of 1,044 votes was cast out of the approximately 2,500 eligible voters in the district.

A long-time poll watcher told the Herald many of the voters who turned out had never before voted in a school election and said the number of elderly voters convinced her by mid afternoon that the referendum was in jeopardy.

Mrs. Claves, who waited until 1 a.m. for the final tally, said, "I will continue to go to board meetings. I am disappointed, but will continue to support the board."

Defeated incumbent Weinberg, who has served five years on the board said, "I know the challenge they face. I hope every effort will be put behind a new school referendum. I'll be back."

The three Caucus candidates declared themselves "very happy."

"I'M DISAPPOINTED the referendum didn't carry," said Krinsky. "The referendum was more important than any one candidate. We will come back to the people with it, again and again and again."

Koester said, "Roy (Weinberg) did a magnificent job. We invite the people's criticism, support and help."

Stull, who was not present to wait out the marathon vote count session, told the Herald yesterday, "I am happy with the turn out. Happy people are concerned. Happy with the people in the Caucus. I'm sorry there weren't five open seats because they all ran good campaigns."

Dist. 21 Likes Incumbents

Voters in Dist. 21 turned out 1,300 strong to reaffirm their faith in the incumbent candidates Mrs. Lillian Stiller and Mrs. Mary Jo Reid Saturday after a hotly contested campaign for the two school board seats.

Mrs. Stiller won with 795 votes with Mrs. Reid following close behind with 778. Both had the backing of the General Caucus.

Thomas Weaver had received 563 votes and Michael Kane, 441, when the final unofficial tally was completed in the district about 10 p.m. Saturday.

MRS. STILLER, contacted at a school board convention in Miami by the Herald, said, "I am very appreciative for all my friends who helped me, those who knew me and those who didn't. I'll try to do the same job I've done for the last three years on the board and continue the interest in the district I've had for the last 12 years."

Mrs. Reid, also at the convention, said, "I'm most gratified that the voters have demonstrated their confidence in the board and the administration."

Voting in the district was very heavy, according to Supt. Ken Gill.

Mrs. Reid captured the most votes in the third, fourth and fifth precincts with polling places in Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights. Mrs. Stiller's strength was in the first and second precincts, the largest precincts in Wheeling.

Weaver and Kane had strong backing in Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights, both beating the winning candidate Mrs. Stiller in votes cast in each of the three areas.

WEAVER TOLD THE Herald that he definitely will run again. He said that he is happy Mrs. Reid has been elected and surprised that Mrs. Stiller received the most votes.

"I promised them they'd know they'd been in a race," Weaver said about the campaign, adding, "Next year it will be another story."

Kane told the Herald that he had assumed that the vote would run as it did.

Kane said he hopes Mrs. Stiller and Mrs. Reid will "go back to the board as truly new members and remember issues brought out in the campaign."

"In their new tenure I hope that they look for changes in direction in the district," he said, volunteering to serve the board in any way he could, such as on a citizens advisory committee.

All 3 To Return

Incumbents captured all three seats in High School Dist. 214's school board election Saturday.

Board Pres. Arthur Aronson of an Arlington Heights unincorporated area and appointed board member Richard Stamm of Mount Prospect were easy winners over Ray Inman of Prospect Heights and Billy K. McMinn of Rolling Meadows.

Unofficial election results show Aronson racked up 6,114 votes, Stamm, 5,644; McMinn, 3,482, and Inman, 3,434.

Aronson and Stamm were running for two three-year terms.

IN A THREE-WAY race for a one-year term, appointed board member John M. Costello of Mount Prospect tallied 4,973 votes to 3,074 for James T. Ryan of Mount Prospect, and 1,568 for Don C. McGlothlin of Wheeling.

Election observers had expected the race between Costello and Ryan to be closer.

But Costello's friends in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect worked hard to cover polling places with Costello literature and Ryan's expected campaign support came through spotty.

Ryan, obviously losing hard but gracefully, set the tone for other candidates when he told a Dist. 214 election crowd at Sliemmyer Administration Center Saturday night, "I don't particularly like losing, but I don't think I could have lost to a better chap." He shook hands with Costello.

"I think I helped with the most important thing," Ryan added, "to help increase interest in the election and pass the referendum."

Aronson agreed "The contest assisted the passage of the referendum," he said.

He declared, "It is a wonderful thing when a district can provide this many good men to run."

McMinn, though third of four candidates overall, scored strongly in his home precincts in Rolling Meadows. He drew 1,293 votes to Aronson's 595.

"I think Rolling Meadows citizens have expressed their desire to have someone on this board. I want to impress this upon you," McMinn said, "when a vacancy opens up or a better man appears."

The election leaves the Dist. 214 board four with members from Mount Prospect, one from Arlington Heights, one from Elk Grove Village and one from unincorporated Wheeling, Dist. 21.

Chosen 'Top' Cadet

Cadet First Class Richard A. Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph P. Jensen, Rolling Meadows, was chosen Cadet of the Month for the Prospect Heights Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

Jensen is the first to be awarded this honor in March, which will culminate in a Cadet of the Year.

Writes-in His Own Name

by ANNE HEDBACK

Charles Mihalek announced his write-in candidacy for president of Wheeling yesterday.

Mihalek, Republican deputy committeeman from the village, told the Herald he decided to run after receiving a favorable response to a survey of typical citizen's attitudes.

The candidate, who lives at 4095 Meadowbrook, said he has been in the area for a long time and didn't have to tell people who he was in order to be elected. He predicted "a silent army" of people who normally are not involved in village affairs will "march me into victory," saying these people will vote and each bring one of their neighbors.

WHEELING TOWNSHIP Committee Eugene Schlickman told the Herald he was unaware of Mihalek's plans until he received a phone call from Mihalek Friday night.

At that time, Mihalek resigned as area deputy committeeman.

"I wished Chuck well . . . and that was it," said Schlickman. "He is acting as an individual and not as part of Republican activity. I have nothing to do with it."

Mihalek told the Herald he decided to run because he thinks it is strange that Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon would leave for a two-week vacation just before the election and not be available for voter's questions.

He said he is also disturbed that the ex-Democratic committeeman Jim Stavros has become involved in the election.

MIHALEK ATTACKED Scanlon for replacing three trustees by appointment last year when there was plenty of time for a general election.

"He by-passed the constitutional rights of the people," Mihalek said, allowing that one appointment might have been all right. He said Scanlon's actions satisfied the Democratic Party but not village residents.

Mihalek also said he blames Scanlon for the delay in the flood program.

"He decided he wanted a new village hall, and the flood committee went along with the hall on the condition he would move with the flood program," Mihalek said.

He accused Scanlon of refusing to help bring out the vote for the flood referendum.

Mihalek said he is receiving no support from the Republican Party organization in the election. He said he verbally resigned from the executive committee of the Wheeling Township Republican Organization Thursday night.

THE WRITE-IN candidate accused the incumbent administration of "killing the interest and pride people used to have in Wheeling."

He said Village Mgr. C. E. Olsen had been fired because Scanlon "couldn't get along with people" and charged the present village president with poorly representing the village to northwest suburban area organizations.

If elected Mihalek says he will develop close relationships between businessmen and civic organizations in the village through monthly meetings, see that a representative of the village attend school and park board meetings, and work for greater utilization of Heritage Park.

He said he would have a Legion of Decency set up among the village youth "to explore whether television and smut literature should be cleaned up."

SCANLON, WHO WAS contacted at his Wheeling home by the Herald, said, "I think a person who would say things like that needs help and our prayers."

Scanlon called Mihalek "misinformed" and declared "the record should speak for itself."

"At no time did I feel the party would have a free ride," he said. "Everyone who's not proud of the village should move out."

He says he was operating under state statute by appointing trustees and contends he saved the village money by not calling special elections.

SCANLON INSISTS HE campaigned for the flood plane program and was the individual who brought other villages together to work on the problem.

"We received $180,000 from the Metropolitan Sanitary District and I call that doing wonderful," he said. "We are now over the hump and are letting out contracts."

The image of the village is at its highest peak and couldn't be better, Scanlon told the Herald, adding "anybody who was interested in running should have made it known at the due date. This is last-minute hysteria."

3 Incumbents Win

Three incumbent school board members were reelected Saturday in River Trails school Dist. 26.

Elected to three-year terms were Harold Haney, 1420 E. Green Lane, Mount Prospect, with 520 votes; Lee Hilfman, 7 S. Lee Street, Prospect Heights, 404 votes; Jack Halvorsen, 505 Garwood, Mount Prospect, 516 votes.

Two challengers to the incumbents failed to receive enough votes to put them in office. Theodore Watenberg, 1407 Orchard, Prospect Heights, received 333 votes, and Gerry Zuck, 1301 Spruce Lane, Prospect Heights received 157 votes.

THE FIVE CANDIDATES were vying for three posts on the school board. All five of the candidates had been endorsed for office by the Dist. 26 Caucus Committee. Although the high vote getter in the Dist. 26 election received 520 votes, School Supt. Winston L. Harwood said the turnout was "pretty good" in comparison to past district elections.

Harold Haney, president of the Dist. 26 board, has been on the board for nine years and has served as its president for the past eight years. A 10-year resident of Mount Prospect, Haney, a chemist, is manager of the industrial food products laboratory for National Dairy Products. He has five children in the River Trails school system.

HILFMAN, A RESEARCH chemist with Universal Oil Products, has been on the school board since 1963. He has lived in Prospect Heights for seven years and has three children attending the district's schools.

Jack Halvorsen was reelected to a third term on the Dist. 26 board. A 10-year resident of Mount Prospect, he held a board position from 1961 to 1964. Last year he was appointed to fill a vacancy and was elected in April, 1968 to complete the remaining year of that term.

Hopefuls Tell Their Qualifications

To help Wheeling voters choose in Tuesday's election between the four candidates running in the contested race for village trustee. The Herald is presenting short answers to the question "Why are you qualified to be a trustee?" from each of the four candidates.

WILLIAM HART
My municipal service has consisted of being a member and chairman of the Wheeling Fire and Police Commission for three years and serving as a village trustee since August, 1968. As a self-employed 12-year resident of Wheeling, my civic interests have included being a coach and manager of Wheeling Little League and a former member of the Rotary Club.

As a trustee I am chairman of the committee which developed the ordinance for a full time fire department for Wheeling. This ordinance was recently passed and the village now has a full-time fire chief. In the near future I would like to see additional full time men added to the department which would help lower the fire rating of the village and entice new business and industry.

IF I AM ELECTED to a full four-year term as village trustee in addition to my regular duties I would devote considerable time to developing an annexation and zoning policy that would permit Wheeling to continue to grow in an orderly manner so as to protect the interest of all the citizens of Wheeling and to preserve our family neighborhoods.

I urge every citizen to vote straight Continued United Party April 15

HUGH SOMMERFELD
When it became known that there would be only a single slate appearing on the ballot for the village election, I was asked by a great number of Wheeling citizens to make myself available for a write-in candidate. I believe that the basis of our whole Democratic system lies in having a choice between at least two qualified people.

As a resident and businessman in Wheeling for the past 12 years, I have kept informed and active in civic and service organizations. I was active in the formation of the Community Council and served as its president for a year. I was a member of the Wheeling Planning Commission during the period in which professional planning and programming was first undertaken and carried forth and have kept my interest in this area.

MY AIMS, WHEN ELECTED, will follow three themes:

- Harmony between all village boards and organizations,
- Progress toward making Wheeling the finest community in our area, and
- Attempting to obtain the best professional assistance for all facets of village government.

ROGER STRICKER
"My background in community affairs includes the presidency and treasurer'ship of the Walt Whitman PTA.

My civic involvement of three years on the Plan Commission gives me a good base knowledge about the ordinances and inner-workings of the village.

My election will insure continued representation of the village of Wheeling in attempts to solve the northwest suburban areas' flooding problems.

I've got a civic and genuine interest in Wheeling and was one of the first to fill in a manpower file application to serve the village."

MICHAEL VALENZA

Why I feel qualified?
I have been asked to answer the above question. I believe my record of nine years of service to the village speaks for itself.

In the capacity of acting director of planning my responsibilities were detailed and numerous, meeting with land developers, attorneys, engineers, surveyors and realtors.

AS CHAIRMAN OF the Wheeling Plan Commission my responsibilities are to the citizens of Wheeling, insuring the proper development of land. I am well versed on current village affairs by attending village board meetings and zoning board of appeals meetings. This enables me to grasp the over-all picture of issues at hand. I feel qualified to serve as a trustee because I am a "free thinker." A yes vote for the entire Continued United Party will insure four more years of efficient government.

Church Hits Aid

A Prospect Heights Lutheran pastor and his church council voiced strong opposition last week to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's proposal to extend state aid to nonpublic schools.

The 13-member council of Rev. Dennis Anderson's Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 111 N. Elmhurst Road, sharply criticized Ogilvie's budget recommendation that $32 million in state funds be doled out to parents of private school students.

Ogilvie's budget message said it is constitutional to give grants to parents, it not to the schools themselves.

"THE STATE OF ILLINOIS must alleviate the pressures upon the private and parochial school systems or face the dangers resulting from their collapse."

The Prospect Heights church council's statement scored that attitude in a statement that reaffirmed "the principle of separation of church and state" and said churches must remain "free to speak the truth without regard to financial or political ties."

"We (Lutherans) engage in parochial school education in places where the public schools aren't adequate but we do not believe in seeking support for it," he explained. "I think we should have freedom of choice, but we must pay for that."

"IN SPEAKING out against non-public school aid, we are acting to preserve the freedom of the church — and to speak up against the heading trend to solving problems through short term solutions in a way that avoids wrestling with principle," the pastor added.

"If we want to change the constitution, then we should face up to that rather than try to circumvent the issue," Pastor Anderson declared.

Their statement comes at a time when the Illinois Citizens for Educational Freedom is mounting a campaign in support of House Bill 1116, which provides tuition grants to parents of students in private and parochial schools.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and a member of the House education committee, says the next two weeks are crucial ones for the fate of H B 1116 — which may get Gov. Ogilvie's backing, through it does not have his support now.

Cook County Police Unit Organized

Wheeling has an official chapter of the Cook County Police Association following a Thursday night meeting at which officers were elected.

Nineteen patrolmen and sergeants from the Wheeling police force joined the organization, for a membership of 90 per cent of the village force.

Gene Wolf was elected president of the local chapter, and William Hoos and Ted Bracke were chosen vice-presidents. Tom Javens is secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The association is authorized by its members to "negotiate in their behalf in all aspects of their employment," Wolf said.

THE CHAPTER HAS pending before the village board a request for a resolution authorizing dues deductions from salaries to be forwarded to the association.

Trustee William Hart, head of the police and fire committee, introduced the resolution last Monday.

Arthur Loevey, legal counsel for the association, has advised the organization that the resolution is legal under Illinois state statutes, Wolf said.

ELECTION DISTRICTS for Tuesday's election in the Village of Wheeling are shown in this map. Wheeling voters will go to the polls tomorrow to select a village president, a clerk, and four village trustees. Polling places will open at 6 a.m. and close at 6 p.m.

A Herald Editorial

No Real Choice

Tomorrow is Election Day in Wheeling, a day when many people had planned not to vote at all.

Last week Hugh Sommerfeld declared his write-in candidacy for the post of village trustee with a four-year term. By this late but somewhat organized campaign, Sommerfeld has given many Wheeling residents a reason to show up at the polls on Tuesday.

SOMMERFELD CLAIMS that he is running to give the voters a choice.

We see his campaign as giving the voters a reason to vote, but not a real choice.

Sommerfeld himself admits that he entered the race too late to really discuss issues, to really give the voters anything to base their votes on except whose neighbor he happens to be.

With one week to campaign he leaves the voters in a peculiar predicament, giving them a reason to vote, but not the information necessary to have a vote responsibly.

WILLIAM HART, Roger Stricker and Michael Valenza, the Continued United Party candidates for the three seats on the village board, are also partly responsible for the voters predicament.

While the three have busily rung door-

bells, most of their statements have been party statements, telling voters what their slates stood for, rather than what each of them thought about issues in the village.

No one can blame them for not subjecting themselves to unpleasant issues in the public eye, because there was no reason for them to do so.

WHAT THIS MEANS is that Wheeling voters are going to have to weigh the various alignments with civic organizations, records of service to the village, and, unfortunately, national party ties to decide on their votes tomorrow.

Without the stands on issues that the candidates would have had to take in a heated campaign, many voters will be at a loss as to who to vote for.

While this responsibility to choose weighs heavily, we can offer no real recommendations on choice of candidates either, because of the lack of valid difference between the candidates.

Hopefully, three qualified men will emerge tomorrow as trustees for the village, and next time, someone will care enough soon enough, and will provide a valid choice for all seats open in the election.

Dist. 21 Board Praised By Gill

Supt. Ken Gill took time out from a Dist. 21 school board meeting last week to compliment the board.

"Over the years I have served a number of boards," Gill said. "One factor common to all of them, without exception, is their unselfish wish to do their best for the welfare of the students in the district. I am tired of hearing about a rubber stamp board."

"Too many people are not acquainted with the teamwork, mutual understanding and trust that develops in an organization as effective as our school boards," he said.

THE LOT OF a school board member is sometimes discouraging, and in many areas of decision making, they are often criticized, no matter what their decision, he said.

"Even more discouraging is the fact that so often they are not recognized for their contributions," he said.

Gill said that his trust and respect for the board helps guide his thinking and making recommendations.

He said the public owes a debt of gratitude to those who serve on the board.

"We all have to listen to many opinions on many different things," Gill concluded, "and tonight I felt a need to give my opinion on this board."

Psychologist To Talk Before Service Group

The Community Social Service group at Wheeling High school will hold a meeting Thursday at the school.

It will feature Charles Smith, psychologist for School Dist. 21, in a discussion of "understanding yourself as a parent."

Three other meetings will be held on following Thursdays. All parents are welcome. There will be a charge of $1 for the series.

Further information can be obtained from Donald Day at 537-4969.

Polls Listed for Wheeling Election

Voters in Wheeling will cast ballots tomorrow for village president, village clerk, and four village trustees. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Look at Sex Films Asked

by ELAINE JULISON

A group of concerned Buffalo Grove parents was on hand at the Dist. 21 school board meeting last week to request material on the pilot kindergarten through 4th grade program, "Family Living and Sex Education."

"We are very proud of School Dist. 21," Robert Hopkins, 374 Bernard, spokesman for the group, said. "Because of this we are concerned. We would like all this material and slides so that we may evaluate it on our own, and decide if we want this program in our schools," he said.

Supt. Ken Gill said, "We would be very happy to explain anything that you don't understand."

HOPKINS REFUSED Gill's offer, explaining, "We want to study this on our own, without any explanations."

Gill stated that he wouldn't advise anyone to just look at the films without some idea of how it would be presented to the children, but the group insisted that they didn't need any explanation.

"As a spokesman for this group," Hopkins said, "I am not for this or against this. I know many parents do not want it. Many are in favor of it. We just want to be able to make our own evaluation, and then decide if it is what we want our children being taught."

When the board was asked if it had seen the films before approving them, Pres. Mary Jean Reid stated board members were quite aware of the program, had studied all the material, and had seen the films before approval was given.

"DOES THE SCHOOL have a right to teach this?" asked a woman in the group. When she received an affirmative answer, she declared heatedly, "We adult.

don't want it. How many names will it take on a petition to have it thrown out of the schools?"

Board member Edwin Smith replied, "You don't need a petition . . . just one concerned citizen is all it takes to come before this board at any time to have us evaluate a situation."

Hopkins presented the board with a petition of 29 names requesting to see the film.

"That is no problem at all," Marjorie Beu, director of curriculum, said. "We will have all the film and material available for you at your convenience."

Referenda

Rolling Meadows will get its new high school. Voters in High School Dist. 214 Saturday approved three referendum questions. Voters in Prospect Heights Elementary School Dist. 23 turned down an increase in the education fund tax levy.

Caucus Sweeps Votes

Referendum Try Fails in Dist. 23

A record turn-out of voters from Prospect Heights Dist. 23 crushed the 21-cent educational tax referendum and elected all three Caucus candidates to the school board.

With approximately 50 per cent of the district voting, the referendum was defeated 523 to 474.

A block of 274 straight Caucus votes was the springboard propelling Art Koester, Al Krensky and John Stull to victory with a total of 706, 609, and 593 votes respectively.

Independents Roy Weinberg and Mrs. Jo Ellen Claws received 481 and 374 votes.

SUPT. EDWARD GROSSKY said he is bitterly disappointed at the narrow referendum defeat and promised to request a new referendum this summer.

"We'll stick to our guns," he said. "The next time we'll give them more facts."

Long lines formed at the one polling place, Anne Sullivan School, from noon until doors were closed at 7 p.m. Voters waited from a half hour to an hour to vote and many were seen leaving before casting votes. A total of 1,044 votes was cast out of the approximately 2,500 eligible voters in the district.

A long-time poll watcher told the Herald many of the voters who turned out had never before voted in a school election and said the number of elderly voters convinced her by mid afternoon that the referendum was in jeopardy.

Mrs. Claws, who waited until 1 a.m. for the final tally, said, "I will continue to go to board meetings. I am disappointed, but will continue to support the board."

Defeated incumbent Weinberg, who has served five years on the board said, "I know the challenge they face. I hope every effort will be put behind a new school referendum. I'll be back."

The three Caucus candidates declared themselves "very happy."

"I'M DISAPPOINTED the referendum didn't carry," said Krinsky. "The referendum was more important than any one candidate. We will come back to the people with it, again and again and again."

Koester said, "Roy (Weinberg) did a magnificent job. We invite the people's criticism, support and help."

Stull, who was not present to wait out the marathon vote count session, told the Herald yesterday, "I am happy with the turn out. Happy people are concerned. Happy with the people in the Caucus. I'm sorry there weren't five open seats because they all ran good campaigns."

Dist. 21 Likes Incumbents

Voters in Dist. 21 turned out 1,300 strong to reaffirm their faith in the incumbent candidates Mrs. Lillian Stiller and Mrs. Mary Jo Reid Saturday after a hotly contested campaign for the two school board seats.

Mrs. Stiller won with 795 votes with Mrs. Reid following close behind with 778. Both had the backing of the General Caucus.

Thomas Weaver had received 563 votes and Michael Kane, 447, when the final unofficial tally was completed in the district about 10 p.m. Saturday.

MRS. STILLER, contacted at a school board convention in Miami by the Herald, said, "I am very appreciative for all my friends who helped me, those who knew me and those who didn't. I'll try to do the same job I've done for the last three years on the board and continue the interest in the district I've had for the last 12 years."

Mrs. Reid, also at the convention, said, "I'm most gratified that the voters have demonstrated their confidence in the board and the administration."

Voting in the district was very heavy, according to Supt. Ken Gill.

Mrs. Reid captured the most votes in the third, fourth and fifth precincts with polling places in Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights. Mrs. Stiller's strength was in the first and second precincts, the largest precincts in Wheeling.

Weaver and Kane had strong backing in Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights, both beating the winning candidate Mrs. Stiller in votes cast in each of the three areas.

WEAVER TOLD THE Herald that he definitely will run again. He said that he is happy Mrs. Reid has been elected and surprised that Mrs. Stiller received the most votes.

"I promised them they'd know they'd been in a race," Weaver said about the campaign, adding, "Next year it will be another story."

Kane told the Herald that he had assumed that the vote would run as it did.

Kane said he hopes Mrs. Stiller and Mrs. Reid will "go back to the board as truly new members and remember issues brought out in the campaign."

"In their new tenure I hope that they look for changes in direction in the district," he said, volunteering to serve the board in any way he could, such as on a citizens advisory committee.

All 3 To Return

Incumbents captured all three seats in High School Dist. 214's school board election Saturday.

Board Pres. Arthur Aronson of an Arlington Heights unincorporated area and appointed board member Richard Stamm of Mount Prospect were easy winners over Ray Inman of Prospect Heights and Billy K. McMinn of Rolling Meadows.

Unofficial election results show Aronson racked up 8,114 votes, Stamm, 5,644; McMinn, 3,482, and Inman, 3,434.

Aronson and Stamm were running for two three-year terms.

IN A THREE-WAY race for a one-year term, appointed board member John M. Costello of Mount Prospect tallied 4,973 votes to 3,074 for James T. Ryan of Mount Prospect, and 1,568 for Don C. McGlothlin of Wheeling.

Election observers had expected the race between Costello and Ryan to be closer.

But Costello's friends in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect worked hard to cover polling places with Costello literature and Ryan's expected campaign support came through spotty.

Ryan, obviously losing hard but gracefully, set the tone for other candidates when he told a Dist. 214 election crowd at Slichenmyer Administration Center Saturday night, "I don't particularly like losing, but I don't think I could have lost to a better chap." He shook hands with Costello.

"I think I helped with the most important thing," Ryan added, "to help increase interest in the election and pass the referendum."

Aronson agreed "The contest assisted the passage of the referendum," he said.

He declared, "It is a wonderful thing when a district can provide this many good men to run."

McMinn, though third of four candidates overall, scored strongly in his home precincts in Rolling Meadows. He drew 1,293 votes to Aronson's 595.

"I think Rolling Meadows citizens have expressed their desire to have someone on this board. I want to impress this upon you," McMinn said, "when a vacancy opens up or a better man appears."

The election leaves the Dist. 214 board four with members from Mount Prospect, one from Arlington Heights, one from Elk Grove Village and one from unincorporated Wheeling, Dist. 21.

Writes-in His Own Name

by ANNE HEDBACK

Charles Mihalek announced his write-in candidacy for president of Wheeling yesterday.

Mihalek, Republican deputy committeeman from the village, told the Herald he decided to run after receiving a favorable response to a survey of typical citizen's attitudes.

The candidate, who lives at 4095 Meadowbrook, said he has been in the area for a long time and didn't have to tell people who he was in order to be elected. He predicted "a silent army" of people who normally are not involved in village affairs will "march me into victory," saying these people will vote and each bring one of their neighbors.

WHEELING TOWNSHIP Committeeman Eugene Schlickman told the Herald he was unaware of Mihalek's plans until he received a phone call from Mihalek Friday night.

At that time, Mihalek resigned as area deputy committeeman.

"I wished Chuck well and that was it," said Schlickman. "He is acting as an individual and not as part of Republican activity. I have nothing to do with it."

Mihalek told the Herald he decided to run because he thinks it is strange that Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon would leave for a two-week vacation just before the election and not be available for voter's questions.

He said he is also disturbed that the ex-Democratic committeeman Jim Stavros has become involved in the election.

MIHALEK ATTACKED Scanlon for replacing three trustees by appointment last year when there was plenty of time for a general election.

"He by-passed the constitutional rights of the people," Mihalek said, allowing that one appointment might have been all right. He said Scanlon's actions satisfied the Democratic Party but not village residents.

Mihalek also said he blames Scanlon for the delay in the flood program.

"He decided he wanted a new village hall, and the flood committee went along with the hall on the condition he would move with the flood program," Mihalek said.

He accused Scanlon of refusing to help bring out the vote for the flood referendum.

Mihalek said he is receiving no support from the Republican Party organization in the election. He said he verbally resigned from the executive committee of the Wheeling Township Republican Organization Thursday night.

THE WRITE-IN candidate accused the incumbent administration of "killing the interest and pride people used to have in Wheeling."

He said Village Mgr. C. E. Olsen had been fired because Scanlon "couldn't get along with people" and charged the present village president with poorly representing the village to northwest suburban area organizations.

If elected Mihalek says he will develop close relationships between businessmen and civic organizations in the village through monthly meetings, see that a representative of the village attend school and park board meetings, and work for greater utilization of Heritage Park.

He said he would have a Legion of Decency set up among the village youth "to explore whether television and smut literature should be cleaned up."

SCANLON, WHO WAS contacted at his Wheeling home by the Herald, said, "I think a person who would say things like that needs help and our prayers."

Scanlon called Mihalek "misinformed" and declared "the record should speak for itself."

"At no time did I feel the party would have a free ride," he said. "Everyone who's not proud of the village should move out."

He says he was operating under state statute by appointing trustees and contends he saved the village money by not calling special elections.

3 Incumbents Win

Three incumbent school board members were reelected Saturday in River Trails school Dist. 26.

Elected to three-year terms were Harold Haney, 1420 E. Green Lane, Mount Prospect, with 520 votes; Lee Hillman, 7 S. Lee Street, Prospect Heights, 404 votes; Jack Halvorsen, 505 Garwood, Mount Prospect, 516 votes.

Two challengers to the incumbents failed to receive enough votes to put them in office. Theodore Watenberg, 1407 Orchard, Prospect Heights, received 333 votes, and Gerry Zuck, 1301 Spruce Lane, Prospect Heights received 157 votes.

THE FIVE CANDIDATES were vying for three posts on the school board. All five of the candidates had been endorsed for office by the Dist. 26 Caucus Committee. Although the high vote getter in the Dist. 26 election received 520 votes, School Supt. Winston L. Harwood said the turnout was "pretty good" in comparison to past district elections.

Harold Haney, president of the Dist. 26 board, has been on the board for nine years and has served as its president for the past eight years. A 10-year resident of Mount Prospect, Haney, a chemist, is manager of the industrial food products laboratory for National Dairy Products.

He has five children in the River Trails school system.

HILFMAN, A RESEARCH chemist with Universal Oil Products, has been on the school board since 1963. He has lived in Prospect Heights for seven years and has three children attending the district's schools.

Jack Halvorsen was reelected to a third term on the Dist. 26 board. A 10-year resident of Mount Prospect, he held a board position from 1961 to 1964. Last year he was appointed to fill a vacancy and was elected in April, 1968 to complete the remaining year of that term.

Buffalo Grove Candidates Give Statements

(The Herald is presenting a capsule statement from the candidates for Buffalo Grove Village Board on the eve of the election to allow voters to make their decision on the candidates they choose.)

These statements have not been written by The Herald.)

BEVERLEY WARNER

In view of the rapid growth in Buffalo Grove, I think we all recognize the importance of the next four years. Just as in any type of employment, there is a definite need for village trustees who have foresight, knowledge of village affairs, and proven record of dedication and community participation.

Not only do I offer the residents these qualifications, but go several steps further — 15 years of active organizational experience and something many can't offer — time.

ABOVE ALL, I am truly interested in Buffalo Grove. My regular attendance of board meetings and my service to the village on the park commission and municipal building reflect my concern as to where we are going as a village.

I feel that action, coupled with positive planning, will be the key to future progress.

EDWARD FABISH

I am running for village trustee because after six years of sitting on the sidelines gaining village background and experience, I feel I can help the village iron out its tremendous growing pains.

I have found out during the campaign that villagers assume that as chairman of the plan commission, I have voting rights on the commission and have power to overrule the village board on matters of land use.

As chairman of the plan commission, I have no vote except in the case of a tie in matters of commission findings. The plan commission is an advisory body and the village board can either accept or reject the commission's findings. It must be remembered that the village trustees have the final authority in the village.

I HAVE DISAGREED with the village board on several occasions, not to be difficult or obstinate, but because, in some areas of land use, these decisions were not the best for the long run plan of land use. I want a voice on the village board, as well as a vote, so my views can be heard. The village needs further police and fire protection, a better public improvements program on drainage ditches, roads and sidewalks, and considerable improvements in parks and recreational facilities.

I believe I have gained the maturity for making decisions for the village because of past experience in village matters. I need your vote on April 15, so I can vote for you for the next four years.

NEIL WILLIAM HOPKINS

I have served this village for seven of the 10 years that I have been a resident. My interest in our village is still high and I wish to continue to serve.

(Hopkins then lists his fields of participation in village affairs, ed.)

HE WAS A MEMBER of the Buffalo Grove Police Department regular reserve for five years, served as a lieutenant for three years and has been a member of the Traffic and Safety Committee for the past two years.

He is an institutional representative for Cub Scout Pack 211, and a committee member of Boy Scout Troop 341.

He leads the Senior High Youth Forum in religious discussions at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, where he is also secretary of the board of ministers, and co-chairman of social ministry.

GARY ARMSTRONG

We are number one!

We have all heard this phrase used many times in connection with a championship athletic team. It denotes excellence and superior achievement. It is the result of hard work and sacrifice on the part of many people — the team. I believe that Buffalo Grove can be number one. We can build a village reputation that will be equal to the best, exceeded by none.

Your village board has the responsibility to turn this ambition into a reality. As one of your trustees, I will do everything in my power to give our village creative, dynamic and independent leadership filled with the imagination and initiative necessary to lead us successfully through the next four years.

HOWEVER, I WILL need your help. I can not do it alone. If we are to really become number one we must all give something of ourselves to the village — something besides tax money! We take from Buffalo Grove every day — let each of us give of our individual talents to and for our community. Be sure to vote on Tuesday, April 15th. Do not let someone else make your decision for you. Buffalo Grove needs you. Really care.

JAMES LENAHAN

I live and work on a planned basis and I will therefore bring independent thinking into the short, medium, and long range planning of the village. I would like the village services developed using full-time personnel where it is economically feasible, and further wish to expand village services using qualified and properly trained volunteers to render the highest level of service.

I know how to deal with the apartment problem, with dogs on the loose, with the conversion of the Rural Fire District which now services our village into a municipal fire department, with administrative problems such as those that saw police problems of official record rise 238 per cent in two years and the enforcement of village ordinances (as measured by actions brought into court litigation) drop 78 per cent, with the need for development of an industrial park.

I BELIEVE THAT government should be of laws rather than of men. Only through independent thinking and action can we have a democratic village government. I have been heavily involved in civic activities since living in the village and I have worked with various civic and social groups. As trustee I will work with responsible citizens and groups to make Buffalo Grove the finest village one could live in. I will be "The Peoples' Voice."

Church Hits Aid

A Prospect Heights Lutheran pastor and his church council voiced strong opposition last week to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's proposal to extend state aid to nonpublic schools.

The 15-member council of Rev. Dennis Anderson's Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 111 N. Elmhurst Road, sharply criticized Ogilvie's budget recommendation that $32 million in state funds be doled out to parents of private school students.

Ogilvie's budget message said it is constitutional to give grants to parents, it is not to the schools themselves.

"THE STATE OF ILLINOIS must alleviate the pressures upon the private and parochial school systems or face the dangers resulting from their collapse."

The Prospect Heights church council's statement scored that attitude in a statement that reaffirmed "the principle of separation of church and state" and said churches must remain "free to speak the truth without regard to financial or political ties."

"We (Lutherans) engage in parochial school education in places where the public schools aren't adequate but we do not believe in seeking support for it," he explained. "I think we should have freedom of choice, but we must pay for that."

"IN SPEAKING out against non-public school aid, we are acting to preserve the freedom of the church — and to speak up against the headlong trend to solving problems through short term solutions in a way that avoids wrestling with principle," the pastor added.

"If we want to change the constitution, then we should face up to that rather than try to circumvent the issue," Pastor Anderson declared.

Their statement comes at a time when the Illinois Citizens for Educational Freedom is mounting a campaign in support of House Bill 1116, which provides tuition grants to parents of students in private and parochial schools.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and a member of the House education committee, says the next two weeks are crucial ones for the fate of H.B. 1116 — which may get Gov. Ogilvie's backing, through it does not have his support now.

Cook County Police Unit Organized

Wheeling has an official chapter of the Cook County Police Association following a Thursday night meeting at which officers were elected.

Nineteen patrolmen and sergeants from the Wheeling police force joined the organization, for a membership of 90 per cent of the village force.

Gene Wolf was elected president of the local chapter, and William Hoos and Ted Bracke were chosen vice-presidents. Tom Javens is secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The association is authorized by its members to "negotiate in their behalf in all aspects of their employment," Wolf said.

THE CHAPTER HAS pending before the village board a request for a resolution authorizing dues deductions from salaries to be forwarded to the association.

Trustee William Hart, head of the police and fire committee, introduced the resolution last Monday.

Arthur Loevey, legal counsel for the association, has advised the organization that the resolution is legal under Illinois state statutes, Wolf said.

Dist. 21 Board Praised By Gill

Supt. Ken Gill took time out from a Dist. 21 school board meeting last week to compliment the board.

"Over the years I have served a number of boards," Gill said. "One factor common to all of them, without exception, is their unselfish wish to do their best for the welfare of the students in the district. I am tired of hearing about a rubber stamp board."

"Too many people are not acquainted with the teamwork, mutual understanding and trust that develops in an organization as effective as our school boards," he said.

THE LOT OF A school board member is sometimes discouraging, and in many areas of decision making, they are often criticized, no matter what their decision, he said.

"Even more discouraging is the fact that so often they are not recognized for their contributions," he said.

Gill said that his trust and respect for the board helps guide his thinking and making recommendations.

He said the public owes a debt of gratitude to those who serve on the board.

"We all have to listen to many opinions on many different things," Gill concluded, "and tonight I felt a need to give my opinion on this board."

A Herald Editorial

No Real Choice

Tomorrow is Election Day in Wheeling, a day when many people had planned not to vote at all.

Last week Hugh Sommerfeld declared his write-in candidacy for the post of village trustee with a four-year term. By this late but somewhat organized campaign, Sommerfeld has given many Wheeling residents a reason to show up at the polls on Tuesday.

SOMMERFELD CLAIMS that he is running to give the voters a choice.

We see his campaign as giving the voters a reason to vote, but not a real choice.

Sommerfeld himself admits that he entered the race too late to really discuss issues, to really give the voters anything to base their votes on except whose neighbor he happens to be.

With one week to campaign he leaves the voters in a peculiar predicament, giving them a reason to vote, but not the information necessary to base a vote responsibly.

WILLIAM HART, Roger Stricker and Michael Valenza, the Continued United Party candidates for the three seats on the village board, are also partly responsible for the voters predicament.

While the three have busily rung door-

bells, most of their statements have been party statements, telling voters what their slates stood for, rather than what each of them thought about issues in the village.

No one can blame them for not subjecting themselves to unpleasant issues in the public eye, because there was no reason for them to do so.

WHAT THIS MEANS is that Wheeling voters are going to have to weigh the various alignments with civic organizations, records of service to the village, and, unfortunately, national party ties to decide on their votes tomorrow.

Without the stands on issues that the candidates would have had to take in a heated campaign, many voters will be at a loss as to who to vote for.

While this responsibility to choose weighs heavily, we can offer no real recommendations on choice of candidates either, because of the lack of valid difference between the candidates.

Hopefully, three qualified men will emerge tomorrow as trustees for the village, and next time, someone will care enough soon enough, and will provide a valid choice for all seats open in the election.

Elect PHP

Buffalo Grove voters will go to the polls tomorrow to elect three representatives to the board of trustees.

These trustees will guide the village through a period of population growth rarely matched in any suburb in this area.

It is predicted the population of Buffalo Grove will triple in the next two years.

For this reason, it is vitally important to have village trustees who favor planning and are concerned for controlled development.

For this reason, we endorse the three members of the Progressive Homeowner's Party: Beverly Warner, Edward Fabish and Neil Hopkins.

The Herald was also impressed by the qualifications of independent Gary Armstrong.

If the Progressive Homeowner's Party succeeds in filling all three of the seats, we suggest Armstrong be appointed to a commission in order to develop his knowledge of village policy while, at the same time, contributing his ability to Buffalo Grove.

"YOU DONE GOOD," outgoing Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods told teen marchers yesterday. The teens went to Hersey High School to turn in money pledged for participating in the 17-mile Hike for the Hungry on Good Friday. About two-thirds of the marchers showed up. They collected an estimated $54,000 to $60,000.

Rumsfeld: Free Hand?

by MARTHA MOSER

Despite White House silence, it appeared yesterday U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld is the new director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO). Speculation that President Richard M. Nixon has selected the Northwest suburbs congressman for the poverty post continued as late as 2 p.m. yesterday. Rumsfeld reportedly is "bargaining" his taking the post for a chance at using his own philosophy on social welfare as war-on-poverty head.

Rumsfeld said in a candidates' interview at Paddock Publications last fall that he would like to see the OEO become a "spearhead."

AS SUCH, RUMSFELD saw the office

as being a sparkplug that would generate ideas, then spin them off into another department as the machinery is tested and rolling.

Talking on the basis there is no proven solution to the urban crisis, Rumsfeld said that instead of developing anti-poverty programs and operating them, OEO should be an office to experiment and be under fire. "When something doesn't work, they should admit it," Rumsfeld said that Saturday morning. "When it does work, they should split it off into an appropriate administering agency."

He then criticized the office for "hugging" good programs so it can balance success stories with failures when it goes to Congress for funds.

He said OEO should make better use of the District of Columbia, which is the direct responsibility of the federal government, and should innovate programs that "add information" to the anti-poverty fight.

He cited the rapid shifting of poor into the ghettos as a problem which is nullifying current government efforts.

ASKED HOW suburbanites can become effective in helping people in the ghetto, the OEO nominee then said:

"First, we need to do a better job of cataloging the kinds of mechanics available to people in metropolitan areas to do things. And second, you need an attitude of caring."

Rumsfeld's demonstrated "attitude of caring," despite his background in an affluent district, has caused him to become associated with interest and concern for social welfare problems.

Rumsfeld has indicated his philosophy is that government alone can not, and will not, provide all the social answers and the "urban crisis" demonstrates the failure of government to function as a "cure-all."

His past statements align him with Nixon administration thinking that private industry and government must form investment partnerships to create new jobs, correct substandard housing, expand educational opportunities and lower racial barriers.

Past answers to the American social dilemma, such as urban renewal, model cities, public welfare, demonstration projects, legislative edicts, and all other traditional answers have proved unsuccessful, the young man has said.

IN PRIVATE conversations, his view has been that government stop-gap measures have proved disappointing and have created fresh disillusionment and often hardship.

The ghetto is not houses, it is people, the young man would be likely to say. Rumsfeld himself this weekend refused to confirm or deny an appointment. White House press aides indicated to the Herald, however, the story is being held in deference to a Presidential announcement.

Rumsfeld told the Herald, "There is not a lot I can say except that the matter has been discussed. I wish I could be more responsive about this, but there is nothing more now that I can say. I have done all the talking that I can."

WASHINGTON SOURCES admitted consideration of Rumsfeld has been under discussion for several weeks. And the congressman's unusual lack of candor combined to support reports of the appointment.

Rumsfeld said any announcement of an appointment will be made early this week.

Incumbents William Fremd and James Humphrey were reelected to the High School Dist. 211 Board of Education Saturday and were joined by Mrs. Carolyn Mullins, Schaumburg mother and former newspaper reporter.

Final unofficial returns Saturday night gave Fremd 2,065 votes to Humphrey's 2,028 and Mrs. Mullins' 1,705.

Former board member Carl Buehler, who lost last year when he sought a return to the board, ran fourth Saturday with 1,212 votes.

RICHARD CHERICO, a former Palatine High School teacher who also ran and lost last year, was low vote-getter with 1,102, unofficially.

Fremd is a 32 year veteran of the Dist. 211 board. He is the only school board member in the area with a school bearing his name. William Fremd High School serves most of western Palatine and much of the unincorporated area of Palatine Township.

Humphrey, who currently is president of the board, has been on and off the board for about 5 1/2 years.

He was first elected to a one year term on the board in 1963 and won a three year term in 1964.

HE RAN AGAIN in 1967 but was defeated. However, when a vacancy was created on the board in late 1967, Humphrey was appointed to fill it and he was reelected in 1968 to a one year term.

Mrs. Mullins, the wife of a Schaumburg village trustee, is a former reporter and education editor for Pioneer newspapers. She has reported both Elementary Dist. 54 and the high school district.

Humphrey, Fremd and Mrs. Mullins ran as a slate and directed most of their campaign at Chierico and against charges Chierico leveled at the district.

CAMPAIGN LITERATURE distributed by the three victors even included plastic rain covers wrapped around home delivery editions of Chicago newspapers Saturday morning and afternoon.

Mrs. Mullins had the endorsement of Donald Truitt, who announced early this year that he was not going to seek reelection but that he would support Mrs. Mullins for his seat on the board.

Her strongest criticism of the district was what she called a shortage of programs for students who do not intend to go on to college. Mrs. Mullins pledged she will work for more guidance programs after election.

Chierico's losing campaign was similar to last year's when he also lost. He has complained that the district is wasting money and hinted at mismanagement of the board after he was defeated in 1967. Chierico maintains there were several Dist. 211 funds and also criticized the district for its appointment of Humphrey to qualified candidates for the appointment but the district ignored them in favor of Humphrey.

Buehler had served on the board for four years before his defeat last year.

Charged With Hit, Run

Identification by six witnesses led to the arrest of Ronald Richter, 34, of 7904 Fremont, Rolling Meadows, by Elk Grove Village police Friday morning after an alleged hit and run incident.

Injured was William Poole, 25, of 1329 N. Chicago, Arlington Heights, after Richter allegedly ran him down twice near Arlington Heights and Higgins roads.

Witnesses told police that Poole, riding a motorcycle, was run off the road by Richter. After an attempted confrontation initiated by Poole, they said, Richter ran him down, dragging the motorcycle and Poole through the intersection.

Witnesses also said that Richter left the scene, but at least one man followed the car to obtain the license plate number.

ACCORDING TO POLICE, all six witnesses gave the same license number, and the name of the driver was discovered through a microfilm listing of auto registrations.

The incident was reported to police at 8:24 a.m., and Richter was arrested at 8:50, police said.

Poole was taken to St. Alexius Hospital, where he was treated for cuts and bruises, and later released. Police said he was extremely lucky, in that he was "dumped into the right hand lane, while the light was green, and could have been hit by another car."

Richter was charged with reckless conduct and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident. He was released on $100 bond.

After determining Richter's home address, he was located at 2200 Landmeier Road and arrested there. Police who participated in the investigation included officers John Bantner, Robert Canary, and Melvin Mack.

Library Vote Is Major Issue

Although the Palatine village board and library board election results are a foregone conclusion, local voters are faced with an important library referendum.

Tomorrow voters will be asked to approve sale of $235,000 worth of bonds to purchase a new site for a future library building. The location selected is the northwest corner of Brockway and Wood streets, across from the present library.

A maximum increase in real estate tax of 5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for a 10-year period is predicted. The cost is 33 per cent less money for 90 per cent more land than the referendum that was defeated in February, 1968.

BOARD PRES. John Wassmer said he didn't see as much active opposition as last year and is "optimistic" about the results. Unlike the previous referendum, the cost of the new building is not included in the referendum.

The design and construction and other details of the new library will be decided upon after the arrival of the new director, Mrs. Ida Bullen.

The proposed building last year was "ideal, almost a textbook building," Wassmer said the board was told. Unfortunately, the public never got a chance to use it.

Board members have pointed to the fact that since 1957, the village population has tripled and use of the library has greatly increased.

THE SIZE of the new site is 292 by 297 feet and it is designed for phased construction for future growth and ample parking space.

Although there has been some concern on the part of voters as to the cost of the building, library officials have noted that the opposition has not been as bitter as last year.

Wassmer acknowledged that voters might approve the new site and then vote against the cost of a building. "We would have to take it in step if that happened," he said.

Plan to Keep Palatine a 'Real Home Town'

by MARTHA KOPER

Keeping Palatine a "real home town" is the goal of incumbent Village Pres. John Moodie and the rest of the Republican slate seeking a victory in Tuesday's election.

With no announced opposition to the candidacies of Moodie, Trustees John Hughes, Wendell Jones and Terry Leighty, and Village Clerk Mrs. Louise Jones, the path has been cleared for the incumbents to outline their plans for the next four years.

In Moodie's opinion, the biggest challenge facing the board is "recognizing the growth potential we have and channeling it in the right direction. We hope to maintain the status of a single-family home community," he said.

"THIS, OF COURSE, doesn't mean we're opposed to location of apartments in the village, but it's most desirable to have them come into the village as they have recently, at a rate of about 12 units per acre," he explained. "We want to continue striving for more open space."

About village revenue, Moodie thinks sales tax is more important than property taxes realized from new developments in the town. "That's why we'll be striving to increase commercial and industrial areas along with residential projects," he said.

He thinks the board can actively encourage this by maintaining an atmosphere of willingness to discuss projects with potential developers.

But, he quickly added, "We don't need a slum industrial development just for the sake of saying Palatine is developing."

IN RESPECT TO THE local Chamber of Commerce's motto, "Palatine — A Real Home Town," Moodie thinks village officials can contribute to creating this atmosphere by "giving the services people need and demand at a price they're willing to pay."

Following this line, he said the board of trustees intends to continue pursuing avenues of flood relief for homeowners living along Salt Creek.

In the past, "We have insisted on the proper right-of-ways along the creek when new developments have come in the village that will make it easy for flood improvement work to take place whenever the project is approved," Moodie explained.

The village has purchased some equipment in the last year which will make it possible for the local public works crew to maintain existing channels of Salt Creek.

"That will help solve some of the problem, but we still need major flood control construction in Palatine," he said.

ANOTHER PLAN OF THE future in the minds of incumbents concerns improvement of downtown area.

ments and further developments in the downtown area.

"Specifically, one of the first things to concentrate on is getting rid of the old, inefficient buildings," Moodie said. "The board also will insist on more provisions for off-street parking and loading facilities."

All 3 To Return

Incumbents captured all three seats in High School Dist. 214's school board election Saturday.

Board Pres. Arthur Aronson of an Arlington Heights unincorporated area and appointed board member Richard Stamm of Mount Prospect were easy winners over Ray Inman of Prospect Heights and Billy K. McMinn of Rolling Meadows.

Unofficial election results show Aronson racked up 6,114 votes, Stamm, 5,644; McMinn, 3,482, and Inman, 3,434.

Aronson and Stamm were running for two three-year terms.

IN A THREE-WAY race for a one-year term, appointed board member John M. Costello of Mount Prospect tallied 4,973 votes to 3,074 for James T. Ryan of Mount Prospect, and 1,568 for Don C. McGlothlin of Wheeling.

Election observers had expected the race between Costello and Ryan to be closer.

But Costello's friends in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect worked hard to cover polling places with Costello literature and Ryan's expected campaign support came through spotty.

Ryan, obviously losing hard but gracefully, set the tone for other candidates when he told a Dist. 214 election crowd at Slichenmyer Administration Center Saturday night, "I don't particularly like losing, but I don't think I could have lost to a better chap." He shook hands with Costello.

"I think I helped with the most important thing," Ryan added, "to help increase interest in the election and pass the referendum."

Aronson agreed "The contest assisted the passage of the referendum," he said.

He declared, "It is a wonderful thing when a district can provide this many good men to run."

McMinn, though third of four candidates overall, scored strongly in his home precincts in Rolling Meadows. He drew 1,293 votes to Aronson's 535.

"I think Rolling Meadows citizens have expressed their desire to have someone on this board. I want to impress this upon you," McMinn said, "when a vacancy opens up or a better man appears."

The election leaves the Dist. 214 board four with members from Mount Prospect, one from Arlington Heights, one from Elk Grove Village and one from unincorporated Wheeling, Dist. 21.

School Approved

Voters turned out in record numbers Saturday to approve construction of a Rolling Meadows high school and pass two High School Dist. 214 tax increases by narrower margins.

Supt. Edward H. Gilbert and interested citizens watching the vote tallies pour in Saturday night at the Dist. 214 "election central" could see by 10:30 p.m. that the Rolling Meadows high school had been approved.

It was after 1 a.m., however, before the schoolmen — with only one precinct still out — felt sure both of the tax rate questions had passed.

GILBERT TOLD THE Herald passage of the Rolling Meadows school construction referendum was essential if the district is to achieve its goal of opening the new school in September, 1971, and relieving overcrowding in the district's other six schools.

Architects Orput-Orput and Associates expect to be ready to put the high school plans out for bidding by contractors early this fall.

The $8.7 million building bond referendum to finance the new high school — Dist. 214's seventh — passed 6,288 to 4,350.

Unofficial tallies on the tax referenda show that the 21-cent tax increase was okayed 4,879 to 4,704 and the 12½-cent building maintenance tax increase by a 5,517 to 4,973 vote.

Substantial "yes" votes in Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights helped balance massive "no" votes in the High Ridge Knolls precinct in Des Plaines and Prospect Heights Dist. 23 precinct at Anne Sullivan School.

THE BUILDING TAX increase questioned failed in 13 of 25 precincts but those precincts combined "no" vote was not great enough to balance the "yes" votes turned in by Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights.

Hot contests for school board seats helped boost voter turnout in Elk Grove Dist. 59 and Prospect Heights Dist. 23, which had its own tax referendum as well. The Dist. 23 referendum was defeated by 49 votes.

"Get out the vote" campaigns worked well in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows. Prodded by telephone reminders organized by the high schools, voters turned out in a steady stream in those three towns all day.

In Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights, the heavy voter turnout taxes election judges' ability to keep the lines moving. At Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows, residents waited in line an hour or more to vote. Both there and at Anne Sullivan School in Prospect Heights long lines of queued up voters snaked back and forth across the gymnasium floor.

BILLY K. McMINN, Rolling Meadows businessman and Citizens Committee member who put in his name as a District 214 school board candidate partly to increase interest in the referendum, expressed satisfaction at the referenda success to the crowd waiting at election central.

Dist. 214 schoolmen had been braced for a defeat on the tax rates and were expecting to have to take them to the voters a second time later this year if a promised state aid increase failed to come through.

Teen Goal Is Closing Communications Gap

Palatine's Knights of Columbus will be treated to a special program by teens at their regular meeting tonight.

The topic of the program is "Closing the Communication Gap." Prepared to answer questions on the youth of today, the teens plan to explain why they like today's pop music.

Because of the unusual program, the group is inviting wives to the meeting, which begins at 8:30 p.m. at St. Theresa School Hall.

Broom Sale Is May 10

Palatine Lions Club broom sale will be held on May 10 instead of May 3.

The change was necessary due to the manufacturer's change of delivery date, according to Lion John Newkirk. He also urged members to start taking broom orders.

ities. This is what people need to do business today."

Commenting on the possible need for local public transportation in Palatine, the village president said, "If you had a good bus company in Palatine today, the first thing it would experience is bankruptcy."

Nobody would use it.

THAT'S WHY DOWNTOWN parking facilities are so important. We must recognize the age of the automobile," he said.

The Republican slate of candidates believes progress is being made in creating better cooperation and communication among local groups. But in Moodie's opinion, communication and cooperation are the two most overworked words in the English language.

"The words involve two parties who have to work together. Each group has its own individual problems which sometimes have to be worked out separately," he explained.

Related to problems of communication between village officials and representatives of the local school districts, he said, "We're encouraging greater communication at the administrative levels of both groups."

Moodie doesn't think there's a great need for governing officials to stimulate interest in village events among the people. "At the present time, I'm confident a great majority of the people feel they are being represented in their government."

IN HIS OPINION, there's no need to separate a national party label from local elections.

"We, the people, are the party, and we will give it direction. Our direction is in the interest of making Palatine a good place to live and raise families," he smiled.

Producing more communication between Palatine and its neighbors is not high on Moodie's list of future necessities.

"We haven't had any serious problems," he said. "If our interests are the same, we should cooperate with other towns. If they're not the same, so be it."

Library Interest

John Hughes

Wendell Jones

Terry Leighty

Louise Jones

Palatine's five Republican candidates for village office and three for the library board should be elected with little fanfare tomorrow.

Major interest in the village is centered on the $235,000 library referendum. No opposition has been offered to either the village or library slates.

Village Pres. John Moodie heads the Republican slate for the village, running with Trustees John Hughes, Wendell Jones and Terry Leighty and Clerk Mrs. Louise Jones.

All are incumbents, although Leighty and Mrs. Jones were appointed to their board positions within the past few months. Running for the three library board seats are Daniel Bowman, Gary Carlson and Frank Regan.

The Republicans are running on a six-point platform that calls for continued "progress and leadership in Palatine."

Moodie has served two terms as trustee and a two year term as village president. He is an engineer with F. W. Kramer and Associates.

Hughes is president of the Suburban National Bank. Jones is assistant Cook County superintendent of schools.

Leighty is a local insurance broker, and Mrs. Jones, a former reporter, is currently president of the Palatine Township Republican Women's Club.

Bowman is a technical editor, Carlson is a bank vice president, and Regan is a manufacturing manager.

Name Golchert Palatine Bank VP

Arthur W. Golchert has been named a vice president of the 1st Bank and Trust Co. of Palatine. He will be in charge of the bank's installment loan department, according to Delvin W. Johnston, executive vice president.

Golchert comes to his new position from the First National Bank of Elgin, where he was personnel officer and loan officer for more than six years.

He is a native of Chicago and served four years in the U. S. Navy. PRIOR TO his banking career, Golchert worked for International Harvester in Melrose Park. He was also a partner in a West Chicago auto agency and an officer in a loan firm.

Golchert has completed a number of specialized courses conducted by the American Institute of Banking on commercial law, credit and collections and on bank operations.

Scuba (self-contained underwater breathing apparatus), is a popular sport. It is a wonderful experience when learned in the proper manner from experienced instructors," instructors say.

Countryside YMCA has named Joe Strykowski, internationally known diver, as head of its staff. Jim Gornic and Ed Platt are his assistants. All are certified instructors and leader examiners and maintain National Aquatic standards. Expert training and proper equipment are guaranteed.

A Representation Gap?

by MARTHA MOGER

The appointment of U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) would leave the Northwest suburbs without a congressman for at least six months.

Although Rumsfeld has not confirmed he has accepted the Presidential call, rumor has the appointment imminent. And Republicans in his 13th District have begun maneuvering for position of successor.

It is no secret State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, also Wheeling Township committeeman, has wanted a crack at a congressional seat for some time.

But Rumsfeld, collecting 80 per cent of the vote in his last two races, left no opening in sight as long as he wants the office. Schlickman Saturday denied interest in any public office except the one he holds as a three-term member of the Illinois House of Representatives.

"I HAVE NO PLANS at this time for doing anything except what I'm doing now — serving in the General Assembly," the legislator said.

"There is a report that Don (Rumsfeld) has been asked to serve as director of OEO," Schlickman continued. "But there has been no indication to my satisfaction that Don has accepted."

In a matter of 24 hours, though, since speculation on a Rumsfeld appointment began, Schlickman was able to come up with what Rumsfeld's Washington office could not supply — procedure for filling a Congressional vacancy.

According to ruling Illinois law, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie must find that a vacancy in the office exists, a discretion on the part of the governor. If Ogilvie indeed "finds" that Rumsfeld is in the executive rather than legislative branch of government, he is required to declare a special election.

PRIMARY AND RUNOFF elections are required on the same time schedule pertaining to filling vacant seats in the state legislature. Schlickman said the earliest a general election could be held is Sept. 29.

It is not likely Ogilvie would miss noting a change in Rumsfeld's office address, especially since the 13th District is a GOP stronghold. As far as the Republican leadership is concerned, the congressional contest will be decided in their own party primary.

The story is out that Brian Duff, 1968's unsuccessful primary candidate for secretary of state, is contacting district committeemen telling his interest in the office. Party leaders also can not forget Bob Dwyer, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's defeated running mate, and William Rentschler, head of Pres. Richard M. Nixon's Illinois campaign.

Dwyer and Rentschler may be due their rewards as past party sacrifices, although Schlickman himself speaks from a fairly powerful position as township committeeman.

THOUGH NORTHFIELD Township is seen as the district's center of strength, Schlickman's Wheeling Township has turned over some impressive victories.

In November, Wheeling Township delivered the heaviest Republican pluralities of any township in the state and Schlickman racked up more votes than any other representative in the state.

Still, a party bid to a North Shore candidate will not mean hopelessness for the Northwest suburbs in getting their own congressman. Redistricting is still a possibility that could favor a local congressional hopeful.

In light of an April 10 U.S. Supreme Court case out of Missouri, Illinois may also be forced to redistrict.

This decision makes invalid even an Illinois senate redistricting bill recently introduced by Sen. W. Russell Arrington, Senate majority leader.

SCHLICKMAN SAID Saturday he does not believe Illinois will have to re-district before electing a possible successor to Rumsfeld.

Schlickman may hold out for his earlier idea to form a congressional district of Cook County's six most western townships.

Maybe this will please the party enough to give it to him.

Meanwhile, Schlickman insists he will stick to representative and committeeman duties.

There are too many things involved in this one, he said, listing them as No. 1, the President, No. 2, Rumsfeld; No. 3, the governor; and No. 4, "a lot of other people."

CHILDREN'S STORIES may come and go, but Winnie the Pooh remains. Shown here listening to the story of Winnie and holding stuffed characters from the novel, are Pamela, Susan and Carola Haas, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Haas. The girls are also commemorating the beginning of Library Week in Mount Prospect.

Bowman Cites Strengths

Daniel Bowman of Palatine is seeking a three-year term as library director in Tuesday's election.

He's lived in Palatine for about four years at 940 Carmel Drive.

Bowman hopes to contribute construction and engineering knowledge to the board. He is not opposed in the election. He is a graduate engineer from the University of Wisconsin and a licensed professional engineer in both Illinois and Wisconsin.

Currently, he's managing editor at Plant Engineering, for an industrial trade publication in Barrington.

BOWMAN STRONGLY supports Tuesday's library referendum for purchase of a site and would like to be involved in future plans for the building.

"The thing I like about a library is its natural connection with education," he said. "Being in the publication industry, naturally I'm interested in libraries."

Daniel Bowman

He thinks a new library in Palatine is desirable, "but from an engineering standpoint, I'd like to see what the plans are."

He's married and has two children.

Carlson Stresses Experience

Gary Carlson

One of three unopposed candidates seeking a three-year term as director of the Palatine Library is Gary Carlson.

A four-year resident of the village, he lives at 906 E. Schirrah.

Carlson said he's seeking a position on the library board because of his citizen's interest in the education of the community.

"I feel most strongly about a library serving as a cultural center in a village and I think that's what a new library can do for us," he said.

AS A SECOND vice president and director of personnel for the Central National Bank of Chicago, he feels he can bring financial experience to the board.

"I think my experience along these lines will be of benefit to the library at a time like this when we hope to be involved in land purchase and construction of a new facility."

Carlson strongly favors construction of a new library, although the current referendum only calls for enough funds to purchase a site.

"There's no doubt that a community growing as rapidly as Palatine will need a new library," he said.

He's looking forward to being a part of the future planning of the building.

Regan: Dual Interests

A regular attendee of Palatine Library Board meetings for more than a year, Frank Regan now is seeking a position on the board in Tuesday's election. He is running unopposed.

Formerly a library director and village trustee, he began attending library board meetings after the 1968 referendum was soundly defeated.

"My candidacy for the library board relates to my community interest and is personal, too," he said. "I'm a book collector and heavy library-user."

REGAN HAS lived in Palatine for more than 17 years at 246 N. Plum Grove Road. He's manager of manufacturing at A. B. Dick Co.

"You can hardly over-emphasize the role of a library in the community," he said. "We definitely need a new one and I hope to be a part of planning for a new building."

Strongly in favor of Tuesday's referendum for money to purchase a site, Regan believes it will receive heavy support from the citizens.

"But there's plenty of work left to be done in educating the people of the need for a new facility," he admitted.

Currently, Regan is president of the Palatine Historical Society.

Open Convention Site

by LEA TONKIN

Arlington Park Towers, the only hotel in the world with its own golf course, race track and commuter station, will open tomorrow.

According to Richard Regan, executive vice president of Western Concessions, the staff will have a few days to become acquainted with the new facilities before the official debut of the Towers as a major convention center April 23.

The Air Moving and Conditioning Association will be the first group to hold a convention in the new hotel April 23-24. The two-day session is expected to attract 200 people. Jewel Foods, Pure Oil and the National Secretaries Association also will be using the facilities later in April and May.

LYLE SCHAPLER, hotel manager, said area residents as well as convention-goers will be attracted by the combination of sophisticated elegance in interior design and decor, the profusion of dining and recreational facilities, the ample convention rooms and its proximity to Chicago, O'Hare Airport, and major transportation systems.

Aloft the Arlington Park Towers will be Horseshoe Club, overlooking the golf course and race track. The former site of the club on the ground floor will become a specialty restaurant, and diners may also choose between the Carousel Room, the Tack Room, or eat beside the pool in the Patio. The new Pony Lounge, with seating for 225, will be the main night club, with self-contained booths and a variety of professional entertainment.

Each of the 420 guest rooms has two extra-length double beds, built-in color television, radio, piped-in music, direct-dial phones, a walk-in closet, and a dressing room with vanity. Doors are set back from the hallway to help soundproof the rooms.

Parlors for the hotel suites have studio couches, a card table and a wet bar. Vinyl floors and large walk-in closets are convenience features of the parlors.

Each floor is decorated in one of three colors: blue, orange and red. Lighting fixtures, drapes, wall coverings and carpeting carry out the color scheme, with touches of complementary colors added.

THE 13-STORY STRUCTURE is serviced by five high-speed elevators. The Round Table, with a seating capacity of 1,500, may be divided into two or three large rooms and another 1,500 can be accommodated downstairs.

A large entrance hall and lobby on the main floor of the hotel leads to the new ballroom, with enough room for 600 people at a meeting or 350 dinner guests. Huge three-tiered chandeliers highlight the ballroom, though another attraction is the picture-window outside wall, with a view overlooking the pool and patio. Guests may dine casually on the patio, which adjoins a bar. A circular stairway leads from the lobby to seven banquet rooms downstairs, each named after a famous racing horse. Women's apparel and gifts shops are located next to the lobby.

Sports offer a respite to those attending conventions at the Arlington Park Towers. Thoroughbred racing, 18 holes of golf (9 are lighted for night play), a driving range and a heated and glass-enclosed pool complete activities.

Close to Interstate 90, the Northwest Tollway, O'Hare Airport and serviced by the Chicago and North Western Railway, the hotel is strategically located in a rapidly developing residential and industrial area, its officials believe.

Election Results

Referenda

Rolling Meadows will get its new high school. Voters in High School Dist. 214 Saturday approved three referendum questions. One authorizes sale of bonds for the new school; another approves an education-fund tax rate increase; the third authorizes an increase in the building maintenance fund tax rate.

Voters in Prospect Heights Elementary School Dist. 23 turned down an increase in the education fund tax levy.

Elections

Following are winners in Northwest Cook County school elections Saturday:

DIST. 21 (Wheeling)

Lillian Skiller, with 795 votes and Mary Jo Reid, 778, were elected to three-year terms. Both were caucus-backed candidates.

DIST. 23 (Prospect Heights)

Three caucus-endorsed candidates, Arthur Koester, Al Krinsky and John Stull, were elected to three-year terms. Koester had 706 votes, Krinsky, 609, and Stull 593.

DIST. 26 (Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights)

Harold Haney, Lee Hiltman, and Jack Halvorsen were elected to three-year terms. All three were incumbent school board members. Haney received 520 votes, Hiltman, 404, and Halvorsen, 516.

HIGH SCHOOL DIST. 211 (Palatine, Schaumburg townships)

Incumbents William Fremd and James Humphrey were reelected. They were joined by Mrs. Carolyn Mullins in a five-candidate race. Fremd won 2,065 votes, Humphrey, 5,028, and Mrs. Mullins, 1,705.

DIST. 25 (Arlington Heights)

Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton and James Penn, unopposed incumbent candidates, polled some 1,550 votes. Both were backed by the Caucus nominating committee in February.

DIST. 54 (Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg)

Four incumbents and a candidate with prior board service were elected. Gordon Thoren and Mrs. Bonnie Hannon won three-year board terms with 982 and 830 votes, respectively. Donald Ruby, who previously served on the school board, was elected to a two-year term with 858 votes. Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen, with 699 votes, and Edward Bedard, with 721, were elected to one-year terms.

DIST. 59 (Elk Grove, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights)

Harold Harvey topped the ballot to win a three-year term, along with George Blanchard. Harvey had 905 votes, while Blanchard had 650, edging out Paul Neuhauser by only 26 votes. Running unopposed for a one-year term, Albert Domancio collected 1,576 votes.

DIST. 57 (Mount Prospect)

Incumbent Leo Flores and Alex Casper were elected. Flores collected 1,319 votes and Casper, 1,231. Some 90 votes were cast for write-in candidates, most of them for Richard Young.

High School Wins OK

"YOU DONE GOOD," outgoing Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods told teen marchers yesterday. The teens went to Hersey High School to turn in money pledged for participating in the 17-mile hike for the hungry on Good Friday. About two-thirds of the marchers showed up. They collected an estimated $54,000 to $60,000.

Rumsfeld: Free Hand?

by MARTHA MOSER

Despite White House silence, it appeared yesterday U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld is the new director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO). Speculation that President Richard M. Nixon has selected the Northwest suburbs congressman for the poverty post continued as late as 2 p.m. yesterday. Rumsfeld reportedly is "bargaining" his taking the post for a chance at using his own philosophy on social welfare as war-on-poverty head.

Rumsfeld said in a candidates' interview at Paddock Publications last fall that he would like to see the OEO become a "spearhead."

AS SUCH, RUMSFELD saw the office

as being a sparkplug that would generate ideas, then spin them off into another department as the machinery is tested and rolling.

Talking on the basis there is no proven solution to the urban crisis, Rumsfeld said that instead of developing anti-poverty programs and operating them, OEO should be an office to experiment and be under fire. "When something doesn't work, they should admit it," Rumsfeld said that Saturday morning. "When it does work, they should split it off into an appropriate administering agency."

He then criticized the office for "hugging" good programs so it can balance success stories with failures when it goes to Congress for funds.

He said OEO should make better use of the District of Columbia, which is the direct responsibility of the federal government, and should innovate programs that "add information" to the anti-poverty fight.

He cited the rapid shifting of poor into the ghettos as a problem which is nullifying current government efforts.

ASKED HOW suburbanites can become effective in helping people in the ghetto, the OEO nominee then said:

"First, we need to do a better job of cataloging the kinds of mechanics available to people in metropolitan areas to do things. And second, you need an attitude of caring."

Rumsfeld's demonstrated "attitude of caring," despite his background in an affluent district, has caused him to become associated with interest and concern for social welfare problems.

Rumsfeld has indicated his philosophy is that government alone can not, and will not, provide all the social answers and the "urban crisis" demonstrates the failure of government to function as a "cure-all."

His past statements align him with Nixon administration thinking that private industry and government must form investment partnerships to create new jobs, correct substandard housing, expand educational opportunities and lower racial barriers.

Past answers to the American social dilemma, such as urban renewal, model cities, public welfare, demonstration projects, legislative edicts, and all other traditional answers have proved unsuccessful, the young man has said.

IN PRIVATE conversations, his view has been that government stop-gap measures have proved disappointing and have created fresh disillusionment and often hardship.

The ghetto is not houses, it is people, the young man would be likely to say. Rumsfeld himself this weekend refused to confirm or deny an appointment. White House press aides indicated to the Herald, however, the story is being held in deference to a Presidential announcement.

Rumsfeld told the Herald, "There is not a lot I can say except that the matter has been discussed. I wish I could be more responsive about this, but there is nothing more now that I can say. I have done all the talking that I can."

WASHINGTON SOURCES admitted consideration of Rumsfeld has been under discussion for several weeks. And the congressman's unusual lack of candor combined to support reports of the appointment.

Rumsfeld said any announcement of an appointment will be made early this week.

Voters turned out in record numbers Saturday to approve construction of a Rolling Meadows high school and pass two High School Dist. 214 tax increases by narrower margins.

Supt. Edward H. Gilbert and interested citizens watching the vote tallies pour in Saturday night at the Dist. 214 "election central" could see by 10:30 p.m. that the Rolling Meadows high school had been approved.

It was after 1 a.m., however, before the schoolmen — with only one precinct still out — felt sure both of the tax rate questions had passed.

GILBERT TOLD THE Herald passage of the Rolling Meadows school construction referendum was essential if the district is to achieve its goal of opening the new school in September, 1971, and relieving overcrowding in the district's other six schools.

Architects Orput-Orput and Associates expect to be ready to put the high school plans out for bidding by contractors early this fall.

The $8.7 million building bond referendum to finance the new high school — Dist. 214's seventh — passed 6,288 to 4,350.

Unofficial tallies on the tax referendum show that the 21-cent tax increase was okayed 4,879 to 4,704 and the 12½-cent building maintenance tax increase by a 5,517 to 4,973 vote.

Substantial "yes" votes in Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights helped balance massive "no" votes in the High Ridge Knolls precinct in Des Plaines and Prospect Heights Dist. 23 precinct at Anne Sullivan School.

THE BUILDING TAX increase questioned failed in 13 of 25 precincts but those precincts' combined "no" vote was not great enough to balance the "yes" votes turned in by Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights.

Hot contests for school board seats helped boost voter turnout in Elk Grove Dist. 59 and Prospect Heights Dist. 23, which had its own tax referendum as well. The Dist. 23 referendum was defeated by 49 votes.

"Get out the vote" campaigns worked well in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows. Prodded by telephone reminders organized by the high schools, voters turned out in a steady stream in those three towns all day.

In Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights, the heavy voter turnout taxes election judges' ability to keep the lines moving. At Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows, residents waited in line an hour or more to vote. Both there and at Anne Sullivan School in Prospect Heights long lines of queuing voters snaked back and forth across the gymnasium floor.

BILLY K. McMINN, Rolling Meadows businessman and Citizens Committee member who put in his name as a District 214 school board candidate partly to increase interest in the referendum, expressed satisfaction at the referendum success to the crowd waiting at election central.

Dist. 214 schoolmen had been braced for a defeat on the tax rates and were expecting to have to take them to the voters a second time later this year if a promised state aid increase failed to come through.

All 3 To Return

Incumbents captured all three seats in High School Dist. 214's school board election Saturday.

Board Pres. Arthur Aronson of an Arlington Heights unincorporated area and appointed board member Richard Stamm of Mount Prospect were easy winners over Ray Inman of Prospect Heights and Billy K. McMinn of Rolling Meadows.

Unofficial election results show Aronson racked up 6,114 votes, Stamm, 5,644; McMinn, 3,482, and Inman, 3,434.

Aronson and Stamm were running for two three-year terms.

IN A THREE-WAY race for a one-year term, appointed board member John M. Costello of Mount Prospect tallied 4,973 votes to 3,074 for James T. Ryan of Mount Prospect, and 1,568 for Don C. McGlothlin of Wheeling.

Election observers had expected the race between Costello and Ryan to be closer.

But Costello's friends in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect worked hard to cover polling places with Costello literature and Ryan's expected campaign support came through spotty.

Ryan, obviously losing hard but gracefully, set the tone for other candidates when he told a Dist. 214 election crowd at St. Ignace Center Saturday night, "I don't particularly like losing, but I don't think I could have lost to a better chap." He shook hands with Costello.

"I think I helped with the most important thing," Ryan added, "to help increase interest in the election and pass the referendum."

Aronson agreed "The contest assisted the passage of the referendum," he said.

He declared, "It is a wonderful thing when a district can provide this many good men to run."

McMinn, though third of four candidates overall, scored strongly in his home precincts in Rolling Meadows. He drew 1,233 votes to Aronson's 598.

"I think Rolling Meadows citizens have expressed their desire to have someone on this board. I want to impress this upon you," McMinn said, "when a vacancy opens up or a better man appears."

The election leaves the Dist. 214 board full with members from Mount Prospect, one from Arlington Heights, one from Elk Grove Village and one from unincorporated Wheeling, Dist. 21.

Schlickman Raps Map

An angry belated protest over the few High School Dist. 214 election precincts given Arlington Heights was registered Saturday by Eugene Schlickman, Wheeling Township Republican committeeman and a village resident.

Punching his finger at the precinct map, Schlickman berated school officials awaiting election night results Saturday for treating Arlington Heights "unfairly."

"WE HAD ONLY ONE polling place for the whole Dist. 25 south of the tracks. Compare that with the number of polling places in Elk Grove Village — or Mount Prospect, with a lower population," said Schlickman charged.

"I could go to court and have this whole election overturned because of the quantity of polling places in relation to the population," he said.

"I'm not going to do it," he conceded. "But you are engaging in a little dis-franchisement."

Schlickman denied any interest in the election except as "an interested citizen."

Charged With Hit, Run

Identification by six witnesses led to the arrest of Ronald Richter, 34, of 7804 Fremont, Rolling Meadows, by Elk Grove Village police Friday morning after an alleged hit and run incident.

Injured was William Poole, 25, of 1329 N. Chicago, Arlington Heights, after Richter allegedly ran him down twice near Arlington Heights and Higgins roads.

Witnesses told police that Poole, riding a motorcycle, was run off the road by Richter. After an attempted confrontation initiated by Poole, they said, Richter ran him down, dragging the motorcycle and Poole through the intersection.

Witnesses also said that Richter left the scene, but at least one man followed the car to obtain the license plate number.

ACCORDING TO POLICE, all six witnesses gave the same license number, and the name of the driver was discovered through a microfilm listing of auto registrations.

The incident was reported to police at 8:24 a.m., and Richter was arrested at 8:50, police said.

Poole was taken to St. Alexius Hospital, where he was treated for cuts and bruises, and later released. Police said he was extremely lucky, in that he was "dumped into the right hand lane, while the light was green, and could have been hit by another car."

Richter was charged with reckless conduct and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident. He was released on $100 bond.

After determining Richter's home address, he was located at 2200 Landmeier Road and arrested there. Police who participated in the investigation included officers John Bannier, Robert Canary, and Melvin Mack.

Plan to Keep Palatine a 'Real Home Town'

by MARTHA KOPER

Keeping Palatine a "real home town" is the goal of incumbent Village Pres John Moodie and the rest of the Republican slate seeking a victory in Tuesday's election.

With no announced opposition to the candidacies of Moodie, Trustees John Hughes, Wendell Jones and Terry Leighty, and Village Clerk Mrs. Louise Jones, the path has been cleared for the incumbents to outline their plans for the next four years.

In Moodie's opinion the biggest challenge facing the board is "recognizing the growth potential we have and channeling it in the right direction. We hope to maintain the status of a single-family home community," he said.

"THIS, OF COURSE, doesn't mean we're opposed to location of apartments in the village, but it's most desirable to have them come into the village as they have recently at a rate of about 12 units per acre," he explained. "We want to continue striving for more open space."

About village revenue, Moodie thinks sales tax is more important than property taxes realized from new developments in the town. "That's why we'll be striving to increase commercial and industrial areas along with residential projects," he said.

He thinks the board can actively encourage this by maintaining an atmosphere of willingness to discuss projects with potential developers.

But, he quickly added, "We don't need a slum industrial development just for the sake of saying Palatine is developing."

IN RESPECT TO THE local Chamber of Commerce's motto, "Palatine — A Real Home Town," Moodie thinks village officials can contribute to creating this at most here by "giving the services people need and demand at a price they're willing to pay."

Following this line, he said the board of trustees intends to continue pursuing avenues of flood relief for homeowners living along Salt Creek.

In the past, "We have insisted on the proper right-of-way along the creek when new developments have come in the village that will make it easy for flood improvement work to take place whenever the project is approved," Moodie explained.

The village has purchased some equipment in the last year which will make it possible for the local public works crew to maintain existing channels of Salt Creek.

"That will help solve some of the problem, but we still need major flood control construction in Palatine," he said.

ANOTHER PLAN OF THE future in the minds of incumbents concerns improvement of downtown area and further developments in the downtown area.

"Specifically, one of the first things to concentrate on is getting rid of the old, inefficient buildings," Moodie said. "The board also will insist on more provisions for off-street parking and loading facilities. This is what people need to do business today."

Commenting on the possible need for local public transportation in Palatine, the village president said, "If you had a good bus company in Palatine today, the first thing it would experience is bankruptcy. Nobody would use it."

THAT'S WHY DOWNTOWN parking facilities are so important. We must recognize the age of the automobile," he said.

The Republican slate of candidates believes progress is being made in creating better cooperation and communication among local groups. But in Moodie's opinion, communication and cooperation are the two most overworked words in the English language.

"The words involve two parties who have to work together. Each group has its own individual problems which sometimes have to be worked out separately," he explained.

Related to problems of communication between village officials and representatives of the local school districts, he said, "We're encouraging greater communication at the administrative levels of both groups."

Moodie doesn't think there's a great need for governing officials to stimulate interest in village events among the people. "At the present time, I'm confident a great majority of the people feel they are being represented in their government."

IN HIS OPINION, there's no need to separate a national party label from local elections.

"We, the people, are the party, and we will give it direction. Our direction is in the interest of making Palatine a good place to live and raise families," he smiled.

Producing more communication between Palatine and its neighbors is not high on Moodie's list of future necessities.

"We haven't had any serious problems," he said. "If our interests are the same, we should cooperate with other towns. If they're not the same, so be it."

MOODIE: Our biggest challenge is Palatine and maintain the status of a recognizing the growth potential of single-family home community.

Slate Wins in 211

Four incumbents and a candidate with prior board service were elected to seats on the Dist. 54 Board of Education in Saturday's election.

Gordon Thorsen and Mrs. Bonnie Hannon won three-year board terms in the school election. Thorsen received 662 votes, Mrs. Hannon 830.

THE OTHER TWO candidates for a three-year term were Gerald Lewis, 606 votes, and Frank Massey, 481 votes.

Donald Ruby, who previously served on the Dist. 54 Board, was elected to a two-year term with 478 votes.

Elected to one-year terms were Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen, who received 409 votes, and Edward Bedard, who polled 371 votes.

None of the other five candidates for the two-year terms came close to the voting total for these incumbents.

New board members will be seated Thursday night, the time of the regular board meeting. At that time officers for the coming year will be elected.

APPROXIMATELY 1,550 voters went to the polls to cast ballots in the Dist. 54 School Board election. Voting was also held for seats on the Dist. 211 and Harper Junior College Boards.

Total votes cast for the three candidates running for the two-year board term were as follows: Ruby, 656; Harry Mamach, 424; and John McGill, 372.

In the contest for two 1-year board seats, the polls to cast ballots this way: Thorsen, 662; Bedard, 721; Martin Stanton, 373; Fred Henning, 288; John Stencel, 251; LeRoy Kriska, 173; and Paul Bakl, 138.

Mrs. Thorsen has a total of six years service on the Dist. 54 Board, and Bedard has served one full term. Both ran on a platform of experience.

Gordon Thorsen, elected to a three-year term, is a former president of the Hoffman Estates Jaycees. He lives at 577 Edgemoor Lane, Hoffman Estates, with his wife and son, Scott. Thorsen, a systems supervisor for Allstate Insurance Co., was appointed to fill a board vacancy last August. A homemaker and the mother of four children, Mrs. Hannon was an educational major in college. She lives at 1407 Hampton Lane, Schaumburg.

Donald Ruby, of Hoffman Estates, previously served on the Dist. 54 School Board from 1963 to 1967. He will complete the two years remaining on an unexpired term.

An electrical engineer, Ruby is an engineering specialist for Zenith Radio Corp. He lives at 178 Hillcrest Court with his wife, Mae, and three children, Robert, 17; Paul, 15, and Janice, 10. Ruby has also been a Boy Scout leader for Troop 136.

Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen lives on Irving Park Road in unincorporated Schaumburg Township with her husband and four children. She is a first grade teacher in the Barrington school system.

Polls in Palatine

Polls will be open between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. tomorrow as Palatine residents cast their ballots in village board and library board elections and a $235,000 library site referendum.

Precincts and precinct numbers are the same as they were during last November's general election and this month's township and park district elections. They are:

Precinct 1 — El Jarcho Restaurant, 61 N. Bothwell St.; Precinct 2 — Senne Realty Office, 19 S. Bothwell St.; Precinct 4 — Salt Creek Field House, Williams Avenue and Thomas Street; Precinct 6 — Masom Temple, 1 N. Plum Grove Road.

Precinct 7 — Regan Real Estate Co., 430 N. Hicks Road; Precinct 8 — Gray M. Sanborn School, 101 N. Oak St.; Precinct

17 — Paddock School, Washington Court; Precinct 18 — Busch's Auto Service Center, 137 S. Northwest Highway;

Precinct 22 — St. Thomas of Villanova School, 1141 E. Anderson Drive; Precinct 25 — Winston Park School, 900 E. Palatine Road; Precinct 26 — Jane Addams School, 1020 Sayles Drive; Precinct 27 — Pleasant Hill School, 434 W. Illinois St.; Precinct 29 — Palatine High School, 150 E. Wood St.;

Precinct 30 — St. Joseph's Home for the Aged, 80 W. Baldwin Road; Precinct 31 — Virginia Lake School, 925 N. Rohlfing Road; Precinct 35 — Paddock School, partment, 117 W. Slade St.; Precinct 33 — Winston Park School, 900 W. Palatine Road; Precinct 35 — Paddock School, Washington Court, and Precinct 37 — Jane Addams School, 1020 Sayles Drive.

Library Vote Is Major Issue

Although the Palatine village board and library board election results are a foregone conclusion, local voters are faced with an important library referendum.

Tomorrow voters will be asked to approve sale of $235,000 worth of bonds to purchase a new site for a future library building. The location selected is the northwest corner of Brockway and Wood streets, across from the present library.

A maximum increase in real estate tax of 5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for a 10-year period is predicted. The cost is 33 per cent less money for 80 per cent more land than the referendum that was defeated in February, 1968.

BOARD PRES. John Wassmer said he didn't see as much active opposition as last year and is "optimistic" about the results. Unlike the previous referendum, the cost of the new building is not included in the referendum.

The design and construction and other details of the new library will be decided upon after the arrival of the new director, Mrs. Ida Bullen.

The proposed building last year was "ideal, almost a textbook building," Wassmer said the board was told. Unfortunately, the public never got a chance to use it.

Board members have pointed to the fact that since 1957, the village population has tripled and use of the library has greatly increased.

THE SIZE of the new site is 292 by 297 feet and it is designed for phased construction for future growth and ample parking space.

Although there has been some concern on the part of voters as to the cost of the building, library officials have noted that the opposition has not been as bitter as last year.

Wassmer acknowledged that voters might approve the new site and then vote against the cost of a building. "We would have to take it in step if that happened," he said.

Teen Goal Is Closing Communications Gap

Palatine's Knights of Columbus will be treated to a special program by teens at their regular meeting tonight.

The topic of the program is "Closing the Communication Gap." Prepared to answer questions on the youth of today, the teens plan to explain why they like today's pop music.

Because of the unusual program, the group is inviting wives to the meeting, which begins at 8:30 p.m. at St. Theresa School Hall.

Wifely Wisdom

Women of the Old West mixed dandelion pollen with butter to make it yellow.

Library Interest

John Hughes

Wendell Jones

Terry Leighty

Louise Jones

Palatine's five Republican candidates for village office and three for the library board should be elected with little fanfare tomorrow.

Major interest in the village is centered on the $235,000 library referendum. No opposition has been offered to either the village or library slates.

Village Pres John Moodie heads the Republican slate for the village, running with Trustees John Hughes, Wendell Jones and Terry Leighty and Clerk Mrs. Louise Jones.

All are incumbents, although Leighty and Mrs. Jones were appointed to their board positions within the past few months.

Name Golchert Palatine Bank VP

Arthur W. Golchert has been named a vice president of the 1st Bank and Trust Co. of Palatine. He will be in charge of the bank's installment loan department, according to Delvin W. Johnston, executive vice president.

Golchert comes to his new position from the First National Bank of Elgin, where he was personnel officer and loan officer for more than six years.

He is a native of Chicago and served four years in the U.S. Navy.

PRIOR TO his banking career, Golchert worked for International Harvester in Melrose Park. He was also a partner in a West Chicago auto agency and an officer in a loan firm.

Golchert has completed a number of specialized courses conducted by the American Institute of Banking on commercial law, credit and collections and on bank operations.

Harvey Tops Dist. 59

By GEOFFREY MEHL

Three contenders claimed the High Ridge Knolls School precinct to be "their turf" in Saturday's School Dist. 59 elections, but in the end the votes belonged to Harold Harvey, who topped the ballot and won a seat on the board of education.

The second three-year term went to George Blanchard, who edged out Paul Neuhauser by only 26 votes of a total cast of 5,488.

Blanchard led through most of the evening, with no more than 50 votes separating him from Harvey and Neuhauser. Harvey moved back and forth in second position, and when the 1,741-vote High Ridge Knolls precinct called, he was ahead by only eight votes.

Harvey got 399 votes in the crucial precinct, to Neuhauser's 128 and Blanchard's 99.

Total unofficial returns showed Harvey and Blanchard elected with 905 and 650 votes respectively. They were trailed by Neuhauser, 626; Ernest Rich, 523; Patrick Ordovinsky, 486; William Garvey, 395; and Harry Stewart, 291.

Running unopposed for a one-year term, Albert Domanico collected 1,576 votes, slightly less than 29 per cent of all votes cast.

The three winning candidates collected about 56 per cent of the vote.

Returns began to trickle in shortly after 8 p.m. Saturday night, with Harvey and Blanchard jumping to an early lead. But as the evening wore on, Neuhauser moved into second position and led Harvey by about 25 votes.

Returns from Pct. 9, which voted at Robert Frost School, reversed that. Harvey moved into second place by a margin of only eight votes.

Everyone knew Pct. 3, High Ridge Knolls, would be the deciding section, as it had been reported all evening long that more than 700 persons voted there.

That precinct didn't begin its Dist. 59 count until about 10 p.m. however, and it wasn't until 12:50 that Harvey, Blanchard, and Domanico congratulated each other.

Harvey got 399 votes there, to Blanchard's 99 and Neuhauser's 128. The bulk of votes, 334 in all, went to Ernest Rich to make for his only strong precinct.

Domanico collected between 27 and 33 per cent of the vote, while Harvey varied between nine and 17 per cent, except for Pct. 3, where he got a whopping 22.92 per cent.

A total of 5,488 votes were distributed between the eight candidates, including 18 write-ins for scattered personalities.

The heaviest turnout was in Pct. 3, where 1,741 votes were cast, more than 1,000 ahead of the second highest, Pct. 8.

Precinct-by-precinct returns:

Pct. 1 (Clearmont School) — Blanchard, 100; Neuhauser, 71; Harvey, 70; Garvey, 47; Ordovinsky, 28; Stewart, 27; Rich, 17; Domanico, 176.

Pct. 2 (Rupley School) — Blanchard, 161; Harvey, 72; Neuhauser, 70; Garvey, 62; Ordovinsky, 26; Stewart, 21; Rich, 17; Domanico, 161.

Pct. 3 (High Ridge Knolls School) — Harvey, 399; Rich, 334; Ordovinsky, 168; Neuhauser, 128; Blanchard, 99; Garvey, 78; Stewart, 54; Domanico, 475.

Pct. 4 (Ridge School) — Blanchard, 89; Garvey, 51; Neuhauser, 47; Harvey, 46; Ordovinsky, 30; Stewart, 17; Rich, 8; Domanico, 475.

Pct. 5 (Devonshire School) — Ordovinsky, 97; Harvey, 51; Rich, 37; Neuhauser, 27; Blanchard, 81; Garvey, 12; Stewart, 8; Domanico, 101.

Pct. 6 (Forest View School) — Neuhauser, 122; Ordovinsky, 72; Harvey, 48; Blanchard, 41; Stewart, 38; Garvey, 29; Rich, 22; Domanico, 142.

Pct. 7 (Juliette Low School) — Harvey, 46; Neuhauser, 42; Ordovinsky, 32; Blanchard, 28; Rich, 24; Stewart, 22; Garvey, 20; Domanico, 81.

Pct. 8 (Salt Creek School) — Harvey, 128; Blanchard, 101; Garvey, 38; Neuhauser, 77; Rich, 43; Stewart, 37; Ordovinsky, 29; Domanico, 233.

Pct. 9 (Robert Frost School) — Stewart, 67; Harvey, 47; Neuhauser, 42; Blanchard, 22; Rich, 20; Ordovinsky, 16; Garvey, 8; Domanico, 93.

Total vote — Harvey, 905; Blanchard, 650; Neuhauser, 626; Rich, 523; Ordovinsky, 486; Garvey, 395; Stewart, 291; Domanico, 1,576.

HAROLD HARVEY, after running neck and neck with two other candidates through eight precincts, clobbered them all in the final reporting district and led the field in the School Dist. 59 board of education race. George Blanchard was also elected.

Floros, Casper Win

Incumbent Leo Floros and candidate Alex Casper were elected to the Dist. 57 school board Saturday.

Floros and Casper totalled more votes than the third candidate, Jerry Shutt, for the two positions open on the local board of education.

Final vote tallies showed Floros with 1,319; Casper, 1,231 and Shutt, 972. About 90 residents in the district cast their ballots for write-in candidates. Although some residents miscast their ballots, voting for persons who were not candidates.

Who Will Be the Next Village Mayor?

Daniel Congreve—

Vs.

—Robert Teichert

by GERRY DeZONNA

At the village hall, they call him the "Great White Father."

To Mount Prospect residents, he is mayor Dan Congreve, the man who became a political institution in four years.

The soft-spoken but persuasive mayor is bidding against Village Trustee Robert Teichert for Mount Prospect's highest elective office in the April 15 election.

TO TEICHERT, the incumbent mayor is the man who's got the whole village in his hands.

Congreve, of the United Economy Party, is waging his campaign on the merits of his past four-year term in office and the progress that has been made in the community, especially in the field of village finances.

The present administration takes pride in the decreased real estate tax levy last year, and the projected budget for the new fiscal year promises village residents yet another cut in taxes. The increased revenue from the sales tax and the increase in improved property assessments allow the village to spread its expenditures over a broader tax base.

The Congreve administration is operating on a balanced budget that emphasizes competitive bidding and comparative prices on all village expenditures.

"THIS TYPE OF budgeting has realized great savings for the village in the past four years, and by continuing with the same program, we can anticipate savings in the future," Congreve said.

With regard to flooding problems and storm water control, the mayor realizes that an answer to the problem requires a cooperative effort by all municipalities in the area under the direction of the Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD).

"Flooding problems, storm water control and sanitary waste problems cannot be solved by the village government. The real solution to these problems is beyond the jurisdiction of the village," the mayor said.

Congreve was recently appointed to

DANIEL CONGREVE

MSD's blue ribbon committee to study suburban sanitary and sewage problems. The mayor will represent the village's interests on sanitation and sewage matters, in an effort to bring the best possible facilities to the community and its residents.

IN HIS BID FOR reelection to office, he is appealing to the voters on his experience in village government and the efficient organization that he has built at village hall in the past four years.

Congreve came into office four years ago as part of a strong slate aimed at unseating the administration of C. O. Schlaver.

His last four years have been, by any measure, stormy ones. Criticism of the mayor has centered around his highly personal involvement in village affairs and the role of the mayor's post in relation to the village manager.

Congreve makes no bones about his involvement in the village. He frequently gets in his own twin-engine Beech and flies to Springfield or out of state to personally contact individuals or agencies.

"I'LL TELL YOU ONE thing," he says, "they know where Mount Prospect is now, and they know our needs."

Congreve claims personal contacts in many county and state offices. He is generally respected in the Northwest Municipal Conference and in the offices of the MSD.

On the local level, Congreve backs the job done by village Mgr. Robert Moore and other high village officials. "You just couldn't find a better manager than Bob Moore," the mayor said. "He has personal identity with the village, he is responsive to the needs of the residents, and above all, he answers his telephone. He is available at all times."

Congreve has a strong opinion on the role of the village manager in local affairs. He has been criticized for being his own manager, his own police department and his own office of public works. To this, he says he will do whatever is necessary to get the job done. He discounts criticism that he is not following the provisions of the village manager type of government.

IF A COMMUNITY is the size of Evanston, for example, it is big enough to get a village manager at the top of his

by JAMES VESELY

Robert Teichert is the man who is fighting city hall.

The candidate for mayor and present member of the Mount Prospect Village Board is seeking to upset incumbent Mayor Dan Congreve and change the direction of local village government.

Teichert, of 1205 Robin Lane, has been a village trustee for the past four years, taking office as part of the same slate which helped to make Dan Congreve mayor.

Teichert now admits that slate four years ago was "marriage of convenience," and maintains that the present course of village government needs to be changed.

Although Teichert has refrained from publicly attacking Congreve, he is in the race because he thinks the post of village president is being exceeded by a mayor who is dominating the day to day operations of the village.

TEICHERT DISAGREES with what could be termed a "wheeler dealer" atmosphere at the village hall. He thinks the job of Mount Prospect mayor is one of leadership of hired professionals, not of part time office holders.

On specific points, Teichert attacks Congreve's methods in zoning variations, tax reductions, and services to the village.

"The present use of variations to zoning to force builders to comply with the informal demands of the village is wrong," Teichert says. He is referring to a common practice in Mount Prospect of zoning all land residential and then granting variations for business use based on the board's dealings with the builder.

Teichert is also concerned over the treatment of senior citizens in the village:

"THERE ARE 3,000 people over 60 years of age in Mount Prospect, we must do something for them . . . to provide the activities and the programs which give them a place in this community."

On the question of open housing: "The present Mount Prospect law is unworkable. I voted against it because I think it cannot be effectively enforced and because Mount Prospect does not have a need for such a law." Teichert said early in his campaign that he is not against open housing, only against Mount Prospect's ordinance. When asked what he thought about the possibility of a Negro family moving into the village, he said "They should be able to move anywhere they please."

ALTHOUGH HE HAS strong ties with the local Republican organization, Teichert has been critical of the party's involvement in the village election. In response to a question in The Herald, Teichert said:

Three Incumbents Sweep Dist. 214 Vote

Incumbents captured all three seats in High School Dist. 214's school board election Saturday.

Board Pres. Arthur Aronson of an Arlington Heights unincorporated area and appointed board member Richard Stamm of Mount Prospect were easy winners over Ray Inman of Prospect Heights and Billy

K. McMinn of Rolling Meadows.

Unofficial election results show Aronson racked up 6,114 votes, Stamm, 5,644; McMinn, 3,482, and Inman, 3,434. Aronson and Stamm were running for two three-year terms.

IN A THREE-WAY race for a one-year term, appointed board member John M. Costello of Mount Prospect tallied 4,973 votes to 3,074 for James T. Ryan of Mount Prospect, and 1,568 for Don C. McGlothlin of Wheeling.

Election observers had expected the race between Costello and Ryan to be closer.

But Costello's friends in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect worked hard to cover polling places with Costello literature and Ryan's expected campaign support came through spotty.

Ryan, obviously losing hard but gracefully, set the tone for other candidates when he told a Dist. 214 election crowd at Slickemeyer Administration Center Saturday night, "I don't particularly like losing, but I don't think I could have lost to a better chap." He shook hands with Costello.

"I think I helped with the most important thing," Ryan added, "to help increase interest in the election and pass the referendum."

Aronson agreed "The contest assisted the passage of the referendum," he said.

He declared, "It is a wonderful thing when a district can provide this many good men to run."

McMinn, though third of four candidates overall, scored strongly in his home precincts in Rolling Meadows. He drew 1,293 votes to Aronson's 598.

"I think Rolling Meadows citizens have expressed their desire to have someone on this board. I want to impress this upon you," McMinn said, "when a vacancy opens up or a better man appears."

The election leaves the Dist. 214 board four with members from Mount Prospect, one from Arlington Heights, one from Elk Grove Village and one from unincorporated Wheeling, Dist. 21.

School Approved

Voters turned out in record numbers Saturday to approve construction of a Rolling Meadows high school and pass two High School Dist. 214 tax increases by narrower margins.

Supt. Edward H. Gilbert and interested citizens watching the vote tallies pour in Saturday night at the Dist. 214 "election central" could see by 10:30 p.m. that the Rolling Meadows high school had been approved.

It was after 1 a.m., however, before the schoolmen — with only one precinct still out — felt sure both of the tax rate questions had passed.

GILBERT TOLD THE Herald passage of the Rolling Meadows school construction referendum was essential if the district is to achieve its goal of opening the new school in September, 1971, and relieving overcrowding in the district's other six schools.

Architects Orput-Orput and Associates expect to be ready to put the high school plans out for bidding by contractors early this fall.

The $8.7 million building bond referendum to finance the new high school — Dist. 214's seventh — passed 5,288 to 4,350.

Unofficial tallies on the tax referenda show that the 21-cent tax increase was okayed 4,879 to 4,704 and the 12½-cent building maintenance tax increase by a 5,517 to 4,973 vote.

Substantial "yes" votes in Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights helped balance massive "no" votes in the High Ridge Knolls precinct in Des Plaines and Prospect Heights Dist. 23 precinct at Anne Sullivan School.

THE BUILDING TAX increase questioned failed in 13 of 25 precincts but those precincts combined "no" vote was not great enough to balance the "yes" votes turned in by Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights.

Hot contests for school board seats helped boost voter turnout in Elk Grove Dist. 59 and Prospect Heights Dist. 23, which had its own tax referendum as well. The Dist. 23 referendum was defeated by 48 votes.

"Get out the vote" campaigns worked well in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows. Prodded by telephone reminders organized by the high schools, voters turned out in a steady stream in those three towns all day.

In Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights, the heavy voter turnout taxes election judges' ability to keep the lines moving. At Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows, residents waited in line an hour or more to vote. Both there and at Anne Sullivan School in Prospect Heights long lines of queuing voters snaked back and forth across the gymnasium floor.

BILLY K. McMINN, Rolling Meadows businessman and Citizens Committee member who put in his name as a District 214 school board candidate partly to increase interest in the referendum, expressed satisfaction at the referenda success to the crowd waiting at election central.

Dist. 214 schoolmen had been braced for a defeat on the tax rates and were expecting to have to take them to the voters a second time later this year if a promised state aid increase failed to come through.

Women Hear Daniel Congreve

by EDITH FREUND

In 1920 women were granted the right to vote and it seems they've been exchanging it for a cup of coffee ever since.

Friday morning the sun shone beautifully, the birds were singing in the trees. Dan Congreve, incumbent mayoral candidate in Mount Prospect's election, stood against the soothing blue of Mrs. Kurt Bostrom's home and told 22 ladies of the village what he thought about things on that morning.

He never mentioned the name of his opponent, Trustee Robert Teichert. Each time he had to talk about Teichert, and talk about him he did, he adroitly slipped in "my opponent" or the "opposition" will the complacent skill of an incumbent with an edge.

He said, "When I was asked at a Chamber of Commerce meeting the night this fellow announced his candidacy whether I would run, I said I would have to run against him. If he hadn't run, I don't know what I would have done. My wife told me to quit while I was ahead. She read about my candidacy in the newspapers the next day."

THE WOMEN in the spacious and comfortable living room listened attentively while Congreve told them of his approval of capital expenditures as opposed to personnel.

He said he had objected when Fire Chief Ed Haberkamp, "one of my good friends," had asked for 12 additional firemen.

"If you spend money on trees or equipment, you have something, but if you spend money on people, it's gone," Congreve said.

Larry Osling, Congreve's campaign manager, reported in answer to a question that the complement of police has been increased by five in the four years of Congreve's term. Congreve added that the civilian staff of the department has also increased.

The police and firemen are well prepared in Mount Prospect, Congreve told the ladies, and urged them to call the police without the slightest hesitation.

"THESE MEN HAVE nothing to do during the night. We roll up the sidewalks after 11. They are busiest from four to eight when we have all those fender-benders, but sometimes during the night they will not have a single call and go home wondering if they have done a job," he said.

Asked if policemen couldn't walk a beat to relieve their boredom and prevent vandalism to parks and the train station, Congreve said the police department has no jurisdiction in the parks, "although sometimes we take extra-legal action and police the parks."

"The railroad is another matter. I think the answer there is to get a vendor in the station. Somebody who will be there," he said.

Several women inquired about vandalism in their neighborhood, and one coffee-drinker complained that when she called the police the officer immediately gave her name to the young offenders who had damaged her property.

Congreve: "They will always push for your name, but they don't have to have it to come out on a call. They'll come anyway. Just don't give your name."

HE SAID NEWSPAPER reporters have free access to police files and could print any information they found there, including the ages of women drivers involved in accidents.

Congreve made it clear to the women that he was able to appear at the coffee, although the unopposed candidates on his slate could not, because he doesn't have to work for a living. "I've been lucky. My wife and I used to have a contest. I made it and she spent it, but I've gotten a little ahead."

In discussing traffic problems, he told the story of how he "got the light at Lonnquist and Route 83," casually referring to "my little plane" that he used to "hop down to Springfield" to see the governor.

Congreve said the center of town is not "depressed." He said shops rent quickly and "the rent they charge would amaze you." He suggested an imaginative plan to funnel traffic in the village into an underpass, thereby allowing parking again on Route 83.

To solve the traffic congestion at Shabonee and Route 83 he suggested Elmhurst to Lincoln be made one-way south with a "hard right at Lincoln." Asked if this would not channel more traffic down Shabonee to reach the north side across the Central-North Western crossing, Congreve admitted that it would.

"THAT'S THE TROUBLE with traffic problems. You solve one and you get another one," he said.

At several points during the questions, Jack Keiser, a local druggist supporting the Congreve ticket, interrupted to ask the mayor to explain topics he seemed to feel the ladies weren't hearing enough about.

Osling, a member of the police and fire commission, also took his turn at bat, interrupting Congreve, who seemed to be holding his own in a chatty way.

Both Congreve and Osling said firemen and policemen in Mount Prospect are well-paid and will receive additional pay under the new budget. They said it is easy to obtain new members for the forces.

Schlickman Raps Map

An angry belated protest over the few High School Dist. 214 election precincts given Arlington Heights was registered Saturday by Eugene Schlickman, Wheeling Township Republican committeeman and a village resident.

Punching his finger at the precinct map, Schlickman berated school officials awaiting election night results Saturday for treating Arlington Heights "unfairly."

"WE HAD ONLY ONE polling place for the whole Dist. 23 south of the tracks. Compare that with the number of polling places in Elk Grove Village — or Mount Prospect, with a lower population," said Schlickman charged.

"I could go to court and have this whole election overturned because of the quantity of polling places in relation to the population," he said.

"I'm not going to do it," he conceded. "But you are engaging in a little discrimination."

Schlickman denied any interest in the election except as "an interested citizen."

BUT ONE OF HIS deputy committeemen, James T. Ryan, was a candidate for the Dist. 214 school board. Ryan lost.

Ryan, who did not ask for party support — and did not get it. He had some limited help from friends who also are active Republicans, but was easily outpolled by John M. Costello of Mount Prospect in a three-way race for a one-year term.

Moats Scores Upset Victory

Harper Junior College student Lawrence Moats of Mount Prospect scored a solid upset victory in Saturday's college board election.

He polled two-to-one margins over his chief opponent John M. Kuranz of Barrington in Rolling Meadows and a good share of the rest of High School Dist. 214, to win election to a three-year seat on the college board.

Moats far from matched the vote margin given Richard L. Johnson of Arlington Heights, board president who has served as a college trustee since Harper was organized in 1965.

FINAL UNOFFICIAL tallies give Johnson 11,467 to Moats' 8,430 and Kuranz' 6,783.

Moats supporters, directed by campaign chairman James Schmidt, blanketed most of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows with leaflets stressing Moats' campaign planks — improved communications and opposition to the formation of a teachers' union at the community college.

Moats told the Herald yesterday he struck a strong chord of response from the community on the teachers' union issue.

He also said he felt opposition to his candidacy from incumbent college board members backfired to his favor.

POINTING AT THE several times board member James Hamill of Schaumburg had speared questions at him at candidates meetings, Moats said, "I was able to demonstrate I could respond intelligently. When I could, it became a plus factor."

Regional voting has been noted in past college board elections — and it was in this election with candidate's address was listed on the ballot.

But Moats drew strong support in Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village as well as Mount Prospect and didn't come up totally short of votes in Kuranz' home area of Barrington.

"Geographic voting and a reaction to Kuranz' record were both factors," Moats told the Herald Sunday.

Moats pressed hard in his campaign on the fact that Kuranz, a respected — and busy — industrial leader, had missed 10 of the last 14 college board meetings and told the press he would continue to be a "part-time board member" if reelected.

MOATS GAVE THE Herald a statement in which he said, "I am very grateful to the voters who put their confidence and trust in me. I will serve the community conscientiously and, in keeping with my campaign plank, will try to increase communications, be available to the individual voters and various groups and organizations as well."

"I am tremendously proud of the responsibility they have entrusted me with and I will do everything I possibly can to serve the community and college with dignity, intelligence and good will."

Moats expressed confidence that he will be able to achieve "a positive-looking relationship" with other college board members despite their overt opposition to his candidacy.

Incumbent board members were not available for comment Sunday morning.

Dist. 57 Winds It Up

a substantial number of the 90 votes were cast for announced write-in candidate Richard Young, 418 Elm.

Breakdown by precinct of the balloting shows equal turnout at all four Dist. 57 polls.

Floros Fairview, 406, Busse, 254, Lincoln, 402, Lions Park, 357.

Casper Fairview, 341, Busse, 204; Lincoln, 375, Lions Park, 311.

Shutt Fairview, 241, Busse, 187; Lincoln, 313, Lions Park, 231.

Voter turnout in the election was considered high for the district. One comparison shows Leo Floros receiving only half as many votes one year ago when he sought the one year term on the Dist. 57 board. In 1968, Floros received 618 votes, compared to 1318 he received Saturday.

Dist. 57's newest board member, Alex Casper, said "Of course, I'm delighted that I have been elected to the school board, I'm looking forward to taking a place on the board."

Casper is a cost analyst for AT&T and has been working on corporate finances for 35 years.

Floros is a public relations specialist with former experience as a newspaper reporter.

Nix on Dirty Stations

"Not only do women choose which service station to visit when they're behind the wheel, but surveys show that they have a considerable say in determining where the men in their family buy their gasoline," explained Mrs. Agnes McDermat of Mount Prospect.

Mrs. McDermat, a manager with the American Oil Co., has been addressing service station dealers and advising them that they should not underestimate their women customers and their appraisals of service stations.

"The number of women drivers has doubled in less than 15 years, and within another year or two, it is very probable that they will outnumber men drivers," Mrs. McDermat said.

She stressed that good appearance and service are important factors in attracting women customers to buy their gasoline at American Oil service stations.

"APPEARANCE IS TO bring them to your station, and service is to keep them coming back," the purchasing consultant advised.

"While women may not be as impressed as men by product quality or electronic service equipment, they are very conscious of the appearance of a service station and the quality of service provided by gas station attendants."

She is stressing to American Oil station dealers that women today have a big influence on the gasoline market and that dealers should be aware of the importance of attracting women drivers to their stations.

"Women drivers today are more important customers than they've ever been, and they buy their gasoline based on good service and station appearance," she said.

Black View Of Suburbia Slated

About 30 black students from Harlan High School in Chicago will spend next Tuesday at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights as part of a suburban-inner city exchange program.

The 30 students will be hosted by 30 Hersey students, who will take them through a typical day at a suburban high school.

Alex Schmidt, director of the social science program at Hersey, explained that the program has been successful before at Arlington and Forest View high schools in Dist. 214.

HE STRESSED that no special program will be prepared for the students, except in some of the social sciences classes, where the students may discuss unique problems found in the suburbs and the city.

After classes are dismissed, the Operation Breadbasket Band from Chicago will present a 45-minute concert for Hersey and Harlan students. It will be followed by a brief program of dance music for the students.

The band plays for Operation Breadbasket the Chicago economic arm of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC). It recently performed at St. Raymond's Church in Mount Prospect.

career who will stay with the community for a long time.

"A village the size of Mount Prospect would normally have a problem keeping a village manager because each one wants to go on to larger, more complex communities."

"That is not so with Bob Moore. He is exactly the village manager this town should have. To say that Mount Prospect does not have a village manager type of government is completely wrong."

Although he is called the "Great White Father," and perhaps he does have the whole village in his hands, the incumbent mayor is seeking reelection on the fact that he can, with his experience in village government and community politics, do the most for Mount Prospect residents.

chert charged that Dan Gaffny, the GOP deputy committeeman, is the "unofficial mayor of Mount Prospect" and influential in village affairs.

In effect, Robert Teichert has been waging a tough political campaign in the subdued tones of a lawyer. He is a patent attorney for Ekco Housewares, a firm which seems to provide more political activists to the suburbs than both parties combined.

Teichert has leveled some sharp criticisms against Congreve and the way the mayor runs the village. But he is also trying to offer a positive approach to what he feels are the problems of the community.

"THE REAL ANSWER to Mount Prospect's flooding problem is not in Weiler Creek," he said. "The answer is in the Shaefer report, which has been available to the village for many months. The mayor has never recognized this and the result is that flooding continues."

Teichert has pledged to adopt the Shaefer report and to implement its suggestions.

Tax reductions: "The mayor had nothing to do with the tax reduction it came as a rebate to the village because of Randhurst and it would have been passed on to the residents no matter who was mayor, or even if we didn't have a may-

Open Convention Site

by LEA TONKIN

Arlington Park Towers, the only hotel in the world with its own golf course, race track and commuter station, will open tomorrow.

According to Richard Regan, executive vice president of Western Concessions, the staff will have a few days to become acquainted with the new facilities before the official debut of the Towers as a major convention center April 23.

The Air Moving and Conditioning Association will be the first group to hold a convention in the new hotel April 23-24. The two-day session is expected to attract 200 people. Jewel Foods, Pure Oil and the National Secretaries Association also will be using the facilities later in April and May.

LYLE SCHAPLER, hotel manager, said area residents as well as convention-goers will be attracted by the combination of sophisticated elegance in interior design and decor, the profusion of dining and recreational facilities, the ample convention rooms and its proximity to Chicago, O'Hare Airport, and major transportation systems.

Atop the Arlington Park Towers will be Horseshoe Club, overlooking the golf course and race track. The former site of the club on the ground floor will become a specialty restaurant, and diners may also choose between the Carousel Room, the Tack Room, or eat beside the pool in the Patio. The new Pony Lounge, with seating for 225, will be the main night club, with self-contained booths and a variety of professional entertainment.

Each of the 420 guest rooms has two extra-length double beds, built-in color television, radio, piped-in music, directional phones, a walk-in closet, and a dressing room with vanity. Doors are set back from the hallway to help soundproof the rooms.

Parlors for the hotel suites have studio couches, a card table and a wet bar. Vinyl floors and large walk-in closets are convenience features of the parlors.

Each floor is decorated in one of three colors: blue, orange and red. Lighting fixtures, drapes, wall coverings and carpeting carry out the color scheme, with touches of complementary colors added.

THE 13-STORY STRUCTURE is serviced by five high-speed elevators. The Round Table, with a seating capacity of 1,500, may be divided into two or three large rooms and another 1,500 can be accommodated downstairs.

A large entrance hall and lobby on the main floor of the hotel leads to the new ballroom, with enough room for 600 people at a meeting or 350 dinner guests. Huge three-tiered chandeliers highlight the ballroom, though another attraction is the picture-window outside wall, with a view overlooking the pool and patio. Guests may dine casually on the patio, which adjoins a bar. A circular stairway leads from the lobby to seven banquet rooms downstairs, each named after a famous racing horse. Women's apparel and gifts shops are located next to the lobby.

Sports offer a respite to those attending conventions at the Arlington Park Towers. Thoroughbred racing, 18 holes of golf (9 are lighted for night play), a driving range and a heated and glass-enclosed pool complete activities.

Close to Interstate 90, the Northwest Tollway, O'Hare Airport and serviced by the Chicago and North Western Railway, the hotel is strategically located in a rapidly developing residential and industrial area, its officials believe.

Policeman Hit by Suit

Mu Sup Kim, a Chicago resident, has filed a $10,000 lawsuit against the village of Mount Prospect and Policeman William Creamer for personal and property damages as a result of a rear-end car collision last January.

Kim, who is employed with Varo Optical Co. in Mount Prospect, has charged Creamer with driving while under the influence of alcohol, driving too fast for conditions, failure to avoid the accident, and negligent driving.

Creamer was on duty at the time of the accident and in his patrol car. The vehicle which Kim was driving had stalled on Lincoln Street. Due to the icy road conditions and heavy fog, Creamer did not see Kim's car in time to avoid the accident.

KIM, WHO didn't have any automobile insurance at the time of the accident, is now filing suit on an alleged back injury he received. He is being represented in court by George Beck, a Chicago attorney.

The Mount Prospect village attorney, John Zimmerman, will represent Creamer in the suit. No court date has been set.

Creamer, who is now recuperating from a gall bladder operation, said that the allegations made by Kim are false, and that if the suit should come to trial, he will counter-sue on the slander charge that he had been drinking while on duty.

"This man is just grabbing for straws now," said Creamer. "I'm not a drinking man anyway, and the charge that I had been drinking on duty is false and a slanderous charge."

Harvey Tops Dist. 59

By GEOFFREY MEHL

Three contenders claimed the High Ridge Knolls School precinct to be "their turf" in Saturday's School Dist. 59 elections, but in the end the votes belonged to Harold Harvey, who topped the ballot and won a seat on the board of education.

The second three-year term went to George Blanchard, who edged out Paul Neuhauser by only 26 votes of a total cast of 5,488.

Blanchard led through most of the evening, with no more than 50 votes separating him from Harvey and Neuhauser. Harvey moved back and forth in second position, and when the 1,741-vote High Ridge Knolls precinct called, he was ahead by only eight votes.

Harvey got 399 votes in the crucial precinct, to Neuhauser's 128 and Blanchard's 99.

Total unofficial returns showed Harvey and Blanchard elected with 905 and 650 votes respectively. They were trailed by Neuhauser, 626; Ernest Rich, 523; Patrick Ordovinsky, 496; William Garvey, 395; and Harry Stewart, 291.

Running unopposed for a one-year term, Albert Domanico collected 1,576 votes, slightly less than 29 per cent of all votes cast.

The three winning candidates collected about 56 per cent of the vote.

Returns began to trickle in shortly after 8 p.m. Saturday night, with Harvey and Blanchard jumping to an early lead. But as the evening wore on, Neuhauser moved into second position and led Harvey by about 25 votes.

Returns from Pct. 9, which voted at Robert Frost School, reversed that. Harvey moved into second place by a margin of only eight votes.

Everyone knew Pct. 3, High Ridge Knolls, would be the deciding section, as it had been reported all evening long that more than 700 persons voted there.

That precinct didn't begin its Dist. 59 count until about 10 p.m. however, and it wasn't until 12:50 that Harvey, Blanchard, and Domanico congratulated each other.

Harvey got 399 votes there, to Blanchard's 99 and Neuhauser's 128. The bulk of votes, 334 in all, went to Ernest Rich to make for his only strong precinct.

Domanico collected between 27 and 33 per cent of the vote, while Harvey varied between nine and 17 per cent, except for Pct. 3, where he got a whopping 22.92 per cent.

A total of 5,488 votes were distributed between the eight candidates, including 18 write-ins for scattered personalities.

The heaviest turnout was in Pct. 3, where 1,741 votes were cast, more than 1,000 ahead of the second highest, Pct. 8.

Precinct-by-precinct returns:

Pct. 1 (Clearmont School) — Blanchard, 100; Neuhauser, 71; Harvey, 70; Garvey, 47; Ordovinsky, 26; Stewart, 27; Rich, 17; Domanico, 176.

Pct. 2 (Rupley School) — Blanchard, 161; Harvey, 72; Neuhauser, 70; Garvey, 62; Ordovinsky, 26; Stewart, 21; Rich, 17; Domanico, 161.

Pct. 3 (High Ridge Knolls School) — Harvey, 399; Rich, 334; Ordovinsky, 166; Neuhauser, 128; Blanchard, 99; Garvey, 78; Stewart, 54; Domanico, 475.

Pct. 4 (Ridge School) — Blanchard, 80; Garvey, 51; Neuhauser, 47; Harvey, 46; Ordovinsky, 30; Stewart, 17; Rich, 8; Domanico, 475.

Pct. 5 (Devonshire School) — Ordovinsky, 97; Harvey, 51; Rich, 37; Neuhauser, 27; Blanchard, 61; Garvey, 12; Stewart, 8; Domanico, 101.

Pct. 6 (Forest View School) — Neuhauser, 122; Ordovinsky, 72; Harvey, 49; Blanchard, 41; Stewart, 38; Garvey, 29; Rich, 22; Domanico, 142.

Pct. 7 (Juliette Low School) — Harvey, 46; Neuhauser, 42; Ordovinsky, 32; Blanchard, 28; Rich, 24; Stewart, 22; Garvey, 20; Domanico, 81.

Pct. 8 (Salt Creek School) — Harvey, 128; Blanchard, 101; Garvey, 88; Neuhauser, 77; Rich, 43; Stewart, 37; Ordovinsky, 29; Domanico, 233.

Pct. 9 (Robert Frost School) — Stewart, 67; Harvey, 47; Neuhauser, 42; Blanchard, 22; Rich, 20; Ordovinsky, 16; Garvey, 8; Domanico, 83.

Total vote — Harvey, 905; Blanchard, 650; Neuhauser, 626; Rich, 523; Ordovinsky, 496; Garvey, 395; Stewart, 291; Domanico, 1,576.

3 Incumbents Win

Three incumbent school board members were reelected Saturday in River Trails school Dist. 28.

Elected to three-year terms were Harold Haney, 1420 E. Green Lane, Mount Prospect, with 520 votes; Lee Hilfman, 7 S. Lee Street, Prospect Heights, 404 votes; Jack Halvorsen, 506 Garwood, Mount Prospect, 516 votes.

Two challengers to the incumbents failed to receive enough votes to put them in office. Theodore Watenberg, 1407 Orchard, Prospect Heights, received 333 votes, and Gerry Zuck, 1301 Spruce Lane, Prospect Heights received 157 votes.

THE FIVE CANDIDATES were vying for three posts on the school board. All five of the candidates had been endorsed for office by the Dist. 28 Caucus Committee. Although the high vote getter in the Dist. 28 election received 820 votes, School Supt. Winston L. Harwood said the turnout was "pretty good" in comparison to past district elections.

Harold Haney, president of the Dist. 28 board, has been on the board for nine years and has served as its president for the past eight years. A 10-year resident of Mount Prospect, Haney, a chemist, is manager of the industrial food products laboratory for National Dairy Products. He has five children in the River Trails school system.

HILFMAN, A RESEARCH chemist with Universal Oil Products, has been on the school board since 1963. He has lived in Prospect Heights for seven years and has three children attending the district's schools.

Jack Halvorsen was reelected to a third term on the Dist. 28 board. A 10-year resident of Mount Prospect, he held a board position from 1961 to 1964. Last year he was appointed to fill a vacancy and was elected in April, 1968 to complete the remaining year of that term.

Who Will Be the Next Village Mayor?

Daniel Congreve—

Vs.

—Robert Teichert

by GERRY DEZONNA

At the village hall, they call him the "Great White Father."

To Mount Prospect residents, he is mayor Dan Congreve, the man who became a political institution in four years.

The soft-spoken but persuasive mayor is bidding against Village Trustee Robert Teichert for Mount Prospect's highest elective office in the April 15 election.

TO TEICHERT, the incumbent mayor is the man who's got the whole village in his hands.

Congreve, of the United Economy Party, is waging his campaign on the merits of his past four-year term in office and the progress that has been made in the community, especially in the field of village finances.

The present administration takes pride in the decreased real estate tax levy last year, and the projected budget for the new fiscal year promises village residents yet another cut in taxes. The increased revenue from the sales tax and the increase in improved property assessments allow the village to spread its expenditures over a broader tax base.

The Congreve administration is operating on a balanced budget that emphasizes competitive bidding and comparative prices on all village expenditures.

"THIS TYPE OF budgeting has realized great savings for the village in the past four years, and by continuing with the same program, we can anticipate savings in the future," Congreve said.

With regard to flooding problems and storm water control, the mayor realizes that an answer to the problem requires a cooperative effort by all municipalities in the area under the direction of the Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD).

"Flooding problems, storm water control and sanitary waste problems cannot be solved by the village government. The real solution to these problems is beyond the jurisdiction of the village," the mayor said.

Congreve was recently appointed to

DANIEL CONGREVE

MSD's blue ribbon committee to study suburban sanitary and sewage problems. The mayor will represent the village's interests on sanitation and sewage matters, in an effort to bring the best possible facilities to the community and its residents.

IN HIS BID FOR reelection to office, he is appealing to the voters on his experience in village government and the efficient organization that he has built at village hall in the past four years.

Congreve came into office four years ago as part of a strong slate aimed at unseating the administration of C. O. Schlaver.

His last four years have been, by any measure, stormy ones. Criticism of the mayor has centered around his highly personal involvement in village affairs and the role of the mayor's post in relation to the village manager.

Congreve makes no bones about his involvement in the village. He frequently gets in his own twin-engine Beech and flies to Springfield or out of state to personally contact individuals or agencies.

"I'LL TELL YOU ONE thing," he says, "They know where Mount Prospect is now, and they know our needs."

Congreve claims personal contacts in many county and state offices. He is generally respected in the Northwest Municipal Conference and in the offices of the MSD.

On the local level, Congreve backs the job done by village Mgr. Robert Moore and other high village officials. "You just couldn't find a better manager than Bob Moore," the mayor said. "He has personal identity with the village, he is responsive to the needs of the residents, and above all, he answers his telephone. He is available at all times."

Congreve has a strong opinion on the role of the village manager in local affairs. He has been criticized for being his own manager, his own police department and his own office of public works. To this, he says he will do whatever is necessary to get the job done. He discounts criticism that he is not following the provisions of the village manager type of government.

IF A COMMUNITY is the size of Evanston, for example, it is big enough to get a village manager at the top of his

HAROLD HARVEY, after running neck and neck with two other candidates through eight precincts, clobbered them all in the final reporting district and led the field in the School Dist. 59 board of education race. George Blanchard was also elected.

Floros, Casper Win

Incumbent Leo Floros and candidate Alex Casper were elected to the Dist. 57 school board Saturday.

Floros and Casper tallied more votes than the third candidate, Jerry Shutt, for the two positions open on the local board of education.

Final vote tallies showed Floros with 1,319; Casper, 1,231 and Shutt, 972. About 90 residents in the district cast their ballots for write-in candidates. Although some residents miscast their ballots, voting for persons who were not candidates, (Continued on Page 3)

ROBERT TEICHERT

by JAMES VESELY

Robert Teichert is the man who is fighting city hall.

The candidate for mayor and present member of the Mount Prospect Village Board is seeking to upset incumbent Mayor Dan Congreve and change the direction of local village government.

Teichert, of 1205 Robin Lane, has been a village trustee for the past four years, taking office as part of the same slate which helped to make Dan Congreve mayor.

Teichert now admits that slate four years ago was "marriage of convenience," and maintains that the present course of village government needs to be changed.

Although Teichert has refrained from publicly attacking Congreve, he is in the race because he thinks the post of village president is being exceeded by a mayor who is dominating the day to day operations of the village.

TEICHERT DISAGREES with what could be termed a "wheeler dealer" atmosphere at the village hall. He thinks the job of Mount Prospect mayor is one of leadership of hired professionals, not of part time office holders.

On specific points, Teichert attacks Congreve's methods in zoning variations, tax reductions, and services to the village.

"The present use of variations to zoning to force builders to comply with the informal demands of the village is wrong," Teichert says. He is referring to a common practice in Mount Prospect of zoning all land residential and then granting variations for business use based on the board's dealings with the builder.

Teichert is also concerned over the treatment of senior citizens in the village:

"THERE ARE 3,000 people over 60 years of age in Mount Prospect, we must do something for them . . . to provide the activities and the programs which give them a place in this community."

On the question of open housing: "The present Mount Prospect law is unworkable. I voted against it because I think it cannot be effectively enforced and because Mount Prospect does not have a need for such a law." Teichert said early in his campaign that he is not against open housing, only against Mount Prospect's ordinance. When asked what he thought about the possibility of a Negro family moving into the village, he said "They should be able to move anywhere they please."

ALTHOUGH HE HAS strong ties with the local Republican organization, Teichert has been critical of the party's involvement in the village election. In response to a question in The Herald, Teichert said:

Three Incumbents Sweep Dist. 214 Vote

Incumbents captured all three seats in High School Dist. 214's school board election Saturday.

Board Pres Arthur Aronson of an Arlington Heights unincorporated area and appointed board member Richard Stamm of Mount Prospect were easy winners over Ray Inman of Prospect Heights and Billy

K. McMinn of Rolling Meadows. Unofficial election results show Aronson racked up 6,114 votes, Stamm, 5,644; McMinn, 3,482, and Inman, 3,434. Aronson and Stamm were running for two three-year terms.

IN A THREE-WAY race for a one-year term, appointed board member John M. Costello of Mount Prospect talked 4,973 votes to 3,974 for James T. Ryan of Mount Prospect, and 1,568 for Don C. McGlothlin of Wheeling.

Election observers had expected the race between Costello and Ryan to be closer. But Costello's friends in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect worked hard to cover polling places with Costello literature and Ryan's expected campaign support came through spotty.

Ryan, obviously losing hard but gracefully, set the tone for other candidates when he told a Dist. 214 election crowd at Sichenmyer Administration Center Saturday night, "I don't particularly like losing, but I don't think I could have lost to a better chap." He shook hands with Costello.

"I think I helped with the most important thing," Ryan added, "to help increase interest in the election and pass the referendum."

Aronson agreed "The contest assisted the passage of the referendum," he said.

He declared, "It is a wonderful thing when a district can provide this many good men to run."

McMinn, though third of four candidates overall, scored strongly in his home precincts in Rolling Meadows. He drew 1,293 votes to Aronson's 595.

"I think Rolling Meadows citizens have expressed their desire to have someone on this board. I want to impress this upon you," McMinn said, "when a vacancy opens up or a better man appears."

The election leaves the Dist. 214 board four with members from Mount Prospect, one from Arlington Heights, one from Elk Grove Village and one from unincorporated Wheeling, Dist. 21.

School Approved

Voters turned out in record numbers Saturday to approve construction of a Rolling Meadows high school and pass two High School Dist. 214 tax increases by narrower margins.

Sept. Edward B. Gilbert and interested citizens watching the vote tallies pour in Saturday night at the Dist. 214 "election central" could see by 10:30 p.m. that the Rolling Meadows high school had been approved.

It was after 1 a.m., however, before the schoolmen — with only one precinct still out — felt sure both of the tax rate questions had passed.

GILBERT TOLD THE Herald passage of the Rolling Meadows school construction referendum was essential if the district is to achieve its goal of opening the new school in September, 1971, and relieving overcrowding in the district's other six schools.

Architects Orput-Orput and Associates expect to be ready to put the high school plans out for bidding by contractors early this fall.

The $9.7 million building bond referendum to finance the new high school — Dist. 214's seventh — passed 6,268 to 4,850.

Unofficial tallies on the tax referendum show that the 21-cent tax increase was okayed 4,879 to 4,704 and the 12 1/2-cent building maintenance tax increase by a 5,517 to 4,973 vote.

Substantial "yes" votes in Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights helped balance massive "no" votes in the High Ridge Knolls precinct in Des Plaines and Prospect Heights Dist. 23 precinct at Anne Sullivan School.

THE BUILDING TAX increase questioned failed in 13 of 25 precincts but those precincts combined "no" vote was not great enough to balance the "yes" votes turned in by Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights.

Hot contests for school board seats helped boost voter turnout in Elk Grove Dist. 59 and Prospect Heights Dist. 23, which had its own tax referendum as well. The Dist. 23 referendum was defeated by 40 votes.

"Get out the vote" campaigns worked well in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows. Prodded by telephone reminders organized by the high schools, voters turned out in a steady stream in those three towns all day.

In Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights, the heavy voter turnout taxes election judges' ability to keep the lines moving. At Jonas Salik School in Rolling Meadows, residents waited in line an hour or more to vote. Both there and at Anne Sullivan School in Prospect Heights long lines of queuing up voters snaked back and forth across the gymnasium floor.

BILLY K. McMINN, Rolling Meadows businessman and Citizens Committee member who put in his name as a District 214 school board candidate partly to increase interest in the referendum, expressed satisfaction at the referendum success to the crowd waiting at election central.

Dist. 214 schoolmen had been braced for a defeat on the tax rates and were expecting to have to take them to the voters a second time later this year if a promised state aid increase failed to come through.

Women Hear Daniel Congreve

by EDITH FREUND

In 1920 women were granted the right to vote and it seems they've been exchanging it for a cup of coffee ever since.

Friday morning the sun shone beautifully, the birds were singing in the trees Dan Congreve, incumbent mayoral candidate in Mount Prospect's election, stood against the soothing blue of Mrs. Kurt Bostrom's home and told 22 ladies of the village what he thought about things on that morning.

He never mentioned the name of his opponent, Trustee Robert Telchert. Each time he had to talk about Telchert, and talk about him he did, he adroitly slipped in "my opponent" or the "opposition" will the complacent skill of an incumbent with an edge.

He said, "When I was asked at a Chamber of Commerce meeting the night this fellow announced his candidacy whether I would run, I said I would have to run against him. If he hadn't run, I don't know what I would have done. My wife told me to quit while I was ahead. She read about my candidacy in the newspapers the next day."

THE WOMEN IN THE spacious and comfortable living room listened attentively while Congreve told them of his approval of capital expenditures as opposed to personnel.

He said he had objected when Fire Chief Ed Haberkamp, "one of my good friends," had asked for 12 additional firemen.

"If you spend money on trees or equipment, you have something, but if you spend money on people, it's gone," Congreve said.

Larry Osling, Congreve's campaign manager, reported in answer to a question that the complement of police has been increased by five in the four years of Congreve's term. Congreve added that the civilian staff of the department has also increased.

The police and firemen are well prepared in Mount Prospect, Congreve told the ladies, and urged them to call the police without the slightest hesitation.

"THESE MEN HAVE nothing to do during the night. We roll up the sidewalks after 11. They are busiest from four to eight when we have all those fender-benders, but sometimes during the night they will not have a single call and go home wondering if they have done a job," he said.

Asked if policemen couldn't walk a beat to relieve their boredom and prevent vandalism to parks and the train station, Congreve said the police department has no jurisdiction in the parks, "although sometimes we take extra-legal action and police the parks."

"The railroad is another matter. I think the answer there is to get a vendor in the station. Somebody who will be there," he said.

Several women inquired about vandalism in their neighborhood, and one coffee-drinker complained that when she called the police the officer immediately gave her name to the young offenders who had damaged her property.

Congreve: "They will always push for your name, but they don't have to have it to come out on a call. They'll come anyway. Just don't give your name."

HE SAID NEWSPAPER reporters have free access to police files and could print any information they found there, including the ages of women drivers involved in accidents.

Congreve made it clear to the women that he was able to appear at the coffee, although the unopposed candidates on his slate could not, because he doesn't have to work for a living. "I've been lucky. My wife and I used to have a contest. I made it and she spent it, but I've gotten a little ahead."

In discussing traffic problems, he told the story of how he "got the light at Lombard and Route 83," casually referring to "my little plane" that he used to "hop down to Springfield" to see the governor.

Congreve said the center of town is not "depressed." He said shops rent quickly and "the rent they charge would amaze you." He suggested an imaginative plan to funnel traffic in the village into an underpass, thereby allowing parking again on Route 83.

To solve the traffic congestion at Shabonee and Route 83 he suggested Elmhurst to Lincoln be made one-way south with a "hard right at Lincoln." Asked if this would not channel more traffic down Shabonee to reach the north side across the Central-North Western crossing, Congreve admitted that it would.

"THAT'S THE TROUBLE with traffic problems. You solve one and you get another one," he said.

At several points during the questions, Jack Keefe, a local druggist supporting the Congreve ticket, interrupted to ask the mayor to explain topics he seemed to feel the ladies weren't hearing enough about.

Osling, a member of the police and fire commission, also took his turn at it, interrupting Congreve, who seemed to be holding his own in a chatty way.

Both Congreve and Osling said firemen and policemen in Mount Prospect are well-paid and will receive additional pay under the new budget. They said it is easy to obtain new members for the forces.

Schlickman Raps Map

An angry belated protest over the few High School Dist. 214 election precincts given Arlington Heights was registered Saturday by Eugene Schlickman, Wheeling Township Republican committeeman and a village resident.

Punching his finger at the precinct map, Schlickman berated school officials awaiting election night results Saturday for treating Arlington Heights "unfairly."

"WE HAD ONLY ONE polling place for the whole Dist. 25 south of the tracks. Compare that with the number of polling places in Elk Grove Village — or Mount Prospect, with a lower population," said Schlickman charged.

"I could go to court and have this whole election overturned because of the quantity of polling places in relation to the population," he said.

"I'm not going to do it," he conceded "But you are engaging in a little discrimination."

Schlickman denied any interest in the election except as "an interested citizen."

BUT ONE OF HIS deputy committeeman, James T. Ryan, was a candidate for the Dist. 214 school board. Ryan lost.

Ryan, who did not ask for party support — and did not get it. He had some limited help from friends who also are active Republicans, but was easily outpolled by John M. Costello of Mount Prospect in a three-way race for a one-year term.

High School Wins OK

"YOU DONE GOOD," outgoing Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods told teen marchers yesterday. The teens went to Hersey High School to turn in money pledged for participating in the 17-mile hike for the Hungry on Good Friday. About two-thirds of the marchers showed up. They collected an estimated $54,000 to $60,000.

Rumsfeld: Free Hand?

by MARTHA MOSER

Despite White House silence, it appeared yesterday U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld is the new director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

Speculation that President Richard M. Nixon has selected the Northwest suburbs' congressman for the poverty post continued as late as 2 p.m. yesterday. Rumsfeld reportedly is "bargaining" his taking the post for a chance at using his own philosophy on social welfare as war-on-poverty head.

Rumsfeld said in a candidate's interview at Paddock Publications last fall that he would like to see the OEO become a "spearpoint."

AS SUCH, RUMSFELD saw the office

as being a sparkplug that would generate ideas, then spin them off into another department as the machinery is tested and rolling.

Talking on the basis there is no proven solution to the urban crisis, Rumsfeld said that instead of developing anti-poverty programs and operating them, OEO should be an office to experiment and be under fire. "When something doesn't work, they should admit it," Rumsfeld said that Saturday morning. "When it does work, they should split it off into an appropriate administering agency."

He then criticized the office for "hugging" good programs so it can balance success stories with failures when it goes to Congress for funds.

He said OEO should make better use of the District of Columbia, which is the direct responsibility of the federal government, and should innovate programs that "add information" to the anti-poverty fight.

He cited the rapid shifting of poor into the ghettos as a problem which is nullifying current government efforts.

ASKED HOW suburbanites can become effective in helping people in the ghetto, the OEO nominee then said:

"First, we need to do a better job of cataloging the kinds of mechanics available to people in metropolitan areas to do things. And second, you need an attitude of caring."

Rumsfeld's demonstrated "attitude of caring," despite his background in an affluent district, has caused him to become associated with interest and concern for social welfare problems.

Rumsfeld has indicated his philosophy is that government alone can not, and will not, provide all the social answers and the "urban crisis" demonstrates the failure of government to function as a "cure-all."

His past statements align him with Nixon administration thinking that private industry and government must form investment partnerships to create new jobs, correct substandard housing, expand educational opportunities and lower racial barriers.

Past answers to the American social dilemma, such as urban renewal, model cities, public welfare, demonstration projects, legislative edicts, and all other traditional answers have proved unsuccessful, the young man has said.

IN PRIVATE conversations, his view has been that government stop-gap measures have proved disappointing and have created fresh disillusionment and often hardship.

The ghetto is not houses, it is people, the young man would be likely to say. Rumsfeld himself this weekend refused to confirm or deny an appointment. White House press aides indicated to the Herald, however, the story is being held in deference to a Presidential announcement.

Rumsfeld told the Herald, "There is not a lot I can say except that the matter has been discussed. I wish I could be more responsive about this, but there is nothing more now that I can say. I have done all the talking that I can."

WASHINGTON SOURCES admitted consideration of Rumsfeld has been under discussion for several weeks. And the congressman's unusual lack of candor combined to support reports of the appointment.

Rumsfeld said any announcement of an appointment will be made early this week.

Voters turned out in record numbers Saturday to approve construction of a Rolling Meadows high school and pass two High School Dist. 214 tax increases by narrower margins.

Supt. Edward H. Gilbert and interested citizens watching the vote tallies pour in Saturday night at the Dist. 214 "election central" could see by 10:30 p.m. that the Rolling Meadows high school had been approved.

It was after 1 a.m., however, before the schoolmen — with only one precinct still out — felt sure both of the tax rate questions had passed.

GILBERT TOLD THE Herald passage of the Rolling Meadows school construction referendum was essential if the district is to achieve its goal of opening the new school in September, 1971, and relieving overcrowding in the district's other six schools.

Architects Orput-Orput and Associates expect to be ready to put the high school plans out for bidding by contractors early this fall.

The $8.7 million building bond referendum to finance the new high school — Dist. 214's seventh — passed 6,288 to 4,350.

Unofficial tallies on the tax referendum show that the 21-cent tax increase was okayed 4,879 to 4,704 and the 12½-cent building maintenance tax increase by a 5,517 to 4,973 vote.

Substantial "yes" votes in Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights helped balance massive "no" votes in the High Ridge Knolls precinct in Des Plaines and Prospect Heights Dist. 23 precinct at Anne Sullivan School.

THE BUILDING TAX increase questioned failed in 13 of 25 precincts but those precincts combined "no" vote was not great enough to balance the "yes" votes turned in by Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights.

Hot contests for school board seats helped boost voter turnout in Elk Grove Dist. 59 and Prospect Heights Dist. 23, which had its own tax referendum as well. The Dist. 23 referendum was defeated by 49 votes.

"Get out the vote" campaigns worked well in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows. Prodded by telephone reminders organized by the high schools, voters turned out in a steady stream in those three towns all day.

In Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights, the heavy voter turnout taxes election judges' ability to keep 'he lines moving. At Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows, residents waited in line an hour or more to vote. Both there and at Anne Sullivan School in Prospect Heights long lines of queued up voters snaked back and forth across the gymnasium floor.

BILLY K. McMINN, Rolling Meadows businessman and Citizens Committee member who put in his name as a District 214 school board candidate partly to increase interest in the referendum, expressed satisfaction at the referendum success to the crowd waiting at election central.

Dist. 214 schoolmen had been braced for a defeat on the tax rates and were expecting to have to take them to the voters a second time later this year if a promised state aid increase failed to come through.

All 3 To Return

Incumbents captured all three seats in High School Dist. 214's school board election Saturday.

Board Pres. Arthur Aronson of an Arlington Heights unincorporated area and appointed board member Richard Stamm of Mount Prospect were easy winners over Ray Inman of Prospect Heights and Billy K. McMinn of Rolling Meadows.

Unofficial election results show Aronson racked up 6,114 votes, Stamm, 5,644; McMinn, 3,482, and Inman, 3,434.

Aronson and Stamm were running for two three-year terms.

IN A THREE-WAY race for a one-year term, appointed board member John M. Costello of Mount Prospect tallied 4,973 votes to 3,074 for James T. Ryan of Mount Prospect, and 1,568 for Don C. McGlothlin of Wheeling.

Election observers had expected the

Futurities

The Youth Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road.

The Board of Trustees, Zoning Board of Appeals and Safety Commission will hold a p.m. meetings today in the Municipal Building.

"A KITE, gentle enight to call you master, strong enough to call you fool..." Kevin Wilson, 820 N. Patton, Arlington Heights, was one of a handful of contestants who turned out for the park district's kite flying carnival Saturday afternoon — with 5,000 feet of string!

Votes Total 1,550 For Two Incumbents

Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton and James Penn, incumbent candidates for the school Dist. 25 Board of Education, polled some 1,550 votes in Saturday's election. Backed by the caucus nominating committee in February, the two ran unopposed on district ballots.

Mrs. Hamilton, a school board member for the past two years, is a business analyst with IMC Corp. She is ending a special term caused by a vacancy on the board. Penn, an attorney employed by the American National Bank is completing his first three year term.

(The board will meet Saturday to elect officers for the coming year.)

Arlington Heights Parks Equal to Neighbors

(The programs and facilities of the Arlington Heights Park District came under heavy fire from three of the four candidates who ran for parks commissioner this spring.

The fourth candidate, an incumbent, defended the district, saying it is generally on a par with or ahead of neighboring districts.

A Herald survey shows the incumbent is right — the Arlington Heights District is equal to or better than the neighboring district. Whether that means the district is as good as it could be is another question. Here is our comparison.)

by SANDRA COMSTOCK

Programs and facilities in Arlington Heights Park District could be better. However, new facilities are coming and compared to programs in the surrounding towns of Elk Grove, Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Palatine, Arlington Heights doesn't come out on the short end.

Almost all of the park districts offer activities such as pre-school classes, trim and slim groups for women, gymnastics, basketball, arts and crafts, golf lessons, tennis, softball, baton and ballet lessons, guitar lessons and cooking.

Activities popular in three of the districts, one of them Arlington Heights, include hockey clinics, youth centers of some type, men's recreation, women's volleyball and recreation, self-defense classes for women, cheerleading and dramatics.

MORE ARE WRESTLING, bowling, movies, bridge lessons, knitting lessons, flag football, ice skating, square dancing and pottery.

Most of the preceding activities are standard ones which have been a part of park district programming for years.

In number of activities offered, the park districts in Elk Grove, Palatine and Arlington Heights offer about the same amount of activities.

Specialties in certain park districts include jogging, offered in Elk Grove and Palatine, and concerts, offered in Elk Grove and Mount Prospect.

More specialties include teen dances, sewing, chess, folk dancing and a youth center for junior high students offered to residents of Elk Grove.

GUN SAFETY IS offered to residents of Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows. Small craft and boating safety is offered in Mount Prospect and Palatine.

Programs unique to Rolling Meadows and Palatine include babysitting clinic, fitness tests, archery classes and model building.

Rolling Meadows' park program includes classes for learning gift-wrapping techniques and first aid.

Fishing is available to residents of the park districts in Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights. Couples' recreation and volleyball are part of both Elk Grove's and Arlington Heights' programs. Soccer enthusiasts are offered activity in Arlington Heights and Palatine.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS and Mount Prospect provide activities for people over 50 with special clubs for that group.

Programs unique to Arlington Heights include ski lessons, dog obedience classes, furniture refinishing and antiques, sauna and health rooms and roller skating.

One Arlington Heights Park District employee said the district "welcomes new ideas with open arms."

The employee said ideas for possible new programs include a program for junior high students, bridge for couples, family nights and a group for divorced and widowed parents.

PROGRAM AREAS CITED as needing improvement in the 1967 appraisal of Arlington Heights Park District included mental and linguistic, family recreation, music activities, junior and senior teenage clubs, playground activities and nature and outing activities.

Since the appraisal was completed, the park district has attempted to strengthen these areas.

Touring Arlington Heights parks, a resident will notice the presence of standard playground equipment, such as slides and swings.

RECREATION MAGAZINES abound with creative ideas for new playground equipment. New ideas include playgrounds with four levels of play space and an abandoned boat docked on a playground for children to play on and in.

Other new equipment includes dome-like concrete turtles, spiral slides, amoeba-shaped sandboxes, abstract tree sculptures and large metal ladybugs.

Arlington Heights had a chance to add some creativity to its playground scene last year when the Nike Base offered to donate an old missile. However, the offer became bogged down in red tape because of a fear that the missile, which was a space exploratory type of rocket, might serve as a focal point for anti-war demonstrations.

With construction of nine new parks within the next year, Arlington Heights has a chance to add some new, creative playground equipment. However, such equipment will probably not fit into the budget.

SUGGESTIONS FOR restricted parking places during peak traffic hours were presented to the village board Thursday night. If undertaken, the project would involve the posting of signs to restrict parking from about 4 to 6 p.m. Black lines on the map indicate the location of the space while the numbers indicate the amount of spaces to be eliminated.

Transportation Center OK Delayed

by SANDRA COMSTOCK

Village Board members delayed approval of a proposed transportation center for downtown Arlington Heights during their adjourned meeting held Thursday night.

Discussion on the proposal presented by DeLeuw, Cather Organization, consulting engineers and planners, will continue at a special meeting tonight in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd., 8 p.m.

MEMBERS OF the Village's Planning Commission also attended the meeting Thursday night to hear about the proposed facility.

DeLeuw, Cather's recommendations for proposed improvements include locating a 600-to 800-car capacity to be built north of the Municipal building and south of the tracks. Construction cost of the facility was estimated at $2.8 million, not including the cost of site acquisition.

Plans for the multi-level parking facility include an extension of Sigwalt under the tracks to form an intersection with Northwest Highway. Cost estimates for the project ranged from $2.5 to $3.5 million, not including costs for land acquisition.

CONSTRUCTION OF all major improvements should be deferred until a decision is reached on preliminary plans for the transportation center, the consulting engineer recommended.

If the board decided to proceed with plans for the center, the final design of street improvements should be coordinated with the design and access needs of the facility, the recommendation report stated.

THE REPORT said the proposed grade crossings at Arthur and Walnut Avenue should improve traffic circulation in the Central Business district by decreasing traffic volume on downtown streets.

DeLeuw, Cather said the location of the center on the Municipal Building triangle south of the railway right of way is operationally feasible with the following improvements in the street system:

- Intersection improvements at Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway.
- Construction of a railway underpass at Sigwalt Street.
- Intersection improvements on Davis Street at the entrance to the proposed parking structure.
- INSTALLATION of traffic signals at the intersections of Sigwalt and Northwest Highway and with Davis Street and Sigwalt Street at the entrance to the parking structure.

DeLeuw, Cather recommended location of the parking structure east of Arlington Heights Road because it could be planned to be convenient to the train platforms. Also, proper access could be provided not only to serve the facility but also to relieve the traffic problems in the vicinity.

If the Chicago and Northwestern Ry. did not relocate its station to be adjacent to the transportation center and left it at its present location, overhead pedestrian walkways could be provided. People could park their cars and get across Arlington Heights Road via these walkways.

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS, including the triangle to be formed by Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights Road and Sigwalt Street, would be eligible for financial assistance from several sources, the consultants advised the board, possibly from federal, state and county funds and parking fee revenue.

To install the underpass at Sigwalt, the street would have to be lowered. After Sigwalt crosses under the tracks to connect with Northwest Highway, then the highway would have to be lowered also.

Depressing of Northwest Highway would require retention walls and limited access from side streets such as Pine, Belmont and Douglas.

Village President-elect John Walsh said making a choice between an underpass at Arlington Heights Road and one at Sigwalt could be made on the basis of cost alone. Estimated figures of cost have shown the Sigwalt underpass to be cheaper. However, Walsh pointed out, approval of the Sigwalt plan does not eliminate the possibility of an Arlington Heights Road underpass at sometime in the future.

BOARD MEMBER Frank Palmatier said the village should put both underpasses in its application to the federal government for funds.

Board members asked questions about how the village would pay for its portion of the project (the federal government could potentially offer to pay two-thirds). President John Woods said the village might hold a referendum and issue bonds if the referendum were approved.

"Until we tie down cost estimates, we won't know how it will be financed," said Marwood Rupp, from DeLeuw, Cather.

A tentative railroad station near Arlington Park was mentioned as a factor that would funnel out a tremendous amount of traffic. However, Rupp said the number of people using the Arlington station would probably remain almost the same with the projected influx of new commuters.

Walsh reported that he, Village Manager L. A. Hanson and Assistant Village Manager John Coste had met with officials from the Chicago and Northwestern Ry. on Good Friday.

He said the officials were not optimistic about the village's chances of getting the train station moved.

Walsh said although nothing really concrete resulted from the meeting, he felt the village and the railroad have "a good, working and friendly relationship."

Woods said, "I hate to dampen your youthful enthusiasm, but it sounds like the same old railroad to me."

Parking Plan OKd

Village Board members gave a nod of approval for a plan to restrict parking in downtown Arlington Heights during peak traffic congestion hours.

DeLeuw, Cather, consulting engineers and planners hired by the village, presented a list of suggested locations for restricted parking to the board's meeting Thursday night.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson said he would like to study the exact location of the proposed parking space restrictions and seek further board action.

Restrictions would eliminate spaces near main intersections during peak hours, about 4 to 6 p.m. on weekdays. The total number of spaces would be 78, including 41 north of the railroad tracks, and 37 to the south.

Traffic flow would be improved because it would allow an additional lane for right turns, Marwood Rupp of the consulting firm said.

Instituting the parking restrictions and the using of policemen to direct traffic at clogged intersections will help the traffic flow, engineers say.

Effects of the program will be studied to see if it is working properly. Board members said the decision to favor the police traffic direction and parking restrictions did not entirely eliminate the possibility of a one-way traffic pattern being used later.

On a way restrictions for downtown streets has been discussed for many years as a way to help untie the rush hour traffic snarl. The Village administration recently started to use off-duty policemen on overtime to direct traffic at peak hours and have found it "very satisfactory."

Referendum Try Fails in Dist. 23

A record turn-out of voters from Prospect Heights Dist. 23 crushed the 21-cent educational tax referendum and elected all three Caucus candidates to the school board.

With approximately 50 per cent of the district voting, the referendum was defeated 523 to 474.

A block of 274 straight Caucus votes was the springboard propelling Art Koester, Al Krensky and John Stull to victory with a total of 706, 609, and 593 votes respectively.

Independents Roy Weinberg and Mrs. Jo Ellen Clawes received 481 and 374 votes.

SUPT. EDWARD Grodzky said he is bitterly disappointed at the narrow referendum defeat and promised to request a new referendum this summer.

"We'll stick to our guns," he said. "The next time we'll give them more facts."

Long lines formed at the one polling place, Anne Sullivan School, from noon until doors were closed at 7 p.m. Voters waited from a half hour to an hour to vote and many were seen leaving before casting votes. A total of 1,044 votes was cast out of the approximately 2,500 eligible voters in the district.

A long-time poll watcher told the Herald most of the voters who turned out had never before voted in a school election and said the number of elderly voters convinced her by mid afternoon that the referendum was in jeopardy.

Mrs. Clawes, who waited until 1 a.m. for the final tally, said, "I will continue to go to board meetings. I am disappointed, but will continue to support the board."

Defeated incumbent Weinberg, who has served five years on the board said, "I know the challenge they face. I hope every effort will be put behind a new school referendum. I'll be back."

The three Caucus candidates declared themselves "very happy."

"I'M DISAPPOINTED the referendum didn't carry," said Krinsky. "The referendum was more important than any one candidate. We will come back to the people with it, again and again and again."

Koester said, "Roy (Weinberg) did a magnificent job. We invite the people's criticism, support and help."

Stull, who was not present to wait out the marathon vote count session, told the Herald yesterday, "I am happy with the turn out. Happy people are concerned. Happy with the people in the Caucus. I'm sorry there weren't five open seats because they all ran good campaigns."

Mary Jo Reid Saturday after a hotly contested campaign for the two school board seats.

Mrs. Stiller won with 796 votes with Mrs. Reid following close behind with 778. Both had the backing of the General Caucus.

Thomas Weaver had received 563 votes and Michael Kane, 441, when the final unofficial tally was completed in the district about 10 p.m. Saturday.

MRS. STILLER, contacted at a school board convention in Miami by the Herald, said, "I am very appreciative for all my friends who helped me, those who knew me and those who didn't. I'll try to do the same job I've done for the last three years on the board and continue the interest in the district I've had for the last 12 years."

Mrs. Reid, also at the convention, said, "I'm most gratified that the voters have demonstrated their confidence in the board and the administration."

Voting in the district was very heavy, according to Supt. Ken Gill.

Mrs. Reid captured the most votes in the third, fourth and fifth precincts with polling places in Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights. Mrs. Stiller's strength was in the first and second precincts, the largest precincts in Wheeling.

Weaver and Kane had strong backing in Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights and Arlington Heights, both beating the winning candidate Mrs. Stiller in votes cast in each of the three areas.

WEAVER TOLD THE Herald that he definitely will run again. He said that he is happy Mrs. Reid has been elected and surprised that Mrs. Stiller received the most votes.

"I promised them they'd know they'd been in a race," Weaver said about the campaign, adding, "Next year it will be another story."

Kane told the Herald that he had assumed that the vote would run as it did.

Kane said he hopes Mrs. Stiller and Mrs. Reid will "go back to the board as truly new members and remember issues brought out in the campaign."

"In their new tenure I hope that they look for changes in direction in the district," he said, volunteering to serve the board in any way he could, such as on a citizens advisory committee.

Dist. 21 Likes Incumbents

Voters in Dist. 21 turned out 1,300 strong to reaffirm their faith in the incumbent candidates Mrs. Lillian Stiller and Mrs.

Mary Jo Reid Saturday after a hotly contested campaign for the two school board seats.

Mrs. Stiller won with 796 votes with Mrs. Reid following close behind with 778. Both had the backing of the General Caucus.

A Representation Gap?

by MARTHA MOSER

The appointment of U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) would leave the Northwest suburbs without a congressman for at least six months.

Although Rumsfeld has not confirmed he has accepted the Presidential call, rumor has the appointment imminent. And Republicans in his 13th District have begun maneuvering for position of successor.

It is no secret State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, also Wheeling Township committeeman, has wanted a crack at a congressional seat for some time.

But Rumsfeld, collecting 80 per cent of the votes in his last two races, left no opening in sight as long as he wants the office.

Schlickman Saturday denied interest in any public office except the one he holds as a three-term member of the Illinois House of Representatives.

"I HAVE NO PLANS at this time for doing anything except what I'm doing now — serving in the General Assembly," the legislator said.

"There is a report that Don (Rumsfeld) has been asked to serve as director of OEO," Schlickman continued. "But there has been no indication to my satisfaction that Don has accepted."

In a matter of 24 hours, though, since speculation on a Rumsfeld appointment began, Schlickman was able to come up with what Rumsfeld's Washington office could not supply — procedure for filling a Congressional vacancy.

According to ruling Illinois law, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie must find that a vacancy in the office exists, a discretion on the part of the governor. If Ogilvie indeed "finds" that Rumsfeld is in the executive rather than legislative branch of government, he is required to declare a special election.

Black View Of Suburbia Slated

About 30 black students from Harlan High School in Chicago will spend next Tuesday at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights as part of a suburban-urban city exchange program.

The 30 students will be hosted by 30 Hersey students, who will take them through a typical day at a suburban high school.

Alex Schmidt, director of the social science program at Hersey, explained that the program has been successful before at Arlington and Forest View high schools in Dist. 214.

HE STRESSED that no special program will be prepared for the students, except in some of the social science classes, where the students may discuss unique problems found in the suburbs and the city.

After classes are dismissed, the Operation Breadbasket Band from Chicago will present a 45-minute concert for Hersey and Harlan students. It will be followed by a brief program of dance music for the students.

The band plays for Operation Breadbasket, the Chicago economic arm of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC). It recently performed at St. Raymond's Church in Mount Prospect.

Incumbents Return—

race between Costello and Ryan to be closer.

But Costello's friends in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect worked hard to cover polling places with Costello literature and Ryan's expected campaign support came through spotty.

Ryan, obviously losing hard but gracefully, set the tone for other candidates.

Folk Music Program Set at Thomas Junior

Valucha, a folk singer and guitarist, will give three performances at Thomas Junior High School Wednesday.

The 9, 9:40 and 10:10 a.m. programs will be sponsored by the cultural arts committee of the Thomas Junior High School PTA.

The folk singer's selections include songs in French, Spanish, Italian, German and Greek. She has appeared on several local television programs.

Price of admission for the performances is 25 cents.

PRIMARY AND RUNOFF elections are required on the same time schedule pertaining to filling vacant seats in the state legislature. Schlickman said the earliest a general election could be held is Sept. 29.

It is not likely Ogilvie would miss noting a change in Rumsfeld's office address, especially since the 13th District is a GOP stronghold. As far as the Republican leadership is concerned, the congressional contest will be decided in their own party primary.

The story is out that Brian Duff, 1968's unsuccessful primary candidate for secretary of state, is contacting district committeemen telling his interest in the office. Party leaders also can not forget Bob Dwyer, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's defeated running mate, and William Rentschler, head of Pres. Richard M. Nixon's Illinois campaign.

Dwyer and Rentschler may be due their rewards as past party sacrifices, although Schlickman himself speaks from a fairly powerful position as township committeeman.

THOUGH NORTHFIELD Township is seen as the district's center of strength, Schlickman's Wheeling Township has turned over some impressive victories.

In November, Wheeling Township delivered the heaviest Republican pluralities of any township in the state and Schlickman racked up more votes than any other representative in the state.

Still, a party bid to a North Shore candidate will not mean hopelessness for the Northwest suburbs in getting their own congressman. Redistricting is still a possibility that could favor a local congressional hopeful.

In light of an April 10 U.S. Supreme Court case out of Missouri, Illinois may also be forced to redistrict.

This decision makes invalid even an Illinois senate redistricting bill recently introduced by Sen. W. Russell Arrington, Senate majority leader.

SCHLICKMAN SAID Saturday he does not believe Illinois will have to re-district before electing a possible successor to Rumsfeld.

Schlickman may hold out for his earlier idea to form a congressional district of Cook County's six most western townships.

Maybe this will please the party enough to give it to him.

Meanwhile, Schlickman insists he will stick to representative and committeeman duties.

There are too many things involved in this one, he said, listing them as No. 1, the President; No. 2, Rumsfeld; No. 3, the governor, and No. 4, "a lot of other people."

Church Hits Aid

A Prospect Heights Lutheran pastor and his church council voiced strong opposition last week to Gov. Richard Ogilvie's proposal to extend state aid to nonpublic schools.

The 15-member council of Rev. Dennis Anderson's Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 111 N. Elmhurst Road, sharply criticized Ogilvie's budget recommendation that $32 million in state funds be doled out to parents of private school students.

Ogilvie's budget message said it is constitutional to give grants to parents, not to the schools themselves.

"THE STATE OF ILLINOIS must alleviate the pressures upon the private and parochial school systems or face the dangers resulting from their collapse,"

The Prospect Heights church council's statement scored that attitude in a statement that reaffirmed "the principle of separation of church and state" and said churches must remain "free to speak the truth without regard to financial or political ties."

"We (Lutherans) engage in parochial school education in places where the public schools aren't adequate but we do not believe in seeking support for it," he explained. "I think we should have freedom of choice, but we must pay for that."

"IN SPEAKING out against non-public school aid, we are acting to preserve the freedom of the church — and to speak up against the headlong trend to solving problems through short term solutions in a way that avoids wrestling with principle," the pastor added.

"If we want to change the constitution, then we should face up to that rather than try to circumvent the issue," Pastor Anderson declared.

Their statement comes at a time when the Illinois Citizens for Educational Freedom is mounting a campaign in support of House Bill 1116, which provides tuition grants to parents of students in private and parochial schools.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and a member of the House education committee, says the next two weeks are crucial ones for the fate of H.B. 1116 — which may get Gov. Ogilvie's backing, through it does not have his support now.

Schlickman Raps Map

An angry belated protest over the few High School Dist. 214 election precincts given Arlington Heights was registered Saturday by Eugene Schlickman, Wheeling Township Republican committeeman and a village resident.

Punching his finger at the precinct map, Schlickman berated school officials awaiting election night results Saturday for treating Arlington Heights "unfairly."

"WE HAD ONLY ONE polling place for the whole Dist. 25 south of the tracks.

Compare that with the number of polling places in Elk Grove Village — or Mount Prospect, with a lower population," said Schlickman charged.

"I could go to court and have this whole election overturned because of the quantity of polling places in relation to the population," he said.

"I'm not going to do it," he conceded. "But you are engaging in a little disenfranchisement."

Schlickman denied any interest in the election except as "an interested citizen."

BUT ONE OF HIS deputy committeemen, James T. Ryan, was a candidate for the Dist. 214 school board. Ryan lost.

Ryan, who did not ask for party support — and did not get it. He had some limited help from friends who also are active Republicans, but was easily outpolled by John M. Costello of Mount Prospect in a three-way race for a one-year term.

Officer Installation Slated By Ridge PTA

Members of Ridge School's PTA will hear a speech and install new officers at their meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the school, 800 N. Fernandez.

Guest speaker for the meeting will be Donald Stansbury, director of admissions and registrar at Harper Junior College. His speech is entitled, "A Look Ahead — College or Not."

Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Open Convention Site

by LEA TONKIN

Arlington Park Towers, the only hotel in the world with its own golf course, race track and commuter station, will open tomorrow.

According to Richard Regan, executive vice president of Western Concessions, the staff will have a few days to become acquainted with the new facilities before the official debut of the Towers as a major convention center April 23.

The Air Moving and Conditioning Association will be the first group to hold a convention in the new hotel April 23-24. The two-day session is expected to attract 200 people Jewel Foods, Pure Oil and the National Secretaries Association also will be using the facilities later in April and May.

LYLE SCHAPLER, hotel manager, said area residents as well as convention-goers will be attracted by the combination of sophisticated elegance in interior design and decor, the profusion of dining and recreational facilities, the ample convention rooms and its proximity to Chicago, O'Hare Airport, and major transportation systems.

Atop the Arlington Park Towers will be Horseshoe Club, overlooking the golf course and race track. The former site of the club on the ground floor will become a specialty restaurant, and diners may also choose between the Carousel Room, the Tack Room, or eat beside the pool in the Patio. The new Pony Lounge, with seating for 225, will be the main night club, with self-contained booths and a variety of professional entertainment.

Each of the 420 guest rooms has two extra-length double beds, built-in color television, radio, piped-in music, direct-dial phones, a walk-in closet, and a dressing room with vanity. Doors are set back from the hallway to help soundproof the rooms.

Parlors for the hotel suites have studio couches, a card table and a wet bar. Vinyl floors and large walk-in closets are convenience features of the parlors.

Each floor is decorated in one of three colors: blue, orange and red. Lighting fixtures, drapes, wall coverings and carpeting carry out the color scheme, with touches of complementary colors added.

THE 13-STORY STRUCTURE is serviced by five high-speed elevators. The Round Table, with a seating capacity of 1,500, may be divided into two or three large rooms and another 1,500 can be accommodated downstairs.

A large entrance hall and lobby on the main floor of the hotel leads to the new ballroom, with enough room for 600 people at a meeting or 350 dinner guests. Huge three-tiered chandeliers highlight the ballroom, though another attraction is the picture-window outside wall, with a view overlooking the pool and patio. Guests may dine casually on the patio, which adjoins a bar. A circular stairway leads from the lobby to seven banquet rooms downstairs, each named after a famous racing horse. Women's apparel and gifts shops are located next to the lobby.

Sports offer a respite to those attending conventions at the Arlington Park Towers. Thoroughbred racing, 18 holes of golf (9 are lighted for night play), a driving range and a heated and glass-enclosed pool complete activities.

Close to Interstate 90, the Northwest Tollway, O'Hare Airport and serviced by the Chicago and North Western Railway, the hotel is strategically located in a rapidly developing residential and industrial area, its officials believe.

ACCORDING TO REGAN, as many as 800 people will be employed at the hotel and the race track this summer, about 70 per cent of them local residents. "It's good for the community and it's good for the track," said Regan, "to hire as many local residents as possible."

Future developments at Arlington Park include a large motor lodge to be built across the street and possible conversion of the race track into a major year-round sports arena.
